PHILA. POLICE OFFICIALS ON BOOTLEGGER'S PAYROLL

Judge Edwin O. Lewis Has So Informed the Grand Jury Investigating theActivities of Gangsters, Hijackers and Bootleggers—The Judge Has Threatened to Appoint a Special Commission to Get to the Bottom of the Situation—Notorious Criminals, Thugs and Gunmen Work With Connivance of the Police, the Judge Declares.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31—(AP)—Judge Edwin O. Lewis today told the grand jury investigating the activities of Philadelphia gangsters, hi-jackers and bootleggers, that high police officials were on the bootleggers' payroll and that if the director of public safety and the civil service commission failed to get to the bottom of the situation he would appoint a special commission to go into it.

In a preliminary report the grand jury had told Judge Lewis that its inquiry had shown that a group of men, with the corrupt connivance of police officials, had for years violated the law on a wholesale scale and that as an organized part of their scheme they had put on the streets notorious criminals, thugs and gunmen, who in the "conduct of their illegal purpose have not hesitated to indulge in bloodshed and wanton brutality."

"Get to the bottom of the rotten conditions, including the bribery of police by bootleggers and gangsters," Judge Lewis told the 16 members of the grand jury, one of whom is a woman. "The court, the district attorney and the mayor are behind you in this work."

The jury, whose term of service ordinarily would have ended today, had asked for a continuance of its activities, declaring that further time would be required to disclose the "full truth about the lawless activities of Philadelphia liquor gangs." The request was granted and the jurors were ordered to again report to Judge Lewis next Friday.

"The court, the district attorney and the mayor," Judge Lewis told the grand jury, "are serious in driving graft out of the police and the civil service can drive off the police force inspectors, captains, lieutenants, sergeants, corporals and patrolmen who take toll of bootleggers. It may be that the police cannot enforce the prohibition laws, but they can destroy organized vice if they want.

"High police officials are on the bootleggers' payroll. The police know more than we know and it is up to the director and superintendent of police to clean the police force by cutting off the rotten members and clear up the whole tree."

GOV. SMITH'S SPEECHES ARE TO BE IMPROMPTU

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 31—(AP)—Every speech Governor Smith delivers during the presidential campaign will be extemporaneous. He has placed a ban on prepared addresses, believing they would make his appeals to the voters less effective.

Resting in Albany today after a rather strenuous week which took him into New Jersey and to both New York and Syracuse, the democratic nominee told newsmanermen that on his campaign touring he intended to follow the course pursued in all of his gubernatorial battles rather than that adopted for the delivery of his notification speech.

On that occasion the governor read his address. He felt it was imperative for him, in view of the importance of the address and the fact that it had been distributed nationwide to newspapers in advance, to stick closely to text.

It was the first time in his long public career that he had prepared a speech and then delivered it word for word, and he said he had decided it would be better to go back to the old method.

RUSSIA WILL ADHERE TO PACT RENOUNCING WAR

MOSCOW, Aug. 31—(AP)—Soviet Russia late today made known its intention of adhering to the Kellogg-Briand renunciation of war pact at the same time linking to the treaty which was signed in Paris on Monday the question of disarmament.

Announcement that the soviet government would accept the invitation, extended through France, to adhere to the pact, was contained in a note handed to Ambassador Herbette, French envoy in Moscow.

The soviet answer says that while the pact is vague and has no provisions for disarming yet "it does impose certain obligations upon countries before the bar of public opinion and simultaneously gives the soviet union a new possibility of submitting to all the signatory nations a question of the greatest importance to the cause of peace—that of disarmament—which is the one and only guarantee against war."

HEARST PREDICTS THE DEFEAT OF AL SMITH

NEW YORK, Aug. 31——William Randolph Hearst, newspaper publisher, today in Paris in answer to a query from the Brooklyn Eagle predicted the defeat of Governor Smith on the prohibition issue and because of the governor's connection with Tammany Hall.

"I do not think the democrats will be successful in this campaign on the anti-prohibition issue which Mr Smith injected into the campaign after he had received the nomination," stated Mr. Hearst in an 800-word cablegram.

"The people of the United States do not want Tammany in control of the nation. Tammany is a political mafia, an organization of graft and political blackmail. The history of Tammany under Tweed and Croker and Murphy, and, in fact, the Tammany scandals in New York today, establish that fact beyond contradiction. It is bad enough to have Tammany in control of New York It would be a calamity to have it in control of the United States."

THE PROHIBITION PARTY WILL NOT SUPPORT HOOVER

CHICAGO, Aug. 31—(AP)—The national executive committee of the prohibition party tonight defeated a proposal to support Herbert Hoover for president and withdraw its own candidate, William F. Varney, from the presdenial contest. The vote was 4 to 3.

Those who voted against the plan were: Miss Esther H. Elfreth, New Jersey, vice chairman of the national committee; D. E. P. Pruch, Pennsylvania; Frank S Regan, Rockford, Ills., and Will D. Martin, Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey.

Voting to throw the party vote to Hoover were: H. P. Faris, Missouri; Alonzo E. Wilson, Chicago; and John B. Coffin, Florida. E. I. O. Hohenthal, Connecticut, was the only member of the committee not present. Dr. D. Leish Colvin, New York, national committee chairman did not vote.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—The buoy and a small balloon found floating 300 miles off Greenland by the steamer Bothun may have been set adrift by the coast guard cutter Marion, which has been in that region for several weeks, charting ocean currents, it was pointed out here tonight.

HOOVER RECEIVED REPORTS ON CONDITIONS IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—(AP)—Having spent a week in revitalizing the republican party organization, Herbert Hoover today put in a comparatively quiet day at his newly established general headquarters.

He received a report on conditions in the south from Horace A. Mann, a Washington lawyer, sometimes described as a "mystery man" in the campaign, and gave some final instructions about the work in the corn belt to James W. Good, of Iowa, before the western manager deparated for his Chicago office.

While the Hoover general headquarters were silent on somewhat sensational published reports of the visit late yesterday of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, that official issued a statement denying she had consulted the republican presidential candidate about her official duties.

"It is preposterous that Mr. Hoover or any other candidate for a high and dignified office such as the president of the United States would presume to control the public officers in the discharge of public duties," she said. "Mr. Hoover has not done so and will not do so. The conduct of my official duties was not discussed with Mr. Hoover."

COOLIDGE IS ASSURED OF OHIO AND INDIANA

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 1—(AP)—Continuing his survey of political conditions in the middle-west and northwest, President Coolidge was assured today by Walter Brown, assistant secretary of commerce, that Ohio and Indiana will be strongly republican in the November elections.

Mr. Brown, who arrived today to spend a day at the summer white house, also carried assurances to Mr. Coolidge that the national republican campaign organization was daily becoming more compact and more effective and that campaign plans were being carried out with even greater harmony and smoothness He emphasized the progress made in the campaign organization to systematize electoral labors and to obtain maximum efforts on the part of all republicans.

Mr. Brown foresaw that continuation of the policies of the present administration would be the major issue in the campaign. More than by the wet and dry question or by the farm relief problem, the electorate will be swayed, he thought, by whether a system of government should be perpetuated. On this issue he saw the democrats roundly defeated in the fall elections.

LOANS FROM SOURCES OTHER THAN N. Y. CITY BANKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Rapid rate fluctuations in the money market, such as occurred during August, when call money fluctuated between 4 1-2 and 8 per cent, appear to reflect the increased dependence of the stock exchange money market on loans from sources other than New York city banks, the Federal Reserve bank of New York says in its "monthly review."

Since the beginning of May, the bank explains, loans to brokers and dealers in securities placed by weekly reporting New York city banks for their own account, have declined from $1,329,000,000 to $793,000,000, or from 31 per cent of the total of all such loans to below 20 per cent. A considerable part of the total the banks have loaned for their own account has been placed with brokers or dealers who are depositing customers and whose loans cannot be called freely.

GIFFORD PINCHOT FOR HOOVER AGAINST AL SMITH

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 31—(AP)—Gifford Pinchot, militant dry crusader, has crawled aboard the Hoover band wagon.

The former governor of Pennsylvania let it be known today that Hoover's stand on the liquor question, above all else, was responsible for his decision not only to support the republican nominee but to take the stump for him. He said "I'm for Hoover and against Al Smith. That goes without saying."

Asked his reason, he said: "I'm dry and for the eighteenth amendment. Al Smith's wet and against it."

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 31—(AP)—Smith forces took possession of a meeting tonight called by the Hoover democratic club of Richland county after a five minute period of free for all fighting and egg throwing, the gathering here was turned into a Smith rally.

Declines To Define The Monroe Doctrine

Geneva, Aug. 31—(AP)—Costa Rica's request for a definition of the Monroe doctrine will be declined by the council of the League of Nations, after many hours spent secretly in discussing this complicated political question, the council has virtually reached an agreement tonight upon the text of the reply which will be forwarded to the small Central American state. This reply, though couched in considerate language and with a show of deference to Costa Rica's position, will in effect point out the difficulty the council has in interpreting any political doctrine enunciated by one government only. In this case the United States. The final touches to the reply will be given at another session of the council tomorrow.

The opinion generally expressed today, and embodied in other words in the reply, was that it is for the states concerned—the United States and the countries of Latin America—to make their own interpretations of the Monroe doctrine—or, said another way, that it is none of the league's business.

After the secret session today one member of the council remarked that the discussions had been "amazingly interesting." Beyond that hardly any comment was forthcoming and newspaper correspondents had the utmost difficulty in learning just what had taken place Nevertheless, the Associated Press learned that an historical summary read by the Colombian jurist Antonio Jose Restrepo, most challenged the attention of the councilmen.

Restrepo is said to have traced the the history of the Monroe doctrine from its inception, speaking particularly of its application during the Maximilian regime in Mexico. The speaker called attention that in this epoch of 1866 the Monroe doctrine had been beneficial and protective to South America.

But, said Restrepo things have changed and the Monroe doctrine has now become an arbitrary doctrine which each succeeding president of the United States can interpret as he deems wise and politic. The Colombian gave it as his opinion that each Latin American country should be left free to accept or reject this doctrine as it willed.

His last words were "Not even with a flower would I wish to attack the United States of America."

ARCH FOE OF FASCISM ARRESTED IN ITALY

ROME, Aug. 31—(AP)—Arrest at the Swiss frontier of General Cesare Rossi arch foe of fascism, and of a woman companion, caused little open comment here today. Despite the dramatic circumstances of their capture and the vivid personality of Rossi, the late editions of the Roman papers use only a brief agency dispatch containing the bare facts of the arrest.

These items were published under single column heads. They were not accompanied by comment and this silence coupled with the return of Mussolini to Rome from the northern army manoeuvres, is taken as evidence that word has gone out that the importance of the arrest should not be overemphasized for the present.

The Modern Business Builder

Advertising, the modern "Lamp of Aladdin," is the strong, moving force behind mass and class buying today. It creates desire, forms opinions and strengthens the desire to buy. Without it, modern business would be at a standstill. The buying public would buy only when absolutely necessary and then only in small proportions. By its aid merchandise is turned over very rapidly, insuring greater profits. It brings to mind new and varied uses of age old products that hitherto have been unknown. It introduces and makes a success of new products and ideas.

And newspaper advertising will do all this for the retailer as well as for the manufacturer. It will take your message daily into direct, intimate contact with the buying power of the home and will do it at a lower cost and more thoroughly.

PLAN TO DIVIDE RADIO FACILITIES EQUALLY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The federal radio commission today made public its new plan dividing the nation's radio facilities equally among the five zones, and reducing the total number of full time broadcasting assignments from 545 to 310 on October 1.

Commissioner Sykes signed the order as acting chairman when Chairman Robinson, who believes the new allocation too drastic a move to be undertaken summarily, refused to do so. Coincident with the announcement, Commissioner Pickard issued a statement saying he felt it "unfortunate" that his views on the borrowing clause of the radio act were not shared by a majority of the commissioner.

The chairman said he believed that stations should be authorized in areas not now served and the present set-up retained as a basis.

The commission determined that maintenance of a ten kilocycle separation between frequencies was necessary to provide good reception. This broadcasting band will extend from 550 to 1500 kilocycle band set aside from maritime mobile service by last year's international convention.

COMMERCE THROUGH PORTS OF SOUTHERN NEW ENGLAND

Nine Ports Have Averaged 11,225,713 Tons of Water Borne Commerce Annually During the Six Recent Years —Providence Surpasses in Handling of Cotton, Wool, Textiles, Chemicals and Drugs—New London Leads in Sugar, Syrup and Molasses—Facts Disclosed in the Report of the Board of Rivers and Harbors and the U. S Shipping Board.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31— (AP) — Nine southern New England ports, New Bedford, Fall River, Providence, Newport, New London, New Haven, Bridgeport, Norwalk and Stamford have averaged 11,225,713 tons of water borne commerce annually during the six recent years, and while inconspicuous in foreign trade, are performing important service directly connected with industrial and domestic life of the people of New England.

That is the substance of the report of the board of rivers and harbors and the United States shipping board announced today in one of a series of 32 volumes on ports of the country. The reports have been prepared to meet the needs of the war department and the shipping board and to provide useful information for business interests of all kinds connected with the moving of traffic through the ports.

In supplying accommodations for vessels bringing coal, oil and lumber, and facilities for handling this traffic, these nine ports, the report says, are contributing directly to the welfare of people within the territory subject to their influence. Maps of the area each reaches on a favorable rate basis for distribution of coal and lumber are included.

Of an average of 11,225,613 tons annually, coal comprised 4,975,978 tons; petroleum and products, 3,851,280 tons; stone, sand and lime, 377,436 tons and lumber and products 163,929. Certain ports are conspicuous in handling of commodities to local industries. Bridgeport surpasses in tonnages of brass, copper, pig and scrap iron, and steel manufacturers, machinery and vehicles; Providence in handling of cotton, wool, textiles, chemicals and drugs; New Haven in fertilizers and dyestuffs; New London in sugar, syrup and molasses, and Norwalk in pulpwood.

Important ports have daily steamship service to and from New York and large tonnage of high class package freight is moved over these lines. This traffic amounts to about 1,500,000 tons annually and in 1926 its value exceeded $1,240,000,000.

The trials were extended over until tomorrow to give the other entries a last minute chance to meet the required tests.

The Miss America V was accorded a place on the team without taking the water, on the basis of her 72 statute miles per hour mark made during the French bid for the trophy two years ago.

BALLOON AND BUOY WAS DISCOVERED 500 MILES AT SEA

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 31—(AP)—Discovery 500 miles at sea off Greenland of a five-foot balloon and a buoy was reported by the steamer Bothun. It was believed they might have been dropped by the missing America-to-Sweden plane, Greater Rockford.

SOUTHAMPTON, England Aug 31—(AP)—Southampton's lady mayor, Mrs. Foster Welch, came back to her own bailiwick today aboard the S. S. Leviathan. Her daughter accompanied her.

Upon landing she described the visit to the United States as "far and away the most wonderful experience of my life."

She added that the farewell kiss of Mayor Walker "was just a mayoral kiss."

EVANGELIST M'PHERSON IS ACCUSED OF FRAUD

LOS ANGELES Aug. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, picturesque evangelist and exponent of the "four square gospel" will face the deliberations of another grand jury—this time for investigation of her alleged real estate operations at Lake Tahoe, a California resort, the district attorney's office announced today.

As in the sensational grand jury investigation two years ago when the woman exhorter was alleged to have been kidnapped, she will stand accused of fraud by members of her own flock.

Decision to bring the Angelus temple leader before the inquisitorial body followed closely the visit of a group of alleged victims of her realty activities to the prosecutor's office.

Attorney Benjamin Lewis, leading the party, demanded a criminal complaint against the evangelist. All of his clients described themselves as members of the Angelus temple congregation.

After a brief conference at which her followers alleged that Mrs. McPherson sold them property near the northern California resort through misrepresentations, Deputy District Attorney Hugh McFeaters announced that the matter would be turned over to the grand jury.

Yesterday two suits asking damages from the evangelist totalling more than $200,000 were filed by two members of her congregation.

SEN. ROBINSON WARNS OF REP. AGENTS IN SOUTHLAND

LONOKE, Ark., Aug. 31—(AP)—At home with those who have known him since boyhood Senator Robinson in his first speech today as a full fledged democratic vice presidential nominee warned his fellow citizens to beware of hired republican agents which he said were in the southland to "intensify religious and sectional prejudice."

Speaking in the auditorium of the high school building the senator declared that the religious faith of the party presidential standard bearer, Governor Smith, was "simple and old fashioned."

"He believes in a Providence that guards the just and rewards virtue," he said.

"He has never been a Catholic governor. All of his official acts show him to be an American governor, thoroughly imbued with those principles of justice, liberty and equality which so many of his detractors neither possess nor comprehend."

Mayo. Charles A. Gates of Windham and Mrs. Lillian M. S. Frink of Canterbury were unanimously chosen as the delegates-at-large. The roll call was answered by 26, 20 delegates and six proxies. The speaker said that the democratic platform was based on promises surported to strike the imagination of the populace. The meeting was adjourned at 3 o'clock.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDED ELKS' FAIR LAST NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 31—The second night of activity at the Elks' Country fair got underway tonight with another large attendance that held little fear of having the evening's amusement suddenly broken by a downpour of rain that drove the crowd to cover o the opening night, Thursday. In fact the crowd appeared anxious to make up for time lost Thursday night when the rain interruption came and business along the mammoth midway boomed. Stopping only to witness the vaudeville acts on the stage and the feature high wire act, the crowd milled about in an endless circle to view the many attractions. The handiwork display in the basement of the dance hall and the livestock and freaks proved popular. Among the more unusual exhibits in the livestock department are a litter of five foxes shown by Joseph Porcorni of South Windham; beautiful chinchilla rabbits by J. O. Gates of Scotland; a three-legged calf, otherwise very normal, entered by G. H. Robertson of South Coventry; vividly colored chickens, one bright green and another orange; two deer and baby "nanny" goats.

At 11 o'clock Miss Lucille Anderson thrilled the crowd with several fancy dives concluded with a plunge into the air from a height of 80 feet into a shallow tank of water. Announcement was made Thursday evening from the automobile-aeroplane stand that $50 in gold had been awarded to Luke C. Hevrin of this city in connection with the ticket sales department. Another $50 will be given away Saturday evening.

Saturday afternoon is designated as Children's day and the special occasion will be the juvenile bathing beauty contest open to all little girls between the ages of four and seven years. There will not be any admission charge for children during the matinee and each child will be given an envelope, 50 of which will include tickets giving the holder free chances on the novelties and free rides on both the ferris wheel and merry-go-round. For all children the rides will cost only five cents during the afternoon. The matinee will open at 2:30 o'clock, daylight saving time, and the beauty contest will start at 4 o'clock.

Bryant Edward Kelly, 28, died at his home in South Coventry this morning after a long illness. He was born in Baltic, October 16 1899, a son of John T. and Annie Tharien Kelly. Besides his parents he leaves one sister Mrs. Arthur Tatro of South Coventry and six brothers Thomas Kelly of Louisville, Ky., and Henry, Marcus, Herbert, William and Francis Kelly, all of South Coventry.

The most severe thunder storm of the season passed over this city on Thursday evening but failed to cause any damage, as far as could be determined. The heavy rain did cause considerable inconvenience however, flooding Main, Jackson alley and other low streets. For several minutes the storm sewer gratings were six inches underwater and Superintendent of Streets Edwin O. Sumner had his men out early this morning to clean the debris washed into the streets. The storm lasted 25 minutes. While the rainfall was heavy in Coventry and Columbus the towns of Scotland and Franklin reported but a sprinkle.

The farmhouse owned and occupied by Jake Siegelbaum and family in the Wells Woods district of the town of Columbia was destroyed by fire of unknown origin Thursday night. The loss was placed at about $5,000. Members of the family and neighbors saved but little of the furniture, the fire not being discovered until it broke through the roof. The destroyed furniture is valued at $1,000. The house was of old colonial design and was a landmark in the district. For many years it was known as the Fitch place.

Miss Antoinette Ouellette was tendered a surprise birthday party at her home on Chestnut street Thursday evening and presented with many pretty gifts. Attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. N. DANIELSON

FORMER S. KILLINGLY PASTOR TO PREACH REUNION SERMON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 31—Preliminary to South Killingly's Old Home day observance on Labor day and preparatory to it a communion service is to be held in the Congregational church in that community Sunday afternoon, when many will have returned there for at least an annual visitation and reunion with relatives and old friends. Rev. William Beard of New York and formerly of this town will officiate at this service and preach the sermon. Mrs. Minnie Hedley Vaughn and Earle F. Winslow will sing at this service.

On Labor day the Old Home day program will be carried out. If the experience of other years applies to this one, the morning hours will be given over to renewing old acquaintances and talking over the days of yore. At 1 o'clock, several hundred people will sit down to one of King George Jacques' famous shore dinners. Later in the afternoon there is to be a meeting at the church, and at that time reports will be given on the work done during the past year, short reminiscent talks by old-time residents of South Killingly and special music by Rev. and Mrs. Edward P. Ayer of Branford.

Here in Danielson Labor day promises to be a quiet holiday, insofar as any formal observance is concerned. Business will be suspended. However, baseball games, dances and other diversions will be provided for the entertainment of those who will remain in the territory for the day.

This afternoon marked the inauguration of the holiday trafic. The advance guard of the thousands who are going away for the week-end with motor vehicles were pouring over the trunk line highways through Danielson, with the promise that the traffic tide would reach its peak during Saturday afternoon.

NEW YORK GIRL STUNNED BY LIGHTNING BOLT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 31—Miss Dorothy Taylor of New York was stunned by lightning last night while at the cottage the family owns on the north shore of Alexander's Lake. The circumstances would indicate that her escape from death was a narrow one. The incident occurred shortly after 6 o'clock and during the course of one of the series of electrical storms experienced in that locality during Thursday evening. The bolt that entered the cottage—formerly known as the Hopkins cottage—did some damage before it flashed into the lake, sending up a shower of spray. Miss Taylor was attended by a physician and recovered from the shock within a couple of hours. The lightning burned a hole in one of her stockings.

FUNERAL

Narcisse Heneault

This morning the funeral of Narcisse Heneault was held from the home of Selectman and Mrs Napoleon P. Gingras in Dayville with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. A large congregation of relatives and friends attended the services. Rev. Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the mass, Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., deacon, and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., subdeacon. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery at Danielson, Rev. Fr. Demers conducting the committal service. Mr. Heneault's six sons—John, Delor, George, Edward, Alcide and Raoul—were the bearers. There were many beautiful floral pieces. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Another case of septic sore throat has developed at Attawaugan, where there have been two other cases of this dangerous malady, one of them proving fatal during the present week. A quarantine has been established at the home where the newest case has developed, as was also done at the home where the original cases developed. E. C. Babson, health officer of the town of Brooklyn, established the quarantine in the absence of Dr. W. H. Judson, Killingly health officer, who is away on vacation this week.

The Bulletin's announcement this morning that Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, pastor of All Hallows' church at Moosup, has been appointed vice-president of St Thomas' seminary at Hartford was received with mingled pleasure and sorrow all through this section of eastern Connecticut. During the long term of years of his pastorates at Wauregan and at Moosup, Father McCarthy had come to be appreciated as a man of very scholarly attainments and unusually pleasing personality. His thousands of friends in this territory are representative of every walk of life and of every race and creed. They rejoice at the honor that has been conferred upon him, while sincerely regretting his departure from this field where he has served so long and so well.

An interesting case is that of a bull dog owned by State Officer James Carmody. The dog broke one of his legs in an accident some time since and is now going through that period that must elapse between the time of such a break and its mending. At the present time the dog is at the kennels of Joseph Birch on the West Side. The broken leg is in splints, but the dog gets about on all four legs, a bit tenderly as to the use of the injured member, but nevertheless is able to go up and down stairs. The forecast is that the leg will be well enough to use in a normal way in time.

A report that could not be verified gained currency today that the Windham County Savings bank building sold yesterday to William Weiner of Boston by the Brooklyn Savings bank is to be occupied by a chain store of a syndicate that Mr. Weiner represents. The nature of the business was not disclosed, according to the story.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Wetherell are to leave the early part of next week for a motor trip through northern New England and into Canada.

Miss Alice Monohan is to spend the Labor day period with relatives in Providence.

The first meeting of the Danielson chamber of commerce since June is scheduled for next Tuesday evening, an da number of matters will come up for consideration.

Mrs. Mary A. Griffiths, mother of F. E. Bitgood, observed the 98th anniversary of her birth at the home on Broad street Thursday.

Though still confined to the hospital, Mrs. Myrtice Blanchard is making a steady recovery after undergoing a serious surgical operation some time since.

Lieut. Gordon J. Gale, writing from Tobyhanna, Pa., says that the members of the Service battery will leave for hom Saturday morning. The detachment coming by train is expected to arrive here Saturday evening. The detachment coming back with the motor trucks is due to arrive in Danielson Sunday evening.

Next Tuesday registrars of Killingly will be in session in the various voting districts of the town, to revise lists and to receive applications of those who wish to be made voters.

MAIL PLANE CAUGHT IN THUNDER STORM OVER PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 31—A large airplane was seen to soar above the city last evening during the terrific thunder storm that prevailed. The plane was a mail plane, it was learned today and had as its destination, Hartford. According to information received here today, the plane left Boston shortly after the first thunder storm in the afternoon had cleared away, but was caught in a second storm that came out of the north. The mail plane was first discovered in Putnam about 8:15 o'clock and its outline against the clouds was visible in the dense rain. Three lights illuminated the insignia and also made a silhouette of the ship. Hundreds braved the rain, thunder and lightning to watch the plane as it circled the city, endeavoring to find a place to land.

Watching the light guides, autoists followed the airship about the city, while several drivers attempting to attract the pilot's attention, drove to the Davis field and combined the lights from the vehicles throwing them across the large field that has been utilized as a landing field for Putnam's aviator, Lieut. Everett S. Davis. This effort could not induce the pilot to attempt a landing and he circled the city again and was off over Pomfret. Here, residents said, the ship seemed to sense the direction of the railroad tracks and it rained its bearings by the steel rails and was off to Brainard field.

This incident brings to mind the placing of aeroplane directions on the tops of the city's largest buildings. This movement was first sponsored by the Putnam Rotary club and the assistance of the chamber of commerce and the coming council were asked but the movement has received no further attention. It was first thought that a large sign containing the word Putnam could be painted on the roof of the new armory, and it is believed by local aviation enthusiasts that this would greatly aid Putnam.

Lieut. Davis, a member of the U. S. Air Forces, stationed at Langley Field, Va., makes frequent visits to Putnam, and each time he comes with a government plane. Before he can obtain his bearings for Putnam he must find Webster lake, which is approximately a 6 mile body of water. The aviator claims he experiences many difficulties in locating his home town from the air.

Putnam is slow to recognize the increase in air traffic and has done little or nothing as to facilities whereby the planes may land, regulary or in emergencies. Dudley has provided an excellent emergency landing field and slowly it is beginning to be recognized by the pilots of the largest planes, who make regular stops there. Webster has organized an association of business men known as the Webster Airport corporation, and is taking steps to provide a suitable field, yet Putnam stands by and watches the modern developments of its neighboring cities.

Manager Daniel Trudeau of the Putnam Sporting club said this afternoon that no further information has been received from the state A. A. U relative to amateur boxing clubs being granted permits for the staging of fall bouts. Since the suspension of the A. A. U. the local club has been forced to postpone all of the scheduled bouts. Manager Trudeau also said that the local promoters have been given no indication as to when the present existing disputes will be settled. Bouts that were supposed to open the fall season of the Putnam club have been indefinitely postponed until further notice.

DELEGATES FROM 28TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT NAMED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 31—The 28th senatorial district caucus was held this noon at the Putnam Inn with a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam, vice chairman of the republican state central committee, with Mrs. Edith B. Corttis, of North Grosvernordale, as secretary. The delegates at large, nominated were: Hon. E. L. Darbie of Killingly, Hon Clarence H. Child of Woodstock and the following members were appointed to the various committees. Vice President A. E. Brodeur, committee on permanent organization: Mrs. Edith B. Corttis; committees on credentials, W. C. Brown, Ashford; committee on rules, Archa S. Walker, Eastford; committee on resolutions, William S. Hunter, Killingly.

Hon. Charles D. Tatem was elected moderator. Following the business meeting Miss Katherine Byrne and John F. Reardon of North Grosvenordale entertained the delegates at luncheon at the Inn. The delegates elected will represent this district at the state convention to be held in New Haven next week.

Miss Byrne, since the national convention in June has been active in the organization of the party in the various towns and cities of the state. She said in an interview this afternoon that her work is nearly completed and what remains to be done will be left until after the state convention next week. Through the efforts of Miss Byrne, republican spirit has been revived in every section of the 28th senatorial district, and she has also devoted much to the state at large.

A thunder storm of great severity swept over this section of the county last evening and did much damage in the country to property and destroyed several hundred dollars worth of standing crops. The second storm which arose shortly after eight o'clock was considerably worse than the first. Putnam escaped the worst of it, but nevertheless had an exceedingly active storm, with heavy downfalls of rain that continued throughout the evening and several violent electrical disturbances that affected telephone and electric light service.

In every direction from this city the country received the greatest effects from the storm. In Eastford several houses were struck by lightning bolts, which did small amounts of damage, but did not ignite any property. In Woodstock several fields containing acres of standing corn and other crops were levelled with the ground. In Pomfret gutters overflowed and the streets and highways were flooded halting traffic for a few minutes.

This afternoon Exchange Manager E. L. Beebe of the local telephone exchange reported over 250 stations thrown out of order, the greater number being located in the surrounding districts. The line gangs of both the telephone company and the eastern Connecticut Power company were busy all evening restoring service to the homes.

Only one incident was reported in the city where lightning struck and that was at the home of Frank D. Thayer of Eden street. The bolt struck at the corner of the house and entered an upstairs room, destroying a mirror and causing other minor damages before it finally found its way into the ground. No one was in the house at the time of the striking.

Miss Rachael Hurlburt and Miss Dorothy Morse, graduates of Putnam high school class of 1928, left Putnam this week for the capital city, where they will enter a Hartford hospital to take a nurses training course. Miss Mabel Thompson of Woodstock avenue, also a graduate of Putnam high school will enter a Hartford hospital in the same interests.

Principal E. L. Robinson of Putnam high school said this afternoon that work to repair the Putnam high school athletic field is to be started at once, in order to condition the grounds for the coming gridiron season, which will open during the latter part of September.

Last year the faculty of the school and the members of the athletic association began a drive for funds to recondition the large field. Several events were staged and a goodly sum was obtained, but not enough to repair the field as planned. Several low spots will be filled in with gravel, sufficient enough to use the field for football.

Principal Robinson said it is planned to erect bleachers and also construct a fence around the onen lot if funds will permit. The drive for additions to the athletic improvement fund will permit. The drive for additions to the athletic improvement fund will be continued this fall and it is hoped that all work may be completed by the closing of the summer term next year.

ROBINSON ACCEPTS

In his speech accepting the nomination of the democratic party for vice president, Joseph T. Robinson recognized the handicap of his position. He was fully conscious of the fact that he was placed on the ticket for the purpose of pacifying southern sentiment and with the idea of offsetting the attitude which has been taken by the nominee for president concerning prohibition.

Senator Robinson devoted his chief attention to the farm question. It has been the hope of the democrats that they could capitalize the seeming split among the republican farmers over farm relief and with that in mind the vice presidential nominee discussed that issue at length. It could not fail to be noted, however, that he has been an advocate and a supporter of the McNary-Haugen bill. He voted for it and he tried to pass it by his vote over the president's veto. That meant the swallowing of the equalization fee. Although he now indicates that he might be willing to approve something else that would be as good it cannot fail to be remembered that Mr. Smith has declared his absolute opposition to any such provision. He was obliged to admit, despite the claims at the time of adoption and since, that the democratic platform does not expressly approve the equalization fee.

This contradiction in attitudes between the presidential and the vice presidential nominees is also to be found in connection with the matter of prohibition. Mr. Robinson was of course talking for the benefit of the south. He is relied upon to a certain degree to pacify the southern resistance to the wetness of Smith. While the latter is placing great dependence upon his attitude toward the dry law the vice presidential candidate is declaring, with the south particularly in mind, that the "executive has no power to modify" either the Volstead law or the 18th amendment.

When it came to the matter of maintaining the prosperity of the nation the senator from Arkansas had little to say. He passed over the question of the tariff entirely as if he was unwilling to promise that the old democratic desire to rip up the tariff, with its consequent ill effects upon the country, would not be resorted to.

FOG PERILS

The perils of fog do not concern the mariner alone. Numerous are the instances in which aviators have plowed into mountains or trees while trying to navigate through fog, although they believed that they were maintaining an altitude that would escape such dangers.

Those who go down to the sea in ships understand thoroughly what impenetrable fog means. They understand that they can continue operating according to reckonings, and they know that they are able to get assistance of no slight importance through the wireless that will help to guide them, but fog is never welcomed. Efforts have been made to minimize its handicap through the invention of submarine bells, through strong lights, through wireless and in some instances in harbors by means of submerged cables that would indicate electrically the course to be followed, but fog nevertheless continues to be a problem and a danger.

The crashing of two expert fliers in Pennsylvania emphasizes anew the peril that presents to the aviator. Fog not only reduces the visibility but it has an effect upon the altimeter, the mechanism which is supposed to register the distance from the sea level, which seriously upsets the reliability of that device.

Naturally an aviator intends to fly high enough to go over mountains. If it is impossible for him to actually observe where he is going he must depend upon the altimeter. If that is thrown out of adjustmet by the fog he is in a precarious position if mountains are in his path, and particularly if he does not know their altitude. What he may think is sufficient to clear them and what the altimeter indicates will do it may cause him to pile up on some ledge or tree on the mountainside.

The need of a discovery that will eliminate fog has long been recognized. That need has been greatly increased since the lusty development in flying and it will continue to grow greater. The loss of lives will cause the devotion of increased attention in this respect.

THE RED CROSS' WORK

Because of the part they had in raising it, New Englanders will be interested in the Red Cross announcement to the effect that it has completed its work in connection with the New England flood relief. By this report it shows that there was expended the sum of $1,200,000 for the flood sufferers from Vermont down, obtaining practically $750,000 of that sum from the voluntary contributions made to the organization. The remainder was provided from the treasury of the organization.

None knows better than those who have gotten the benefit of the services of this organization what its ministrations amount to. Those who experienced the worst effects of the flood were obliged to accept assistance for the time being and as is invariably the case the Red Cross was in the lead.

This is an organization which operates for the purpose of dealing with just such conditions. It is equipped to meet emergency conditions, organized in fact for that very purpose, so that it was the logical agency to administer the funds that were provided for the relief of distress. But what it did in Vermont and other states is only what it is prepared to do and is doing elsewhere whenever there is a demand for its services. It may be an earthquake, a tornado, a flood. It may be a disaster or it may be pestilence, all of these constitute just such an emergency as the Red Cross handles and handles well.

It can be appreciated that to organize an agency to furnish relief following a disaster which cannot be handled by local means would involve a great waste of time. Serious conditions would develop while this was being done. This was all recognized in the establishment of the Red Cross and it is further recognized each year when the annual roll call is responded to by the people of the country.

There is no telling where its services are going to be required from one hour to another. The important thing is that it should be equipped and ready to render efficient assistance whenever the call comes in. Because it recognizes and lives up to such a requirement the Red Cross is one of the country's great organizations.

SUPERIOR COURT CLERKSHIPS

Changing of clerks of the superior court is not a matter of frequent occurence. It is an office which calls for men of qualifications and experience and it is the practice of the judges to see that efficient officials are retained from year to year. Through such a course they become the more valuable in the administration of their duties. There have been but two clerks of the superior and supreme courts in this county for many years.

Time is bound to add to the number and the action of the judges of the county in recommending the elevation of Assistant Clerk John H. Walker to the clerkship to fill the vacancy caused by the pensioning of Clerk George E. Parsons is only what was anticipated. He has had the benefit of five years of training in this office under a painstaking and efficient official. He is in close touch with the requirements and has had a hand in the systematizing of the office work.

Although there may be some surprise that William H. Shields, Jr., should be interested in the assistant clerkship there will be no question but what he possesses far more than the necessary qualifications. He is a well know Norwich attorney, whose experience at the bar and whose acquaintance with the court and the legal fraternity make it certain that he will ably handle the duties of assistant clerk. These officials assume their new duties at what is always one of the busy seasons in the office of the clerk of the courts, aside from any flood of congratulatory messages.

A SERIOUS INJUSTICE

Only a few days ago a boy of 16 disclosed the identity of two men who pulled in a false alarm of fire in Boston. It was necessary for him to go to court in connection with the prosecution, but when he returned to his place of employment he learned that he was no longer needed. He had been discharged. His employer was dissatisfied with the apparent fact that he had helped the state as a witness, when as a matter of fact there was nothing else he could do after identifying the men.

That there was no justice in such action was recognized by the judge of the court as soon as the matter was called to his attention. He called that employer before him to learn of his reasons for discharging the boy. It developed that the employer had receded from his position and given the job back to the boy, his explanation being that he thought the young man had remained away from work for the sake of getting time off without obtaining permission.

Probably it would have been advisable on the part of the boy if he had notified his employer that it was necessary for him to be in court in the prosecution of the false alarm ringers, and that course may be followed at another time, but it was also possible for the employer to have ascertained the full facts at the time if he had really doubted the word of the boy.

It is not surprising, however, that the employer did not want the impression to be broadcasted that he was willing to punish his employe for the part he played in penalizing the ringers of false alarms. No employer could think of taking any such attitude and expect to receive public commendation. The boy deserved an increase in pay rather than a discharge.

EDITORIAL NOTES

September morn.

Everyone appears about knee deep in the corn-on-the-cob season.

There is nothing that puts a crimp in the vacation season like the approach of Labor day.

The man on the corner says: There are always real regrets at the ending of the summer months.

In view of the New Britain experience, if you want to test out home brew let the other fellow do it.

Used the new bridge over Poquetanuck cove yet? It's grand enough to have had an opening ceremony.

Possibly this hot spell is just to balance the foot of snow that fell in the mountains of Colorado this week.

Norwich is pleased to learn that the contract has been let for the widening and deepening of the Thames river channel from Allyn's Point to this city. Considering the work involved there promises to be considerable time elapse between the awarding of the contract and the completion of the job

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Why is it that we will tolerate almost anything in this world—and many of them are positively absurd—except new ideas? We are told that "one of the most interesting facts of history is that which records the opposition that all new ideas have aroused." It would take a very long paragraph to even mention those that are typical of this opposition. Some of them are so utterly absurd as to question the superiority of the Nordic race at least in some instances. Now there are people living in the United States who can easily recall what a storm of protest was aroused when bathtubs were introduced into this country. It was looked upon as a luxury that tended to soften the mental and moral fiber of the people. It made the public feel that such effeminacy would undermine the moral power of the nation. It will be remembered how the first man who dared to carry an umbrella was ridiculed. We will tolerate any thing but a new idea.

The entire scientific world is paying tribute to the memory of Hideyo Noguchi, the Japanese bacteriologist, who was a victim to the yellow fever contracted on the African gold coast, "where he had gone to complete his investigations" of that dreaded disease. He died on May 21 of this year and his name is added to the long list of those who have given their lives to alleviate human suffering. It impresses upon us the thought that the martyr spirit is not confined to any one age, race or clime. For years he had been recognized all over the world as Japan's greatest man of science. It is through the work of these martyr spirits that the world gets ideas as to the manner in which these dreaded diseases can be controlled and in many instances exterminated. Men of such caliber whether orientals or occidentals can never die; they carve their own immortality.

Ought the public to encourage ocean flights that seem to be impelled by mere emotionalism, and in some instances, by nothing but love of notoriety? Commander Richard E. Byrd has come out with a strong protest against flying on transoceanic trips just for the novelty of the thing, and to receive the plaudits of the crowds. People may be swayed by vanity who are not wicked above the rank and file, and their yearning for popular applause may lead them to dangerous stunts that do not justify the undertaking. The case is entirely different when the object of pursuit is important scientific information which may result in the advancement of human wellbeing. The title of Commodore Byrd's article, "Don't Let Them Die," published in the Saturday Evening Post is certainly a striking one and certainly ought to bear fruit.

An outsider would naturally judge that it portends better things for Ireland when the people seem to manifest interest in home industries than in home rule. It is always well to do first things first. This holds just as true in national affairs as in purely business relationships. If the people of any country home right down to the difficult job of making their land productive, they are very likely able to develop the ability to take care of themselves and their possessions. There is no call to build up a political organization if there is nothing for it to look after. In other words if you have land you must make it valuable before you have laws to protect it and to govern what it produces. There has never been a time when the prospect before the Irish state seems so favorable as now. Economics have increased just as disorder has diminished.

Why not? is the question being asked all over the United States—and especially in the south where it first began to be agitated—that is the proposed merger of the Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian churches. At present the most significant fact about the proposed merger is the practical unanimity of the vote in its favor as seen in the recent action taken by the Methodists at their quadrennial general conference held in May at Kansas City. The vote stood 552 to 3 in favor of organic union. One hundred years ago what Methodist, at any gathering of his clan anywhere in the country would have dared to suggest such a thing? But with practical unanimity at one of their highest tribunals has the great idea been indorsed. There will be no difficult differences of government to be settled. As to theological belief both bodies have been identified with the conservatives. It has been done in Canada; why not in this country?

The statement has been made by a professional writer and professor of literature that the so-called classics are neglected for other modes by which thought may be communicated. Of course it is purely speculation, but he ventures to prophesy that purely auditive" and oral literature will soon replace the written literature with which we are familiar." Whether it will actually come to this may be a matter of doubt, but there can be no doubt that agencies are now at work that are tending to put printed literature somewhat into the background. It will be well for us to glance for a moment at some of the modern agencies that tend to push printed literature aside. Think for a moment what radio is doing in taking up our attention; our eyes are getting a rest, and the ear is taking its place. More recently the development of television is also doing its work.

A very interesting article appeared in a recent issue of Barron's magazine in relation to the place the chain store has come to occupy in the business world. That it is creating a stir of revolutionary proportions is not to be denied, and that the small retailer is "trembling in his shoes" is more than apparent. One writer has gone so far as to say that "the death knell has been sounded for one-third of all retail outlets in the country." This may be an exaggeration, but beyond all question it certainly means that a host of them have virtually or will virtually be driven out of business. For them it certainly seems to be a bit of hard luck, but it is difficult to see how it can be avoided. The progress of civilization has always been making somebody hard hit. When the London Times was first printed by movable type it created a riot among the workmen, but it proved a blessing.

Is it possible that the annual vacation period which the American people in unprecented numbers have enjoyed has now closed and that September has really come? As the coming Monday is Labor day the exodus from seashore and mountain will be so great that travel will really become dangerous. Those who are safely at home will do well to remain there for the day and give the right of way to those who wish that they also were at home. If all tourists could only see the word "caution" dangling before their eyes it would be perfectly safe to say that there would be scarcely any accidents. In view of the unusual liability to mishaps on this particular day any man who will deliberately get under the influence of liquor and attempt to drive on that day ought to have his license permanently suspended. This is one crime for which there is no excuse whatever.

MACHU PICCHU WAS INCA REFUGE CITY.

The recently reported discovery among the inaccessible mountains of Peru of the ruins of a previously unknown Inca city recalls the finding of the first city of this type, Machu Picchu. It was from Machu Picchu, itself perched on a high Andean ridge, that Peruvian scientists, with the aid of strong field glasses, obtained, a few weeks ago, their first clues of the existence of the newly found ruins.

Machu Picchu was discovered in 1911 by an expedition sent out by the National Geographic society and Yale university, and led by Hiram Bingham, now United States senator from Connecticut. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the society describes Machu Picchu as follows:

Defended by Nature.

"Machu Picchu was essentially a city of refuge. It is perched on a mountain top in the most inaccessible section of the Urubamba river. Apparently there is no part of the Andes that has been better defended by nature.

"A stupendous canyon, where the precipices are frequently over 1,000 feet sheer, presents difficulties of attack and facilities for defense second to none. Here on a narrow ridge, flanked on all sides by precipitous or nearly precipitous slopes, a highly civilized people—artistic, inventive and capable of sustained endeavor — at some time in the remote past built themselves a city of refuge.

"Since they had no iron or steel tools—only stone hammers—its construction must have cost many generations, if not centuries, of effort.

Signal Station on Peak.

"Across the ridge, and defending the builders from attack on the side of the main mountain range, they constructed two walls. One of them, constituting the outer line of defense, leads from precipice to precipice, utilizing as best it can the natural steepness of the hill.

"Beyond this, and on top of the mountain called Machu Picchu, which overlooks the valley from the very summit of one of the most stupendous precipices in the canyon, is constructed a signal station, from which the approach of an enemy could be instantly communicated to the city below. Within the outer wall they constructed an extensive series of agricultural terraces, lined and averaging about 3 feet a steep, dry moat and the inner wall. steep, dry moat and the inner wall.

"Inside the city the houses are crowded close together, but an extensive system of narrow streets and rock-hewn stairways made intercommunication comfortable and easy.

City of Many Stairways.

"On entering the city, perhaps the first characteristic that strikes one is that a large majority of the houses were a story and a half in height, with gable ends, and that these gable ends are marked by cylindrical blocks projecting out from the house in such a way as to suggest the idea of the ends of the rafters. The wooden rafters have all disappeared, but the ring-stones to which they were tied may still be seen.

"The next most conspicuous feature of Machu Picchu is the quantity of stairways there being over 100, large and small, within the city. Some of them have more than 150 steps, while others have but 3 or 4. In some cases each step is a single block of stone 3 or 4 feet wide. In others the entire stairway—6, 8, or 10 steps, as the case might be—was cut out of a single granite boulder.

"Again, the stairway would seem almost fantastic, being so narrow and wedged in between two boulders so close together that it would have been impossible for a fat man to use the stairway at all. In no case were the stairways intended for ornament. In every case they are useful in getting to a location otherwise difficult of access.

Climatic Change Probably Caused Abandonment.

"The largest level space in the city was carefully graded and terraced, so as to be used for agricultural purposes, on the products of which the inhabitants could fall back for a time in case of a siege.

"It seems probable that one reason why the city was deserted was a change in climate, resulting in scarcity of water supply. At the present time there are only three small springs on the mountainside, and in the dry season these could hardly furnish water enough for cooking and drinking purposes for 50 or 60 people. There could never have been very much water here, for the asequias, or water channels, are very narrow, being generally less than 4 inches in width.

"Possibly the most interesting conclusion brought out as a result of clearing and excavating in the city is that it was at one time divided into wards or clan groups. Each one of these groups has but one entrance, a gateway furnished with the means of being solidly fastened on the inside. None of the doors to houses or temples has this locking device, but all the entrances to the clan groups have it, and the same device occurs in the principal gate to the city."

Sunday Morning Talk

A Shield.

"For the Lord is a sun and shield." Pilgrims need both as the weather may be, for the cold would smite them were it not for the sun, and foes are apt to waylay the sacred caravan and would haply destroy it if it were without a shield. Heavenly pilgrims are not left uncomforted or unprotected. The pilgrim nation found both sun and shield in the fiery cloudy pillar which was the symbol of Jehovah's presence, and the Christian still finds both light and shelter in the Lord, his God, a sun for happy days and a shield for dangerous one. A sun above, a shield around. A light to show the way and a shield to ward off its perils. Blessed are they who journey with such a convoy; the sunny and the shady side of life are alike, happy to them. "The Lord will give grace and glory." Both in due time, both as needed, both to the full, both with absolute certainty. The Lord has both grace and glory in infinite abundance; Jesus is the fullness of both, and as His chosen people, we shall receive both as a free gift from the God of our salvation. What more can the Lord give, or we receive or desire. "No good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly." Grace makes us walk uprightly and this secures every covenant blessing to us. What a wide promise! Some apparent good may be withheld, but no real good, no, not one. "All things are yours, and ye are Christ's, and Christ is God's." God has all good, there is no good apart from Him, and there is no good which he either needs to keep back or will on any account refuse us, if we are ready to receive it. We must be upright and neither lean to this or that form of evil; and this uprightness must be practical—we must walk in truth and holiness, then shall we be heirs of all things. And as we come of age all things shall be in our actual possession; and meanwhile, according to our capacity for receiving shall be the measure of the divine bestowal. This is true, not of a favored few, but of all the true and faithful. No formal worshiper can enter into this life. Dear reader, how is it with thy soul?

HARVEST MOON COMES ON 29TH OF SEPTEMBER

By ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—The harvest moon comes this year on September 29. It is always the full moon nearest the time of the autumnal equinox, when the sun is crossing the equator going south. This event occurs in 1928 on September 23 at 1.06 a. m., central standard time.

The peculiarity that distinguishes the harvest moon from other full moons is the small delay in the time of its rising. Moonrise on the average is 50 minutes later from night to night. But for a few nights at the end of September the delay is less than a half hour in the latitude of New York. Thus we have moonlight in the early evening for a greater number of evenings than usual.

Farther north this effect is much more noticeable. In southern Alaska the time of moonrise is only about five minutes later from night to night for nearly a week.

The moon has two conspicuous movements in the sky. With the rest of the celestial scenery it rises and sets daily, progressing steadily westward. In addition it is always moving backward, toward the east, among the constellations because of its monthly revolution around the earth. This motion displaces the moon its own diameter in an hour. It would for this reason be longer than the day by the son, averaging 50 minutes more.

How much the length of any particular moon day departs from the average depends on the angle between the moon's path among the stars and the eastern horizon. This angle varies. The most favorable arrangement for an unusually short delay in the time of moonrise from night to night is the smalles possible angle between the two. This occurs when the September full moon rises. Conditions are nearly as favorable at the following full moon, known as the hunter's moon, which comes this year October 28.

There is no ground for the belief on the part of some people that the harvest moon is larger than other full moons. Whenever the moon at any time is seen near the horizon, either rising or setting, it always appears to be much larger than when it is high in the sky. This is an illusion connected with the flattened appearance of the sky, which seems farther away at the horizon than in the zenith.

The same illusion is experienced in the case of the sun at its rising and setting. Similarly a constellation, for example the Big Dipper, looks larger when it is near the horizon. Actually the moon fills a smaller angle when it is rising; for it is then 4,000 miles farther away from us than when it is overhead.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—It is a little startling, at first glance, to observe Washington enthusiastically urging Honduras and Gautemala to submit their ancient boundary dispute to the Central American Tribunal for arbitration.

Unusual diplomatic pressure has been exerted on Honduras which held out for arbitration by President Coolidge of Chief Justice Taft. Not so long ago, Secretary Lansing was bluntly telling the now defunct Central American Court of Justice to mind its own business when on Costa Rican complaint it undertook to consider questions arising from the Bryan-Chamorro canal rights treaty between Nicaragua and the United States. The court expired with the treaty creating it due to Washington's cold-shoulder attitude, largely.

Imperialism Cry Avoided

There is a very wide difference between the Tribunal and the defunct court, however. The former is not a purely Central American permanent body, subject to inescapable political influences, but merely a panel of Pan American jurists of repute, North, South and Central Americans, from which each party to a submitted dispute would select a disinterested member, those two judges to name a third man either of the panel or outside it as presiding officer for the purpose of the ensuing arbitration. No sovereignty question could be taken up without the assent of the Central American government involved.

Bearing that picture in mind, it is easy to see that Washington has glimpsed a chance to make a graceful diplomatic gesture, inviting Pan-American cooperation in adjustment of Central American differences. Who could raise the cry of imperialism, particularly as two great American owned banana companies, one with Honduran and the other with Guatemalan contacts, have developed the productive value of much of the disputed territory and will be affected by the outcome? These companies, Washington holds, have nothing to do with the boundary row which far antedated their appearance. Any disinterested arbitration should amply care for their legitimate rights.

Past Experiences

Honduran pleas for American arbitration falls on deaf ears for several reasons. For one thing, President Coolidge had bitter experience in the Tacna-Arica arbitration impasse. Although he acted only as an individual, not in the name of the United States government, demands for police work by the United States to insure a fair pledecite arose clamorously. More than that, however, anti-American propagandists in Latin America and abroad have pictured the "Colossus of the North' as trying to hog the whole show in Central America and maintain a virtual lone-handed protectorate over the five little republics against their will.

What Washington would like to see happen would be selection of a South American panel member by each disputant and the third member picked by those two from qualified international jurists in the United States who have no government connection. Such a man as John Bassett Moore would fit this picture. Perils of governmental entanglements or international political bias would be escaped. So Secretary Kellogg, with Roy T. Davis, American minister to Costa Rica and who headed the last fruitless commission effort to solve the boundary row, sitting at his elbow, is insistent on Tribunal treatment.

YOUR HEALTH

CATARACT

By C. F. YERGER, M. D.
Chicago

Cataract is a disease of the eye which is due to an opacity of the crystalline lens or its capsule. The disease was not named cataract until the middle ages when it was supposed to be due to a pouring down of an opaque liquid in front of the lens. In 1705, Brisseau, a French surgeon, demonstrated that cataract was actually due to an opacity of the lens.

The symptoms of cataract depend upon the stage of development, the location of the opacity in the lens, and the extent of the involvement.

There are no inflammatory symptoms and it does not cause pain. Usually, the only symptom noticed by the patient is a very gradual impairment of vision. He is unable to get any improvement in vision by having his glasses changed.

If the opacity is located in the central portion of the lens, i. e., in the pupillary region, there will be an early and marked loss of visual acuity and the patient will see better in the twilight because the pupil dilates in the dark and this allows the rays to get through the unaffected or marginal portion of the lens. On the other hand, if the opacity occupies the periphery of the lens and the central or pupillary portion is clear, vision will be better when the pupil is contracted because the opacity will then be covered by the iris.

The patient may complain of spots before the eyes which are caused by multiple opacities in the lens casting shadows upon the retina or he may see double or multiple which results from optical irregularities of the lens causing two or more images of the same subject to be focused upon the retina.

In the early sage of cataract, there occurs a swelling of the lens. This may result in the patient obtaining his second sight. He can now discard his reading glasses on which he had been previously dependent, but he needs to wear glasses for distance.

A mature cataract may be recognised by the fact that the iris no longer casts a shadow upon the cataractous lens. The lens is no longer swollen and the mother-of-pearl appearance has changed to a dull gray or brownish color. The cataract is now said to be "ripe", because it can be operated upon with the optimum chance of success.

If the cataract is allowed to progress to the next stage, it becomes "over-ripe". The lens is now so shriveled up that it is very difficult or impossible to remove the cataract successfully.

Cataract causes about 13 per cent of the blindness in this country. There are various kinds and causes of cataract. Senile cataract is by far the most frequent type. It is much more common than all the other types together. It develops between 50 and 70 years of age. It may affect one eye in the beginning but eventually involves both. Congenital cataract is present at birth. Traumatic cataract results from an injury that is sufficient to cause a rupture of the capsule of the lens. Diabetic cataract occurs in diabetes. Complicated cataract is the result of some other disease of the eye.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Peter Invites Whitefoot.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

You'll always find that it is true,
There's some one that's worse off than you.

Old Mother Nature.

Misery loves company. Peter Rabbit was feeling very miserable. He was in a bramble-tangle in the Green Forest. He was frightened and sore. He had been surprised by one of Yowler the Bobcat's babies and badly scratched. So when he was joined by Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and discovered that Whitefoot wanted to leave the Green Forest, because he too was terribly frightened, Peter felt better. "Somehow it doesn't seem as if things are fair in this world," said Peter.

"What do you mean?" squeaked Whitefoot.

"Why, some of us have to watch out for ever so many enemies and others have only a few to watch out for," said Peter.

"If you had as many to watch out for as I have to watch out for you might complain," declared Whitefoot.

"If you think things are hard for you, what do you thing of me?"

"Huh!" exclaimed Whitefoot. "If I had no more enemies than you have I'd be a happy Mouse. I have every single enemy that you have and, because I'm so small, I have a lot more who never think of looking for you or touching you if they see you. You are too big for Spooky the Screech Owl, but I have to watch out for him every night. I even have to watch out for his smaller cousin, Saw Whet the Acadian Owl. He's a little bit of a fellow but he certainly can catch mice. Then there is Killy the Sparrowhawk. You never have to even look to see if he's about because you are too big for him to touch but that fellow lives on Mice part of the time. In winter I have to watch out for Butcher the Shrike. I have to keep an eye out for Blacky the Crow. I don't even trust Sammy Jay. No, Peter, if you think you have a hard time you don't know what a hard time is. And now to think that there are two young Bobcats to watch out for. I've got to get out of the Green Forest that's all there is to it."

"I don't blame you for feeling that way, replied Peter. "Only a little while ago I told my cousin, Jumper the Hare, that I'd had enough of the Green Forest and when I get back to the dear Old Briar-patch I'm going to stay there. I'll tell you what, Whitefoot, you come along with me to the dear Old Briar-patch and make your home there. It's the best and safest place in all the Great World. You'll be perfectly happy ove rthere. What do you say?"

"Oh, no," replied Peter, forgetting that what would be a short distance for him would be a long distance for such a little fellow as Whitefoot. "Oh, no, it isn't far over there. You just follow my white tail and I'll lead you right over there."

"When?" asked Whitefoot.

"Oh, by and by," replied Peter rather indefinitely. You see, Peter had been so badly scared that he hadn't yet recovered sufficiently to dare scamper across the Green Meadows to the dear Old-Briar-patch.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"Reservation Residents"

Mr. Editor: As we are interested in Mr. Shaw's reminiscences of days gone by, and the Indian referred to by Mr. Shaw, we wish to say he was well known as Sam Brushel, direct descendant of the great chief, Uncas. He was an expert whistler, apparently whistling two notes at once that harmonized, though I could not vouch for that. Anyway his music sounded sweeter and different than the whistling of an ordinary person. I distinctly remember his practicing this peculiar art at a picnic held in Mr. Stark's mineral spring grove at Bozrah. Other Mohegan residents of that period were William and Eliphalet Fielding, rugged specimens of the Indian race.

There was Charley Bohemia, a fine, long-haired violinist. I wish to remark here that at Pollard's boiler shop in Thamesville, the incessant clanging of riveters resounded throughout the village during the day and on Saturday evenings the strains of this unique violinist's instrument could be heard with a gathering of men in a building known at that time as the "Four Gun Battery." Not many ladies present. Such a party at this day would be designated as a "stag dance."

But as to "Reservation Residents," there was one Mr. Miller, who with a pair of oxen hauled cord wood to Norwich, slow locomotion compared with the rapid transit methods employed at the present time. There was Henry Mathews, a skilled craftsman, and expert maker of axe-handles etc. There were numerous other individuals of this vanishing race who were well versed in wood craft of all descriptions. The wigwams, with their Indian curies, excellent ruccottash, and other delicacies, are well and favorably known to this present-day generation and need no explanation here.

Prohibition

Mr. Editor: The matter of prohibition will not down, say what we will. Our anti-prohibitionists are always declaiming against it and by using certain phrases seek to prejudice folks against its continuance—phrases such as "More stuff drunk now than ever," "Everybody's making it." "Conditions worse than in the old days." Now thoughtful students of present conditions know these are lies out and out. It is just a question of fact. The people that know the facts should be heard. Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, knows more about the seamy side of life than probably anyone in America. She knows especially the condition of the poor of our great cities. We should take Miss Booth's words and rely upon them, for she knows the facts. This is what she says:

"Before prohibition the cause of poverty in three families out of four was the drunkenness of one or both parents. Recently I caused a count to be made of the causes of the poverty of 1,000 families that received Christmas baskets this year. Instead of three out of four cases being caused by drunkenness the count showed only one in ten. Bootleg alcohol makes poverty with quite as much potency as alcohol that is bottled in bond, but there is so much less of it than there used to be, and there is so much less poverty."

Let us listen to the voice of reason and not of passion.

COMMON PLEAS COURT HAS DENIED TEMPORARY INJUNCTION

Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas has refused to issue a temporary injunction sought by Morris Lubchansky against Hyman Tanenbaum, in which the plaintiff claimed that Tanenbaum in starting a delicatessen store at Ocean beach violated a sale contract in which the defendant was alleged to have agreed not to engage in that business for five years after selling his business to Lubchansky.

However, it was brought out, Lubchansky, who now conducts a fruit store in Bank street, New London after entering business at the beach failed to make good on the remainder of his lease canceled and closed his store, and it was not until after that that Tanenbaum re-entered the delicatessen business at the beach.

LOCAL CHAMBER CONSIDERS AGRICULTURE REFERENDUM 52

United States referendum No. 52 dealing with the subject of agriculture as presented by a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was received by the Norwich chamber of commerce Friday. This referendum will be referred to the legislative committee of the chamber for consideration. Hon. Nelson J. Ayling is chairman of this committee.

The report has the arguments in the negative and the affirmative dealing with the proposed plan of solution to the agriculture situation. To enable agriculture to regain its proper balance in our national life it seems essential that it be organized, largely along the modern lines of other American industry. Put into practical effect, this would mean:

The intelligent control and distribution of seasonal or annual surplus production, thus stabilizing prices and avoiding glutted markets.

Development and maintenance of favorable facilities for production and marketing credit.

MANY SPORT ATTRACTIONS FOR NORWICH FANS OVER WEEKEND

This coming week end possibly furnishes the sport fans of Eastern Connecticut as varied a programme as any of the season. Baseball of course heads the list with a number of important games scheduled for today, tomorrow and Monday. Tennis fans will be privileged to witness the Eastern Connecticut championships at the Norwich Golf club, while the golfers will participate in the club championship at the Norwich Golf club with the qualifying round on Labor day.

The title in the Junior baseball league will be settled this afternoon at Hollyhock Island. Taftville A. A. clashes with the fast Kensington club at the Providence street grounds in what is expected to be one of the most interesting games of the season. Here Lloyd Jarvis pitches his farewell game. On Sunday the J. B. Martin club again tackles the Universal A. A. of Providence at the J. B. Martin field. On Monday the Taftville A. A. plays the Scoony club of New London. Taken all in all there is plenty of sporting activities for the fans over the holiday week end.

Jr. League Title Settled Today

With one championship, that of the Industrial league out of the way, the eyes of all local fandom will be focused on Hollyhock Island this afternoon while the Rotary and Taftville American legion teams battle it out for the Junior championship of Norwich and the honors that go with the title, a trip to New York as the guests of the New York Yankees. The championship affair will be the second part of a double bill that will start at 2 o'clock.

The opening event of the afternoon program, which will be featured by the presenting of the playground and Dusty league prizes will be a game between the Insilcos and the Polish Citizens clubs, entrants in the Dusty league. Following the opener, John J. O'Rourke, former secretary of the chamber of commerce will deliver an address of the activities of the recreation department, before William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the recreation commission awards the prizes to the department operating under his juriadiction. The winners of the various playground events, run off during the past summer, the champs of the Dusty league, the U. S. Finishers, and other recreation departments will all take part in the ceremonies.

The final and most important part of the program, as far as the Junior league followers are concerned will be the big game. The Taftville Legionairres present leaders of the Junior league by a slight margin and runner-up Rotarians will begin the grind that will end in the Yankee stadium on Wednesday. Today's game will decide which club will board the boat at New London, Tuesday night for the big city as the guests of the world's champions.

Should the Legion win the game, the league will be all over and the boys from Taftvile may as well start packing up, but should the Rotary come through the league leadership will be at a deadlock and an extra contest will be made necessary. Both teams have put in some hard practice session during the week and last night were on edge waiting for the break of dawn of the day that means so much in their young lives.

As was previously mentioned, the entire receipts of the session will be contributed to the Junior league to defray the expenses of the champs during their visit in the metropolis. Everyone is interested in the outcome of the final game and all that now remains necessary to make it a day that never will be forgotten by the youngsters is to have the weather man smile and the local fans turn out enmasse.

The contest between the Polish and Insilco clubs, while it will have no bearing on the standing of the Dusty league will be for blood as these two teams have been at grips all season, and surely welcome the opportunity for a final tilt. The batteries for the opening game will be Lamphere and Isbicki for the Insilcos and Stanley and Busch for the Citizens. The batteries for the final game will probably be Paradis and Fontaine for Taftville and Abugal and Drew for the Rotary.

Taftville Vs. Kensington Today

With Lloyd Jarvis taking the mound for this afternoon's encounter Taftville is relying strongly on taking over the strong Kensington team in their third meeting. This is the "rubber" for the two teams with a win chalked up for each and today's game should furnish plenty of real playing. Kensingtnn has added a little more strength to their club and are coming down full of fight.

Kensington is one team that likes to give battle to Troland's boys, as has been proven in their other games. With Freddie West in the box for them the up-staters play gilt edge ball behind him, and Taftville barely edged out a win in the last meeting. West is one of the best semi-pro moundsman in the state and is at present undecided whether he will return to college or continue in the game. It is said that he has options on him from an Eastern league outfit and will give them his services next season.

To combat West's twirling will be Jarvis's farewell work on the mound and needless to say he will use all his pitching knowledge to beat West and the team in back of him. Back of Lloyd at short will be Carlie Krauss whose presence should enhance the hitting value of the local team. Bob Christy is taking third and the rest of the regular team will, as usual, give Jarvis their undying support, both in the field and with the willow. The game will start at 3:15.

C. of Providence wil invade the strong hold of the J. B. Martin club Sunday afternoon. This club in their last appearance here run under the name of Roy Rock's All Stars but since then have changed their title to the Universal A. C. of Providence. Manager Fred Erlbeck, director of the destinies of the J. B. Martin club is not to be caught unawares for Sunday's game and his defense will be the strongest that he has been able to assemble. Barry of Socony club will be seen at second. Ryan and Smith will be seen in the outfield, and Murphy will do the backstop work.

AL MUNRO ELIAS TO HAVE LEG AMPUTATED

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 31—(AP)—Al Munro Elias, official statistician of the National league, will submit to an operation for the amputation of his leg here tomorrow morning. Elias suffered two fractures of the limb in an automobile accident here recently, and developed gangrene poisoning.

Mr. Elias is well known in Norwich having made frequent visits here with his wife who was a Norwich girl. It is with regret that his Norwich friends learn of the seriousness of the operation.

U. S. FINISHING CO. TEAM WINS PENNANT IN INDUSTRIAL LOOP

Lefty Duzas pitched the United States Finishers into the Industrial league championships Friday evening at the Academy campus, limiting the Y. M. C. A. to one hit in seven innings. This was the final scheduled game on the league slate and marked the closest finish twi-league ball has ever had in Norwich.

Over 3,000 jammed the campus for the game, which was well-played throughout.

Lefty Lucier started against Duzas and yielded the three runs to the Bleachery. He was relieved in the fourth when Dabrowski walked and Couture forced Duzas to pop up. Couture had pitched the ninht before but went exceedingly well for the remainder of the game.

The Bleachery put over their first scores a pair, in the third. Dabrowski doubled over the autos in right following Finn's single and Johnny Crowe's hot one to the infield sent in the two tallies. In the fourth Burrell was safe on an infield error and went to third on Young's double to score on Finn's single.

They never seriously threatened. The only hit came off Couture's bat in the third when he dropped a Texas leaguer into center field just out of Red Burrelle's reach.

Finn at third played nice ball for the Bleachery while Leo Morin presented a stellar game for the Y. Finn and Dabrowski led the hitters.

Notes

The Bleachery came well prepared for a victory. Promptly at starting time they were in their seats ready for action. There were plenty of megaphones in evidence, which were well made use of.

Dugas had an off night at bat but his pitching sufficed.

Young, who was leading the league in hitting for a time early in the year but then fell down, snapped out of his slump with a clean double to the fence in center.

Dabrowski's drive to the autos in right in the third was the longest hit of the evening.

There were plenty of late suppers last night. The early start, 5.45, sent a big part of the fans scurrying either from the shops directly to the field or on a hurried trip home and then straight to the field. They just couldn't miss that game.

WESTERLY

ASSESSORS' FIGURES SHOW REVENUE INCREASE $14,589

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 31—Westerly Tax Assessors Howard E. Thorp, William Ledward and George Woodward Friday morning completed their duties for the 1928 levy. By their assessment the town's revenue will be increased $14,589.75 over that of last year. The land value is assessed this year at $4,684,150 and buildings at $10,104,850, making a total assessment of $14,789,000 on real estate. The assessment on land is greater by $23,000 than that of 1927, and the assessment on buildings shows an increase of $416,400, over that of 1927. Tangible personal property this year is assessed at $2,119,450, an increase of $58,150 over the assessment for last year. Intangible personal property is assessed at $4,174,400. This shows a decrease of $396,500 over the 1927 figure. The total valuation of property in the town for 1928 is $21,032,850 as compared with $20,823,800 a year ago. The total increase in valuation this year is $209,050.

Exemptions are decreased by $42,200. The tax on real estate and tangible personal property for 1928 totals $416,463.75. The tax on intangible personal property for 1928 is $16,693.60. These two figures combined give the town a total income for 1928 of $432,157.35, as compared with a total income of $417,567.60 in 1927.

The sewerage tax this year is $22,546.65, an increase of $5,956.75 over last year. The total tax to be collected is $456,704.20. A sidewalk tax of $421.85 appears.

An explanation in the decreased figures is accounted for by the closing in Westerly probate court of the Hoxie estate in Westerly and a large Watch Hill estate and a large increase in the lapse of exemption of ten years on a Westerly industrial plant. The sewage tax represents a 5c increase.

BRADFORD PAIR HELD BY CLEVELAND POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Aug. 31—Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown left this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Puritan express for Cleveland, O., to return with Albert Grant and Emily Ivill both formerly of Bradford, who are being held in Cleveland, O., for the Westerly police, according to a telegram received this morning by Chief Brown from Chief Jacob Graul of the Cleveland police department. Grant is to be charged with abandoning his wife and the Ivill woman is wanted here for the alleged abduction of a child. The pair left Bradford about two months ago. Through clever detective work on the part of Chief Brown who started without a clue to work on, the two were trailed to Cleveland, where they were arrested by the Cleveland police acting on instructions from Chief Brown.

Labor day visitors to Westerly beaches began to arrive Friday in increasing numbers and the evening trains on the New Haven road were met by automobiles to carry the holiday visitors to shore hotels and cottages. Through automobile traffic was heavy all Friday afternoon and it was a problem to get pedestrians across Broad and High streets. In mid-afternoon Officer Leroy H. Norman held up his hand to stop traffic that an elderly woman might cross in safety. In the sudden stopping of autos the third auto back in a line east-bound at the head of Main street unable to stop in time bumped the rear end of a New York car ahead, the driver of which bumped out and berated the officer, whom he held accountable for a bump to his mudguard and fender. Officer Norman escorted the auto and occupants to headquarters where an apology was made by the driver and the wife warned that if she continued to abuse the officer she would only get her husband deeper into trouble.

In the district court Friday morning, Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench, J. Brooks Nichols, Jr., 19, of Convent, N. J., and Narragansett Pier, charged with driving an automobile along the Watch Hill road Aug. 27, at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper, pleaded guilty. A fine of $50 with costs was imposed.

Phelias Plante, 21, of Manville, driver of a New England Bakery Co. truck, that collided with a Westerly post office truck on Beach street last Tuesday morning, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined $100 and costs. He conducted his own case.

A severe arraignment of A. L. Castritius, complaining witness, by Prosecutor Ferguson and Judge Williams, characterized the larceny case against Mortimer L. Aronson, 21, of Boston. Aronson had waived extradition and came back voluntarily to face a charge of petty larceny growing out of cashing a worthless check for $75 at the Alcasa hotel. He pleaded nolo to the charge. He was given a suspended sentence upon payment of costs. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and the young man's father, Shepard Aronson of Boston, appeared as witnesses for the state. The state, represented by Town Solicitor John Ferguson, amended its complaint to make the charge against Aronson one of petty larceny rather than forgery, with which the defendant was originally charged. Ferguson in a statement to the court, explained that the police department in prosecuting the case had been greatly handicapped by the action of Albert L. Castritius, proprietor of the Alcasa hotel, the complaining witness, who had sought to have the warrant for Aronson's arrest withdrawn. Through the testimony of Shepard Aronson, Attorney Ferguson showed that the former had made restitution for the amount of the check, $75, and in addition had paid Castritius the sum of $25, which amount a receipt given by the Alcasa to the boy's father referred to as for "expenses." Ferguson strongly condemned the action of Castritius in seeking to have the case dropped after the settlement made by the young man's father.

Other court business was transacted as follows: New writs entered—Charles H. Gavitt vs. Sylvia Rodman. Samuel Feldman et al vs. Albert Buchanan. Clarence E. Roche vs. William M. Champlin. John O. Mills vs. Curtis A. Hope, alias. Civil docket—Charles H. Gavitt vs. Joseph A. Guarino. Colonial Finance Co. vs. John Bimberry. John O. Mills vs. Mabel B. Nickelhaupt and John Haas. Each continued one week. Keller-Kohn Co. vs. Katherine P. Scott. Continued two weeks. Sarah Dickie vs. John Howard. R. C. Duguid Co. vs. Alvin Murphy. Continued one week. A. L. Castritius vs. Clifton D. Hall. Motion pending and continued one week.

In the cases, C. D. Hall vs. John Bimberry and Marvin Dortch vs. John Bimberry, Attorney Ferguson insisted at first upon trial when Attorneys Flynn and Dunn for plaintiffs declared the writ of attachment accompanying the papers faulty and it was so found by the court. The cases were then continued one week when surety for costs was asked for and granted.

CAPT. SAWYER AT 87 CAN ROW TO A PICNIC

Capt. Roswell Sawyer wanted to spend a short vacation on Buff Point, but not owning an automobile it made it unhandy toget to the point. He and his wife went down to the town dock and getting out his rowboat while a crowd of fishermen were standing by, some one asked, "Where are you going, Capt. Sawyer?" "To Buff Point—to row it. I have been rowing all my life and can handle a pair of oars like a young chap. The distance is only 8 miles!" Capt. Sawyer is 87 but bending to the oars he headed toward the Point, saying good bye. The old fishermen claimed he would never make it. Pulling hard and quick, putting the boat ahead a foot or so each time, his wind was holding out well and the goal was soon half won. The waves were coming along heavy, but he knew how to put a boat along so that it did not rock much. Passing several fishing boats where the owners knew Capt. Sawyer, they said "Stick to it—and it won't be long now!" All he did was smile, seeing Buff Point ahead. Pulling fast and steady he made it all right. For the 8-mile row it took him two hours and 30 minutes. Some time for a sea captain who has reached the age of 87, better time than many a young fellow can do it today. Taking out the tent and things that went with it, he is going to spend the week camping with his wife, the first real good vacation for the captain.

The electrician for the New Haven railroad was working on the bell system near the station all the week so when a train goes over the two crossings a bell will ring until the last car has passed over. This is the safety control. The East Main street crossing is bad, for there are no gates or bell there and the flagmen have got to get on the lookout when automobiles pass over the crossing to see if the trains are not coming. On a foggy night, where the crossing tender cannot see a hand in front of him, he must stand out and watch for trains. But now with this bell in use it makes it helpful for the crossing tenders, who can tell when a train is coming by the way the bell rings.

The wrecking crew is taking down trolley wires along the line to New London and Westerly. Getting near Elm street, cutting the wires, Lineman Eddie Ellis saw a large hole in the pole and taking a look found a nest of red squirrels, seven in the nest. Some were dead and the rest were dying. They were from three to eight inches long. Lineman Ellis is kind-hearted and could not let the squirrels lie out in the road; so taking a shovel and going up in the woods a little way he dug a big hole and gave the squirrels a real burial. He does not know how the squirrels were killed or if they did not get enough food. The woods is about a mile from the trolley line. How did they pick a telephone pole to build a nest in? he is wondering.

Several young people of the village went by automobile to Stonington on Wednesday to have a moonlight sail on the motor ship Elizabeth Ann as the moon was full. It was 9 o'clock when Capt. Brown blew the whistle the last call, "All aboard!" the water was rough and the thunder and lightning were frightening some. The moon could not be seen. Going up into New London harbor the rain came down hard and everybody ran for the cabin and about 20 made it with just room for them. Jokes were flying about, inquiring who had a lemon if anybody got seasick. The steward said "Plenty of them, got a box in today!" Coming around by Watch Hill then back to Stonington, it made a 3-hour sail about 50 made the trip.

PROLONGING LIFE OF UNDERVESTS.

Dear Editor and Sisters: Hope the workers have got rested from our picnic Aug. 22. I think we had quite a crowd, considering the short notice. Sorry there were some who didn't hear of it in time to get there.

Well, Rural Delivery, I think Margaret Henry must be getting on her good behavior, as I was down through her woods twice the first of this month and we had no trouble whatever, not even a flat tire. We stopped beside the road this side of your house and picked some delicious sugar blueberries. I told Buddy about them and she assured me she could pick a bushel for me. Sorry I haven't seen them yet.

Hope V. B. A. and others got home safely the other night, and not too tired to come again.

I wonder Amerlida if you, Butterfly and I didn't attend some funerals once upon a time? or am I on the wrong track? If you go up the north road on a clear day, nearly up to Barbara's, you can see Mt. Monadnock in New Hampshire. You can see into four states from there. I think we natives should be very proud of our village and town for its natural scenery is so beautiful. I can remember when all these mills were running full time and every tenement occupied.

Miss Breakneck: We tried to locate those foundations and think we have them nearby. Didn't see you when we went by that day, although we stopped quite a few minutes before we got to your house to admire the view to the east.

Come, Gingham Girl, stay at home long enough to write a few lines. If your ink bottle is dry come up and use mine. Did you get to S— and did you get you a new dress? What route did you take, as I would like to go up there sometime as I have a friend there that I think a great deal of.

What has become of Mrs. Dan or did she go home with her auntie, as I haven't seen or heard of her since? The W. H. will begin to work again soon and then perhaps we'll see you and Tildy.

Barbara: Don't you get down to the big city? Haven't seen you in a long time. Was in hopes you'd get to the picnic.

One sister, forgotten who, was waiting for a new road to be finished. I think she must have meant the new Liberty highway. I'll never forget my ride over part of it in June. I hope it will be done on time. But won't it be fine when it is finished.

I wonder if any of the sisters try my way of prolonging the life of their undervests when they get thin under the arms. Just remove the shoulder straps and move them to a new place. If they are the built-up kind just cut them off straight and put on a straight band and then have the straps in another place. It saves patching and prolongs the life of the vest nearly, if not quite double for the straps can be moved more than once. This may have been printed some time but I don't remember of seeing it. I thought it an original idea. 1492.

HOBBY IN SONGS.

Dear Editor, Social Corner Sisters and Brothers: Here I am again, though I guess there'll be room for me unless more write this week. Last week's paper had but few letters. Perhaps some are away on their vacations. If they are I hope they will write about their trips. I am a homebody. I like to go just for the day but like to be home at night. If I have to stay over night I almost get home sick.

We sure have had a warm summer. Does that mean a very cold winter? I think we all love summer, best but sometimes the continued warm spell leaves us a little fagged. Canning time is here and now we'll be busy storing up for winter like the ants and bees.

To the sister who wrote about making money sewing aprons at home, would say I tried that and found it not what it was advertised to be.

Now I wonder if many of the sisters and brothers have a hobby. Mine is songs. I have over 100 song books and a great many of the best songs. By best, I mean the songs that live always. Who knows the author of Yankee Doodle? It was introduced into America by the British troops in 1775.

I would like to ask the sisters if they have or know of anyone having the words of the song I'll Remember You Love, In My Prayers. This is the chorus:

Go where you will on land or at sea
I'll share all your sorrow and care
And at night when I kneel at my bedside to pray,
I'll remember you, love, in my prayers.

Perhaps Ann Tenna may have the words. If she has and will send them to our paper to be printed, I shall be eternally grateful.

Also would like words of a song which has these lines:

"They made her a grave so cold and damp for a soul so warm and true; She paddled her own canoe."

I think this song is an Indian song.

Here are a few lines by John Oxenham:

To every man there openeth
A way, and a way and a way,
And the high soul climbs the high way,
And the low soul gropes the low,
And in between, on the misty flats,
The rest drifts to and fro;
But to every man there openeth a high way and a low,

RAILROAD EXCURSIONS

Dear Social Cornerites: When I finally located our page in Saturday's Bulletin I concluded that most of us must have been in either a jam or a pickle during the weekend got sealed up. No doubt this week we will be out in force again. Of course it is but natural that we shuld backslide now and then.

Jennie: I enjoyed your letter about Plymouth and vicinity. Some 30 years ago, when living in Westerly, R. I., I went to Plymouth on a railroad excursion, returning the same day, so, naturally, there couldn't be much in the way of side trips. The fare for the round trip was only $1.25. I still remember how I enjoyed every minute of the day. There were so many things to see in Pilgrim hall it was almost bewildering, and there was also an old curiosity shop presided over by the oldest looking man I had ever seen. My companion bought a blue and white dish of him, supposed to be very old, but I confess I was rather skeptical of its antiquity.

There was a trolley ride to some nearby place which was a part of the day's itinerary, but although I took it I dwo not now recal. where we went. Most of the return ride was after dark and the homeward trip is more deeply graven in my memory than any event of the day, for across thealsie from me was a man who had been imbibing too freely. He had a bottle of whiskey with him from which he regaled himself ever and anon until it was empty, and then threw the bottle from the open window. He concluded he wouldn't need his ticket, so that followed the bottle. Presently he drew a jackknife from his pocket, opened it and flourished it about with so much vim that finally two men had to hold him, as by this time he had begun to see things not visible to the rest of us(snakes, I suppose). After a while his son, a fine looking young man came in from another car and assisted in restraining his father. What an embarrassing experience for him! And I'm sure all the passengers felt sorry for him.

The homeward journey was really spoiled for those of us near this victim of drink. All this took place in those so-called "good old days" before the 18th amendment had been enacted or Mr. Volstead been heard of. I trust, Jennie, you had nothing of this sort to mar your trip.

At another time I visited the food fair in Boston; round trip only $1.55. Had to stand from Westerly to Attleboro. Then a young man gave me his seat, he taking to his feet for the remainder of the journey. I was some grateful to him.

Coming back two trains were provided, so all had seats. I never sampled so many kinds of food in one day before or since, but youthful stomachs are both elastic and enduring.

Still later I "excursioned" by rail to New Haven at a cost of $1 and had a fine time. Went through Yale college. Few of you, I suppose, have thought of me as a collegian. For those with slim purses but a longing to travel a bit such excursions are a help. I do not enjoy a crowd so well now, however, as in those youthful days. Now I look from my front window on to a trunk line cement road and watch the world roll by. At least by 12 p. m. Sundays and holidays it seems as though most of it must have passed by either north or southband at times the constant stream of cars becomes very tiring to the eyes and brain.

What a contrast to life on the farm when I was a girl! There was almost no passing then. I am reading The Legend of Calvin Coolidge, by Cameron Rogers, running in Personality Magazine. It is decidedly worth while.

With friendly greetings to you all,
EVELINE BURR.

HOW TO WIND WOOL FOR KNITTING

Dear Social Corner Folks: The scarcity of letters last week prompts me to write a few lines. I think our first duty to the Corner is to keep the page filled. Then come the picnics and our hostess had arranged for our ed two of Club No. 4. It was a perfect summer's day in July that we enjoyed a 20 mile ride to Rural Aunty's. The hall where we met was pleasant and convenient in every way, and our hostess had aranged for our entertainment, an unusually fine program, a report of which has been given. We all look forward to our annual pilgrimage to East Killingly. This year we gathered at the Valley church now known as the "jolly club room" for our August meeting. Over 50 members and guests including a representation from Club No. 6 were present. We had a good dinner and the musical and literary program, in the form of a roll call, was well and pleasingly responded to. We were fortunate in having with us our brother, Honorarykaytinebusqui, and we shall look now for a letter from him on the Corner page.

Aries: Your letter on the fifth sign of the zodiac interested me but I am undecided to which type I belong. I fear I do not measure up to the first and as to the second, I dislike to think of myself as lazy but I know I am sometimes.

Olga: It was nice of you to respond to my call. I think your missionary society for its size has done wonderful work.

Sweet Lavendar: I was glad to see a letter from you. The last time I was at the old place on the hill the changes had not been for the better and I have not wanted to go again.

Here is a useful hint for those who use wool for knitting or crocheting. To wind wool so that it unwinds from the middle, which prevents the ball from rolling about, wind the wool about 12 times around all four fingers; take these loops off, and wind wool 17 times around the lower half, leaving the top half free in a tuft. Continue winding fairly loosely in the ordinary way round lower part, keeping the tuft free and at the top all the time. Wind the last two yards firmly round the ball's "waist." Then pull out the tuft, find the end, and With best wishes.

A DAY'S AUTO TRIP

Dear Corner Sisters and Editor: How have you enjoyed this hot day especially those that went to Aunty No. 1's picnic? Now that the thunder is rolling in the distance, wonder if you are getting wet.

Sunday morning Mr. B., my daughter, grandson and I drove to Providence, stopping at the Hannah Robinson rock for our lunch. It's about four miles from Wakefield on the Tower hill road. It is off the main road. The rock tea room and filling station are across the road from the entrance. There is a fine view of Newport and Jamestown. We drove through Roger Williams park to see the flowers and they were beautiful.

After leaving my grandson with his grandmother B. in North Providence, we went out through to Olneyville to North Scituate. Two miles from there we turned on a cross road, went to Onego and over Sterling hill to Plainfield. At Norwich we left daughter at her home and arrived home at 7:30 p. m.

Sumae: Glad you enjoyed your trip Tuesday. How did you enjoy the grange meeting? Sorry we missed the debate. Ha! Ha!

Jennie: I have a hollyhock that is 6 feet 10 inches and still growing.

Did any sisters send to Larkin's to get the perennials? I go five and they are doing fine. A year ago I got gladiolus and they did fine.

Theoda: How is your garden? Mine is in full bloom now. I see you have been down the Cape. I have been there several times.

GRAND TIME AT AUNTY NO. 1'S

Dear Cornerites: Have just returned from Aunty No. 1's picnic, and will try and tell you about it.

When we arrived at the house we were welcomed by old Glory, two beautiful flags floating in the breeze, with a great yellow bow hung between them.

There were about 50 sisters there sitting about in groups.

Then as we were about to enter the house with our offerings for the table, we saw Biddy looking so very lovely in lavender and old lace, seated ato a small table with a book and we were invited to register, which we did.

Then into the house we went. And it was like entering Fairyland. The rooms were all decorated in yellow and white. (done by Sisters Ready and Biddy, I understood.) It looked lovely.

Then the dining room, where we found Sister Ready Lo Paula, Aunty No. 1 and a number of other sisters cutting cake and preparing all the good things for dinner.

Such a dinner! One had to partake of it to appreciate it. Think each sister had made her choicest loaf of cake or pie, or sandwiches, and brought it. Also the most delicious baked beans, and salads, pickled beets and other relishes; in fact a dinner suitable for a king.

The one who made the coffee was mistress of the art. And then Uncle served all with pears, plums peaches and bananas, making a fine finish for a wonderful feast.

All six clubs were represented. Primrose, Pices, Avon and Buffalo and daughter coming from Putnam from Club 4.

I should have mentioned we sang "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

The weatherman was good and gave us plenty of sunshine.

Uncle had provided seats for all, which means a great amount of work. But nothing seems to be too much for him to make us comfortable.

There were about 200 sisters and their husbands, also friends, present.

Each and every one I am sure had a most enjoyable time, and we all offer our most sincere thanks to Aunty No. 1 and her able helpers who made it possible.

Ink: Was pleased to have you with use once more.

Fox Glove and Whirlwind: We were so glad to have you and your friends with us.

Windham Blue Belle: Your pie was so appetizing. Never tasted one like it before.

We were glad to have our genial Pr. L. and wife with us. The doctor led the singing with his splendid voice.

I also want to speak of and thank the "boy" who carried so many pails of good spring water so we could allay our thirst after dinner.

Red Rose: Was pleased to have a chat with you; also Stub and Prudence.

Oh, I wish I could write all that is in my heart, but if I did I would use the whole Corner page and that would never do.

Hoping we may all meet again in the future,

OLGA.

WELL REPAID FOR GOING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: After being silent so long I will try to add my bit to the Social Corner page. I have enjoyed all the writings from week to week, and think the members do pretty well. They must feel more like writing than I have the past six months. I have been having stomach trouble. Sometimes I would feel better and think I was, but then my troubles would begin again. Hope to be better soon. Club 4 met at the lower church, East Killingly, Aug. 22 with a large attendance, 55, and all had a very fine time. Plenty of the very best to eat, salads, baked beans, mashed and escalloped potatoes, nice things from the garden, including corn, cakes and pies too numerous to mention. The pleasure we got from meeting old and new members paid us for going.

We are nearing the time to vote for our next president, and I think it is up to us to put in the right man for the place. We need to think and act wisely. Let us try to to use our influence for the one that will do right for our government, so that we will have peace and not wrangling. I read all the nice letters in the Bulletin telling about the 18th amendment and its results. It is something we ought to know. In Hoover I think we can see accomplished that which will perpetuate our American government so that it will go forward and not backward as it has in the past.

My sympathy goes out to all members sick and in hospitals. My love and best wishes for a speedy recovery for them all.

HELPING HUMANITY.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am one that can be called a slacker, not from choice but for lack of time to write. Many like myself can read the helpful letters by the sisters, use the recipes, and the practical suggestions given.

It is encouraging to note how many of the sisters are rendering service to humanity. I called on B. Natural, an old friend, and found her ministering to a woman who came to her home for a short stay. Instead she was taken sick and passed away in five weeks. She could have been well paid by the relatives. Occasionally I meet Musician and always wish I could pay like her. Glad to hear Susanna and her talented daughter have reached home safely from their European trip. She has remembered friends with cards and in her home, like her deceased husband, is always looking for opportunities to be of service and doing deeds of kindness. Best wishes to all the sisters.

AUNT SUSIE: Card sent as requested.

Small Daughter: The requested change has been made.

OPHELIA PULSE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

APPROVES EFFORTS FOR BUCKINGHAM MEMORIAL.

To the Editor and Social Corner Members: I was very much interested in a letter I read in the Norwich Bulletin of Aug. 8. The subject was The Buckingham Memorial and it was signed by a real daughter of a veteran. Now I am a widow of a veteran who enlisted in the 18th Connecticut Volunteers at Norwich, when President Lincoln was asking for young men to go to the front. After the close of the war the G. A. R. boys held their yearly gatherings at this place. This reunion was held near the 20th of August. My husband looked forward to these pleasant gatherings and I enjoyed meeting with them. After my husband had answered the last roll call, I made my home in Norwich for a few months and attended many social gatherings held in the Buckingham Memorial and felt myself at home.

The Social Corner sisters held their meetings there and no doubt there are some of you who are interested in the upkeep of this hostorical home of Governor Buckingham, who lived there more than 60 years ago. I hope all those that are interested in this Memorial will work together and contribute for the repairs. In closing, would say that the something that Dad Shaw, W. R. C. and Central Village admirers of the G. A. R., have started should materialise in a drive for the general repair of this worthy building.

STRANGER IN THE CITY.

SUSANNA IN PARIS.

Dear Social Corner: After nearly four weeks in Paris I must say I love it here. I have seen many art galleries. The wonderful Louvre is near, so we have been many times and could go many more and see something new. Luxembourge, a modern art gallery and gardens with statuary and fountains, was once the home of the royal family, a house of peers, and during the revolution it was a prison. It is now one of the most popular gardens for Parisiens. We visited Sobelir's tapestry manufactory, which is a state institution and produces works of art unexcelled throughout the world. They are not sold but presented to royal personages. The artists work with their copy behind them and their loom with warp in front. They use their hands and a steel fork to push down the silk, and make wonderful pictures, more beautiful than paintings.

We went to the top of Eiffel tower. A car or lift carries 100 people to the first floor, where there is a restaurant, theatre, bar and postcards and souvenirs are on sale. The next lift takes 50 people and the third the same. You walk around, eat, drink or buy. If you go up a flight of stone steps you reach the very top, 1,000 feet above the ground. There auton look like flies and you have a view of Paris with its domes and colored roofs, river and bridges, which is indeed a sight. It is said the former kaiser expected to unfurl a German standard from the top of this tower. The tomb of Napoleon is not far away. It is a church and from the floor you can look down into the open crypt, 20 feet below, of red granite. There are 54 flags arranged between 12 figures representing chief victories by Napoleon. Beyond the tomb through a gateway you go to Hotel Des Invalides, where they used to take wounded soldiers. This is now a museum of war trophies taken from the Germans, and all kinds of weapons from the time of the Romans to the war of 1917 are displayed. There are also Notre Dame, the Pantheon, Madeleine, St. Germaine, Montmartre, St. Denise and Sacre Coeur, all with their art treasures and stained glass windows. Sacre Coeur is up 200 steps, but the view there is said to equal Eiffel tower.

We were in so many churches and saw so many tombs that when they said I should go to Moulin Rouge I decided I would not, and said if it's a church I don't want to see it. It was not. It was the follies of Paris. Girls without clothes, except spangles, not even tights, represented birds, flowers, butterflies and were gorgeous with colored spangles as they danced and flitted about. I thought safety in numbers, as you could not see any special one.

I went also to the wax works. It was rather gruesome and I was glad when we were out of the place.

Today we have sailed up the Seine. The river is not as wide as our Thames, or more beautiful. It has bridges every few blocks and they are decorated with statuary or soldiers, sailors, lions and eagles of bronze or cement. There are many barges, houseboats, people washing clothes with a paddle and flat stones, and men fishing. On every corner of Paris, you see artists with easel and brush. The funny thing to me was they all wore spats. I thought they were English or French. Once when looking at a picture, the artist looked up and gave me a surprise by saying in my own U. S. A. English, "Do you like it?" I just said "Immensely," but was so sorry afterward I had not asked him why he wore spats.

I could go on and on telling you of Paris, Versailles, Fontainbleau, and the Latin quarter where we are at College Feminin, where Maude studies an hour each day, but think you are very tired of my long letter. Will soon be at home again, Sept. 1, and will be glad to see America and the Corner sisters again, although I am in love with Paris.

CLUB NO. 5 MEETS SEPT. 5

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is now nearly time for our September meeting. I hope there will be many able to come after our long vacation. Alta will be hostess for this meeting and will furnish beans. Hope others will furnish salads, cake, rolls and lots of good eats. Will not ask any one in particular to help but will be glad to have anyone that is willing to help, do so. I am going to Vermont for over Labor day and shall hope to see you all on Sept. 5 at Club No. 5, Buckingham Memorial. Come one, come all. If anyone has pieces to read or recite we shall be glad to have them. This will help our entertainment committee with her program. With all best wishes for the Corner's success. ALTA.

TELL TRUTH ALWAYS.

Dear Corner Sisters: Cosmos' letter on Telling the Truth aroused quite an interest in the subject. One of the sisters seemed to think it is all right to tell "white" lies. I do know where the dividing line is between a "white" lie and "black" one but to me they are the same, whatever the color.

I believe the truth should be spoken at all times, even at the expense of losing a friend. If they are friends worth having we should probably lose them if we told them things that were not true. It is a very easy matter to evade answering a question, by turning the subject or in whatever way seems the most politic at the time.

A good many people have told me what they term (I presume) "white" lies, but when I learned of it I did not have much faith in anything they told me afterward. If we teach our children it is permissible to tell "white" lies, will they be able to designate between the two. Isn't it better to teach them to be truthful both by precept and example. "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again." The truth will always bear its weight. A falsehood is almost sure to come to light sometime. The Bible says, "He that telleth lies shall not tarry in my sight."

Let us all be truthful so that those with whom we come in contact will know our word can be depended upon.

Jim: I was quite surprised to see the poem "I Remember" in the Social Corner. My brother wrote it about 25 or 30 years ago and it was printed in the Cooley's Weekly or Courier at that time.

Best wishes to the Corner.

NAOMI.

PROVINCETOWN

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: To those who make a trip to Cape Cod, and do not go to Provincetown, surely miss a good deal, for that is really the trip, and many things are there to be seen which are not elsewhere. There is much more advantage in traveling by auto, the entire length of the cape, than going by railroad, if one can be so fortunate. The highway passing through the center of the many little villages, gives a better idea of the Cape Codder. The industries of these people are of a limited variety. We may assume the summer months are the most profitable, and owing to the large number of tourists, there appears to be ample accommodations for frequently attractive signs "Rooms" are displayed every where. I have visited Provincetown twice, previous to my recent trip, once by auto, but this time, with Theoda, we went by way of the iron rail.

After leaving Sandwich on Sunday morning, we passed through much wooded land, mostly of pines, and again level land where we saw acres of growing cranberries which look very pretty just now, the little fruit all white, about as large as the kernels of sweet corn. We saw large buildings, presumably where the cranberries are packed and shipped a little later in the season, and large signs displayed: "Eatmore Cranberries." We passed lakes, until we reached a point where the land begins to narrow and form a semi-circle, toward the tip of the cape for several miles before our destination is reached we can see the Pilgrim Memorial monument, which is located on a high elevation and of itself, built of grey granite, rises over 250 feet, with a 28 square foot base. We were very fortunate in having a beautiful day for a sight seeing trip at Province town and we improved every minute. The streets are very narrow, most houses of antique structure, but all in good condition, well painted, etc. We took a walk to the extreme eastern point of the town, which is on the water front. Here we saw a granite marker, with bronze tablet, which is supposed to be near the spot where the Pilgrims first landed in Nov. 1620. There are several nice stores in Provincetown, where hey sell all kinds of pretty souvenirs, especially a good variety of the famous Cape Cod windmills, in different sizes and painted colors. Theoda and I each purchased one of these reminders of the ancient mills, in older times more prevalent than the present time few, throughout Cape Cod. The steamer Dorothy Bradford which runs daily from Boston to Provincetown and return, arrived with 1600 passengers that day and with the large number of autoists, the quaint little town was quite lively. As we had secured a room in a private house for the night, we did not have to hurry during that afternoon, but after the boat had left the pier at 5 p. m. the automobiles and the train had departed and the closing of the day was near. Theoda and I made our way, for the second time, up the winding hill to the great Pilgrim memorial. Here we could rest in comfortable settees and enjoy one of the grandest views over the Atlantic sea. We had not long to wait until the sun was fast sinking towards the ocean waves and we anticipated a glorious sun-set but just before the last rays of sun light, a thin veil, clouded the descent of that golden heavenly body, as it slipped from our vision into the great depths of water a little disappointed, that it was not perfect as we had hoped to see. But, perhaps to compensate for that, we experienced the most wonderful twilight hour, that followed!

The sky was clear, with lovely red and golden streaks, over the portion of land with its green pines and the reflection onto the sea which made the waters look pink. Beautiful is the hand of Nature, to those who have eyes to see and appreciate it. We remained a little while, until the shades of nigh followed these scenes then the stars appeared, one by one, far up and above us all, and the lighthouses on the near-by coast began to illuminate for the sea farers. Several boats that lay at anchor in the harbor showed forth their lights, also. These three stages of nature's scenes, sunset, twilight, and evening, had been fascinating and impressive and the time to leave when we must wind our way down the hillside, but never to forget those pictures, memories of a mental vision!

NONESOPRETTY (Club No 4)

SOME EGGLESS DESSERTS

Dear Cornerites: These eggless deserts should be appreciated by many.

Take two tablespoons of granulated gelatin, one cup cold water, let stand five minutes, combine; one pint of boiling water and three-fourths cup of sugar. Pour over the gelatin and stir thoroughly; add the juice of one lemon. Pour into a cold, wet mold and chill.

You can vary this recipe by pouring half the product into the mold and stiffen and whipping the remainder after cooking with an egg beaten until it is white and fluffy and beging to set. Then pour it over the first, a delicate and ornamental dessert is the result. A small amount of jelly will be needed, as the whipping will double the amount.

Creamed Rice is one of the most delicious of puddings that is so very simple, and it is very difficult for the novice to believe that there is not egg in it so rich does it come as the result of long cooking. Combine one quart of milk, two tablespoons of rice, one half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon of butter. Put all the ingredients into a buttered baking dish; mix and cook in a slow oven for two or three hours. Stir often, mixing into the pudding the delicious golden "skin" that forms. The same pudding may be cooked in a double boiler, stirring often the first part of the time. Cook until very soft and of the consistency and color of thick cream; cool and pour into a glass dish. Serve with little bits of bright jelly.

Cold Left-overs: The rice may be used in making a poor man's pudding. Mix one pint of cold boiled rice with one and one-half pints of boiled milk (have it hot); add one-fourth cup of molasses, one-fourth cup of raisins, one tablespoon of butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon nutmeg. Stir all together, put in a baking dish and bake one hour.

Lemon Syrup: Four cups water (cold), two and one-half pounds of sugar, one tablespoon gelatin.

Place sugar in cold water and put on to boil. When it comes to a boil, stir in the gelatin, then boil three minutes; remove from the fire, let cool, then add one tablespoon of extract of lemon. Bottle up. This is nice for fritters; also waffles. You can use vanilla in place of lemon if you wish.

Delicious Bread Pudding: Cover the bottom of a buttered casserole with two cups of bread crumbs, then put in a layer of sliced apples, one-half cup of saccharine, add a little butter, and a few dashes of cinnamon. Place another layer of bread crumbs over this, and over all pour two eggs well beaten and two cups of milk.

Chocolate Pudding: Two and one-half cups milk, one-half cup boiling water, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, one envelope of granulated gelatin, two squares of chocolate.

Dissolve gelatin in cold water for five minutes, then add boiling water with chocolate dissolved, and one cup sugar. Let get cold, then add two and one-half cups of cold milk and vanilla. If you like, cut fruit up in it or eat plain with top milk.

GUESS WHO.

REDUCING E—ERCISES

Dear Editor and Members of the Corner: Below you will find a few hints on reducing. I am a strong believer in doing exercises, when a little surplus of fat has accumulated on various parts of our body. I can truthfully say that I can take off any amount of fat that I do not think I need, on any part of the body. It takes patience and time, but it can be done. I will tell you a few exercises to selnder the waist-line.

There is a general and incorrect supposition that the actual food we eat, which naturally deposits in the stomach, is to blame for the fat accumulating around the waist, stomach and diaphragm. Do not forget that while undoubtedly a diet is a very excellent thing, if you keep your body active enough, you need not worry so much about the diet. You must of course, use common sense. A half-hour's exercise isn't going to burn up three hearty meals with soda and candy in between.

Nearly everyone has some kind of music in their homes. Try doing your exercises by your radio or victrola.

First: Open your window top and bottom, be sure that you have absolute freedom of movement and begin.

Step forward with the right foot, bed the right knee, slowly bringing the left foot forward. Swing the weight of your body on the left foot and bring the right foot up to the left on the count of three.

Second: Stand perfectly erect, bend at the waist, then bend the knees, doubling up in something of a jack-knife bend. Then throw the body up in a quick movement. After four of these exercises, continue another four times, but make the movement of your body very slow when you bend at the waist.

After a week's practice plan this exercise 16 times, eight times with quick movement and eight times very slowly and deliberately.

Now for the floor exercise, which is a most important exercise. Sit down on the floor. Slowly bend your body backward until your head touches the floor. The raise your legs to a vertical position. This also is a slow exercise.

Sit on the floor, feet stretched directly in front. Very slowly, without touching your hands to the floor, lie down. First try this in four counts, then six, finally in eight. All of these exercises are much more interesting when done to music.

By the time you have mastered these exercises, your waist will most probably be decidedly less than it was when you started.

PICKS ANOTHER'S PENNAME

Social Corner Editor: Having been a guest at two Social Corner picnics and enjoying both occasions very much, and the members thinking it high time I wrote to join their rank and file, will say that I have intended writing long ere this, but, as you all know, how easy it is to procrastinate, and time passes along so rapidly, I am rather tardy in doing so.

As an introduction to the Corner, I send my best wishes to all members and take as my penname

ENTRE NOUS.

(You have selected the penname of another. Please make a new selection and it will be recorded.—Social Corner Editor.)

THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Family: September! What a lovely month! We picture the wild asters in bloom all along the country roads stately goldenrods blended with them and in the blarney places the cattails (rushes), emblem of the end of summer, stand amid waving tall grasses. A holiday and then a scramble to get the children off to school and the cogs are set to grind out another year of learning. We begin to think of coal fire and wood box and begin to look at our last winter suits and clothing. But there—why pursue these thoughts when we have Indian summer yet to come? Let's enjoy September.

The meeting at East Killingly was well attended. Try Again with her able helpers served a feast fit for a king. The day was cool and slightly cloudy. The country roads were beautiful with wild flowers. A young rabbit crossed the road in front of our machine at one place and at another place near East Killingly I saw a pair of guinea fowl with brood of young ones. Can anyone tell me to whom they belong? I would like to buy a pair of young ones.

To the sister who wrote of empty spools: I have always wanted to make a railing around the edge of a shelf of empty spools but never could get enough of them all alike. Too bad to destro the spools, as they can be enameled so easily with black or colored paints.

Said a great Congregational preacher
To a hen: "You're a wonderful creature."
And the hen, just for that,
Laid a egg in his hat,
And thus did the hen reveara Beecher.

There was an old bear at the zoo,
Who was feeling exceedingly blue.
"It bore me, you know,
To wal to and fro;
I'll reverse it and walk fro and to."

A thrifty young fellow named Shoreham
Made brown paper trousers and wore 'em.
He looked nice and neat
Till he bent on the street
To pick up a pin. Then—he tore 'em!

An indolent vicar of Bray
His roses allowed to decay;
His wife, more alert,
Bought a powerful squirt,
And said to her spouse: "Let us pray."

ARIES.

A CURE FOR WARTS

Dear Social Corner Folks: Sorry I could not attend Rural Auntie's picnic but not knowing the bus connections at Moosup did not care to start off alone, so worked all day and thought of the nice time you people were having.

After considerable telephoning, four of us go started for East Killingly last Wednesday, and I enjoyed the day very much. It is a fine place for such a gathering. Try Again and Pippin, with their helpers, were ideal hostesses. The dinner was all that anyone should ask for, and the program was varied and pleasing. Think the sister who brought down the house with her monologue has missed her calling. She should be on the stage as a comedienne instead of chuffling pots and pans in the kitchen. Then there was the guest who played the harmonica solo. Wish she had given us another one. The whole program was good and closed with the singing of "God be with you till we meet again." About 60 were present and we hope the East Killingly sisters of Club 4 will have another meeting before snow comes. We were pleased to have the sisters from Groton and Norwich with us.

Here is a cure for warts of any kind on man or beast. It leaves no scars, the wart simply dries up and disappears.

Wart Cure: Dissolve in bacon, pork gravy or lard all the fine salt it will take, heating well over fire. The main thing is to use plenty of salt. When cold, apply liberally three or four times in as many days.

Some of our older writers who went to school barefooted will remember some of the superstitions of the years gone by. One of which for removing warts was: Steal a piece of pork from the family pork barrel, rub it over the wart thoroughly and hide the pork under a flat stone; in three days the wart will be gone. And the wart usually disappeared.

Here is something I tried when I was about 12 years old; I had one of those large, ugly seed warts on the upper side of one of my wrists, and was forever hurting or picking it, and then it would bleed. Someone told me to steal an apple, rub it all over the wart, then hang it up where no one could find it, and when it rotted the wart would disappear.

I hung the apple under some clothes away back in a corner of my bedroom and, sure enough, the wart did go off, and I have never had one like it since. I am not one of the superstitious kind but was glad to see that wart go. Many had a small one on his hand, put iodine on it, and the more times he put it on the more warts he had, so he changed to the fat and salt and they soon disappeared.

Best of wishes to all from

SOME QUESTIONS

Dear Social Corner Editor: I think it was perfectly deplorable to see the Social Corner with so few letters. Is it lack of subjects to write on or is it because the sisters are too busy taking a vacation? I sure did miss the letters.

Here are a few questions I would like to put before the Corner. They are questions that will enlighten me, as I have wanted to take this subject to some club, but I think the Corner is the place:

Primrose: Why do many people behave more courteously and kindly to outsiders than to ones they really love best of all?

Jennie: Why do men laugh at woman's lack of business ability and yet sneer or rather look down on the woman who shows she has some?

Calla Lily: Why do many children resent anything their parents say to them and look on them as bores and long to grow up so as to escape from them?

Kochia: Why do many husbands work hard for their wives and families, but never think how a wife would appreciate an invitation to a theatre, a little dinner at a restaurant, a box of candy or a bouquet of flowers unasked?

Ann Tenna: Why do so many rich folks look on their poor relatives as being always on the lookout for favors, and so prevent the poor relatives from giving them little presents or being natural to them?

Nonesopretty: Why do so many poor relatives look on their rich relatives as arrogant and purse proud, scarcely admiting any good qualities and always adding or prefacing any amount of the rich relatives' generosity or kindness with, "If I were as

When the yelling of the cat continued today, Barrett notified the police, anticipating some relief. The cat belongs to Julius Barnett, who conducts a store at 346 Williams street, but the owner of the pussy said that he was unable to rescue the animal because he believed that he would fall from the tree. ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Listen, you wives. What would do if you had been fibbing a bit about your financial status and some of your relatives appeared on the scene to look over your home and the man whom you had married? Of course you'd scheme and plan to make good on the statements charged against you.

That's the problem that faces Mary the central character in Mary's Other Husband, the recent New York farce comedy success that was produced by Earl Carroll at Wallack's theatre. "Mary's Other Husband" will be the offering of the Garrick players at the Broadway theatre beginning with the Labor day matinee on Monday and an evening performance both Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Miss Helene Wesley, popular leading woman of the Garrick players will have an exceptional comedy opportunity in the character of the young wife, who finds herself in one difficult situation atop another because of her desire to paint her husband and her home life better than they really are. The part is what theatrical people call "fat," meaning that it has exceptional comedy oportunities. Mr. Peter Ferguson, in the role of Harvey, the husband will have an opportunity to display his ability as a clever comedian.

Mary's Other Husband is a blend of screamingly funny situations and dialogue that fairly scintillates. Mary, in order to substantiate statements she has made to relatives, borrows the finery of a next door neighbor, shunts her husband into the role of butler, and when she faces a problem resulting from this deception, presses another man into the temporary role of husband. She has no ides that the girl this man is to marry will be a member of her dinner party.

Lovers of clean, wholesome, well sustained merriment will receive much more than their money's worth when they see "Mary's Other Husband" as presented by the Garrick players next Mon. and Tues. Contrary to usual procedure the matinee will take place on Monday afternoon which is Labor day, instead of Tuesday. Tickets for all performances are now on sale at the box office.

Palace Theatre

If Emil Jannings continues making such great pictures, critics throughout the world will find it hard to procure adjectives to adequately describe them.

Jannings has scored again, this time in a remarkable characterization as a military general. His newest Paramount picture has been titled "The Last Command," and it opened an engagment at the Palace theatre yesterday.

This American-born German actor presents in this new production so commendable a figure that it cannot be compared to those of "The Way of All Flesh," and "Variety."

Added to this remarkable characterization is an able director, Josef von Sternberg, who directed "Underworld" and a supporting cast that might be classed as "all-star," the list of players including William Powell, Evelyn Brent and Michael Visaroff.

"The Last Command" is a story of the red revolt in Russia, showing Jannings as a mighty general, strictly military but beloved by his men. He befriends a girl but imprisons her companion, the girl in turn saving him from death at the hands of the bloodmad revolutionists. He then comes to America in search of this fair saviour, and there the thread of the story takes a strange twist.

It is a gripping story, one with poignant love and drama, mystery, and thrills, so far different from "The Way of All Flesh" and "Variety" that it is hard to believe the same star played in them all.

Great settings mark the "Last Command" as an elaborae production, and the fine acting of everyone, particularly that of Jannings, marks it as one of the mightiest pictures ever made.

Breed Theatre

When Billie Dove began her starring role in "The Night Watch," the First National picture which comes to the Breed theatre beginning Sunday, it revived old memories for at least one person in the same studio.

That person was Edmund Lowe, who was then playing opposite Colleen Moore in "Happiness Ahead," for First National.

the Night Watch,' originally procsion of the stage success called "In the Night Watch," originally produced on Broadway about five years ago.

Lowe at that time was one of the leading lights of the New York stage, and played the masculine lead in the production during its New York run, Jeanne Eagels since famous as the star of "Rain," playing the role in which Miss Dove appears on the screen.

"The Night Watch" was directed for First National Pictures by Alexander Korda and adapted to the screen by Lajos Biro, the prominent Hunrarian dramatist.

Donald Reed and Paul Lukas have the masculine leads opposite Miss Dove, with a number of prominent players in the supporting cast.

FIRST 4,000,000 SHARE SESSION OF STOCK MARKET SINCE LAST SPRING

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—Speculation for the advance reached gigantic proportions in today's stock market, the first 4,000,000 share session since last spring. Three score issues soared to new high records which caravalanche of buying orders which carried many of them 3 to 15 points above yesterday's final quotations.

The unexpectedly small increase of $14,000,000 in brokers' loans, compared with the relative steadiness of the call money market in the face of unusually heavy month-end and Labor day demands for funds, provided the background for the advance. Shorts, who had confidently sold stocks in the belief call money would have another flurry to 10 per cent., were again driven to cover.

Call money held steady at 7 1-2 per cent all day despite the calling of $40,000,000 in bank loans. This rate will now carry over the week-end. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm. Bankers' acceptances were reduced 1-8 of 1 per cent., apparently in an effort to broaden the market. With the return of September 1 dividend and interest disbursements and Labor day funds next week, easier credit conditions are anticipated.

Revival of activity and strength in the motor shares, which previously had taken little part in the current up-swing, was one of the day's outstanding features. General Motors ran up more than 8 points to 203 1-4 on a turn-over of nearly 400,000 shares.

Chrysler was bid up more than 5 points to a new high record at 102 1-2 and Dodge Bros. preferred climbed 4 points to a new peak at 108. Hupp also moved into new high ground and Studebaker and Nash recorded substantial gains.

Heavy buying of Loose-Wiles, which crossed 81 to a new peak, was based on reports that a group headed by Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago had acquired open market control of the company. National Biscuit was heavy. Federal Mining & Smelting soared 15 points to 141, but was still 4 points below the year's top. Radio was again a sensational feature, soaring nearly 11 points to 216 1-4.

Among the many issues to break into new high ground were American Can, Anaconda Copper, American Safety Razor, Allied Chemical, Continental Can, Coty, Household Products, International Nickel, Johns Manville, Koister Radio, Mathieson Alkali, Savage Arms, Frank G. Shattuck, Timken Roller Bearing, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Victor Talking Machine. Loft broke nearly 5 points to 9 1-2, but recovered half its loss.

Rails moved up with the industrials. Missouri Pacific preferred, St. Louis Southwestern, St. Paul preferred, "Katy" common and Rock Island all touching new high ground.

Commodity prices were irregular, wheat quotations improving slightly, while cotton closed a shade lower. Coffee dropped 17 to 23 points and raw sugar futures were easier.

Foreign exchanges held firm in quiet trading, sterling cables being quoted around $4.85 5-16.

rich as he is, it would be my delight to do so and so," instead of appreciating their kindness?

Banshee: Why do many clerks look with envy on their employers and rave over every correction or sharp word?

Black-Eyed Susie: Why do many employers say their help are a stupid lot and unworthy of consideration?

To all the sisters: Last but not least, why do many wives get on the injured martyred look or air in place of telling their husbands just what they want or think?

A READER.

BEING CAPABLE.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to say to Aunt Susie that if you have ever innocently fired a fuse and instigated an unexpected explosion, you will have some faint conception of the sensation brought about by your lines. I had an idea that there were some who enjoyed my letters as I have had a great many letters thanking me, but I was totally unprepared for your spontaneous and unstinted words which resulted from my little helps. I thank you for them and wish I could live up to all the nice things you say about my being a capable woman.

My career as a capable woman must have begun about five o'clock one spring morning when I was six years old. I shall never know what awakened me at that unusual hour, because I was the family sleepyhead. It may have been sparrows chattering in the tree top outside my window. It may have been two insistent sunbeams prying at my eyelids—but I like to believe that it was a dawning sense of womanly responsibility stirring deep in my soul. At any rate, when I discovered that nobody was astir in the house, my first thought was of the kitchen fire, but, as father still slept, that responsibility seemed automatically to be transferred to my unburdened shoulders. Thrilling with this new sensation of superiority, I crept out of bed, washed my face gingerly with the tips of my fingers, gathered my curly hair (for it was curly then) into a knot at the top of my head, woman fashion, and began a desperate struggle with my clothes. My fingers grew numb and my outraged muscles ached rebelliously because of my frantic efforts to button petticoat and dress. The irrevocable fact that button holes were designed for corresponding buttons troubled me not at all. The fire was to be made, and with the possibility of someone waking before I had accomplished my self-appointed task, the only real necessity was to fill each yawning buttonhole with a button.

Finally, I was ready to tiptoe down the stairs. The tops of my unbuttoned shoes flopped about my ankles. The lower floor was almost dark because of the drawn shades. The kitchen looked strange—not a bit like our homey kitchen and the stove looked bigger and blacker and colder than it had ever looked before. I lifted the nearest cover noiselessly and stuffed in a newspaper, unperturbed by the presence of ashes, and unabashed by mysterious dampers and draughts. Then I started for the cellar after kindling wood. The cellar was darker than the kitchen and the coal-bin was the most terrifying place imagineable. I began to have a new respect for my father who must have been a brave man indeed to enter that cavern every morning of his life and never say a word about it to the family afterward. I shook with fear, but my courage sustained me. If entering the dungeon was a necessary part of making the fire in the kitchen it would have to be done! I closed my eyes, snatched up a few pieces of wood and flew upstairs, slamming the door behind me. I crammed the wood in on top of the paper, tremblingly struck a match and dropped it into the stove. As soon as the lid was in place, a suffocating stream of smoke curled from all the crevices. For one awful moment I faced this dilemma fearing I should lose my new dignity and weep. Just then I heard a light step. In the doorway, sleepy-eyed, clad in pajamas and utterly incredulous, stood father. My life as a capable woman would probably have ended there if father hadn't been the blessed, understanding person that he was. I do not remember our conversation but he stood still and looked first at the smudged stove, then at my hands, and clothing. Then there came an expression I had seen once before. That was when mother was ill and a strange woman called him into the bedroom, chose up to the bed, and showed him a bundle that grew into little brother. He picked me up and put me on his shoulder and took me up to mother and she looked up at me so tenderly, that a lump came into my throat.

It was surprising to know how many difficult things one can find to do, even at six. It is more surprising still to know how many difficult things one is allowed to do, if one insists, even at six. But the most amazing thing of all is how soon the world in general distinguishes its capable people and how willingly it casts its heaviest burden upon their shoulders.

I was shrewd enough to realize even as a child, that the surest way to gratify my ambition and merit the applause every child craves, was to do things other children could not do or thought they could not or would not and did not. This meant I calmly threaded wriggling worm on bent pins that dangled from the fishing poles of other girls who either shuddered and stood by or screamed and ran away, while I, contemptuously nonchalant, performed this heroic deed usually in the presence of some admiring older boy. Not that I enjoyed the feeling of those snaky worms, but every time one of the other girls shivered and ran, I was ready to echo the performance and we couldn't fish without baited hooks, and to be truthful, there was too much pride in my little soul to permit an insignificant earth worm to put me to ignominious flight. I think I was born with an instinct that compelled me to always do my best. Then too, applause is a great incentive whether your little ring be of admiring youngsters, a stadium full of cheering enthusiasts, or simply the comforting realization that you have done what you could.

My childish apprenticeship, which trained me for the role I was destined later to enact, included such apparently trifling acts as posting letters for girls after dark for other children who were "afraid," pacifying screaming babies whose brothers had urgent business when father wasn't home, so somebody could take a ride, chasing baby chicks into the hen-house during thunder showers; in a word, the countless things a young girl is called upon to do if she is capable and willing. In my case willing did not mean eager. It meant my self-respect would not allow me to whine and play battledore and shuttlecock with the task that came my way.

KITTY LOU.

PLEASURES OF OTHER YEARS

To the Editor and Social Corner Members: The letters have been very interesting, especially those describing trips.

Silent Partner: I have sent a copy of the poem Edward Gray—Ellen Adair. It may be the one for which you inquired. It was written by Tennyson. Would have sent it sooner, but our paper was two weeks in reaching us. How do you feel when the paper does not come on time?

Jennie: I enjoyed reading your letter describing the historical places. Would like to go there, as I am interested in everything of that kind. You mentioned your tall hollyhocks. The sweet corn is so tall it is a sight. A pole of beans is over nine feet tall by measure and bean pods at the very top. If pole had been longer my tale would be stronger. Guess we will need a stepladder to pick corn and beans.

My favorite flowers are sweet peas. Their fragrance is delicious. I have a long row of them from which many gay bouquets are cut. I have a relic that has a history. It was a "flax present" more than 100 years ago. In former years when each family made all the cloth used for clothing, and all the linen, it was no wonder that old and young never had an idle moment. It was a sin to be idle.

In the fall after harvesting the flax a farmer gave what was called a "flax party" in the evening. No one younger than 15 could attend. Each young girl carried her own flax wheel to this party. Each young man was given a hank of flax, he asked one of the girls to spin it for him, and later he gave her a flax present. It was generally a pretty string of beads or bottle of cologne. The flax present I have is an image of pottery. It was bought in New York city, was taken on a sailing vessel to Newburg to be given to the young girl who spun the flax. It has traveled by sail, by steam, by horses and by autos, every way except by airplane.

After the spinning was finished refreshments were served, followed by games and dancing.

In former years when a farmer erected a house or barn or mill he announced a "raising bee." Every one who cared to work attended the raising and did so much work the building was well started. Then they had a feast, roast ox, roast mutton, vegetables, pies and cider. In the same way parties called "apple-cuts" peeled many barrels of apples and sliced them for drying and made a sociable time for all who attended. Corn husking parties made another way for a farmer to get his crop of corn husked and gave a good time especially when a red ear of corn was husked by a pretty girl.

After the work was finisher the floor was swept and all enjoyed a dance.

Even if they worked hard they had a happy life in former years. Best wishes to all.

Davison Chemical Co., of Baltimore has increased its authorized capital from 400,000 to 1,000,000 no par shares.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—(AP)—New bond offerings for the week totalled $8,700,000, compared to $8,336,000 last week, and $110,492,000 for the corresponding week a year ago.

The wholesale gasoline market, which has been on an upward trend, now shows easing tendencies. Leading factors in the east describe the market as hesitant, while in the mid-continent and gulf district prices have sagged under recent highs. In some circles the present trend is regarded as indicating that the market has touched its peak for the season.

The Mexican Seaboard Oil Co., through its subsidiary, the Venezuelan Seaboard Oil Co., has leased to the Venezuelan Gulf Oil Co., subsidiary of the Gulf Oil company, approximately 40,000 acres on the west side of Lake Maracaibo in Venezuela for cash and a royalty interest. The Gulf company will operate it as a unit with 35,000 adjoining acres which it owns, promising to drill an equal number of wells on each tract. The first test well will be started immediately.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

"Passion," the powerful Ernst Lubitsch production, starring two international stars, Emil Jannings and Pola Negri, is the main feature showing at the Strand theatre tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday. This production has been made from a story that is known the world over, and those who enjoy the charm and beauty of Pola Negri and the power of Emil Jannings will spend an enjoyable evening at the theatre.

The picture unfolds itself with Pola Negri as Jeanne, the rumble but beautiful milliner apprentice, madly in love with Armand. While delivering a hat, a horse, whose rider is Don Diego, the Spanish ambassador, shies, and ruins the hat. Jeanne returns to the shop where she is severely scolded, when Don Diego arrives and pays for the damages. At a masked ball with Armand, she again meets Don Diego, who attempts to kiss her. Armand is jealous and a duel ensues in which Don Diego falls and Armand is arrested. Jeanne is hurried from the scene by Count Dubarry. He takes her to his rooms and there decorates her with fine jewels—Jeanne soon forgetting Armand. Later, Jeanne becomes the prize beauty of the King's court and the most influential woman

The arguments of the loquacious individual are mostly sound.

From a large table they dispensed sandwiches, cookies, cake, puffed rice balls, lemonade, ice cream and candy. The little hostess who received numerous beautiful gifts also had a beautifully frosted birthday cake, on which were three pink candles. The children were seated on the porch and in the house. Among the ten adults present was Miss Susan Hyde who also was presented a birthday cake, in recognition of the date August 30th. The donkey game, a peanut hunt and other games amused the children, prizes being awarded Muriel Laskowski, Francis and Marie Schaffer, Marjory Floyd and Priscilla Huntington. Each child triumphantly carried home a big, old fashioned stick of candy.

Mrs. David M. Dean was hostess Thursday to thirty members of the Daughters of Union Veterans and the Woman's Relief Corps No. 16, when a weenie roast combined with a basket lunch was held at her home on Town street. The party came early and many stayed over and spent the evening. Both dinner and supper were served under shade trees, on the lawn at the rear of the Dean home. SALEM CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

SALEM CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TO OBSERVE 200TH ANNIVERSARY TODAY

The old Salem Congregational church, located on the New London turnpike not far from Colchester will celebrate its 200th anniversary today (Saturday). Among those who are to speak at the celebration are United States Senator Hiram Bingham and Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford. Members of many old Connecticut families formerly members and attendants at the church will assemble today to participate in the anniversary celebration.

The morning session will recall the events of the long history of the community and church since its founding in the summer of 1728. There will be a greeting from the mother church at Colchester, from which the original members of the Salem church were drawn. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Edward P. Ayer, chaplain of the state senate, who was once pastor of the neighboring church at Montville. The historical address will be delivered by the Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford.

All those who attend the anniversary will be invited to a free luncheon on the Salem green near the church. Of this feature the Salem women are in charge.

Senator Bingham wil speak at 2 p. m. on "The Necessity of Maintaining a Vital Rural Life." This will be the main feature of the afternoon program, which also includes a baseball game between the "Benedicts" and the "Singletons."

The programme will carry over to Sunday morning, when there will be an address on "The Ideal Commonwealth," as a look into the future social and religious life of the community. The meetings will close with a communion service conducted by the two ministers in the parish, the Rev. Professor William D. Barnes of the Hartford Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Robert A. Clark.

The Salem church building on the New London turnpike is an old landmark, a fine Colonial building with a square steeple, near the site of the Music Vale academy, the first real school of music in America, whose leaders were early associated with the life of the church. The congregation was organized in 1728 as the Second Church of Colchester, becoming an independant organization on the petition of Lieutenant James Harris, one of the first members. Its earlier history is meager or missing altogether. The records show that the first important revival was in 1793, when the Rev. Edward Dorr Griffin, who was later president of Williams college conducted a series of meetings covering a period of five months.

From 1817 the Missionary Society of Connecticut has had an interest in about $14,000 since that time. The meeting house was rebuilt several times, the present building dating back to 1838.

Like many other Conecticut rural churches of generations ago, Salem church has lost the majority of its supporters in the last 100 years. Built originally in a community of nearly 1,000 people who were united in their religious beliefs, it now stands in a town of only 460 people, half of whom are new Americans. In 100 years its constituency has dropped from 1,020 people to less than 300.

An effort to increase religious activity in the community is now being made by an experiment being conducted by the Conecticut Missionary society and the Hartford Seminary Foundation and Salem church has become part of the Mohegan Cooperative Parish and is cooperating with another 200 year old church, the Montville Center Congregational church, and the Paugwamp Baptist church in an enterprise which seeks to serve as a laboratory to discover the facts of rural life in Conecticut and to find methods by which the new conditions mentioned above can be met. A third object of the parish is to provide an opportunity for theological and sociological students to make a study of rural New England.

MERRITT FAMILY HOLD THEIR FIFTH REUNION

The Merritt Family association met at the Ashaway Grange fairgrounds August 26 for its fifth annual reunion. Dinner over, the family adjourned to the auditorium where the president, Arthur C. Merritt of Springfield, Mass., presided. America was sung by the audience, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Merritt at the piano and Mrs. Earl Burdick as leader, followed by a number of community songs.

There was an interesting address by the president, relative to a few historical facts in regard to their Revolutionary ancestor, Henry Marryott or Merritt, who crossed the Delaware with Washington and Lafayette.

An interesting programme followed, consisting of recitations, readings by Mrs. Clarence Burdick, solos by Mrs. Frank Merritt accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Merritt and a trio by the Burdick children Olive, Junior, and Alden. The meeting closed with the song "Till We Meet Again."

FILES TWO PETITIONS WITH CITY CLERK

Two petitions, one asking for the care of a so-called lawn on Burnham square in front of the Bailey property and the other seeking the collection of tax liens, have been filed by George E. Pitcher with City Clerk Weston C. Pullen. The petitions addressed to the mayor and court of comon council are as follows:

To the Mayor and Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich:

Whereas the Gas and Electric department laid out a lawn on the public sidewalks on the southerly side of Main street at the place known as Burnham square and in front of the Bailey property, so-called, on or before November 16, 1927, and the grass on said lawn is now over eight inches high; therefore the undersigned tax payer of said city hereby petitions your honorable body to instruct a carekeeper of the public parks to include in his duties the care of said lawn.

Signed: GEORGE E. PITCHER
Norwich, Conn., August 28, 1928

To the Mayor and Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich:

As the tax lien books in the town clerk's office are being filled very fast, and a great deal of the property of said city has never been in the grand list; therefore, the undersigned tax payer hereby petitions your honorable body to instruct the present tax receiver or the corporation counsel to proceed to collect the said city liens.

CASE AGAINST MARY PETRONE CONTINUED UNTIL TODAY

Mary Petrone of Lake street was presented in the city court Friday morning on a charge of violation of the liquor laws. The case was continued to Saturday with bonds fixed at $2,500. She was arrested Thursday evening following a raid at her place by Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Shahan. An actual sale is alleged to have been secured against her. Fifteen cases of alleged home brew beer were seized at her home Friday. Mrs. Petrone was convicted of the same charge on a previous occasion.

Signal Was Out of Order

The traffic signal at the Shannon building corner was out of commission for over an hour Friday due to a loose connection over the meter box. During the time it was repaired by members of the gas and electric department traffic was directed by Officer Michael Carroll.

Caused Fire Bell to Ring

The ringing of the fire bell on Church street Friday was caused by employes of the gas and electric department, who were transferring wires onto new poles in the street. The wires were occasionally brought in contact with those connected with the fire alarm and as a result single strokes of the bell rang out.

Flames Destroyed House

Fire of undetermined nature completely destroyed a house in Ledyard owned by Abraham Metsendorf Monday. The blaze originated in the attic and before help arrived the building was burned to the ground. The house was partially covered by insurance, it is said.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Charles R. Adams of North Third avenue has returned from a few days stay in Mystic where she has been the guest of Mrs. William Billings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Macht and sons, Walter and Clarence of Occum road have been visitors early in the week at Groton Long Point.

Miss Louise Sigrist, R. N., of Merchants avenue has been spending several days at Weekapaug, R. I.

On exhibition in the window of the store of George W. Weller in the Ponemah building is one of the rarest sights that has been seen in this locality in many years—a spray of chestnut leaves with a full burr attached. The wonderful find was made on Occum road where several small chestnut trees have been springing up. There have been no chestnuts in New England since the chestnut blight was introduced from the Orient several years ago. Young fathers and mothers of the town may now take their growing children down to Weller's and point out to them the rare species of nut that was once so plentiful locally.

WEDDING
Tellier-Leonard

Joseph Omer Tellier of Merchants avenue and Mrs. Bertha C. Leonard of South Second avenue are announcing their marriage which took place Wednesday afternoon at St. Theresa's chapel at Sacred Heart church. The pastor of the church, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault performed the ceremony. Mr. Tellier is a real estate operator and is prominent in musical circles, being a soloist at the Sacred Heart church. His bride came here from North Adams, Mass., several years ago, and since making her residence in town has made many friends. The couple are on a tour to Springfield, Mass., and when they return to town will be at home to their many friends on Merchants avenue.

Cards received from Philip Adams of Merchants avenue and George Gladue of Norwich avenue who are on a motor trip to Canada, locate them at Sherbrooke, P. Q., where they are visiting relatives of Mr. Adams.

Mrs. Adam Leupold and son Ralph of Bliscville, leave today Saturday) for Block Island, R. I., where they are to be the guests for several days of Mrs. Leupold's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Dodge.

There was an unusually large at-tendance of mothers and small children at the Rocknook Well Child's conference held Friday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich. Dr. George M. Thompson was the examining physician. The number of baby carriages parked outside the building indicated that Dr. Thompson was having a busy time.

There is local interest in the an-nouncement that Rev. Philip Massicotte of St. Anthony's church, Bridgeport, has been transferred by order of Right Reverend John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford, to be pastor of All Hallows church, Moosup. Rev. Father Massicotte was formerly curate at Sacred Heart church, Taftville, when Rev. John H. Stapleton was the pastor. A coincidence is that the curate at All Hallows church is Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, also a former curate at Sacred Heart church Taftville.

The Taftville Congregational church is to reopen Sunday and the preacher is to be Rev. Charles H. Reeves of Norwich Town, it has been announced.

Martin Platon of the Ponemah house has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah mills and has left town.

Jesse Moore of Hartford, a frequent visitor to the village has sailed for France, where he will join Joseph D. Aiken, former assistant agent of the Ponemah mills, at Tours.

A raft for use of swimmers has been put in place near the Big Rock on the Taftville side of the Shetucket river. This is proving a popular bathing place during the present warm weather.

Albert Airey, Albert Edward Airey, Herbert Airey and Miss Phyllis Airey of North Second avenue are at Giant's Neck for over the week end and the holiday.

MINISTER OF AERONAUTICS OF FRANCE AND FOUR OF AIRPLANE CREW KILLED

Two Minutes After Leaving the Runway at Toul, at a Height of 1,500 Feet, the Plane Suddenly Crashed and Burst Into Flames—Minister Bokalowski and Four Members of the Crew Are Believed to Have Been Killed Instantly —The Plane Was in Flight For an "Aerial Rally" at Clermont-Ferrand.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Maurice Bokanowski, French minister of commerce and aviation, crashed to death and his body was cremated in an airplane accident near Toul this morning. Four others, Pilot Gabriel Hanin, Mechanic Jean Vidal, Wireless Operator Henri Willins and general secretary of the airplane company, Edouard Le-Franc, also perished.

Bokanowski spent last night at the country house of Premier Poincare at Campigny where he attended an informal meeting of the cabinet yesterday celebrating the premier's 68th birthday and also the 2nd anniversary of the formation of the national union cabinet. This morning the minister motored to the aviation field 25 miles away and took his place in a plane especially ordered for him from Le Bourget.

The machine, a Spad biplane with an air cooled motor of 380 horsepower, took off laboriously with its motor coughing but rapidly gained altitude. Captain Houdert, escorting the minister's ship in a military plane noted the Spad suddenly veer to the right when about 1500 feet aloft and go into a nose dive, descending rapidly to the ground and bursting into flames.

The machine, which had been in the air barely five minutes carried 700 liters of gasoline and was headed for Clermont-Ferrand where Bokanowski was to attend an aviation festival organized by Gilbert Sardier one of France's distinguished war aces. Two hours were required to extricate the bodies from the wreckage and Bokanowski was identified only by a platinum watch he was known to carry.

Premier Poincare upon hearing news of the disaster immediately proceeded by motor to Toul. It is expected that he will decree that the minister died in the performance of ministerial duty." Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut motored to Campigny and took the sad news to Mme. Bokanowski just as she was approaching the ninth green in a morning round of golf. The minister said she bore up bravely.

The death of Bokanowski robs France of an aviation minister who was not afraid to fly. Just previous to boarding the plane while chatting with General Du Perray and Captain Houdert the minister said in a joking manner "newspapermen insinuate that I never fly, that I take all possible precautions even when I approach a plane standing still. You see," he said, as he jumped into the cabin of the plane, "an airplane trip has no terrors for me." Five minutes later Bokanowski was dead.

M. Bokanowski was the youngest minister in the Poincare cabinet. His political career was short but brilliant. He has been a memcer of the Paris bar since 1904 and was elected a deputy in 1914. Since that time he has been returned every election. In 1927 he was made general secretary of the budget commission and Premier Poincare intrusted to him the portfolio of commerce and aviation in 1926. He visited the United States last year, attending the sessions of the American Bar association at Buffalo.

The dead minister's war record includes four citations and he has been decorated with the legion of honor and Croix de Guerre. In 1916 while aboard the steamship Provence en route to Salonika his ship was torpedoed and he swam for half an hour before he found a raft upon which he kept afloat for ten hours before being rescued.

Bokanowski was born in Le Havre on August 31, 1879. He celebrated his 49th birthday only last Friday. French aviation experts hope that today's catastrophe will terminate what they call the "black series" in French aviation history, beginning with Nungesser and Coli through Guillaux and Amundsen and culminating in the death of the air minister and his companions today.

TILSON ANNOUNCES HIS LIST OF SPEAKERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Announcing that he believes in the old-fashioned idea of "many speakers at many meetings," Col. John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern division of the republican national speakers' bureau, today gave out a list of his speakers for the east and some of their assignments for September.

"While we shall use the radio to broadcast the speeches of Mr. Hoover and others in whom millions of people are interested," Col. Tilson said, "I am convinced that the personal contact method, of holding many small meetings remains most effective.

"In organizing our speaking program, we have also taken a lesson from modern business. We sell our goods and do not mention the other fellow. Republican speakers will not indulge in 'mud-slinging.'"

The first assignment for eastern republican speakers will be in Maine this week. Maine's state election campaign is now on, and to meet with the state committee in the interest both of the state and national campaigns, Dr. Hubert C. Work, national campaign chairman, went to Augusta Friday night.

Heading the delegation to Maine, Col. Theodore Roosevelt will speak at Houlton, Saturday. J. H. MacLafferty of the department of commerce, and State Senator Alice Merritt of Hartford, Conn., are already in Maine and will remain there through the week, touring the state. Edwin B. Morrow has been assigned to Maine from Monday through the week.

Some of the other speakers and their assignments for the month are: Ogden L. Mills at New Haven, Conn., Sep. 15; James J. Davis, secretary of labor, at New Britain, Conn., Sept. 29; John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire, first assistant postmaster general, at Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 8; John Calvin Brown at Woodstock, Sept. 15; Will Irwin at Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 5 and at Woodstock, Conn., and at Cambridge, Mass., both on Sept 15.

Among the principal speakers to be assigned in the east, he announced, are Secretary Mellon, Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison; Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan, Theodore Douglas Robinson, assistant secretary of the navy; Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York; Governor Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts; Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine; Governor H. N. Spaulding of New Hampshire and Senators Edge of New Jersey, Hale of Maine and former Senator Wadsworth of New York.

TWO DEATHS IN NEW LONDON FROM MOTOR ACCIDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2—One person lost his life, this afternoon, and five more narrowly escaped death, when a car driven by Maurice Orange of Southington, Connecticut, crashed into a stone wall at the intersection of Thames street and Ocean avenue while attempting to pass a car driven by Larry Knowlton of 78 Thames street.

The accident occurred around 12:30 o'clock. The car driven by Orange contained his wife and four children and the impact was so great that the auto was overturned. It caught fire and the Niagara engine company was called to the scene to extinguish the blaze.

Madeline, six year old daughter, was instantly killed as a result of the impact. The other passengers with the exception of an eight year old son escaped with minor lacerations. The young lad, however, is reported as being in a serious conditoin, suffering from a double fracture of the pelvis bone.

Immediately after the accident the party was taken to the Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital for treatment.

Mrs. Alfred Maritari, New London, died at the hospital here today from internal injuries. Her husband, operating a motorcycle of which she was a passenger in the sidecar struck a pole.

BOATS START SEARCH FOR STEAMSHIP FLORIDIAN

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 2—(AP)—Three boats started in search today for the steamship Floridian, supposedly floating unmanned in the course of shipping off the Washington coast, 65 miles south of Tatoosh.

The freighter collided last night in a heavy fog with the steamer Admiral Fiske, which took off the crew of the disabled vessel. The Admiral Fiske stood by until 4 o'clock this morning when it was assumed she lost sight of the Floridian in the fog and put back to Seattle under her "dead slow" bell.

The Admiral Fiske was leaking slightly but reported she had no need of assistance. Brief messages from the Pacific Steamship Co. freighter left officials in doubt as to the exact position of the abandoned craft and the extent of damage. The Salvage King from Victoria, B. C., a coast guard cutter and a tug put out to look for the American-Hawaiian craft which had a gaping hole in her engine room. The Floridian was bound from the east coast to Seattle and the Admiral Fiske from Puget Sound to San Francisco.

ESCAPED UNINJURED WHEN PLANE CRASHED

AGAWAM, Mass., Sept. 2—(AP)—An airplane, piloted by James R. Dearden, Strathmore Paper company purchasing agent, was wrecked today when the machine nose dived 200 feet into a field. Dearden escaped injuries when he was thrown from the cockpit by the crash. The pilot said his motor began to skip and he thought he might be able to reach the flying field. Unable to gain enough altitude to clear several farm buildings, he elected to send his ship into a nose dive.

NEW ENDURANCE RECORD FOR SMALL AIRPLANES

REV. STRATON RENEWS ATTACK ON GOV. SMITH

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—Renewing his pulpit attack upon Governor Smith and his supporters in the presidential campaign, the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, in his sermon at Calvary Bantist church tonight, urged that the "anti-liquor, anti-Tammany forces call for a day of fasting and prayer in the near future, and for another such day just before the election on November 6."

The pastor, who twice has called the democratic nominee "the greatest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom," said tonight that Gov. Smith is "the chief friend of liquor in America today."

He deplored, "because of the vital interests at stake," the policies of New York newspapers of both democratic and republican tendency, in advocating changes in the national prohibition laws.

"One of the sorest maladies from which America suffers is the bad citizenship of good men," Dr. Straton said. "Wrong or evil men are exalted and put into power x x x because many of our 'best citizens' are so busy making money and enjoying their own homes that they are not willing to cast a clean ballot for wise and righteous rulers. x x x If we now Tammanyize the United States by putting the greatest living Tammany tool in the presidency he will deserve our fate."

The "practical anarchy" which ruled in Chicago "until the city's sluggish civic conscience was awakened" Dr. Straton cited as the condition which may be expected everywhere that "the tendencies toward lawlessness, vice and crime are not checked and clean, honest and courageous officials put into office."

"We can thank Candidate Smith for but one real service thus far rendered in the campaign," Dr. Straton said. "That is his boldness in openly forcing the liquor issue squarely to the front."

"We have therefore, now a chance in this country to settle this matter once and forever. x x x by an overwhelming defeat of the chief friend of liquor in America today—the democratic candidate for president."

REBUKED PUBLICITY SEEKING CLERGYMAN

ROCKY POINT, R. I., Sept. 2—(AP)—Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland chairman of the speakers bureau of the national democratic committee, opened the Smith campaign in Rhode Island today with an address here where his listeners regarded as an attack on the Rev. John Roach Straton, who from his New York pulpit has twice called Governor Smith "the bitterest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

"Governor Smith need not fear the attacks directed at him," Senator Tydings said. "Take the activity of some publicity seeking clergyman, there is nothing so despicable in a democratic government as the attempt to assassinate a man's character in a place where he has no chance to defend himself from the attack made on him.

"The clergyman whatever his sect or creed, who uses his pulpit as a place of villification and slander of his fellowman shows he is unfit to wear the mantle of religion. He knows the person he attacks cannot reply. He knows the person attacked can never plead his case to the exact audience which heard him denounced. He knows that in the sacred precincts of a Jewish synagogue, a Catholic cathedral or a Baptist tabernacle, all he may say, true or untrue, justifiable or slanderor, is said where no answering voice can be raised.

"The clergyman, therefore who will use his pulpit in such an irreligious and un-Christian manner and who attempts to assassinate the character of another is no different from the sneak thief who, behind the protection of a gun, takes the worldly goods of his victim. The cases are in point. One attacks from the pulpit; the other from behind a gun. One takes money; the other attempts to take his victim's good name.

"I believe there is too much justice and fairness in the American people to tolerate this conduct, and that it will be a boomerang to him who utters it."

The meeting arranged by Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, a member of the democratic national advisory committee, was held under the direction of the Rhode Island general committee.

2 Men Killed In Auto Accident In Putnam

Two Others Were Seriously Injured When Auto Dropped 40 Feet Down an Embankment.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 2—Albert Annesty, 24, was instantly killed and Harry Pickford, fatally injured, and Albert E. D. Sparks and [illegible] Burry, severely injured [illegible] this morning shortly after [illegible] when their automobile [illegible] through the railing and down [illegible] embankment to the [illegible] rocks below at the Mechanicsville bridge. The four men [illegible] Newfoundland, Canada, [illegible] been working in Brooklyn, N. Y., and were on their way to visit relatives in Boston. Pickford died late this afternoon at the Day Kimball hospital here where he and the two other injured men had been taken.

Pickford was operating the car and had Boston as his destination. Proceeding along the Mechanicsville highway at a moderate rate of speed, Pickford failed to recognize the sharp turn in the road, that leads to the railroad bridge, because of the dense fog that prevailed, he crashed into the highway fence, plunging down the incline, a depth of 65 feet, into the railway of the Boston-Putnam line. The car turned on its side, and Annesty, who was asleep in the rear seat, was thrown from the car and was crushed between the rails and the body of the car. Sparks also sleeping, was knocked against the side of the car, and sustained a fracture of the jaw, concussion of the brain, and several body injuries. Physicians at the hospital said this morning that he would recover.

Pickford was pinned behind the car when it made its fatal plunge.

Maxwell Burry, the other member of the party, was riding in the front seat of the vehicle. It was evident that he was thrown through the windshield, as the car turned on the right side. He is suffering from a compound fracture of the shoulder, fracture of the forearm and concussions of the brain. He also received numerous body bruises as the result of the crash. The hospital authorities expressed this afternoon that he would live if further injuries were not discovered.

The crumpling of the steel, awakened Armand Trahan, of Goodyear, who was visiting with relatives in Mechanicsville. He wandered about the bridge for several minutes before he discovered the car at the foot of the embankment. Rushing to the scene, he attempted to release the body of Annesty, but he said the man had been dead for several minutes before his arrival and he continued to aid the other members of the party. With the assistance of Arthur Whitman, a Danielson motor coach operator, Trahan released the other victims, treating them while Whitman made a dash for help.

Whitman, sent word to the Putnam tower operator, who blocked the main line and prevented a fast express from proceeding north out of Putnam, until the wreckage was cleared from the path of the train. The ambulance from the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam was summoned and the state police of Danielson barracks were notified of the tragedy. Medical examiner, Dr. Robert Paine, of Thompson, examined the body of Annesty and gave permission for removal.

The accident was investigated by Officer Donald E. Geddes of the state police and Officer John Murray of the railroad police.

The four men are natives of New Foundland, but were working in Brooklyn, N. Y., for the D. M. W., construction company and are employed as carpenters. The hospital report indicated that all were unmarried. They were going from Brooklyn to Boston to pass the holiday with relatives.

The police failed to blame the driver, as there was no evidence of any reckless driving, or speeding, but it is believed the accident was due to the unfamiliarity with the highway on the part of the driver and the dense fog that allowed but a short range of vision.

The accident at this site in the village of Mechanicsville was not the first experiences there. A few years ago another driver, while turning around, backed his car over this embankment, which resulted in him losing his life.

State Policeman Donald E. Geddes, investigator of the accident made an examination of the fence that was about the side of the highway. The officer found the rails were strong and rigid and were painted in such a manner that all drivers should be aware of the danger.

CALLES HAS RENOUNCED PRESIDENCY OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Praise, even from his enemies, was accorded President Calles today for his unequivocal stand on the presidential succession in his message to the new congress yesterday.

Friends of the president had said prior to its delivery that he intended not to seek tenure of the presidency, but nothing so firm and unrelenting was expected as his declaration that he would retire November 30 at the end of his present term and would never more thereafter hold that office.

This declaration by President Calles provoked a demonstration such as has been rarely seen in this chamber of many demonstrations when it was made Saturday night. When the full report of his words, renouncing the presidency forever with the unselfish idea of ending "one man rule, the rule of the man on horseback and the Caudillo, and the establishment of democratic government in Mexico" was borne upon them, the assembly shouted and cheered, "Viva Calles, viva el presidente, viva el patriotismo."

Prohibition Party To Antagonize Smith

Two Groups Are to Conduct Campaigns Along Separate Lines — To Solicit $100,000.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the national committee of the prohibition party, left for New York today to lay plans for an extensive "anti-Smith" campaign, to be waged entirely from that of William F. Varney, presidential nominee of the party.

The two lines of attack were decided upon at a meeting of the executive committee this week end when, by a vote of four to three it was agreed that Varney and James Edgerton, vice-presidential nominee would be kept in the running. Varney has made tentative plans for a special campaign committee, with R. B. E. P. Pruch of Harrisburg, Pa., as chairman.

Each group will raise its own funds and conduct its campaign along separate lines. Dr. Colvin stated that he would solicit $100,000 for the purpose of combating the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith in behalf of the principles of national prohibition.

Edgerton will begin a speaking campaign this week in South Carolina and Varney stated that he would tour the south and several northern states in an attempt to bring about a "new alignment and a strengthening of the prohibition party."

Dr. Colvin said Varney and his workers have agreed to follow the decision of the national convention to the effect that "no separate presidential candiate electors shall be placed on the ballot in any state where the nomination of such electors will contribute to the election of the wet Tammany candidate."

WEALTHY YOUNG MAN TO JOIN N. W. MOUNTED POLICE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 2—(AP)—The lure of adventure with the Royal Northwest Mounted Police is expected to take Cortlandt T. Hill, 24-year-old grandson of James J. Hill, the "Empire Builder," back to the country where his famous grandfather was born.

Friends of Cortlandt, who is the son of Louis W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northwestern railroad, stated he has contemplated joining the "Mounties" with the consent of his father, who is said to be enthusiastic about his son's choice.

James J. Hill was born near Guelph, Ontario, and lived there until he came to the United States at the age of 18.

Cortlandt Hill attended Yale university, but is not a graduate. He is now with his parents at their winter home in California.

In his desire to cut out a career for himself he is following in the steps of his older brother, Louis W. Hill, Jr., who after his graduation from Yale and post-graduate study in Europe became a section laborer on an extra crew in northern Minnesota.

Louis, Jr., said it was his intention "to start at the bottom and work up." He has been promoted to trainmaster on the Great Northern railroad with headquarters at Butte, Mont. Besides these duties he is a director of the First National bank of St. Paul.

It will be necessary for Cortlandt to swear allegiance to the British empire if he joins the "Mounties."

DISARMAMENT MAIN TOPIC OF DISCUSSION AT GENEVA

GENEVA, Sept. 3—(AP)—Disarmament dominates all discussion on the eve of the ninth assembly of the League of Nations. Admittedly difficult for solution, it stands out all the more for this reason as a problem demanding urgent attention from the delegates of some 50 nations gathered in Geneva for the world parliament opening tomorrow. The Briand-Kellogg pact renouncing war has pushed disarmament to the front because it is regarded as a big incentive to the reduction of armaments.

Linked with disarmament is the problem of weaving the peace fabric more closely so that the Kellogg plan and the league covenant will be supplemented and strengthened. Many delegates were heard to say today that the solemn engagements entered into in Paris renouncing war constitute magnificent steps in the advance but that governments must further commit themselves against war by binding pacts of non-aggression and agreements to settle all disputes by arbitration.

Model pacts for the regulation of conflicts by pacific means will be submitted to the assembly in the hope that nations will be induced more widely to accept them.

The drawing of the jury panel was followed by a conference between State's Attorney Samuel B. Harvey, who will lead the prosecution in the case, Sheriff Gates and County Detective William E. Jackson, relative to the seating and other arrangements in the courtroom for the trial. That the case has attracted wide attention is manifest in the dozen or more reservation applications that have been filed by newspapers and press associations. The attorneys' table will be shifted to offer better accommodations for the attorneys. The remainder of the courtroom floor, exclusive of the jury box, prisoners' stand and other requisites, will be entirely reserved for the newspapermen and witnesses. Spectators will be privileged to use only such limited seating space as is available in the small gallery.

The state is expected to produce some 60 witnesses to testify against the "ice-box bandits" and alleged murderers of the young state trooper, while the defense, represented in an array of five prominent lawyers, will probably have about 40 witnesses, presumably to establish strong alibis. Every room, including the mayor's office and common council chamber, will be devoted to use during the trial.

There was a mild recurrence during the early hours of this morning of the boisterousness of young people getting home in motor cars from wherever they had spent the greater part of the night. Shortly after midnight tonight flaming youth was en route to dance places within a few miles of Danielson for frolics that were scheduled to last until four o'clock Labor day morning.

The Tag day on Saturday in the interest of the firemen's uniform fund is said to have brought many contributions, the total of which was not announced up to this afternoon.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer was at Willimantic Saturday helping rearrange the seating of the superior court room preparatory to the trial of Albert Raymond and Roland Lalone, ice-box bandits charged with the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson, scheduled to begin Tuesday of next week.

Blasting, incident to the tearing away of ledges on the Danielson-Providence route at a point east of the junction of Stearns and Reynolds streets disturbed the quiet of this particular Sunday morning.

DANIELSON

HEAVY TRAFFIC MARKS BEGINNING OF HOLIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2—Marvelous weather, a jam of traffic, plenty of business and a generally joyous attitude toward life and its opportunities marked the Saturday and Sunday sections of the holiday period in Danielson. The comment relative to business applies, of course, to Saturday rather than today.

Casting this rather pretty picture into shadow were some unfortunate happenings. One man went to his death and another probably was fatally injured in an automobile accident at Mechanicsville this morning, as detailed on the first page, there were two sudden deaths here, as told elsewhere in this column and some minor accidents involving motor vehicles and individuals. On the whole it was the average holiday, marked by death and destruction as well as by the happiness that goes with respite from the usual routine in the lives of thousands of people.

Seldom, if ever, has there been a steadier or heavier stream of traffic than during Saturday and today. It has been practically incessant, day and night. Cars pours through by the thousands and even more than ever before it was sensed locally that Danielson now has two of the most important arteries for motor traffic in southern New England. Not that this points Danielson to any appreciable extent, though clever-minded persons may eventually find a way to take advantage of what appears an outstanding opportunity. And if they do, what a clean-up! A fortune a day rides through Danielson if it could only be corraled. The way to halt that traffic and make it disgorge some of the golden flood it has set out to spend somewhere has not yet been devised, however.

TWO CUT IN AUTO CRASH NEAR DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2—North of here on the Danielson-Putnam road during the early hours of this morning cars owned by Louis J. Boulais of New Bedford and Edward Higgins were in a crash in which some of the occupants of the machines were injured, one seriously it is believed, and the cars considerably damaged. With his wife, Mrs. Rose Boulais, his son, Wilfred, and his sister, Mrs. Alexandre Chapdelaine, all of New Bedford, Mr. Boulais was on his way to Montreal for a vacation trip when the accident happened. He left New Bedford about midnight. Describing the accident this morning, Mr. Boulais said that he had momentarily stopped beside the highway when the car driven by Mr. Higgins came along through the fog prevailing at the time and smashed into the rear end of his machine. Mrs. Chapdelaine, sitting in the rear seat of the Boulais car, sustained a cut and a bruise on the back of her head. Wilfred Boulais, sitting in the front seat, was hurled out of it and under the cowl and Mrs. Boulais so tossed about that she suffered some bruises and was upset from shock. Miss Mary Holley, a cousin of Mr. Higgins and riding in his car, suffered an injury to her nose. The drivers of the machines had an amicable discussion of the affair, and during the bustle of this forenoon were in conference with an insurance agent relative to an adjustment of the damage to the Boulais car. The New Bedford party necessarily abandoned the projected trip to Montreal.

PETER SARABIN DIES AS HE IS EATING BREAKFAST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2—The specter of death stepped in this morning to put an end to the holiday plans of a family on the West Side. While at his breakfast, and apparently in his normal health, Peter Sarabin suddenly collapsed and died almost instantly. There was no forewarning. He had planned to go to Fitchburg today with Mr. and Mrs. William Mathieu for a visit with relatives. The morning meal was to precede their start—which never was to be made. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. Mr. Sarabin was 64 years of age and had lived hereabouts and at Dayville the greater part of his life. Mr. Sarabin died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mathieu, Mrs. Mathieu being one of his sisters.

NO. STERLING WOMAN DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2—Somewhere between the home and North Sterling and Danielson early Saturday afternoon Mrs. Ida Eusenia Romppainen, 24 wife of Charles Romppainen, died in the ambulance that was conveying her to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam. The woman was seriously ill when a local physician was called to attend her on Friday. By Saturday her condition had become alarming and it was deemed advisable to transfer her to the hospital. En route between North Sterling and Danielson the ambulance driver sensed that she was dead or about to die, so stopped at the office of Dr. George M. Burroughs on Broad street, Dr. Burroughs, upon seeing the woman, pronounced her dead. The ambulance was driven to the funeral home of L. E. Kennedy and the body left in Mr. Kennedy's charge. Mrs. Romppainen was a native of Finland and had been a resident near North Sterling for several years. She leaves her husband and three children.

Warden Harry E. Back announced at the week end that a special borough meeting is to be held Saturday evening of this week to hear and act upon the report of a committee appointed by the borough last January to draw and submit to the borough a revision of its by-laws, and new by-laws. The committee now has the matter which it desires to submit to the electors for their consideration in form. It is understood that the draft of by-laws to be submitted to the borough is free of many old-time and antiquated regulations, corrects some ambiguities and adds new by-laws to care for situations apt to arise out of modern conditions.

From reports that were available today it would appear that Saturday's Dollar day, under the auspices of the Danielson chamber of commerce, went over big. It was on these early reports perhaps the most successful community bargain giving event held here in a number of years. Stores and streets were thronged with people from before the time the stores opened in the morning until after they closed late last night. And it was a buying throng. At times in numbers of stores the crowd of shoppers was so large as to make it impossible for the store forces to serve them promptly, though there were few complaints. People flocked to Danielson from far and near. The success of the event may be rated as well deserved. The co-operating merchants offered real bargains and delivered the goods. It was mighty good advertising for the business men and for Danielson as a trading center, and appears to have been fully appreciated.

PUTNAM

REV. ROUTHIER TRANSFERRED TO BRIDGEPORT PARISH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 1—Rev. Arthur W. Routhier, for the past 10 years curate at St. Mary's church delivered his farewell sermon at the masses this morning. Father Routhier told his parishioners that while he was at his annual retreat in August he was informed by Right Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of this diocese, of his promotion to pastor of St. Anthony's church in Bridgeport.

Father Routhier is a native of Willimantic. He was ordained to the priesthood in Hartford in 1918 by Bishop O'Nan, and a few days after was assigned to St. Mary's in Putnam succeeding Rev. Anslem Mayotte, who had enlisted in the service as a chaplain. During the past decade that Father Routhier has been in Putnam he has proved to be one of the greatest assets of the large parish. He was appointed by the late Rev. Chas. F. Bedard, at present of St. Mary's memorial school, as director of Catholic education in Putnam. Father Routhier has brought up the school up to its present high standard of learning.

Father Routhier is of the scholarly type of priest. He is an orator, having a delivery which has brought him scores of listeners outside of his own parish, as well as hosts of friends of all denominations who will regret his leaving, yet recognize his advancement as opposing to a new field of labors.

During the long period of illness, previous to the death of the late pastor of St. Mary's Rev. Chas. F. Bedard, Father Routhier was acting head of the parish. During this time he gained volumes of experience which will be of great assistance to him in his new parish.

Residents of Putnam, of all denominations have recognized Father Routhier as an ideal type of priest and an invaluable member of this community. Father Routhier's career as a member of the clergy of St. Mary's will officially come to a close Friday when he celebrates his last mass at the church.

A silver winged airplane, seen over Putnam Friday had as pilot and passenger, Capt. and Mrs. Maurice Rotival of New York city. The large plane hovered over the city a few times and then flew to Pomfret where it landed at Larned field shortly after 1 o'clock. Mrs. Rotival was formerly Miss Leila Holt, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Holt of Woodstock Hill.

They left Curtiss field at noon in a large plane a sister ship of the ill-fated Bremen, a plane the German-Irish fliers across the Atlantic. Mr. and Mrs. Rotival motored to Woodstock hill where they will make a brief visit with Mrs. Rotival's parents.

Miss Frances Bellvance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bellvance of Mocaup is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital suffering from fractures of both arms. The little girl was playing on a veranda railing near her home when she lost her balance and fell to the ground. Hospital officials said this morning that the girl will temporarily lose the use of her arms until the bones regain their former strength.

Mrs. Waldo S. Pratt of Hartford, who was spending the summer months at the Ben Grosvenor Inn in Pomfret, sustained fractures of the feet last week. Mrs. Pratt was hiking through the surrounding woods of the inn, when she tripped in some underbrush, causing injury to her foot.

Also contained on the list of the slightly injured at the hospital was Officer H. Theodore Strand, of the state police barracks in Danielson. Officer Strand was brought to the hospital Friday evening, after he figured in an accident on cemetery curve, on eastern Grove street in Putnam. An examination revealed that the officer was suffering from a minor fracture of the foot. He was discharged shortly after the bone was reset.

There is a possibility that the one-time-famous Sayles mill in Mechanicsville will reopen its doors for business operations, after being closed for a period of three years. The mill is the property of the Gurein Mills Inc., of Woonsocket. It was operated for a number of years after the corporation purchased it, but in 1926 its machinery was removed to the Gurein mill in Woonsocket and the plant was entirely vacated. The shut down of this plant resulted in several hundred being thrown out of work and was the major cause of the mill operatives deserting the village of Mechanicsville.

It was said Friday that agents of a large textile company were in Mechanicsville, viewing the property relative to its purchase.

Machinery that was removed from the large mill by the Gurein owners, has been returned to the Mechanicsville plant though it has not been installed for operation.

Mayor Charles A. Richard has expressed himself as in favor of a movement to promote aviation facilities in Putnam. The mayor said yesterday that he believes action should be taken to equip Putnam with a landing field that would be suitable for aviator's to land in emergencies. The mayor also believes that the city should be provided with a beacon that would guide the birdmen by night, since Putnam is in the path of air mail routes from New York to Boston and from Boston to Hartford.

To carry out this it is evident that a large amount of money would have to be expended before the plan could materialize. If such a field and lights had been in existence in Putnam Thursday evening the air mail pilot who was flying from Boston to Hartford, might have regained his bearing or might have landed in Putnam until after the severe electrical storm had passed.

There is now a movement before the chamber of commerce to paint "Putnam" on the roof of the state armory. This would serve as a guide by day for fliers but would be useless after dark leaving but one choice which would be the erecting of a beacon such as is in use at the Dudley landing field near Webster.

Coach Lauriston F. Noyes of Quinebaug avenue, who has been spending the summer months in Maine returned Friday to his home in this city. Mr. Noyes is submaster and director of athletics at Putnam high school.

GRANT AND IVILL WOMAN INSIST ON EXTRADITION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 2—Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown returned home Sunday afternoon on the 1:28 Bay State express from Cleveland, O., where he went Friday afternoon expecting to bring back Albert Grant, Mrs. Emily Ivill and the latter's 10-year-old son, formerly of Bradford, R. I. Leaving Westerly several months ago Grant had been sought on a charge of abandonment of his family and Mrs. Ivill on a charge of abduction of her son, co-occupant of Mr. Ivill. The Cleveland police found Grant employed in a garage and a telegram sent to Chief Brown announced that both prisoners had agreed to waive extradition papers.

When Chief Brown reached Cleveland he found that the former Bradford residents had secured an attorney and through him refused to waive the extradition papers. Chief Brown was forced to return to Westerly without his prisoners and to await the issuance of the necessary papers by the Rhode Island and Ohio state authorities.

An alarm from Box No. 72, Canal street, near the gas house was sounded about 6 o'clock Saturday night for a fire in the garage of Milo Champlin, industrial drive. Chief Egger and three pieces of apparatus responded, only to find that the services of the firemen and trucks were not required. Proprietor Champlin was at work with an acetylene torch under a Ford truck of the Westerly and Watch Hill ice company. The sparks from the torch ignited oil and gas under the engine while Champlin was under the truck body and from this point he saw the flames shooting but about each side of the hood. He directed a boy assistant to pull the first box and continuing out from under the truck had the blaze out before the firemen arrived. There was no damage.

Scott, Boulder crest cottage, Watch Hill, and claimed to have taken only a half pint of sour wine and a bottle of beer at Nasonville. Lieutenant of Police George H Champlin, in the absence of Police Chief Brown in Cleveland, O., on duty in Dixon square, reported that never before in his memory was the Saturday and Sunday automobile traffic through Westerly as heavy as at the past week end.

He was called Friday evening to the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad and secured George F. Richards, 216 Governor street, Sullivan square, Boston and William Brennan, 154 Mulberry street, Newark, N. J., riding the blind ends of the fourth and fifth baggage cars on the Federal express west bound from Boston. They were seen as the train left Providence and the Westerly police were notified. Saturday morning on direction of Lieut. David Marks of New London, of the railroad police, they were released with a warning.

Saturday evening Police Officer George L. Madison was called to the Westerly station for blind car-end riders, but when the fare evaders saw the officer they jumped the iron fence between the tracks and made their escape up the tracks in the darkness.

Saturday morning about 10 o'clock in pursuance of a search warrant taken out by Westerly Lieutenant of Police George H. Champlin, a squad of officers raided the Watch Hill garages of George McFarland, known as Barber's garage, on the east side of Bay street. JEWETT CITY

MRS. CHAS. E. SPICER TELLS OF TRIP TO YELLOWSTONE

Mrs. Charles E. Spicer, who wrote so interestingly a letter last year of her trip to various points of interest in the south, has told very entertainingly of the trip her party is enjoying to Yellowstone Park. She writes August 27th from Lander, Wyoming: It is Monday night, and we have completed our journey as far as this stopping here tonight covering over 3,000 miles of the loveliest scenery and grandest views, almost impossible to describe. Our first day we covered Massachusetts and New York state, crossing over to Canada where we stopped at Hamilton, staying long enough at Niagara Falls to dine. The next morning we went through London, Paris, (now don't gasp) it was Canada still, crossing at Detroit. This was a beautiful harbor, so clean. Then on through Michigan to Chicago Heights, Ill., where we remains over our second night. Next day we covered Illinois, (a wonderful, thrifty state, pretty houses and good roads) into Iowa; where we stayed at Fort Dodge our third night. Next day we covered the rest of Iowa, stopping at Mitchell, South Dakota. This was the fourth day. Then to Gillette, Wyoming, on to Cody, arriving at the Park Saturday morning, staying one night and two days in the park and are as far as this tonight, on our return home through Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, up into New York state and home again. In Michigan we saw oil wells. In Illinois (prosperity is that state's middle name) the grain fields where we could see them thrashing the wheat, were very interesting. In both Illinois and Iowa they have what is called wind-breaks. Where ever you see a nice grove of trees you will always find a ranch. These are all dotted over the prairies. The houses are very small and the barns and other buildings very large. In South Dakota is the corn belt. We stopped at Mitchell, South Dakota, called the Golden Gate to the Corn Belt. This state is not so thickly settled as the other states we have through and is getting more toward the open range and still more so as you enter Wyoming. In Sioux City we saw the only really open where they bring their cattle to the ranges. But Wyoming is the state for grandest mountains and open range of them all. Cattle roaming in the roads and everywhere they choose to go. And such wonderful horses and cattle—all branded with the owner's mark. We came through the Black Hills, South Dakota and the Bad Lands, where we stopped and took a view of Charles' The night before we reached the park we stayed at Cody, Wyoming. They have a wonderful true cowboy (also girl) town. We stayed at the Irma hotel, and it was full of autographed photos as well as mounted game, said to have been killed by him. Also a museum in memory of him. From Gillette we crossed the Big Horn Mountains, and lifted this immensely, it was 9666 feet to the top. After leaving Cody for the park entrance, we had 56 miles of Shoshone Canyon, following the Shoshone river through four tunnels cut into the mountains. Crossing this river, riding on cliffs to the lake that made you dizzy to look down.

THURSTON REACHES FINALS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Joseph W. Thurston, one of the leading figures in tennis for the past half century, fought his way to the finals in the eastern Connecticut tennis championships at the Norwich Golf club on Sunday. Opposed by players at least 20 years his junior Thurston played a heady game which won for him although he was hard-pressed in practically every match. Thurston, who is defending his title won last year, is to meet either G. L. Titus of New York or R. F. Leighton of New Haven for the title, as Leighton and Titus play this morning in the lower half of the semi-finals.

After drawing a bye in the first round Thurston was given a tough battle in the second round by J. W. Harte who carried him to a third set. Harte took the first set without much trouble and then in the second 24 games were played before Thurston managed to even the match, taking the second set 13-11. He had little difficulty in the final set winning 6-3. Edward Henkle of New London gave Thurston a rub in the first set of the quarter finals winning the set 6-3, but Thurston came back strong and ran Henkle into the court taking the two sets, 6-2, 6-3.

In the semi-finals Thurston put out Ralph A. Powers of New London, former E. C. champion, 6-3, 7-5, to complete a day of brilliant tennis.

Practically all the other singles were won in straight sets with the interest centering on Titus, Leighton and Thurston. Titus who has beaten Leighton in another tournament, is favored to go to the finals, if Titus gets by Leighton the match with Thurston will be worth seeing.

In the doubles the play has been very interesting with three matches of the second round having been played. The summaries:

BENTON WINS HIS 22ND VICTORY OF THE SEASON

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—Although hit hard by the Braves, Larry Benton turned in his 22nd victory of the season here today as the Giants gained some small revenge for the mistreatment they received from the Bostonese in three straight games last week. The Clan McGraw won this one by 5 to 2.

Errors in the first inning enabled the New Yorkers to score three runs, a lead which Boston never was able to match. The first Brave marker was scored when Benton made a wild pitch with Bell on third. Hornsby drove in the second in the eighth. Bill Terry batted home two Giant runs and scored a third.

SEVENTH INNING RALLY WINS FOR VELVETMEN

J. B. Martin fell on Quirk in the seventh inning for three runs and won from the Universal Winding Co. of Providence Sunday afternoon at J. B. Martin park, 3 to 1. The visitors took one run off Fisher in the first frame and this began to look mighty big until the locals put over there belated rally for victory.

Fisher's single with the bases loaded drove in two runs and Liberty then doubled for the other marker.

A one-hand juggling catch in right field by Lloyd Jarvis was the fielding sensation of the day. He ran clear back to the autos to get the pill on the tips of his fingers, balanced it for a few seconds and finally securely took it under cover. He received a great hand from the crowd for the play. Carlie Krauss also played a nice fielding game at shortstop.

Fisher pitched nice ball for the locals, having the Rhode Islanders well in hand after the first inning.

U. S. TENNIS STARS HAVE GOOD LEAD OVER ENGLISH

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2—(AP)—The United States enters the second and final day of its team tennis competition against England tomorrow with a lead of three victories to one.

England's sole triumph of the first day of play at the West Side Tennis club yesterday was scored by her ranking No. 4 player, J. C. Gregory, who upset Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., No. 2 in the national ranking, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4.

Outside of that unexpected reversal, the chief feature of the day was the showing made by H. W. Austin, Cambridge, hailed as the most promising of England's younger players. Austin, who defeated George Lott, John Hennessey and Wilbur Coen in his own country earlier this summer, carried John Van Ryn, Princeton star, to three sets before accepting defeat. Van Ryn, one of the steadiest of the younger American players, romped through the first set at love but was overwhelmed in the second, 2-6. Austin continued his streak by taking the first two games of the deciding set but Van Ryn summoned all his speed and power to run out the set and match with the loss of only one more game.

In the other singles encounter, Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Texas, crushed Edward Higgs, ranking No. 1 player of England, in straight sets and with the loss of only three games. The scores were 6-2, 6-1.

In the doubles, Coen paired with Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, to defeat the British team of Higgs and L. G. Collins, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. The American youngsters never had played together before and they needed one set to get their bearings. Once they perfected their team-work the invaders had little chance.

Tomorrow Van Ryn meets Higgs; Allison plays Austin and Coen faces Collins in the singles; and Allison and Van Ryn meet Austin and Gregory in the doubles.

George Lott of Chicago and John Hennessey, crowned national doubles champions yesterday, will appear on tomorrow's program in an exhibition doubles match against Higgs and Collins.

TAFTVILLE AM. LEGION JUNIORS BEAT ROTARY FOR JUNIOR CROWN

The Taftville Legionnaires are the Junior Twilight league champions. They proved that at Hollyhock Island, Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the second place Rotary team before a crowd of 1000 people by the score of 7 to 2. By winning the league championship Taftville has also won the right to make the coveted trip to New York and the Yankee stadium, Wednesday. The trip, arranged by the league officials as the prize for the team winning the league pennant, besides attendance at the Yankee-Washington game at the stadium, will include a sight-seeing tour of the big town, and a visit to the Roxy, the world's largest theater. The legionnaires deserved to win the honors in the junior circut. They lost but one game out of ten played and have been in there giving the best that was in them throughout the season.

It was expected that the Rotary club would give them plenty of opposition in Saturday's game, but the Rotarians seemed to have a bad case of stage fright. They did everything wrong, while Taftville made the most of their chances, taking advantage of every slip-up made by their rivals.

Taftville depended on Rene Paradis to pitch them to victory and their choice was well made. Paradis held the Rotarians to seven hits and experienced only one bad inning, the fourth, when the Rotary scored both of their runs. The Taftville twirler fanned seven, walked two, and hit two. Abugel was on the mound for the Rotary and although hit pretty hard, errors behind him accounted for most of the scoring. He allowed 11 hits, several of which were of the scratch variety, however.

Taftville showed they meant business and were out to win in the shortest possible time when they counted twice in the very first frame. Sydlo, the lead-off man hit a high pop fly in back of short and when the Rotary shortstop, left-fielder and third baseman let the ball fall between them the batter was safe. Navick dumped a neat sacrifice in front of the plate, sending Sydlo to second. Breen singled to left advancing Sydlo to third. Breen stole second. Fontaine filed to center for the second out. Drew committed a passed ball at this moment, allowing Sydlo to score and Breen to take third. Wilk continued the attack with a single to right, scoring Breen. Martin filed out to Johnson for the final out.

After going scoreless in the second, Taftville launched their strongest rally in the third frame, adding three more runs to their total. Navick led off with a single to center. Breen knocked a slow grounder to the box. Abugel let the ball go through him, and Weisgrabber backing up the play proceeded to throw wild over second in an attempt to catch Navick, the latter coming all the way home on the play and Breen going to third. Fontaine hit to Riley at short who threw to the plate, cutting off Breen, Wilk singled to left, advancing Fontaine to third. Martin fanned but Raymond singled through short, Fontaine scoring and Wilk going to third. Genest hit inside third for another hit, scoring Wilk, but Paradis ended the rally with a grounder to the box.

In their half of the same inning, the Rotary dented Paradis' pitching for the first time but failed to score. Matthews started things with a long double to center and when Drew bent out a hit to Breen, there were men on second and third with no out. Abugel shot the ball to Breen on the ground, the latter making a nice play and cutting off Matthews at the plate. Drew took third on the play, but Murray fanned and Quinn popped to Breen, retiring the side.

After Taftville had added another run in the fourth, the Rotary made their one big bid for the game in their half, but fell short of tying things up by several runs. Paradis got himself into trouble by hitting Riley, the first man to face him. Riley stole second and when Fontaine's throw got away from Navick, Riley took third. Jankowski hit to Breen who threw low to the plate and Riley scored. Jankowski stole second. Weisgrabber popped to Fontaine, and Johnson filed to Navick. Matthews walked, however, and when Drew singled Jankowski tallied and Matthews advanced to third. Paradis put an end to proceedings by fanning Abugel for the final out.

The only other scoring came in the seventh, when Taftville added one more unnecessary run.

While the whole Taftville team played fine ball, Breen's work at third stood out in the field, while Wilk was the hitting star with three singles out of four trips to the plate.

Good baseball is expected in todays game as the Holy Name team is made up almost entirely of the players that represented the Jewett City American legion post. Sammy Raymond will pitch for Taftville while Burnelle will do the hurling for the visitors.

ROBINS NOSE OUT PHILLIES IN ELEVENTH STANZA

BROOKLYN, Sept. 2— (AP)— The Phillies outhit the Robins here today by twelve safe blows to six, but Brooklyn won the ball game in the last half of the eleventh when Rube Bressler, pinch batsman for Overton Tremper, smashed a singled to centre to score Herman after two men had been retired. The Robins rallied for two runs in their eleventh to overcome a lead of one piled up by the visitors in the first half, the home team winning by 6 to 5.

George Milligan, former Cornell southpaw and recent member of the Syracuse New York-Pennsylvania league staff, went the route for the Phillies, while the Brooklyn pitching was divided among Doug McWeeny, Jim Elliott and Watson Clark.

TAFTVILLE LOSES TO FAST KENSINGTON CLUB

When Jarvis weakened in the seventh inning Kensington staged a rally that netted six runs and the game Saturday afternoon at the rotheaene street grounds and Taftville went down to defeat, 8 to 1. Jarvis had pitched a brilliant game up to this point, but four singles, a double, a base on balls and an error proved his undoing. He tightened after the inning and held the visitors.

Carlie Krauss, played at short, turned in a brilliant performance, accepting 10 hard chances with but a single error. Besides his fielding he poled out a triple and a single in four times at bat. Dugas also hit a triple and a single to share the hitting honors for Taftville. The score:

HEAVIES HOLD FORTH THIS WEEK IN METRO RINGS

Virtually every variety of the heaviest unit in pugilism will be on exhibit during the week. Best winter's heavyweight emanations developed more casualties among the customers than they did among the actual combatants. Toward the fag end the situation became alarming—to the promoters. There weren't enough customers to go around.

However, this is another season, and the fans may have recovered sufficient interest in the big boys to pay to see them in action or in inaction, as the case may be.

The heavyweights are bunched in two shows—one under the promotorial direction of George L. (Tex) Rickard and the other under the watchful eye of Signor Humbert Fugazy.

Rickard opens Madison Square Garden for the season on Thursday night with a ten-round match between Young Stribling, of Georgia, and Johnny Squires, of South Africa, as the main attraction, if any; Little is known in this country about Squires except that he lost to Johnny Risko, the rubbery Cleveland baker boy, in a bout at Detroit not long ago.

Fugazy stages his show at Ebbets field Wednesday night, a ten-round match between Roberto Roberti, the big Italian, and King Solomon, of Panama, heading the card.

Supporting the cards at both shows will be a flock of heavyweights, most of them confident that they are entitled to the throne left vacant by Gene Tunney's retirement.

The the Garden the secondary matches will be: Jack Dorral vs. Jack Warren; George Hoffman vs. Jack Dessimoe; Man Mountain Erickson vs. Charles Wepner; Marco Polo vs. Marvin Schecter; Taylor Hill vs. Al Walker, and Johnny Kreiger vs. Cene Baker.

The roll call at Ebbets field:

Well, nobody can kick about the quantity.

CUBS PUT CRIMP IN PIRATES' PENNANT HOPES

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—(AP)—The Cubs all but shattered Pittsburgh's pennant hopes today when they beat the Pirates, 2 to 2.

Kiki Cuyler revenged himself on his old mates by lacing out a homer and a single and scoring two runs. Pat Malone was hit quite freely but sensational support in the field saved him. Grimes held the Cubs to seven hits, but they came in bunches.

Although the game was played in a drizzling rain, 32,000 fans attended.

QUINEBAUG TEAM TOO STRONG FOR RIVERVIEW

Riverview fell before the neat twirling of Mangan of Quinebaug Saturday at the state hospital diamond, 5 to 1. Riverview secured eight hits but could not bunch them for runs while the visitors scored two each in the fourth and seventh, putting seven of their ten hits into these two innings and added another marker in the eighth. Riverview saved itself from a shutout in the ninth.

Mondi Normandin, stellar shortstop of the locals, injured his knee in the first inning and was forced to retire, which considerably hampered the Riverview infield.

VACATION SEASON ENDS

Labor day marks the ending of the vacation season. At the shore, mountain, lake resorts there is the usual exodus. Truckloads of trunks have been moving away from such points for several days. More are ready to go and where there was a busy and happy throng last week there will be a much quieter, more normal locality after today.

Labor day marks the exodus because it is directly after Labor day that the schools open and with the opening of schools the children must be back home to attend. It is thus because of school that the season experiences its most serious interruption at this time. Of course the days are growing a bit shorter and the evenings longer. Occasionally there are days which indicate that cooler weather is in the offing and the delights of the summer are passing, but for those who have the time and the means there is probably no more delightful period of the year at the various resorts than during the month of September. Others will also add October and there will be a few who will whirp up and ask if the first part of November isn't about fit for a king.

New England has been having a good vacation season The efforts which are being made to emphasize its advantages for those seeking the recreations of the country, the shore, the mountains and the lakes and ponds are not overstepping the mark. They are well directed and they are unquestionably contributing their assistance to the stories being told by those who have already tasted and enjoyed the delights of this part of the country for vacation purposes. Even the motoring parties realize that they can pass over good roads from one feast of good things to another in quick order and find a variety of attractions difficult to match anywhere else.

Connecticut and the other states hate to see the army of visitors go, and yet it is realized that vacations have a limit, and yet these states understand thoroughly that their attractions are such that it can be expected the vacationers will come again and bring others with them. It is a capital place in which to let nature revitalize the human family that they may the better meet their responsibilities for the rest of the year. And while doing this they afford unusual opportunities as a pleasure ground.

NEW JERSEY AND TRAFFIC

Somewhere, something develops almost daily to accentuate the question of traffic control. Problems vary in different places but there is nevertheless much that can be learned by the steps which are taken in other states and other cities, and through a study of their efforts it is possible to bring about the solution of similar, though possibly not exactly the same, problems.

With this month the state of New Jersey has put into effect a new law for the uniform control of traffic problems. Uniformity in such matters is a question that has been frequently urged and discussed, and for that reason the New Jersey action is of special interest.

Recognition is given to the fact that even where uniformity is sought and adopted there must be a certain amount of elasticity. This is provided for in New Jersey and the purpose of the lawmakers in that state has been to tell the motorists that what must be regarded as unsafe at the busiest corner in the busiest city of the state may be entirely safe out on the country. This is disclosed by permitting 40 miles an hour on the roads of the countryside where there is uncontrolled traffic, with reductions to 20 miles an hour in business and residential districts, to 15 miles on curves and grades where the view is obstructed and 10 miles when passing schoolhouses.

New Jersey's new law will command much outside attention for as the motorists wrestle with the new provisions their reaction will be watched with keen interest for there are other provisions of the law which are decidedly restrictive.

It is provided, for instance, that pedestrians may cross the street only at designated places and then only when the signals are in their favor. In the uncontrolled sections the pedestrians give the vehicles the right of way except at crosswalks and intersections of streets. Jay walking is thus made a violation which may be punished by a jail sentence It seems drastic, but it may be the best means of preventing so many highway accidents.

Furthermore the begging of rides is frowned upon. Those stopping a car to get a ride may be sent to jail. The signal lights are to be green, amber and red, meaning go, caution and stop, such lights to be at a point nearest the eye of the driver. New Jersey has started something that will be the cause for much study and possibly some attack.

GERMAN REPARATIONS

In the statement which has been made by S. Parker Gilbert agent general of reparations payments, it is shown that Germany has gone through its fourth year of payments under the Dawes plan and, as expected, it has met its obligations in full and promptly. In this year Germany has turned over the sum of approximately $420,000,000 and while it has been doing so we learn that that country has been growing richer, that it has been greatly increasing its production and that its financial condition was such as to easily meet the requirements with much to spare.

Germany has in fact seen its credit rise until it was able to borrow for additional development. Such expansion has encouraged growth and that growth has strengthened Germany's ability to pay. What this means is well indicated by the statement that its surplus production, excluding the borrowed money, has been more than three times as much as has been required to meet the demands under the Dawes plan.

The significance of this, even though it is realized that Germany has been a large borrower, is that time is doing just what was expected in that country. It is coming back and it is doing this in such a manner as to strengthen the belief that it is going to be able to meet the increase that will be required in reparation payments this year.

According to the Dawes plan Germany will pay a larger sum, amounting to about $600,000 000 yearly, commencing with this month. The amount required has been undergoing a gradual increase until with the fifth year, now starting, it will reach the standard basis. From time to time doubt has been expressed as to Germany's ability to meet the additional sums. Nevertheless Germany has set about the task with a will and it is still going strong. The hardest pull has been admitted to be this year when the peak of the demands is being reached. Opinions have varied as to whether it is going to make the grade. Conditions in Germany point with encouragement to the belief that it will succeed. These are bolstered up by developments within the country and its production ability and there can be no question but what the situation is one that creates pride in the minds of the people of that country as well as admiration from others for the comeback it is making.

HIGHWAYS NOT FOR RACES

Racing an express train is not entirely new. There are many who have tried it and found out to their sorrow that it was a most unwise thing to do. Where others have done it the sorrowing has been left to their relatives.

Nevertheless a New York man makes the claim that he has been racing the Merchants Limited express from New York to Boston over the Boston post road and that he covered the distance faster by 18 minutes than the train did. This is a boast which is made by the driver himself. There are those who are disposed to doubt it and refuse to accept such a declaration because there was no official timer. They doubt it because it meant the covering of that distance at an average of 53 miles an hour and because it is claimed that the speed was never less than 40 miles and at times reached 83 miles an hour. Perhaps it is also doubted because no one appears to have encountered or been mixed up with any such speeding driver.

A different reception has been given to the claim in Massachusetts where the registrar of motor vehicles has prohibited the man from driving in that state and in his opinion the same action ought to be taken by Connecticut and Rhode Island He has even requested that such action be taken. Massachusetts' registrar recognizes that this serves as a stunt which others are bound to try to beat, and the time to discourage it is before it gets to be a common practice.

There are many things in conection with the claims made by this motorist which furnish reasons for doubt. The impression is gained that it would be a difficult matter for a driver to go through the cities along his route at his minimum clip of 40 miles an hour although when it comes to racing an express train there should be no difficulty in the motorist actually making greater speed if his machine will carry him along at 53 miles an hour.

What gives cause for concern is the idea of making the public highway a race course and increasing the danger to life and limb through the carrying out of such a stunt, whether done with approval or not. Connecticut certainly doesn't countenance such use of its highways and the cities are opposed to any such use of their streets. Even though no further action is taken against the motorist it is time to serve notice that there will be no toleration of a repetition if, in fact, the record which is claimed was actually made. It is in fact to the credit of the Massachusetts official that he has taken such recognition of the claim as to undertake the prevention of others trying to do the same thing or something worse.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Labor day, one of the days when everybody will be busy.

September is not only the month for school, but the time for football practice.

The man on the corner says: One man's prejudice may be another man's principle.

It will not be long now before the canning and pickling season will be in full swing.

Somehow there never was much enthusiasm over the opening of school, but there is always the thought of a vacation ahead.

Once more the combination of a holiday and a week end is sure an extensive use of the highways and the many accidents indicate the need of better control and greater care in the handling of automobiles.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

During hot weather it is advisable to cook enough vegetables at one time to serve for at least two meals. The left-overs should be chilled and may be used in salads.

A small stepladder that can be converted into a chair should be found in every well appointed kitchen.

If a piece of stick cinnamon is broken into the milk used in making custards, while you are beating custard, it will give a faint brown color without darkening it.

The flavor of fried onions may be improved by dipping them into a little milk before frying them.

If a little ammonia is mixed with the beeswax and turpentine used for polishing floors, the wax will dissolve quickly.

When lining a pie plate with crust, never try to stretch it to fit the pan, as the dough shrinks when baking. As pastry contains much fat it is unnecessary to grease pie plates.

A few drops of pure castor oil put on the hand of the machine will tighten it.

Occasionally end the dinner with fruit in place of the regular dessert.

If you are afraid the bottom of the glass or pottery vase leaks, pour melted paraffin into it about a half inch thick. Then use as usual and have no fear concerning leakage.

To prepare carrots, scrape them and cook in boiling salted water, using one teaspoon of salt for each quart of water. It will require 20 minutes of moderate cooking to sufficiently cook the carrots. Drain well and use at once or cool and store in the icebox.

LAUNDRY HINTS

A lump of orris root in the boiler on wash day will give a lovely fragrant odor to the clothes, lasting even after they are ironed.

Dye discolored white stockings. First thoroughly wash and rinse, then place the stockings in the dye while they are still wet.

Mildew stains usually may be removed with sour milk.

NEW SILHOUETTE FOR EVENING

They call it the "minaret," and it is distinctly new, this silhouette that is made over crinoline. Developed in one of the new dyed laces, it is particularly interesting, with the width much farther down the skirt than usual.

BLACKBERRIES FOR DESSERT

Blackberries may be prepared in a number of simple ways for a seasonal summer dessert. The fresh berries may be served with plain or whipped cream, or they may be served as blackberry pie or in tarts. A cobbler is easily made in a baking dish with sugared berries below and a biscuit crust on top. Serve with hard sauce or cream. For those who dislike berry seeds, the juice of cooked blackberries can be made into a "flummery," which is fruit juice sweetened and thickened with cornstarch, blackberry ice cream, sherbet or ice To give a little piquancy to these frozen desserts, lemon may be added to the blackberry juice.

POWDER BOX

KITCHEN STOOL

If you have a little tot who "helps" you work, get astool for her to stand on while she watches mother make pies or jelly.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Smart little dresses of pastel tinted crepe de chine have pleated skirts and sleveless waists; with them are worn short coats of velvet of the same shade.

An attractive new necklace has large balls of gilt separated by long gilt shanks. The necklace ends in a ball pendant.

The vogue for brown extends to household linens. A new lunch set of cream has fiveshades of brown linen appliqued as flowers and new bath sets have stripes and monograms in brown.

Charming for the young girl is a dance frock of chiffon, over which is worn a coat of exactly the same shade of velvet, outlined with a band of chiffon around the sleeves and hem These ensembles come in many lovely colors.

There has been a revival of interest in sailor suits for boys, and some of the shops are featuring these ever-becoming togs. Worn with white trousers for dress occasions and blue for everyday they are as smart as they are practical.

Polka dots still thrive. But the hand-worked coin dots of orange and brown on a tan background in an imporrtd Swiss is one of the smartest.

Light beige and cream colored gloves are coming with touches of gay color in their bindings and stitchings. Purses match them.

MATCHING HATS AND BAGS

Small hats, which fit closely, are made of oddly shaped striped silk in red, gold and black. Small pouch bags, beautifully mounted, accompany these hats. Others are hand-embroidered or made of blurry silk, which are most interesting.

LIVER PATTIES

Now that liver has made the grade, socially, a new and acceptable luncheon dish is liver patties. Dice cold liver and put a little pimento in the white sauce.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Mrs. Effrie H. Lindencrone, scion of one of the oldest families in Denmark, has for the past 40 years been creating masterpieces of art. She specializes in undergiazed work.

There are at least 25 women holding responsible appointive offices in the United States government.

All of the court work for Piggott county, Ark., is done by three women, one of which acts as jailer.

Women are making rapid strides in Vienna, where they now are members of the municipal council and of the Austrian parliament.

Mrs. Marie S Allen of New Lexington, O., now 86 years of age, is the only surviving real Daughter of the American Revolution.

STUFFED APPLES

Cut the center out of red apples, leaving the skin and a little meat, and fill with chopped ham and rice mixed with beaten egg. Bake until skin is soft to have a delectable dish

BAKED FISH

Line your baking dish with oiled paper when baking fish. It can be lifted out in perfect form and the paper comes off easily.

SCISSORS SET

A case of colored leather, which contains three pairs of scissors, graduated in size, makes an attractive bridge prize.

ATTRACTIVE KITCHENS

Kitchens may be made attractive by gay curtains, soft colored shelf papers and brightly hued pots and kettles. Work out some soft color scheme, and with a little painting and rearranging the dullest kitchens may be transformed into gay workshops. Don't forget the red geranium in the window and the bright colored birds on the curtain pulls and light cords.

FIGURED VELVET MOST EFFECTIVE

Now that cooler weather is coming watch for figured velvet.

It is made into attractive street and afternoon frocks. Most effectively it is rather simply made, depending on soft fullness and the figure for trimming rather than elaboration of cut and manipulation.

The smaller figures are stressed in velvet, and the figured sort is soft and thin.

TULLE STRESSED AT PARIS.

Tulle is bound to be well liked by smart women. For, as it is made up today, it is undoubtedly smart; and it is also always becoming. The bouffant silhouette is particularly graceful in tulle, and the clear and often delicate colors of the fabric show up particularly well by artificial light.

Another thing — even the daintiest, lightest colors take on richness and depth and sophistication when they are used in several layers, as they are in tulle. Blue, which is smart, is especially interesting in some of the deeper shades in tulle. And it is often combined with sequins in a way that makes it really brilliant.

RECIPES.

Apricot Fritters—Beat two eggs and add one-half a cup of cold water, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar, one cup of flour, and one tablespoon of olive oil or butter. Drain thoroughly some canned or stewed apricots, removing all the skin. Dip each apricot in the batter and fry immediately in hot fat. Drain on soft paper and serve with the fruit juice thickened slightly with cornstarch and flavored with lemon juice.

Tender Stuffed Heart—Wash two small calves' hearts thoroughly and remove all muscular portions. Make a stuffing by pouring boiling water through one cup of bread crumbs and draining well. Add one teaspoon of salt, a little pepper and half a teaspoon of poultry dressing, and when cool, fill the hearts. Cover with hot water and cook in the oven or in a fireless cooker for about six hours. Drain off the liquid and thicken for gravy, if desired. Sprinkle the hearts with buttered bread crumbs and salt and pepper. Brown in a hot oven and serve at once.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 — With General Lord back from Wisconsin armed with presidential authority to trim budget estimates for next year to the agreed point, departmental heads are groaning over the bad news contained for them in the "limiting figures" within which they must hold their requests for appropriations and which have been dealt out all around by the budget director.

That is the secondary stage of budget making and the job of harmonizing—if possible—the demands of all the conflicting intra-department interests is always a vexing one Somebody has to be cut down and every sub-chief has ample argument to advance as to why it should be somebody else.

Army Pinched

The war department, as usual, is a particular sufferer. It is still, so far as known, in the process of absorbing the increasing man power and costs of the aviation expansion program voted by congress without material increase in its general appropriation limits or its aggregate strength.

The trouble has been not so much with the cost of new planes, more or less specific provision having been made by law for that, as with the increase in air corps personnel and in the auxiliary services necessary in connection with that man-power increase.

It is always a deep, dark secret as to just what has been or is going to be done on budget matters at this stage of proceedings. Army and navy officers and officials are held to a rigid accounting if details leak out, as they frequently do. They have been the object of special White House and budget office suspicions of propaganda nearly every year. The average officer who might know runs for shelter if a newspaper inquirer gets curious about budget matters.

Chief's Reaction

When General Summerall came in as army chief of staff Secretary Davis derived a good deal of amusement from watching his first reaction to the budget problem The general is most emphatically one of those who hold that aviation is only an essential auxiliary arm of the army establishment and oppose vigorously every suggestion for a separate air force.

Summerall faced the necessity, however, of passing, as chief military adviser, on budgetary questions which involved heavy inroads on quartermaster, ordinance, transportation medical and other auxiliary service funds to meet growing air corps demands. Every other combat branch had to suffer proportionate cuts and the secretary presently noticed among his military advisers a vague feeling that it might be just as well if aviation were entirely separated from the army. Not that they had changed their views as to the military unwisdom of that course in the least, but only that they felt the rest of the army was being bled white on appropriations by these indirect air corps costs.

The annual air corps strength increase for each of the five years is 80 officers and 1,248 men. Unless the budget has otherwise decreed for next year, that increase will be provided within the aggregate strength or 12,000 officers and 118,000 men, which means that other combat units must shrink accordingly. Probably additional infantry or other ground troop organizations will have to be taken off the active list entirely.

YOUR HEALTH

THE BUSINESS MAN AND EXERCISE.

By Walter J. Wilson, M. D., Detroit, Mich., Member Gerson Memorial.

The question of the business man and his exercise is an all-important one. It is a grave mistake for a man to carry on, as he may do, very strenuous exercise in college and then as soon as he gets through, to immerse himself in business and entirely neglect the body. The over-developed body fails an easy prey to disease, when it is allowed to atrophy through disuse. A moderate amount of exercise is absolutely imperative in such instances. At least an hour's physical exercise a day, or two hours three times a week, is the minimum to keep the body in trim. For the man who has not built up a large musculature, a slightly less amount is sufficient. If exercise has not been indulged in for years, it is important, on its resumption, to go at it gradually and to choose the proper form. For instance, while men who have played basketball for years may continue with impunity past middle life, the average man has no business playing it after the age of thirty-five years.

The value of exercise consists largely in the fact that while so engaged, men forget all about their business troubles. As a result they may sometimes forget themselves and play either too strenuously or for too long a period. For the middle aged man there is no better exercise than walking, which it is almost impossible to overdo. Golf takes in this feature and adds to it a considerable amount of muscular exercise of the more advanced type. This is a game which can be played at any period of life but, as the numerous deaths reported on the golf course testify, it is something that can be overdone. It takes a man with normal physique to play when middle-aged, and he should never play more than eighteen holes a day. Reason should be used in indulging in physical exercise, and the man should be able to set down just how much he will do before he does it, and stick to it. Tennis is too strenuous a game for the average middle-aged man. Swimming in moderation can be indulged in at any age but with advancing years deep water swimming is risky on account of the less enduring heart.

As the years go by, games of skill, such as billiards, which require only moderate exercise and movement of the body, are games which have the recreational feature and, associated with it, a certain amount of value from the physical standpoint.

Exercise moderately, but daily. Better one hour of daily exercise than one month yearly of vacation, doing without exercise the remaining eleven months. As age advances, transfer responsibility, especially with regard to details in business management, to younger men. When you feel that your nerves are unstrung, to avoid high tension, take a few days' vacation away from home.

Stories That Recall Others

One Way Out

A youngster of tender age boasted that he could tell the make of every automobile. His father decided to test him out Sunday afternoon as the many different cars sped by. Car after car passed by on which the lad reported correctly. Finally one, new and shining, rolled along and the father questioned: "What is that one?"

The youngster gazed intently, then answered: "Why, that's a——Gee, dad, ain't that a beauty?"

Just One More Bite

Richard, aged three, was permitted this summer to partake of the delights found in a roasting ear. So interested was he in this new addition to his otherwise prosaic bill of fare that he preferred to make his entire meal on the vegetable.

When his mother thought he had eaten as much as he should have, she asked for the cob, which she placed on a nearby bread and butter plate.

In a few minutes Richard looked intently at the cob and said: "Mother, please let me borrow my corncob again. I think I see one more good bite."

FLAG POLE ERECTED AT THE FAIRGROUNDS

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham of Washington and Salem and Rev. John J. Reilley, of this city are to deliver the principal addresses at the flag pole dedication exercises today (Monday) at the fairgrounds under the auspices of the New London County Agricultural society. The programme also includes a ball game, horse racing, track events and other interesting entertainment. The dedication exercises commence at 2 o'clock.

Saturday was a busy day at the fairgrounds where more than 30 volunteer workers put the finishing touches on the new speakers' stand in front of the grand stand between the track and the racing stand. Fifteen union carpenters volunteered a full day's work in putting up the horse sheds and other volunteers were busy putting the grounds in shape. The pole raising crew from the Eastern Connecticut Power company had the pole up at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and a last coat of paint was promptly applied by H. P. Beausoliel.

At 4 in the afternoon the beautiful 40 foot flag was unfurled for the first time. The grass was cut on the baseball diamond and the center of the field. The broom brigade composed of William H. Armstrong, Charles C. Simpson, Irving H. Bowers, and Charles P. Hamblen got busy with new brooms and swept the grand stand and dusted the seats. A supper of baked beans, brown bread, rolls and coffee was served the volunteer workers who had been busy all day on the grounds. The food for the supper was collected by A. H. Beebe and was contributed by George Darlingham, employes of the Mohican company, the Providence Bakery, Levine Bros., A. T. Otis, A. Lacavier, Buckley Bros., and Mr. Martin of the Economy store.

One of the bond holders came on the grounds while the work was in progress and turned in his bond for cancellation and another public spirited citizen handed a $100 check to Secretary L. M. Crandall to show his cooperative spirit.

New entries for the horse races are Anno Sunshine, and San Pilot, owned by Arthur Treat of Willimantic, Peter Agan, 3rd, owned by Mrs. Watrous of Willimbantic and another horse. Berding will enter the race from Willimantic. The horse racing as arranged at present will take about four hours.

Horses are entered in the various events from New London, Willimantic, Hanover, Baltic, Versailles, Norwich and Hamburg. The committee is appreciative of the spirit of cooperation of the horsemen in the events of the day. Bareback riding and cattle roping will be performed by Arthur J. Brailsford of this city, an expert.

The speakers stand is being decorated through the courtesy of Otto F. Ernst and a covering for the stand is being furnished by Louis Hawkins. The track has been reconditioned by a corps of 20 volunteer workers under the direction of Jerome House of Montville.

Secretary Crandall stated that many people visiting the fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday were most complimentary in their words of appreciation of a celebration of this kind in New London county on Labor day and expressed their willingness to contribute money or labor in helping to get the horse and cattle sheds ready for the annual fair.

STATE IS PREPARING TWO YEAR BUDGET

The first of the budget estimates for the biennium 1929-1931 have been sent to the state department of finance and control from various departments and institutions. It is expected that all of the several score such estimates will be in by the middle of September, when the work of drawing up the budget for submission to the budget committee and the next legislature will commence. The following two months are not being eagerly anticipated by Commissioner Edward F. Hall.

Some days ago the last of the summary of expenditures sheets for the biennium ending June 30, 1929, were sent out by the department to the many agencies, commissions, boards, institutions and departments. They are to be studied and the estimates of expenditures for the next biennium, together with explanations, filled in. The Connecticut state prison was the first to return its budget estimate sheets filled out. Others are now following.

In the explanatory notes the references to the statute authorizing such expenditures are given as well as descriptions of the kind of service, labor, purchase, etc., and the reasons for it. All the new budget sheets are uniform for every department, commission, agency, board and institution, and at a glance the budget committee will be able to make comparisons of similar expenses or will be able to secure any other information on the financial administration of any of these departments.

FOUR BOUND OVER TO THE SUPERIOR COURT

Probable cause being found Edward Haskell, 31, his wife, Mildred, 30, Steve Stankiewicz, 29, and John Burseby, 59, all of this city, were bound over to the next term of the superior court by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Saturday morning. Haskell was charged with receiving the earnings of a prostitute and the others with a statutory offense. They were arrested Friday evening by the local police at the Haskell home on Union street. Haskell's bond was set at $2,500, and the others bond were $1,000 each.

Testimony given in chambers brought out the fact that the quartette lived together at the Haskell home on Union street. Stankiewicz and Burseby were boarders. Relations existed between the two boarders and Mrs. Haskell, it is said, and Haskell had knowledge of it, but did not complain until jealousy entered into the case. That he was accepting the earnings of his wife was admitted by Haskell, who explained that he used it to buy food for his children and Mrs. Haskell's mother, who lives with them.

MARY PETRONE FINED AND GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A fine of $200 and costs and a 30 day suspended jail sentence was imposed upon Mary Petrone, and her husband, Rosario, was given a $200 fine and a 60 day jail sentence in the city court Saturday morning for violation of the liquor law. The accused are second offenders, but leniency was shown Mrs. Petrone as she is the mother of several small children. She was arrested Thursday evening by the local police after an actual sale had been secured, and her husband was arrested Friday, when the local police again visited the place and seized 15 cases of home brew.

TO ENTER TRAINING SCHOOL AT WATERBURY

Mrs. John Cyr of No. 40 Penobscot street entertained about 30 guests in honor of her daughter Alice Agatha, who is to enter St. Mary's training school at Waterbury soon. She was presented with many gifts among which was a toilet set which was accompanied by a few words from Joseph Walker. Many games were enjoyed and musical selections by Miss Eileen Krause and clog dancing by Nathan Sears were features of the evening.

CELEBRATED 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF THEIR MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Leolin E. Miner of Windham celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage Sunday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Grant of Lebanon. The celebration was a surprise to the happy couple as the affair was quietly arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Grant. About 30 relatives and friends gathered to celebrate the anniversary of their marriage. Refreshments were served on the lawn.

SIXTY DIRECTION SIGNS FOR CITY SOON

Sixty signs with directions to neighboring cities are to be placed about the city by the public works committee of which Alderman Richard F. Gregson is chairman. The signs, six by 34 inches, will be black and white. The board of assessors are considering a plan to have all the houses in the city numbered.

NOANK

DO THE EARLY WILD GEESE MEAN HEAVY UNDIES RIGHT OFF

A large flock of wild geese was seen flying low over the village Friday morning, westward, and just about cleared the houses. It means something about the weather. Do we have to break out our heavy underwear? With the geese flying so low, getting around so early, during August has the old weather sharps guessing.

Charles Wolverton, a Yale graduate class of 1925, has gone to Fort Wayne, Indiana. In a big shop he will enter the engineer department. He took a special course in engineering. He has signed a contract for one year. Likes the city and is working with a fine gang of fellows. While taking in the show in a large movie house a picture came on "Comrades," taken in this fishing village a year ago. "When I saw the packing house dock I thought I was back in Noank," he writes. "At first I rubbed my glasses to see if I was right about the movies; it made a fellow so many miles from home feel good to see Noank on the screen. The crowd gave it a big hand. During different part of the picture was one sad part, but a bushel of laugh. It ran across a class mate, Peter Dunn, of New Hampshire on Main street and we talked over college days so that we got laughing till people could hear us for a half mile. Peter is a traveling salesman for a company in Chicago, selling plumbing goods. He was a great baseball player and many times saved the Yale team with his 'over hand catches.' This is young Wolverton's first time so far away from home. A post card from Noank seems as good to him as getting a new auto for Christmas.

Saturday there was a beautiful sunset, leaving the sky like a forest fire and making the water red. At Groton Long Point more than fifty people were on the board walk looking at the beautiful sky. Sam Terry, who is good with a paint brush got out his camp chair and made a sketch of the sky. He has painted many pictures but never could get such a brilliant one before.

George Laffargue went over to New London recently with several men from Rogers' boat yard in an automobile to attend the boxing matches. It is the first time he ever saw two boxers fight in the ring and it was some treat. Arthur Parker Wildes, a fellow who has not missed a fight in the last 20 years, about the size of the gloves they wore he was told "just enough to cover the skin! If I told you the feather bed gloves that the fighters use in training would knock a man cold you would not believe me; but I saw a boxer hit the floor once in Philadelphia so hard that it took ten minutes to bring him to, after the feather bed gloves." When MacCarthy of Norwich came on to fight Young Laffargue said "I pick that fellow to win!" Cheering and jumping up on his seat he said "Come on goodlooking, give him that East Side left!" It was some battle and Laffargue said some day MacCarthy of Norwich will be a champion of the world. He is quick as a cat watching a mouse to come out of its corner. He said "it was an evening well spent and I am glad to take them all in now, after seeing the first one!"

James Allen of St. Louis has come to Ashledge cottage, at Groton Long Point.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IS PROMISING; TEXTILE INDUSTRY THE WEAK SPOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Business has come through the ordinarily becalmed seas of summer with good steady trade winds in her sails, and now points her stew toward the end of the year with complete confidence.

The past week, with the vacation season at its zenith, saw no appreciable retarding of progress and reports of developments of past months were so encouraging as to cause a "bull" market of major proportions on the New York stock exchange.

Of 324 industrial corporations reporting net earnings for the first half of the year, 192 shows gains over the first half of last year, while 132 show declines, and for all companies combined, the total was six per cent. greater than for the 1927 six months period.

The steel industry, already well in advance of the corresponding period last year, continued to show marked improvement last week. After its prolonged decline pig iron jumped from 50 cents to $1 a ton at various centers, and a firmer undertone developed in steel prices.

In the non-ferrous metals, copper was in an unusually favorable statistical position, with stocks the lowest in years. Lead continued in heavy demand, with improving prices, while zinc was active and prices firm.

The automobile industry continued at capacity, with several plants rushing expansions and arranging extra shifts. Detroit employment figures for the fourth consecutive week broke all records. Building also continued unusually active.

With a slight shading of wholesale gasoline prices suggested that the summer peak of consumption had been reached, the petroleum industry continued in an improved position.

The textile industry remained the outstanding weak spot. The American Woolen company reported a deficit of $894,703 for the first half of the year, against a loss of $822,581 in the like period last year. Many cotton mills planned further curtailment this week.

The farm outlook remained bright, with good harvest weather.

The record of business failures continued relatively large for this period, with last week showing substantially more than the previous week and the like week a year ago, but fewer than two weeks ago. The continued high interest rates are regarded as a factor in this showing.

POETRY

Hymn to Labour

They are living the poems we write.
They are doing the glories we sing—
Diggers of ditches and builders of roads
Toilers who carry humanity's loads.
Mothers who give with no thought of return,
Daughters who help them and fathers who earn,
Sons who endure in the dust of the fight
Are living the poems we write.

They are living the sermons you preach.
Minister, prophet and sage;
You who would summon your gods to the earth,
Blind to the sum of humanity's worth;
You who are praying for angels again
To rescue a planet now peopled with men.
See how the humblest of all you may teach
Are living the sermons you preach!

They are doing the deeds you inspire.
They are brave as the angels are brave;
Drivers of engines and hewers of wood,
Farmers who labour to furnish us food,
Miners who suffer that we shall be warm,
Builders of houses that shield us from storm—
Prophet, behold how in letters of fire
They are living the deeds you inspire.

—Angela Morgan, in "Silver Clothes."

VACATION VIGNETTES

I—On $50,000 a Year

Long and rakish motor, driven by a gunman,
Crammed with legs and contours,
Pekingese and bags,
Dowagers and flappers, reek of scented powders,
Lipstick discontent and foul French fags.
Canvas-hid verandas, wicker-work and antlers;
Sprawl upon the seashore; mashie o'er the ridge;
Ginger ale and ice and—three too many glasses;
Feed, flirt, flatter, fight—and bridge, bridge, BRIDGE!

II—On $2,000 a Year

Overheated bearings; shortages of oil;

Furnish milk and sundries—Shylock in disguise!

Sunburn; water-snakes and damned black flies!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The presentation today, of Mary's Other Husband at the Broadway theatre is another illustration of the progressiveness of the management of this popular playhouse. This play was produced by Earl Carroll and presented at Wallack's theatre, New York where it enjoyed a long and popular run. It is one of the most hilariously funny plays that has ever been presented in this country and will be seen locally for the first time in stock, coming as it does directly after the conclusion of its Broadway run.

The cause of war in Mary's Other Husand is Mary's imagination. In order to impress distant relatives she makes up a few things about her home and her husband. It is a very decent little home and Harvey is a fine little scout, but his income multiplied by three is still considerably less than what Mary has told her relatives.

Then comes the announcement that Mary's uncle will arrive in town and take dinner with her. Mary faces the necessity of changing her home into the place she has described. She does this—being an ingenious little creature—but the unexpected complications that rise out of her plans lead to all sorts of exceedingly funny situations. Of course in the end, everything works out very nicely and every one is happy, including the visiting uncle.

The Garrick Players will present Mary's Other Husband exactly as it was played during its record making run in New York city. This promises a rare theatrical treat far above the ordinary for local play goers. In fact, the Broadway theatre production of this famous farce-comedy should be the finest thing that the Garrick Players have done so far.

After the matinee this afternoon, there will be a tea party for all those attending the performance. Miss Pearl Young will act as hostess.—See Adv.

HISTORICAL ADDRESS COVERED 200 YEARS OF SALEM CHURCH ACTIVITIES

An address on Rural Life by United States Senator Hiram Bingham and a historical address by Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford, featured the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the Salem Congregational church Saturday. The observance of the anniversary extended into Sunday morning when a special service was held in the church There was a large attendance at the anniversary programme which opened Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Greetings from the mother church in Colchester were extended by Rev. Herbert H. Thomkins of the Colchester Congregational church and the invocation was by Rev. Edward P. Ayer, chaplain of the state senate. During the meeting Nathaniel Clark was heard in a vocal solo. The historical address by Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford was delivered during the morning meeting.

Interesting Historical Address

A very interesting historical address was delivered by Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford. In part he spoke as follows: "Salem is a name known to fame in days of yore. We go back two centuries today and are evokes our interest and attention in the 200th birthday celebration of this church. You were a small child at Colchester, not strong at the start her first offspring. I believe, but with birth so close to Westchester that you could be called twins. Even the date of your birth cannot be decidedly determined. This church is the only corporation doing business in this community for 200 years. The early church records are meager and most missing.

In 1725 the general court granted that the southeastern portion of Colchester together with tracts taken from the towns of Montville and Lyme should become a separate parish of society and collect taxes for its support. A year later a deed was recorded giving two acres of land for a meeting house and burying ground for the new society. This was a gift from Lieut. James Harris, probably the ancestor of Hon. Jonathan N. Harris.

In 1726, this parish called then New Salem was granted leave to imbody into church estate and doubtless this was the year the church was born but another record suggests 1729, but what is a year between centuries and I choose to adopt the earlier which is fully as probable.

So this was the way Salem church got its start. It is said that the first 100 years are the hardest and the first 65 years of this church were indeed hard enough for a settled ministry was dubitory. The constituency few and financial resources were meagre. In 1748, 20 years after organization, a committee memorialized the general assembly that for 4 years there has been public worship but seldom and sectarian divisions and personal feuds prevented the calling and support of any minister. Things were worse, rather than better until along about 1790 the church seemed all down and out.

The Church Revived

But a prophet arose in the person of Edward Darr Griffin. He came here in 1793 only 23 years old and just three years out of Yale. He was a mighty man and a giant of those days. He called on the people here to repent and they responded. A powerful revival followed and a real church was gathered where there had practically been none for 40 years. He was invited to settle but declined after serving so successfully for five months.

The revival under Grizzin seemed to require a reorganization and, a fresh start. So in May 1793, ere Griffin left, a council was called. The members of the church entered into a new and solemn covenant. Articles of faith which now seem almost cruelly conservative and rigid rules and regulations were required of all.

But one thing, and that was vital, the church failed to secure a Godly minister. There was a reaction from the revival and for 20 lone years the church was practically pastorless and without preaching or pastoral care till in 1813 only 4 church members could be rounded up. Somebow, I know not how and by whom, in this darkest night, light came. Seven new members were received and a regular settled pastor was called and ordained here. His name was Amasa Loomis, a young man, and he was to receive as salary $350 a year, the use of 12 acres of land 'suitable parsonage buildings yet to be built" and 25 cords of wood.

After four years of creditable throurh not brilliant service, he resigned, giving two reasons: 1—"That his salary is not paid and 2. That if paid it is too small for his support." After a year Rev. Royal Tyler accepted a call at an increase of $30 over the salary of his predecessor. His ministry of three years was not happy and harmonious. It is hinted that he mixed up too much in business matters.

Church and State Separated

During his pastorate the state adopted a constitution. This separated entirely church and state and making the former no longer dependant on or demanding support from the latter. Then in 1819 Salem was set off as a separate incorporated town bounded probably by the lines of the parish made in 1725. The next minister, Rev. Ele Hyde held the pastorate for nearly nine years. The church began to receive aid from the Missionary Society of Connecticut in 1817. The year previous, the first where aid was given, 10 churches were worthily assisted, and two are still carried on our aided list. The total amount for this church through this 111 years is about 14,000.

The quarterly reports required from missionary pastors furnish interesting and instructive sidelights. In 1823 Mr. Hyde reported that he organized and taught the first Sunday school known in the place. This is about the time when Sunday schools sprang up all over the state.

The longest pastorate in the history of the church comes next, that of Charles Thompson who served from 1833 to 1855, a period of 23 years and the only pastor to die here in office. He was devoted to his calling and beloved as a pastor.

The Meeting House Erected

In 1838 this meeting house was erected, the first on this site and the fourth to be occupied. It has been renovated and repaired times not a few and possesses a simple but dignified beauty which easily lends itself to devout worship. Missionary interest and giving became the habit. In 1854 mention is made of the purchase of a melodeon to aid in music and song, doubtless supplanting the flute and bass viol of earlier days. But even godly Mr. Thompson found thorns among his roses. The salary was sometimes in arrears and Salem did not always and in every particular live up to its significant scriptural name of peace.

He persevered with cheerful and charitable spirit. His dying message to the church is characteristic of the man—Tell my dear people to live in love and unity and seek the outpouring of the Holy Spirit."

Now I have covered in a cursory way the first 125 years of the history of this church and during that time it was served by six or seven ministers. During the later 75 years you have had 24 ministers, stated supplies, or short time student pastors. That you have survived this experience is proof positive of the vitality of the church.

To even touch upon to say nothing of treating with any fullness or detail these 24 of all sorts and conditions of ministers would be tedious beyond endurance. Just a few will I mention in passing. In 1856 Rev. B. B. Hopkinson reports that "the Methodists have been worship and take off one quarter of the people and some support." The M. E. church, however, was not organized or re-organized until 25 years later, in 1881 with 10 members and the meeting house was dedicated a year later. In 1886 union meetings were held on Sunday evening and the M. E. church ceased to exist or discontinued worship not many years later.

The next minister, Rev. Daniel Miner, served 7 years and the name is not unknown in these parts even to recent days. He was advanced in years when he came here from Willington. Rev. Warren G. Jones served five years from 1864 to 1869 and the only special feature I find was his opposition to the church receiving missionary aid for his support. Whether this was a matter of principle or because he believed that the church was able to meet this task I cannot say. It appears that his salary could not be raised without this subsidy and he departed.

Served Church 19 Years

After three years and two ministers had served, came an excellent minister, Rev. Jairus Ordway who is recorded with a 19 year pastorate. His pastorate was too near to go into particulars. He continued to reside here until his death in 1900, aged 84. I remember seeing him and from his record and writing reveals ability and a saving sense of humor.

If anything can be learned from careful study of this two century church, it is the extreme desirability of employing a regular resident minister, one who will make his home with you and live with you and for you all the year and for many a year. It will not be exciting for you or him but it will be efficient for both. You have a town on the big broad highway leading down from the Capitol City. Your grand list is not meager and property has not decreased in value during the last decade. Several towns are smaller and some more scattered in population.

Your percentage of alien race and religion is not more than that of other towns and foreigners so called, are often the finest and foremost of citizens. This is practically the only all the year round existing church. It ought as the most worthwhile and enduring institution in this place, to enlist the support by service and substance, of the constituency of this town, whether-old or young, male or female or American or alien. You could not do without it. In the way of intelligence, morality and pure and undefiled religion it has no substitute.

I want to pay tribute to the humble folk whose fame is unsung and whose names are unrecorded save as entered in the Lamb's Book of Life, the honorable fathers and patient pious mothers who founded homes, nurseries of noble youth. They bore the heat and burden of many a long and weary day in devotion to this church. The largest part of this congregation is not in new nor gallery, but in the great encompassing cloud of witnesses of the spirits of the just, looking down as to how we are running the race set before us. I want to commend those faithful ones of the present day.

I have no doubt but what this church will observe its tri-century. I congratulate you on this splendid celebration. Take off your hats, reverently to the past and take off your coats, resolutely to the future.

A cafeteria luncheon was served at noon on the green by the women of the church. The afternoon programme got under way about 2 o'clock. Prayer was offered by Rev. Herbert B. Morrell of Hamburg and a vocal duet was sung by Mrs. Philip Rix and W. D. Barnes. The address of the afternoon was by Senator Bingham. Speaking on the topic, Rural Life, Senator Bingham said that American life is built around the family and that the importance of maintaining sound family life cannot be overestimated.

We cannot have successful government by the people unless the people are fit to be governors. We cannot have a citizenry capable of conducting the affairs of state unless we train our young people to carry on the duties of citizenship and give them strength of body and mind to bear its responsibilities.

A study of our reformatory institutions shows that by far the larger part of their inmates come from city streets rather than from country lanes. On the other hand most of the great leaders in American life have come from country homes.

The expression "life on a farm" means different things in different regions. Where the farm is a large institution covering a thousand or more acres of rich arable land where the chief aim and end of the owners is to make money, the atmosphere of farm life is not necessarily any better than that of the industrial life in a great city. On the other hand where the farm has the common attributes of a Connecticut or typical New England farm with its wide range of possibilities and impossibilities and where the thought is that of a home maker rather than that of a money maker, the conditions for the development of a sound citizenry are the very best.

Life in the country forces a man to face so many varied problems that he is not only willing, but able to sit down and grapple with the problems of citizenship. He does not have to call a conference of those who know more about a subject than he does before he has a fairly satisfactory solution of the immediately problem. That solution may not be as wise and efficient as the city dweller can get from the conferees. On the other hand the very act of working out the problem has given the country-men new strength to his character and thereby made him of more value as a member of the community.

How can the fathers today expect their sons to be the wise fathers of tomorrow when they not only entrust their entire education to teachers outside the family circle, but even send the children away during the vacation months to be trained in institutions organized for that purpose?

Fortunate indeed are the boys and girls whose parents live in the country and are willing and ready to give them a share of their time outside of school hours. Unfortunate are the parents whose duties and pleasures require them to absent themselves from their children during most of the year.

Blessed be life in a Connecticut town where courage, self-reliance inventunity and initiative have full opportunity for development.

Our splendid system of highways is making it possible for more and more people to live in the country and enjoy the advantages of rural life without cutting themselves off entirely from the advantages of city markets. Before the two great trunk lines went through Salem this village was so remote from city markets as to discourage those who wished to live here. The handicap of life in a remote village are so great as to repel all except those with the spirit of the pioneer. Even today it takes more courage and self-reliance to live in the country during the winter than it does to live in the city. Nevertheless these are qualities which must be developed if America is to maintain her proud position as the most successful republic the world has ever seen.

Fortunately the rural free delivery, the telephone and the radio, added to good roads and cheap motor cars have done much to take away the drawbacks of lonesomeness in the country districts. It is important, however, that the state come to the aid of the rural districts in the matters of road building and education so that those whose fondness for life in the country leads them to see to establish ideal American homes on small farms may not be deprived of enjoying the advantages of education and travel. It is a healthy sign of the times that more and more people are seeking homes in the country. With the growth of air navigation and the development of flying omnibuses the suburbs of our cities will spread out over such an enormous territory that there will be room for still mor thousands of people to give their families the advantages of life in the country.

The afternoon program also included an interesting address by Hon. Clarence W. Hungerford of Hadlyme on the topic, Why Laymen Believe In The Church. The prelude in the morning and afternoon Saturday was rendered by Joseph C. Beebe of Pottstown, Penn., and Lyme.

The committees, whose untiring efforts were largely responsible for the success of the celebration are: Luncheon, Mrs. William Daring, Mrs. George S. Goldie, Mrs. Arthur Coffey, Mrs. Ray Bliven. Mrs. Thomas Day; reception, Miss Ellen E. Fox, Mrs. W. D. Barnes, Mrs. Austin Rix, Miss Janet Lane; program, Rev. William D. Barnes; games, Donald Frasier, Calvin McCall, Alfred Bingham; music, Mrs. Philip Rix, Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Miss Martha Moore; decoration of church, Mrs. Lewis Chapman, Mrs. Philip Rix, Mrs. Lewis Jones.

LOCAL GUARDSMEN RETURN FROM CAMP TOBYHANNA

Battery B, and First Batallion Headquarters and Combat Train, the local units of the 192nd Artillery, C. N. G., arrived home from Camp Tobyhanna, Penn., Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The guardsmen were in camp for 15 days on their annual tour of duty. The camp was a successful one, although there was more or less rain to interfere with the daily schedule.

With reference to the battery's activities at this year's camp, one of the local guardsmen wrote The Bulletin from camp as follows:

"The battery has accomplished a great deal compared to other years. Last Saturday we joined in the gun competition drill and placed third, whereas last year we were tied for last place. First place had a percentage of 88, second place 81 and we had 80, which is remarkable, and we are very proud of it. Captain Lee has been very thorough in his instruction with the aid of his assistants, Lieutenant House and Lieutenant White. Our confidence in him is high and we feel under his leadership that we will be unbeatable next year.

Captain Denison and Lieutenant White have been ordered to report at Camp Perry, Ohio, as members of the Connecticut National Rifle team. They left Sunday, Aug. 26, and we all are watching with interest the result of the match.

When we came to camp there were 69 enlisted men. The circus came to town last week and one of the cages was broken open. Private O'Neil appeared in camp the following morning. He is working his way through West Point.

Miss Sergeant Malcolm woke us suddenly during a terrific thunder storm the other night and asked about the heavy artillery. Lieutenant House thought it was fire call.

Supply Sergeant Seifert issued candles for all the tents, and Private Mundor was found chewing them. Private Bruckner was sent for three windshield wipers for the tractors but he was unable to locate any.

When the battery arrived in camp they drew material which consisted of two 155 mm. guns, four caissons, one reel cart, one instrument caisson, one rolling kitchen, one water cart, four 75 mm. guns and limbers, four caissons, five one-ton tractors. The battery took all of this equipment on their scheduled overnight hike last Monday night. It was a very important "battle" and after 19 hours of maneuvering, we drove off the enemy. The worst difficulty we found was the mud and rain, but the tractors were pressed into service and accomplished the art of extracting trucks from the mud.

The following is a copy of an order received by the battery: Subject—Demotion. To: Sergeant Malcolm, 1. Sergeant Malcolm is hereby reduced to the grade of private for the constant grilling of No Beef. Signed: Antonio Porrier, Soda Sergeant.

Corporal Tisdale sent home a request for a mustache cup and comb. Sergeant Seifert and Corporal Tisdale had Privates Seifert and Wierzbenski as orderlies in Scranton last Saturday.

Private Johnson won the prize as the best recruit, and Private Fuller was given honorable mention.

Lieutenant House asked how many carpenters there were in the outfit. Sergeant Turner said, "Just one, Roy Carpenter."

Private Blais said that if he didn't get his pay soon, that he would get through. The carpenters have been pressed into service to build a boat. We have had only three pleasant days.

Captain Lee's car has stood the wear and tear quite well. The men appreciate and thank him for his generosity which enabled a great many to ride to town in comfort.

Sergeants Turner and Seifert are enjoying pinochle every evening but there is always an interference when Corporal Paweleo sits in. Private Blais' 20 yards of tobacco has been enjoyed by the battery. His back pocket is always bulging. The recruits have been drilling on the rolling kitchens; scouring and polishing. Parchesi has been a favorite sport but lately the boys have been playing the popular game of African golf.

THREE CHARGES AGAINST DRIVER OF MACHINE

Omer Laprine, 23, Meriden, was arrested at Taftville Saturday evening, on three charges, driving while under the influence of liquor, evading responsibility and driving without a license. He was involved in an accident at Taftville and his arrest by Constable Louis Paquette followed. It is understood that Laprine had no 1928 driver's license and that his 1927 driver's license had been suspended. His case will come up in the city court this (Monday) morning.

NORWICH TOWN

HOME FROM HONEYMOON TRIP METHODIST PASTOR PREACHES

"Our Daily Bread" was the theme of the sermon by Rev. George Warren Potter at the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. The text was Matthew 6:11, "Give us this day our daily bread." Rev. Mr. Potter pointed out the many incidents recorded in the Bible that show how man is the object of God's love and how daily bread has played such a large part in the history of man.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hanson of Waltham, Mass., June Vernona, was baptized at the service. Rev. Mr. Potter explained that Mr. Hanson was a member of the Boston Y. M. C. A. at the time he acted as boys' secretary of the Chelsea branch.

In the absence of the church school superintendent, Lewis Aldrich, the school was in charge of Miss Florence Bennett.

During the morning worship there was special music arranged by Mrs. LeRoy Miner, who was organist in the absence of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish sang a pleasing duet and the sweet young voices of Virginia Ward and Arthur Bennett were heard in another duet.

Rev. and Mrs. George Warren Potter returned Saturday afternoon from a honeymoon trip to Maine. Following the service at Gardner Lake Sunday afternoon they motored to Pine Grove, Niantic where they will spend two weeks' vacation.

THREE SUSPECTED PICKPOCKETS HELD ON LEAVING NEW LONDON TRAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2—George Donovan, 55, a speculator, residing at 2 Milford street, Boston; David Ross, 45, a salesman, living at 452 Columbus avenue, Boston and John Roggio, 43, a fight promoter, residing at the Atlantic hotel, Bridgeport, were arrested here Saturday on a technical charge of breach of the peace. All furnished cash bonds of $25 for appearance in the police court Monday. Donovan, Ross and Roggio, it is claimed were pickpockets, but a charge to substantiate that contention could not be made, so the less serious charge was made against them Donovan, Roggio and Ross were passengers on the train that arrived in New London from Providence at 11.40 o'clock. They were recognized as pickpockets by the conductor of the train, who notified the office of the special agents here. When the train pulled into the union station Donovan, Rose and Roggio alighted. Lieutenant David Marks and Officer George Peabody of the railroad police and Sergeant Patrick Murphy were on the platform and as the three passengers entered the station they were arrested. The conductor of the train stated that the men had made no attempt to rob any of the passengers.

FIVE BOOTLEGGERS CAUGHT DURING RAID IN GROTON

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2.—Something dropped in the town of Groton Friday night when a squad under direction of Sergeant Henry J. Albright swooped down upon every place known to be mixed up in the booze traffic, and placed five persons in custody. Those who became enmeshed in the police net were Mrs. Josephine Frank of Thames street; Tony Lynch, 81 Warner street; Mrs. Michael Kondrola, 19 Dennison avenue; Mrs. Lena Apicello, 29 Ledyard avenue, and Guiesepe Marconi of West Main street, Mystic. They were held under bonds of $1000 each for a hearing in the Groton town court Tuesday. The bonds were furnished by Louis Eltenbein. Investigation of the liquor situation in Groton had been going on for over a week, according to statements of the state police given out after the raid, and sales had been proven against each house included in the raid. The raid resulted in the finding of stills, home brew outfits, and large quantities of mash. The raid surprised the offenders, as the investigation had been made so secretly that, there was no chance for any top-offs.

AWAITING DETAILS OF THE HASSELL-CRAMER RESCUE

Residents of Rockford Impatient For Full Story of What Happened Since the Airmen Disappeared Two Weeks Ago —Hassell and Cramer Remain at Mt. Evans, But What They Plan to Do Has Not Been Learned—Their Plane Was Not Damaged When They Were Forced Down by Lack of Fuel.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 3—(AP)—The rescue of Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, Rockford to Stockholm aviators, from the Arctic wastes of western Greenland continued to be the chief topic of interest tonight and added zest to what perhaps would have been just an ordinary Labor day celebration.

While awaiting full details of what had happened since the co-pilots of the plane Greater Rockford disappeared two weeks ago, the news that they were safe and unharmed was sufficient to arouse Rockford to the greatest pitch of excitement the city had seen since the armistice ended the world war.

Virtually the whole community was waiting anxiously for full particulars of the rescue and the account of what had taken place since the morning of Aug. 19 when the two fliers were last heard from as they soared over northeastern Canada on the second leg of their attempted flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden.

The fact that most of the citizens had given up hope for the lost fliers made their reception of the news of their rescue even more enthusiastic.

The finding of the two pilots across a fjord ten miles from their Greenland base at Mt. Evans yesterday ended the two week's search which had extended across part of Canada, over the North Atlantic and most of southern Greenland. A party from the Greenland expedition of the University of Michigan found the fliers after following a smoke signal sent up by the two men. While hungry, neither Hassell nor Cramer appeared much the worse for the adventure.

They were taken to the base at Mt. Evans but what they now plan to do has not been learned. They said their plane was not damaged when they were forced down by lack of fuel, somewhat off their course. It was necessary to choose an ice arm off Point Sukkertoppen on which to land. Shis was on Aug. 19, not many hours after they had broadcast their last radio signal from off Cape Chidley, Canada.

The fliers had begun a trek toward their base and had covered many miles of the Arctic ice before the party answered their smoke signals.

SOME CHICAGO PICTURE HOUSES WITHOUT MUSIC

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Silent dramas were silent today in almost 300 outlying motion picture houses, where cotracts with members of the Chicago Federation of Musicians expired at midnight. Labor day crowds had their music as usual, however, in the larger loop theaters, where contracts have not yet expired.

No direct strike order was issued, but after a conference with Attorney Clarence Darrow union officials told their membership it was under no obligation to work. Last week Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson issued an injunction against a strike, after failure of operators and musicians to agree on a new wage contract.

More than 750 musicians are involved in the controversy and about 95 per cent. of them failed to report today. None of the theaters were closed.

In spite of the walkout, Jack Miller, president of the Exhibitors' association, said all members of the organization planned to keep their theaters open.

Those who have installed mechanical devices for the reproduction of music will depend upon them. Others will arrange to obtain such equipment as soon as possible. The owners cannot afford to hire orchestras and maintain the new music devices as well.

Meanwhile the United States department of labor, through the commission of conciliation, has offered to act as mediator in the dispute.

VENIZELOS STRICKEN WITH DENGUE PLAGUE

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos has been stricken with the dengue plague which has been epidemic for weeks in Greece. His general condition is said to be such, however, that no anxiety is felt.

Incomplete statistics issued tonight by the ministry of hygiene estimated that the total cases of dengue in Athens exceeds 25,000. During the month of August the plague accounted for a third of the total deaths in the city. Of the total mortality of 1268 for the month, the fever was held responsible for 413 deats.

The ratio was almost as great in Pireus where dengue caused the death of 176 out of a total of 592 fatalities. Twelve country towns have announced that they have a total of 10,000 cases, while Salonika reports 3,000 ill with the plague.

Premier Venizelos, who is more than 60 years of age, has recently completed a strenuous political campaign in which his supporters won a sweeping victory. During his long career in public life the premier has endured the rigors of exile as well as the strain of many crises. Hope that his attack of the fever will not prove serious is founded in part upon his uniformly good health of the past.

SUPPORT PLEDGED FOR THE ARMY OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3—(AP)—The support of the army—so essential to success of governmental policies and political movements in Mexico—has been pledged to the program outlined by President Calles in his farewell address to congress Saturday, a canvass of the military chieftains by two Mexico City newspapers today showed.

The papers, Excelsior and El Universal, assert today that in their canvass "all the military chieftains of the republic" gathered for the convening congress Saturday concurred in the following statement:

"The army will follow the line of conduct marked by its cuts and patriotism."

"We will support the utterances of President Calles, who before the national congress pledged and guaranteed the noble and disinterested conduct of the army in this national crisis. The army will remain aloof from political participation in the selection of a provisional president in that selection the army's only role will be to support whomsoever congress may constitutionally put at the head of the government."

HERBERT HOOVER SPENT DAY RESTING AT HOME

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—Brushing aside a custom that calls upon presidential candidates to declare their views on labor on the holiday dedicated to the country's workmen, Herbert Hoover rested again today in the quiet of his home.

The few callers at the home of the republican nominee were intimate friends of the family, coming to welcome Mrs. Hoover home from her visit to New England, or to chat briefly with their neighbor. The candidate broke his rest to attend to correspondence that had accumulated over the week-end and to take a leisurely stroll in the neighborhood, but for the most part he remained close to his hearthside.

While Hoover turned his back upon the custom of delivering a speech upon Labor day, he already has signified that one of the first speeches he makes after he again dons his campaign battle armor will be upon that subject in one of the eastern labor centers, probably at Newark, New Jersey almost on the border of the home state of his democratic opponent.

Tomorrow he again will be at his desk in the general headquarters after what was for him a protracted holiday. He closed his desk early Saturday afternoon to see the Washington Senators go down to defeat before the visiting New York Yankees and eluded the crowd Sunday to worship in the rustic old Quaker meeting house at Sandy Springs, Md., several miles from the city.

PHILA. POLICE ORDERED TO CLOSE EVERY SPEAKEASY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 3—(AP)—Mayor Mackey today ordered the police to "close up" Philadelphia within 24 hours. Every speakeasy, of which the mayor once said there are about 13,000, every gambling house and every resort operated by racketeers and vice rings came within the scope of the mayor's order.

Forty five police inspectors and captains, called before the mayor after he had held a conference with Director of Public Safety Harry A. Davis and Superintendent of Police William B. Mills, heard the mayor's order.

"I direct you to go back to your districts," the mayor said, "and make the most thorough investigation. This must be real and not perfunctory.

"In 24 hours, if any places given over to lawlessness now exist, I want this city closed and sealed against such places. This means everything—with no exceptions. I know you can do it."

The present situation in Philadelphia, from the viewpoint of police, the mayor said, has developed from the grand jury's amazing revelations of a gigantic rum ring and the district attorney's statements that police and public officials have been bribed by big bootleggers. Books of an accounting firm seized in connection with the grand jury's investigation have revealed, the district attorney declared, that sums ranging downward from thousands of dollars have been paid for police protection. Names and dates will be revealed at the proper time, he said.

PRINCE OF WALES IS PRACTICING FOR HUNT

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, who leaves Thursday to shoot big game in Africa took time out to practice some with a light .22 calibre rifle at Ferring-on-the-Sea over the week end.

The prince walked out on the beach with two young friends, a boy and a girl in their early teens, Saturday evening, carrying between them a rifle, cartridges and two soap boxes, one of which had a target painted on its bottom.

The three fired alternately, using the second soap box as seat. The prince scored a bulls-eye on the first attempt at a distance of about 100 yards. His companions were less familiar with the rifle and needed some coaching which Wales capably supplied.

Liquor Question Was Discussed At Geneva

Matter Was Referred to Technical Committee to Consult With Social Committee.

GENEVA, Sept. 3—(AP)—The liquor question was thrust into the opening of the ninth assembly of the League of Nations today and in the discussion which followed created a flurry of dissension between delegates from the wine producing countries of southern Europe and the Nordic lands of Finland and Sweden.

The issue was brought to the fore with a proposal by Finland, Sweden and Poland that the league undertake an investigation aimed at checking the abuse of alcohol.

The veteran Hungarian statesman, Count Albert Apponyi, immediately moved that the proposal be sent to the assembly committee which deals with social problems. His hope was that thereby he would have alcoholism attacked as a social evil, whereas if left to the committee on technical questions it would be treated merely from the standpoint of producers and traders.

A general debate followed in which the lines between the "dry" countries and their "wet" neighbors were made fairly distinct. Most prominent among the anti-liquor advocates was H. J. Procope, foreign minister of Finland and president of the league council, who told the assembly that Finland was striving for an international convention on the subject as a means of fighting smuggling and cross-border bootlegging of intoxicants.

He stated his case after the debate to newspapermen with the remark, that "like the United States of America, Finland is 'dry' and is very anxious to stop smuggling across its borders."

The plea of a delegation of Swedish women which recently visited Geneva and told league officials that its members wanted to obtain prohibition in Sweden on strong alcoholic drink also entered the debate.

The assembly's action was in the nature of a compromise, the resolution being referred to the technical questions committee with instructions that it should consult the social body.

Women, many of them most fashionably dressed, predominated in the crowds which attended the opening session and heard the convening address of M. Procope, in which the Kellogg-Briand treaty was lauded as an instrument of world peace.

The league council president's speech was followed by organization routine in which Herluf Zahle, Danish minister at Berlin, was elected president.

Presidents of the six commissions of the assembly were appointed as follows: Constitution and law, Vittorio Scialoja of Italy; technical questions, G. Motta Switzerland; disarmament, Baron Carton De Wiart, Belgium; budget and administration, Vasconcelos, Portugal; social questions and opium, white slavery, Jose Matos, Guatemala; political, Marinkovic, Jugoslavia.

SEN. ROBISON DEFENDS CHARACTER OF GOV. SMITH

DALLAS, Texas, September 3—(AP)—Senator Joseph Robinson in opening his speaking campaign here today declared the statement had been made that Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential nominee was a "drunkard" and then in a thundering voice added "There is not one word of truth in that charge."

The democratic vice presidential nominee said it was regretable that the party's standard bearer had been unjustly assailed and referred to what he described as a "whispering" campaign now being conducted throughout the south.

He declared that William Allen White had brought charges against Governor Smith and sailed for Europe where he issued a retraction, and then a retraction of the retraction.

It has been said, he went on, that an official of the republican committee said the retraction should not have been given out.

"If Mr. White had been the man he should have been," the senator added, "instead of making a half-hearted apology, he would have made a full apology."

Robinson also said the statement was abroad that if Smith were elected he would conduct a government of "priest rule" and that it would be a government "of the priest, by the priest and for the priest."

"He has not been a Catholic governor," he shouted. "He has not been a Baptist governor nor a democratic governor but thank God he has been an American governor."

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Count Michael Karolyi's forty-eight hour visit to the United States ended today, and the one-time president of Hungary sailed for Spain aboard the Spanish Royal Mail lines Cristobal Colon which, with him as a passenger, docked at New York last Saturday on its way from Mexico to Barcelona.

Two members of the bomb squad escorted him aboard ship and a dozen policemen guarded the pier. There was no demonstration.

The count, to whom the state department refused a visa three years ago, was permitted to spend ashore the two days his vessel was in port. Before re-embarking he said he intended to apply for a visa in Paris after the American presidential election. He added that if he and Countess Karolyi were successful, the latter would probably precede him on their contemplated visit to the United States.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., To Support Hoover

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, to whom John J. Raskob and Pierre S. Du Pont offered their resignations because of their activities respectively in the presidential campaign of Gov. Smith and in the anti-prohibition movement, issued a statement today endorsing Herbert Hoover for president.

"In making that statement," he said, "I want to emphasize that it is my position as an individual and has nothing to do with any business enterprise in which I may be connected."

Raskob, who is listed in "Who's Who" as a republican but who has never been formally affiliated before with any party, resigned as chairman of the finance committee of General Motors after accepting the chairmanship of the democratic national committee, lest there be any appearance that the corporation was "taking sides" in politics. His resignation was accepted, but he was told that he would be welcome back after the election.

Du Pont, normally a republican, fuet before endorsing the candidacy of Gov. Smith, offered his resignation to save the company possible embarrassment through his activities in the association against the prohibition amendment, in which both he and Raskob had been prominent since its founding. His resignation was declined but he was granted a leave of absence.

Sloan, a republican and an advocate of prohibition, endorsed Hoover today on the ground that he was best fitted to carry forward the policies responsible for present prosperity, and because he thought him most able to handle the prohibition problem.

"Having been intimately connected with industrial problems for many years I am thoroughly convinced that prohibition has increased our national efficiency, has added to the purchasing power of the people and given us an advantage in our competition for foreign trade," his statement read.

"At the same time I recognize that conditions respecting the observance of the law are far from satisfactory and time may prove the necessity for some adjustments. If so I am for having those adjustments brought about by an executive in sympathy with the economic benefits that the closest possible adherence to the prohibition idea is sure to bring about.

"It seems to me, therefore, that we should ask ourselves whether this or any other problem is likely to be any more constructively handled under a change in administration. I see nothing to justify any change. Therefore I am for Mr. Hoover and always have been."

Mr. Sloan's statement made no reference as to his own intentions with regard to his official connection with the company.

CALL FOR UNION LABOR TO PARTICIPATE IN POLITICS

Thousands Heard William Green, President of the A. F. of L. Advise Organized Labor to Give Most Serious Consideration to the Formation of the Next Congress—The Federation Itself Will Remain Non Partisan—Extension of the Five Day Week Was Characterized as the Outstanding Accomplishment of Labor in the Last Year.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3—(AP)—Representatives of organized labor from northern Ohio and surrounding territory gathered today at Geauga Lake near here to hear William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sound a call for the active participation in the forthcoming national election.

Making clear the non-partisan attitude of the federation itself, Green told his hearers that labor "possesses a potential power in the political and economic fields," which can, if made active and centralized, exercise "the balance of power on such decisions as may be made."

The federation president urged labor as a group to give most serious consideration to the formation of the next congress, promising that all available information on the records concerning congressional candidates will be gathered and supplied by the federation's own partisan political committee.

Extension of the five-day week was characterized as the outstanding accomplishment of labor in the last year by President Green, who declared that "the public mind has accepted the change and placed upon it the stamp of approval." Hundreds of thousands of working people have obtained the five day week, he said, and added that the complete establishment of the plan would continue to be one of labor's chief objectives.

Green declared the theory of "low wage and cheap production has been exploded" and that "an increasingly large number of people are accepting labor's point of view regarding wages." He directed an appeal to the government for cooperation in avoiding unemployment through the construction of public projects during periods of depression and bitterly assailed the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

"It is when injunctions are so issued as to classify labor as a commodity and when men and women are enjoined from refusing to give service to or withhold service at will and when they are enjoined from enjoying the guarantee of free press, free assembly and free speech that labor protests and seeks legislative enactments to prevent the recurrence of these abuses," he declared.

President Green's address was the high point of the biggest Labor day gathering seen in years in this part of the country. Thousands of persons motored to Geauga Lake from here and several special trains carried additional thousands. In addition to Green, the labor forces were addressed by Myers C. Cooper, republican candidate for governor of Ohio and Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio supreme court.

BOTH PARTIES NOMINATE TOWN TICKETS NEXT MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 3—With the approach of the date when both the republican and democratic parties of the town of Windham are to meet in caucus to nominate town officers for the biennial elections it has occurred to town politicians that the national and state political campaigns have so completely overshadowed town politics that little if any preparations have been made for the caucuses. It was learned today that prominent members of both parties had given little thought to organizing candidates for the town offices and it was indicated that the probable result of this would be the nomination of present incumbents in several instances. Although he is an avowed candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic state ticket, Frank P. Fenton, town clerk and treasurer for the past 28 years will seek reelection to that office. The custom has been for both parties to endorse his nomination.

Murphy, chairman of the democratic town committee has called the caucus of that party for 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the town building. Mayor Charles A. DANIELSON

RAIN SPOILS HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 3.—Plenty of rain today slowed down Labor day activities to something approximating a walk in this territory. Coming as a sequel to two days of beautiful late summer weather, the rainstorm was particularly unwelcome in the holiday period. It forced the cancellation of an unnumbered list of outings, forced the calling off of baseball games and other outdoor events and left hundreds of people to formulate makeshift plans or to sit twiddling their thumbs as an alternative to doing the things they wanted to do.

However, there were those who were not discouraged by the vagaries of the weather man and among them was the large number who went to South Killingly for the annual Old Home day observance. Due to the fact that there is an adequate community house over there the shore dinner that was a feature of this gathering was served to the diners without discomfort to them, and the observance as a whole was not materially upset.

As had been forecast, the day here was much like a Sunday, quiet, with few about, traffic greatly reduced except toward evening as the homeward bound contingents set out for wherever they happened to be going.

MOTOR TRUCKS USED TO SPEED MAIL DELIVERIES

DANIELSON, Sept. 3. — Motor trucks and other motor vehicles were pressed into service today that Danielson might have mail and parcel post matter, newspapers and other essentials of modern life. This being a holiday, there was no north-bound boat train, nor one to the south tonight. It was an innovation over which no applause was heard. By some it was accepted as pointing to what may become a regular thing in the not distant future. Left without rail service today, it would be utterly amazing if it were wholly discontinued in time to come, and the obligation of serving this community as to receiving mail, parcel post and the like left wholly to motor transport arrangements. Maybe such an arrangement would not be so bad. In any event, the trucks and cars handling the post office matter and the newspapers arrived here on schedule this morning, something the boat train has not done except on rare occasion for a long time past.

OBITUARY.

Henry J. Burbank.

Henry J. Burbank, 79, for a half a century a resident of Danielson, on the West Side, died a few minutes before four o'clock this morning at his home. His last illness dates from three weeks ago last Thursday.

Mr. Burbank was a native of Conway, N. H., and the early years of his life were spent in that town. In early life he became an apprentice machinist and eventually developed into a master craftsman. For a number of years before coming to Danielson he was in the mechanical department of the Androscoggin mills at Lewiston, Me., in which city he was married. Some half century ago Mr. Burbank came here to be master mechanic of the Quinebaug mills, and continued in that capacity for 44 years, retiring a half dozen or more years ago. Mr. Burbank was one of the most respected members of this community. Throughout his life his chief interests were his work and his home, and to these interests he devoted practically his entire attention. Mr. Burbank leaves one daughter, Miss Emma A. Burbank, at home, and a sister, Mrs. B. A. Bailey, 87 years of age, of East Orange, N. J., but many years resident in Danielson.

SHOULDER BLADE BROKEN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

DANIELSON, Sept. 3.—Joseph Morris, employed by C. A. Haggerty on the Danielson-Brooklyn highway reconstruction work, went to the Day Kimball hospital today with a fractured shoulder blade, the result of being involved in a motor vehicle accident at Central Village, about 11.30 this forenoon. Morris was riding in a car operated by Raymond Saucier of Danielson. It is understood that the car was coming northward and had just crossed the narrow bridge near where a ne wone is to be opened in the near future. Other cars were said to be waiting at the north side of the bridge. The Saucier machine somehow went out of control and turned over soon after crossing the bridge, Saucier escaping without serious injury.

Another accident at Central Village at the week end involved Arthur H. Case of 146 Indiana avenue, Providence, his two young daughters and Miss Ruth Hansen, age 15. The Hansen car went out of control and off the embankment at what is known as the Bowling Alley corner. Miss Hansen had a collarbone broken, sustained an injury at the base of the skull and various cuts about the body and arms. Shirley Case, 12, was so badly cut about the nose that stitches were required to close the wounds. Other cuts marred her face. The injured persons were given attention by Dr. J. L. Gardner.

Mr. Case, who has not been in the best of health recently, was en route with his car from Meriden to his home city. He appeared to suffer from an attack of exhaustion while driving along, the car going out of control.

With the trial of the alleged "ice-box" bandites only a week away on a charge that they are the murderers of State Officer Irvin H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks there is special interest here in the matter of selecting the jury. It is forecast that this likely will be a long and tedious undertaking, with the prospect of the original panel of 100 jurors being exhausted before the 12 men who are to hear the case are selected.

It is possible that the registration in the schools, reopening for another year on Tuesday, will be the largest in the history of Killingly. However, this town has ample facilities to care for even a larger number than is expected to register.

Again this afternoon and during the hours just before dark fleets of motor coaches were carrying full capacity loads on trips taking patrons back from Labor day outings. The traffic this holiday season on the Providence-Hartford route was about the heaviest known since the introduction of this service.

A car owned and operated by Fred J. Matyck of New York turned over on Hall's hill at South Killingly today, injuring to some extent a woman who was riding in the machine. A wet and slippery highway surface was said to have been responsible for the mishap, which was checked up by State Officer Royal Scranton of the Danielson barracks.

Miss Helen Cohen, who has been spending the summer here with her father, Samuel Cohen, has returned to New York.

Deposits made in the savings department of the Windham County National bank on or before September 5th, will draw interest from September 1st.—adv.

Tuesday evening of this week brings the first meeting of the Danielson chamber of commerce since June, and several matters of importance are scheduled for discussion.

Tuesday morning of this week will be marked by the return to school of many hundreds of pupils throughout the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was at Putnam this afternoon to interview survivors of the fatal accident at Mechanicsville Sunday morning when a car crashed through a state highway fence and down a steep embankment to the tracks of the New Haven road.

There will be business for the town court this (Tuesday) morning, the cases having to do with charges that the accused violated motor vehicle laws in some instances and that they were intoxicated in others.

Traffic is now being allowed to proceed directly from Danielson to Brooklyn over the route where highway construction is under way, but west of Church street in the town of Brooklyn the journey is not a pleasant one on account of the torn up condition of a section to be rebuilt.

Announcement has been made of the plans to publish during this month a volume "American Backlogs," by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the president, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt. The volume will deal with early American families. This book becomes of special interest here by reason of the fact that Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt is owner of the colonial Mortlake house at Brooklyn, and spends some of her time there.

Having purchased the business, I shall during this week continue the close out sale of the entire stock of the Cyr Millinery store. F. X. Lemieux.—adv.

This evening practically all the non-resident teachers who are to direct the activities of Killingly's schools during the year opening Tuesday had arrived in Danielson.

Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal and two children have returned here after spending the past two months at Ocean beach.

The weekly half-holidays having ended for Danielson business houses, the stores are to be open next Thursday afternoon, for the first time since June

PUTNAM

FOUR SLIGHTLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—Slippery roads today was given by the police as the cause of an accident on Grove street, when a milk truck, the property of Charles Kies of Thompson crashed into a Peerless sedan owned and operated by Rev. Henry Hobson of Worcester. The crash occurred shortly before noon. The Kies truck was about to enter Center street when the Hobson car approached and both straddled the old trolley tracks until they came together.

Henry Marnan of Providence street, was thrown against the Kies truck's windshield and received a slight scalp wound and several cuts upon the hands. Miss Katherine Reardon and Henry Hobson, Jr., both of Worcester were cut by the flying glass, Miss Reardon receiving knee injuries and cuts about the face and hands, while Hobson sustained injuries to his jaw. The injured parties were given medical attention by two local physicians and were allowed to continue on their way.

The accident was investigated by Officer Alpheri Spooney of the Putnam police, who arranged for the clearing away of the wrecked cars. Neither driver was held.

George A. Winterburn of Mechanics street of this city has recently obtained a patent on a physician's throat electric light. Mr. Winterburn said today that he invented the light after he had narrowly escaped being seriously injured while a doctor was performing a minor operation upon his throat. The Putnam genius stated the doctor attempted the operation with an ordinary electric lamp and was unable to clearly see all ligiments in the throat upon which he was operating.

The new lamp is the result of several months work. It somewhat resembles a fountain pen, containing a throat swab which serves as a switch for the tiny electric bulb attached to the end of the cylinder. When the swab is pressed down on any solid it allows the current to illuminate the bulb, which in turn allows the physician a clear view of his work.

Mr. Winterburn, the inventor has exhibited his new product to local doctors who have highly praised it and have expressed their belief that the lamp will be accepted by the nation's leading hospitals and throat specialists.

SPARKS AND BURRY ARE REPORTED AS IMPROVING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—Albert E. D. Sparks and Maxwell Burry, of Gloverville, New Foundland, seriously injured at the Mechanicsville bridge Sunday when their car crashed over a 40-foot embankment, were reported by the hospital this morning as considerably improved. Both Sparks and Burry who were for several hours after the accident unconscious, regained consciousness late last evening and it was thought today that both will recover. The injured men are suffering from various fractures.

The bodies of Harry Pickford, who died at the hospital Sunday, and Albert Amesty killed outright, were taken in charge by a Putnam undertaker and were taken to their homes in Gloverville, where burial will take place.

Downpours of rain here today failed to hamper the steady flow of traffic passing through the city. Cars from nearly every state in the union were represented in the incessant flow. Until late this afternoon there was no reports of any accidents on the outskirts of the city, yet many crashes were narrowly averted at the numerous dangerous intersections, made more dangerous because of the excessive speed rates at which cars travel about them.

Trains and motor coaches were flooded with passenger traffic over the week end holiday and this afternoon several specials were added for the holiday tourists. The vacation specials, running over the branch lines of the New Haven railroad, consisting of Pullman trains were returning today with their loads of vacationers.

Hundreds viewed the wreckage in which Harry Pickford and Albert Amesty lost their lives Sunday in Mechanicsville. The remains of the car was towed to a local service station. It is believed that the car will be junked as it was so badly damaged as the result of its plunge over the railroad embankment, that repairs will be impossible.

WEDDINGS

Bososcovie-Lamoreux

A pretty wedding took place this morning at St. Mary's church at 8 o'clock when Miss Evelyn Lamoreux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lamoreux of Eastford, and Edward Bosoconie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bosoconie of Church street, were united in marriage by Rev. Ulric O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's.

The bride was prettily attired in a gown of white crepe de chine and wore a tulle veil, arranged in crown effect and trimmed with rhinestones. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Preavy of Putnam. Her gown was of a yellow georgette, trimmed with rhinestones. She wore a yellow picture hat, and carried a shower bouquet of gladioli which were in harmony with the rest of her attire.

The best man was Delor Lemier of Putnam. For the processional the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by the church organist, with a number of selections during the nuptial mass, celebrated by Father Bellerose.

Following the marriage ceremony the young couple left on a short wedding trip. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bonosconie are employees of the New England Fur company of this city.

Brousseau-Child

Another early September wedding took place Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Chester T. Child of South Main street, when Miss Bertha Child, eldest daughter of Mrs. Child was united in marriage to George F. Brousseau Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brousseau of Wilkinson street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city. Vari-colored seasonal garden flowers made a colorful and effectful setting for the bridal party.

Raymond H. Brousseau acted as best man, a brother of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Edith Child, a sister of the bride.

Miss Child is one of the popular members of Putnam's younger set. She is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1923, and a graduate of Simmons college, Boston, class of 1927. Previous to her marriage she has been employed as a dietitian at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston.

Mr. Brousseau is a graduate of Putnam high school and also graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is employed by a large engineering firm in Boston and at present is stationed in Bloomfield, N. J., where he is supervising the erection of a large sewerage system in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Brousseau are both very popular among their associates in Putnam and Boston and have hosts of friends in this city. They left shortly after the ceremony on a two weeks' wedding trip.

Phaneuf-Garceau

Miss Edwardina Garceau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Garceau of Church street, was married this morning to Lawrence P. Phaneuf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Phaneuf of Wilkinson street, Putnam.

The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church by Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, curate at the church. Father Routhier also officiated at a nuptial high mass. To the music of the wedding march, played by Miss Rose Metras, organist at St. Mary's the bridal party entered the main aisle of the church, and proceeded to the sanctuary, where the ceremony took place.

The bride's gown of bridal satin, was a bouffant model, with dipping hemline in the back. Her veil of tulle was fashioned bonnet effect, caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

The bridesmaid was Miss Lauretta Phaneuf, a sister of the groom. Her gown consisted of pink crepe de chine, combined with tulle and she carried an arm shower bouquet of orchids. The best man was Rollin Phaneuf, of Warwick, R. I., a cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the St. John, the Baptist auditorium on Providence street. Mr. and Mrs. Phaneuf left this afternoon by train on an extended trip to Canada. Upon their return they will reside at the Phaneuf home on Wilkinson street.

Less than a dozen days remain before the alleged slayers of State Officer Irving H. Nelson, who have passed the summer months in the county jail at Brooklyn, will be brought to justice to answer for the crime that has attracted state wide interest, with which they are charged. Officials working in interest of the coming trial have been in Putnam during the past month making final checkups of all evidence to be presented. According to information Special State's Attorney Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic will lead the prosecution, Mr. Harvey will also be assisted by State's Attorney Howard Bradford of Putnam, who has recovered from recent illness sufficiently to allow him to act on the state counsel.

There will be but one witness from Putnam present at the trial, Sergeant George H. Liard of the Putnam police, who witnessed the passing of the bandit car through Putnam on the fateful night of April 6, when the young policeman lost his life before the barrage of gunfire. Sergt. Liard saw the car, as it drove through Union square, but was unaware of the tragedy until a minute after the bandits had made the passage through this city.

The holiday week end was uneventful for the Putnam police. The usual holinot appear and only one, Charles Lafvre, of New Bedford was arrested day number of intoxicated persons did on this charge. Lafavre was arrested Sunday evening on Providence street by Officer Edward Benoit. It is believed that the man drank of impure liquors as he was ill at the police station this morning and required medical attention. He will be arraigned in city court Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gagnon of Main street are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grimly of North Attleboro, Mass.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

At some time or other all of us have to do more or less business with a Hardware Store and realizing that in your case hardware store merchandise plays an important part in the operation of your farm, I believe it timely to tell you something about THE JORDAN HARD WARE CO. STORE, Windham County's Largest Hardware Store.

I need go into no detail to tell you of the Jordan reputation for integrity and fair dealing. It is a reputation that was established many years ago and has endured without question. I will confine myself to some of the special or feature merchandise sold by Jordan's.

Farming implements, of course, are their biggest and most important line. The John Deere implements, Fairbanks-Morse engines and water systems and Louden barn equipment are the makes featured. They are makes of long-standing and the names are undoubtedly familiar to you but unless you have owned any of these farm utilities you cannot fully appreciate what they mean in service and labor-saving. You can at any time secure a full demonstration of farm machinery without obligation. Jordan representatives are prepared to advise you on the most economical, and yet most efficient machinery needed for your purpose and to back their statement with a practical demonstration.

Farmers are rapidly recognizing the milking machine as a tremendous progress in labor-saving and to insure sanitation. You will agree with me that the modern farm can hardly operate successfully without the use of the milking machine, especially where milk is one of the products that materially affect the annual income. The Empire milking machine is highly recommended by JORDAN'S.

A fine line of Devoe Paints, Valdura roofing paint (a special) hardware novelties, automobile accessories, including brake lining and the famous Mansfield tires—great truck tires—are among the innumerable other lines carried in this extensive store.

I will close with a mention of the large kitchen department at JORDAN'S. Whatever is designed for culinary purposes is to be found there. Enamel and tinware, dishes, cut glass, oil stoves and heaters, stoves, in fact every known kind of kitchen equipment that the modern housewife should have is to be found in this department.

In addition to this standard stock there are frequently on display various novelties that mean much to the comfort of the entire family. Good bye for now,

YOURS, JANE.

THE MENACING DRIVERS

No one ever knows what a life saver a rain may be through keeping down the number of highway users at a time when more than the usual crowd can be expected. On the other hand it frequently puts roads into such condition as to cause serious and fatal accidents.

Labor day might have produced a repetition of Sunday, as far as motor vehicle accidents were concerned, had it been pleasant. As it was the number was negligible and it is impossible to attribute it otherwise than to the weather conditions. Tough interfered with much pleasure that had been planned it is not improbable that it prevented a sizeable casualty list.

For five persons to be killed and 29 injured, as was the record in Connecticut Sunday, reveals a situation that is distressing. In most of the instances it was evident that they were due to carelessness or recklessness to such an extent that it is not surprising that six arrests were made.

Over the week ends, especially if it is pleasant, there is an ever increasing use of the highways. It is a condition that is to be expected and because of it many auto owners remain at home or select the side roads in the country to avoid the traffic and to obtain the desired safety. Nevertheless the large volume of traffic is warning enough to the highway users that additional precautions should be taken. It is not a time for racing, cutting in, chance taking. The wheel of a motor vehicle is not the place for a sleepy person, nor should it be entrusted to the fellow who has no respect for his own life or the lives of others. There are times when one might just as well plunge in front of a locomotive as to attempt some of the stunts that are resorted to by drivers.

Until there is a disposition on the part of the reckless and careless to abandon their methods of driving motor vehicles it can be expected that the deplorable loss of life and the many injuries will continue. It is most unfortunate the highways of the state are not becoming safer instead of more dangerous.

HASSEL AND CRAMER

When aviators shape their course into the far north for the purpose of opening a new route to Europe from this country, they are destined to travel over sparsely settled country, territory that is without means of transportation, land and water that offer more than the usual difficulties in obtaining help.

When Hassell and Cramer set out for Sweden from Rockford, Ill., they followed a route that meant crossing Canada to the north of Labrador and touching at Greenland and Iceland before arriving at their destination. It offered better chances of landing places than a direct flight across the Atlantic, but there was nothing choice about them should they be forced down in eastern Canada or in Greenland. They were ready to take the chance, had confidence in their ability to keep to the course and plenty of faith in their machine.

After being missing for a period of two weeks they have been located in Greenland after a long hike having been forced to land because of a lack of gasoline after they had been known from their course. All hope had not been abandoned, especially since there were two points at which a plane had been heard in Greenland, but where to look for them or how to get searchers there was a big problem.

Their rescue ends all question as to that feature, but their experience is not such as to popularize such a route. They are unharmed and their machine was not damaged in landing, but they would have been in a helpless predicament had one or both of them been injured in their forced landing. Possibly they are not discouraged in their belief that such a flight is entirely feasible but they have nevertheless brought to attention the perils of such a route and the fact that there are serious handicaps in case anything goes wrong.

As development takes place it is to be expected that such a far north route will be resorted to by those headed for points in northern Europe. It is probable that it will be only one of many but these aviators who were lost and have been found have illustrated anew the perils faced by the pioneers.

THE LEAGUE IN SESSION

Much was expected of the league of nations while it was in the process of organization and much is expected of it now. Thus each session is watched with more or less interest for the purpose of noting the progress that is made in dealing with the various problems that are before it for solution. Questions of international importance call for that interest on this side of the Atlantic even though this country is not a member of the league, while it is to be expected that members of the league would be giving weighty consideration to whatever is proposed or undertaken.

The league is expected to receive a report at this time from the committee which has been at work on a code for the control of the private manufacture of arms and ammunitions. It is more than likely that the Paris treaty just signed will come before it for such recognition and approval as it may give it as an international peace move. The report of the preparatory committee on disarmament should come in for considerable attention while the appointment of a board of control for the anti-narcotic activities by the league is expected.

There should be a report of the commission dealing with the Greek refugee situation and it is time something was heard concerning the plan for a home for Armenian refugees. In addition discussion will revolve about the resumption of normal relations between Poland and Lithuania and, the work of the permanent commission on mandated territories and the treatment of German minorities in Upper Silesia.

It is evident that the league is still functioning, that it is dealing with certain questions of international importance which have been and are being handled without reference to the league. Evidently it is figured that it can be done more effectively without leaving it to the league. This country has had no reason thus far to regret its action in not becoming a member. It is perfectly willing that Europe should get all possible consolation out of it.

AMUNDSEN

Of all those who went into the region where the Italia was lost in the effort to render aid to the crew of the lost dirigible, none was more able to take care of himself under prevailing conditions than Capt. Roald Amundsen. His resourcefulness resulting from experience was relied upon to obtain sustenance and find his way out provided he remained alive and well.

Though there had been really nothing to lend encouragement to it, the hope had been maintained that he would eventually be found alive and well. Since the disappearance of his plane soon after departure into the north, nothing has been heard from him. None of the other searching parties had seen him, no stations had received calls that might indicate his party and there had been no return.

With the finding of pontoons which have been identified as having been a part of the plane on which his party of six set forth, it becomes necessary to admit with reluctance that misfortune has overtaken them. The indications are that there was a crash. What it was or where it was will never be known.

Amundsen was an explorer through training. He started young and stuck to it consistently. His experiences, told in his own words, have been many and thrilling. His escapes have been narrow as he sought both the north and the south poles. He was an explorer in whom there was much confidence. He possessed the necessary skill, courage and daring to make him successful and in no better way did he demonstrate his self sacrifice than in the response made when others lost in the far north needed someone's assistance. Amundsen has probably lost his life while engaged in the work he loved best, and his will be a conspicuous place in the history of explorations.

FALLING LONG DISTANCES

Parachute jumping is carried on for the purpose of testing out the best methods of affording protection to those who find themselves in disabled planes and seek a possible safe delivery on terra firma. It is also resorted to for the purpose of satisfying the desire for something sensational.

Among other theories that have been advanced there was one which held that those persons dropping from great heights lost consciousness or were lulled to sleep before they reached the earth and received the bump that made it impossible for others to learn from them just what their sensations were. The parachute experts of the army air corps have been at work upon this as well as other theories with the result that it has established the fact that a person falling through the air attains a maximum speed of 118 miles an hour. In order to learn this a parachute jumped had to fall for a long distance before opening his umbrella. He did this with no small amount of risk but everything worked as desired, the chute opened and he made a safe landing following which it was not only possible to learn the speed he had been making but that he was not put to sleep and remained sufficiently awake to pull the cord of the parachute before it was too late.

Blowing up theories of this kind may not be the kind of excitement that everyone would hanker for, but it cannot be said henceforth that those who deliberately leap from great heights, thinking that they will be asleep before anything happens and thus not know anything about it, are going to be entirely satisfied, inasmuch as the army air corps has furnished proof to the contrary they should govern their actions accordingly.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: The day after always has its handicaps.

The school bell is all ready to sound its call to those who do not want to hear it as well as those who do.

Liquor profits from bootlegging are said to have been deposited in Philadelphia banks. Perhaps the only surprising thing is that the amount isn't larger.

The British are advocating a larger golf ball. Probably some wouldn't be satisfied or play any better if it was as large as a baseball.

The huge majority received by Senator Johnson in California's nomination primary shows no indication of a decrease in republican sentiment.

The millions that are spent for good roads are many, but such outlays help the doctors, lawyers, undertakers and town constables as well as the road builders.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO MA

In the benevolent spotlight of the evening lamp, Pa was reading his newspaper. Ma, the last button sewed to the last shirt, dropped her hands in her lap and sat staring into the shadowy vistas of her sitting room.

"Pa," she spoke dreamily, "a week from today is my birthday. I'll be 56."

"Huh?" Pa came to the surface with a gulp. "Fifty-six? Can't be. We ain't that old."

For a moment his eyes wavered back to his paper, then something vague, reminiscent, warned him that his duty had not been completed. "Week from today. Well, what would you like for your birthday present?"

"Well——" Ma's voice trailed away into a brooding silence, through which the kitchen faucet dripped. "I'd like a baby."

"A baby!" Pa was dumfounded. "Why, ma, you ain't serious? Why, gosh, you've had six! And Robbie's hardly let go of your apron strings."

"Robbie is 19. And gone away," reminded Ma. "They've all gone. Maybe that's why my arms are kinda aching to hold a baby again. I've spent so many years of my life with a little head snuggled against me here." Ma's hand sought the hollow of her shoulder. "seems like there's a part of me missing. If I could have my choice of anything in the whole world, Pa, I'd rather have a baby."

Pa sat back in his chair, speechless. "We've had six children, Pa. They've been a pride and joy to us, every one of them. But I've never had exactly the kind of baby I wanted—a little girl with blue, blue eyes, and soft, golden hair that would curl. Every time a new one came I would look deep into its eyes and think 'maybe this one's will stay blue. But they never did. They turned to brown or hazel. And the fluffy, baby fuzz on their heads—it always came in sleek and dark like yours and mine.

"And then their names. I never got to name one of my babies what I really wanted. Ed had to be 'James Edward' after your pa. Elmira had to be after Aunt Elmira because of the $500 wedding present. You wanted Paul after Paul in the Bible. Mary Louise had to be called for her grandmothers. And Robbie after you."

"I know," said Ma. "But I always wanted a baby I could call——" she hesitated, gathering courage, "June Gladness."

"Gosh," murmured Pa.

"And then I never had a baby I had time to cuddle and love as much as my heart hankered to. There was always another one to make clothes for. And there was always that hauntin' wonder where the money was comin' from to give 'em the things they would want as they got older."

"Well," snorted Pa, "for a woman of your age, with four grandchildren, and prospects good for lots more——"

"I know, Pa. I love 'em. That's what makes it all the harder. They come to see us and I hear their voices prattling. And then comes sundown, and they go home. And the stillness eats holes in my heart." Pa rose slowly.

"An' I thought you were going to ask for something sensible, like a radio, or goldfish," he said.

During the days that followed, Ma, from the kitchen, could hear the sounds of saw and hammer in the shed. Her lips tightened. Pa was making her a birthday present. Oh, well, maybe here was a crazy notion; maybe she'd forgotten how to soothe a baby when it cried; maybe the children would object. Probably she ought to tell Pa she'd rather have a radio, or goldfish. But somehow she just couldn't get it said.

The sun was shining that morning of Ma's birthday. Pa was out early. With a little, wistful hurt beneath her heart, Ma went to the kitchen door to call him to breakfast. As he emerged from the garage, Ma's jaw dropped. He had on his Sunday suit.

"It's a little early to start celebratin' ain't it?" she queried. He smiled at her as he came up the porch steps.

"You'll have to stack the breakfast dishes. We're driving to Millroy."

"Millroy?"

"That's where the Home Finding society is. Thought we'd drop down there today and pick out—June Gladness." Ma sank, trembling, to the top step.

"Oh—Pa. You really mean—you want—her, too?" A little stiffly Pa got himself down beside her and took her hand gently into his.

"Sure I do, Ma. I got her high chair 'most finished. You know, Ma, I didn't realize it, but for quite a while I've been kinda itching for some one to tag me around, when I'm working, and to pester me with questions."—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—Postmaster General Harry S. New and the cabinet cub, Secretary West of Interior, Dr. Work's successor, virtually constituted the government in Washington after Secretary Kellogg set sail for Paris in mid-August.

There were no other cabinet members, not a corporals' guard of senators or representatives and no members of the supreme court at all in town to maintain the great triumvirate of government, legislative, executive and judicial.

General New stuck out the whole summer in Washington. He takes his vacation gunning up in northern Michigan every fall, putting in two cracks at it, several weeks apart, to get into the seasons of the sort of game he likes to shoot.

New's Prospects.

There has seemed to be considerable doubt as to what New will do after election in the event that Hoover wins out.

Some postoffice observers think it quite likely that Dr. Work might like to return to that portfolio under Hoover, assuming that a Hoover victory would mean the Colorado man could have about what he wanted as a distinguished service reward for his labors as campaign manager. He was practically moved out of the postoffice into interior to make way for New when the latter lost out in the Indiana senatorial race and was given lameduck refuge in Washington by his party chiefs.

Other successful election campaign managers like Will Hays and, before that, Frank Hitchcock, found the postmaster generalship a desirable berth from which to exercise their political talents. It gets mighty close to the voters all over the land and is the center link of the federal machine every administration controls.

The Indiana senatorial campaign left New footloose and he had no great personal resources to fall back on, his long political service not having been conducive to building up bank accounts. Gossip has it now, however, among New's intimate friends, that he has had more luck in the last few years with investments and can look with tranquility toward retirement from Washington public life, if that is on the cards for him.

Anything for Air Mail.

Incidentally, New has shared with Kellogg the credit of having accomplished things within their respective fields of activity this year that may have good effect for the party when the nation goes to the polls in November. Kellogg put over the peace treaty; New cut the air mail postage rate in half and has widely extended the use of air mail generally, transferring much of the work to private enterprise after successful government pioneering. His motto has been and still is, "anything for the air mail." Dollars and cents restrictions that bind other aspects of the business of carrying the mails do not apply so rigidly to the air mail.

By way of illustration, the new air mail stamps are pointed out. They are what is known as a "two color job," making a double run necessary. They cost the government about a dollar a thousand to produce as compared to a few cents a thousand for other stamps. But they are distinctive and add a little psychological touch, designed to pull additional folks into use of the air mail routes.

SAFETY IN THE SHOP.

By J. B. Gibson, Director of Safety and Health, Western Electric Company, Chicago.

One of the important messages for Labor day is that accidents in industry are decreasing. We can afford to point to this with pride. For here is summed up the continuous struggle that the working man and management have waged against carelessness and unsafe working conditions.

The worker today is the outstanding factor in the industrial world. No matter how efficient a machine may be, it cannot maintain its schedule without intelligent and careful operation by skilled workers.

In those industries where a real safety campaign has reduced the number and severity of accidents, the lion's share of the credit must go to the workers themselves.

However much management may be in favor of an accident prevention program, in spite of all the arguments that are available to show the humanitarian and economic values of working safely and carefully, an industry will not reach the goal unless it has recruited in its safety campaign the workman who has most to lose if an accident should occur.

Seven out of every ten accidents are due to the human factor. Safety devices, guards and equipment can prevent only about 25 per cent of all shop accidents. What about the other 75 per cent? That rests with the individual himself.

I have yet to find the workman who laughs at safety. There is no comedy in being hurt. Rather, a tragedy has occurred in which the leading roles too often are played by the bread winner, his wife and children.

To prevent this very thing, the larger industries have carried on an intensive campaign to reduce accidents. But only .5 per cent of the more than 186,000 manufacturing establishments in the United States employ over 1,000 employes. Ninety-two per cent employ less than 101 employes each, and yet in this group there are nearly 3,000,000 workers. The adoption in these smaller industrial groups of the same principles and methods used, so successfully in the larger companies will bring about equally satisfactory results.

How have accidents been reduced? The answer is easy. Merely by proving to the individual that accidents do not happen, but are due to a very definite cause. Moral—Remove potential hazards before an accident occurs. Insist on good plant housekeeping. Make sure that machines, moving equipment, trucks, et cetera, are adequately guarded. Be careful in piling materials. Insist on prompt medical treatment of all minor cuts and scratches to prevent possible infection. Maintain healthful working conditions. Offer to employes the advantage of first aid training, which experience has taught to be of great assistance in reducing accidents.

By the application of these measures, accidents among the 23,000 workers at the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company have been reduced to the point where it is more than twice as safe to be at work during the day than it is to be on the streets of the city.

Little Talks on Thrift

A Fatal Indifference

The statement has been made by many observers that the person who cannot save money is destined to failure.

This is not entirely true, for success in life cannot be measured by material standards. It would not be difficult to give the names of many who have achieved high success in life without having accumulated any material possessions of consequence.

But such instances are exceptions. With the rank and file of men and women, the ability to save money is an indication of will power and ambition. People who fail to save money do not neglect this practice because they CANNOT save. They do it because they WILL NOT.

It is not that the saving of money in itself is of supreme importance. The point is that the function of saving is an indication of one's attitude toward life. Failing to save indicates indifference to one's well being—a failure to grasp the deep problems involved in individual progress.

Broadly speaking, it might be said that the person who cannot save money is destined to failure in life because he does not care enough about success to fight for it.

We should learn to look upon having, therefore, as a test of ambition. Those who are willing to fritter away their earnings from day to day without provision for the future show a fatal indifference to their own fate.

It is well to remember at all times the solidifying effect of thrift. It gives substantiability to one's plans and distinction and purpose to all individual progress.—By E. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Mrs. Whitefoot's Happy Thought.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

To his own welfare he is blind
Who is too set to change his mind.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was never more scared in his life than when he discovered Spooky the Owl was about. If he had been in the Green Forest he would not have been so scared, but Whitefoot had just started to follow Peter Rabbit across the Green Meadows to the dead Old Briar-patch. Fortunately Whitefoot had only a little more than started from the Green Forest. Just as soon as he dared Whitefoot ran back toward the Green Forest. Such a sigh of thankfulness as escaped him when he got there!

Whitefoot's mind had changed completely. He was now quite ready to go back home, in spite of the presence of the Bobcat family in that part of the Green Forest. So, watching his chance, he started. Now, the way Whitefoot travels is to run a few feet and dart under a piece of bark, or a big leaf, or into a little hole, and there wait until he is sure that it is safe to run a few feet more. In other words he travels by running and hiding. So sometimes it takes him quite a while to reach his destination. It took him a long time to get home. When he got home he found Mrs. Whitefoot there.

"Well," she demanded sharply, "where have you been?"

Whitefoot didn't want to tell her that he had started for the dear Old Briar-patch. "I've been loooking for a place where we will be safer," said he.

"Did you find it?" she demanded sharply.

"No," confessed Whitefoot. "No, I didn't. I thought we might go back to the Old Orchard."

"Black Pussy the Cat would be up there," said Mrs. Whitefoot. "To be sure, one cat isn't as bad as four cats. But I'd like to be where there are no cats at all. But I don't suppose there is such a place."

"Yes, there is," said Whitefoot.

"Where?" demanded Mrs. Whitefoot.

"The dear Old Briar-patch over in the Green Meadows, where Peter Rabbit lives," replied Whitefoot promptly.

"It is too far away," declared Mrs. Whitefoot with equal promptness. "It is too long a trip to make across the Green Meadows."

"Then I suppose we'll have to stay here and worry," said Whitefoot mournfully.

Mrs. Whitefoot was scratching one of her ears with a dainty little white hand. "I have an idea," said she.

"What is it?" asked Whitefoot eagerly.

"We could go over to that little house in the woods, where Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy make all that sweet stuff in the spring," said she. Of course she meant the sugar house over among the sugar maples.

"But Yowler the Bobcat comes around there," protested Whitefoot.

"True," replied Mrs. Whitefoot, "but he cannot get inside. No one bigger than a mouse can get inside."

"You forget Shadow the Weasel," said Whitefoot.

"Well, we always have to watch out for Shadow the Weasel wherever we are. It is those cats we are trying to get away from," declared Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot thought it over. "My dear," said he, "I believe you're right. I really believe you're right. We don't have to go outside that little house unless we want to. Let's move over there right away."

CHILD TRAINING

TEACHING CHILDREN THE REWARD OF HELPING OTHERS

Helen Gregg Green

"There are no fairy folks who ride about the world at night,
To give you wings and other things to pay for doing right,
But if you'll do to others what you'd have them do to you,
You'll be as blest as if the best of fairy tales were true."

—Alice Cary.

When small Bobby returned after going on an errand for me, I offered him a dime.

"Thank you, just the same," he smiled, "but Mother says 'No'."

The next time I saw Bobby's mother I asked, "Why is it you don't allow us to pay Bobby for doing errands?"

"I'll tell you, my dear," she answered, "though it's rather a long story."

"Let's have it," I urged. "I can't imagine what your reasons would be."

"Well, you know Bobby has been the neighborhood errand boy for several years. Indeed, the first two years he made quite a lot of money. Both of us were pleased. But one day our little Mrs. Fields, who, you know, is quite old and has so little of this world's goods, asked Bobby to go to the grocery store for her. His legs just flew. He was thinking of the nickel or dime he would receive when he got back. But when he returned from the grocery Aunty Fields just smiled one of her angelic, sweet smiles and said, 'Thank you, Bobby.' In two minutes he was home, angry and crying.

"'I won't go any more erranda for her! She never gave me a cent!' he declared, stamping his foot.

"I was amazed and shocked. I really felt like crying myself. I had never dreamed Bobby had lost his perspective like that.

"'Why, Bobby, I said, 'don't you get any satisfaction in knowing you helped Mrs Fields, who has always been so kind to you?'

"'No, I want my nickel,' he pouted.

"Well, I began then and there to root from Bobby's mind the idea that it is useless to perform a good deed unless one receives remuneration. From that day to this Bobby's friendly services have been free of charge, while his father and I make it a point to teach him that happiness comes from helping others."

Well, I had never thought of these things in your light before," I told her. "Indeed, you are wise!"

"Yes, Bobby has become more thoughtful in every way. He's always trying to help folks. We never think of rewarding him, except with a few words of praise. Whenever I buy him a gift and am tempted to say, 'Here's something for being such a good boy!' somehow tells me 'Yes, and tomorrow he'll be good and if he doesn't receive a reward he'll wonder what's the use of good conduct if he doesn't get anything for it!' So Daddy and I keep on trying to instill into him the fact that the true reward of right conduct is the esteem of others together with an added self-respect, and we avoid giving the impression that our presents to him have any connection with his conduct. This, however, does not prevent his having certain duties for which he receives regular payment—that is an important a part of his training as the other."

"Thank you for telling me this," I answered.

If you heed the teachings of the first affliction you may avoid the second.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pet away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent, and now it is sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

TULAREMIA REPORTABLE DISEASE IN THIS STATE

By action of the public health council of the state department of health, the list of diseases reportable to local health officers has been extended to include two new diseases, undulant fever and tularemia.

The following just released by the United States public health service gives further information about tularemia, the new disease:

Tularemia is primarily an epizootic of wild rabbits and is caused by bacterium tularense, which affects the liver and spleen, producing decay of the tissue cells in these organs shown by innumerable white spots from the size of a pin-point to that of a pinhead to be studded over this surface and resulting in death.

"Man readily inoculates himself with the disease while dressing rabbits, the infection passing from the rabbits liver through some wound on his hand, resulting in an ulcer on the hand, enlarged glands at the elbow or in the armpit, and fever which confines him to bed for two or three weeks.

"Cooks, hunters, housewives and market men are often infected in November, December, or January, when, owing to relaxation of game laws, it is permitted to hunt wild cotton tail rabbits for food.

"Persons who skin and cut up jack rabbits for fish bait, coyote bait, fox feed, chicken feed, hog feed, dog feed, or for the market, frequently become infected.

Tularemia is "made in America" and has been staged from start to finish by an all-American cast. The discovery of a new disease is an important milestone in medical history. In the history of human medicine there is only one instance in which American investigators alone have discovered a disease of man, isolating its causative agent, determining its sources of infection and its modes of transmission to man, describing its symptomatology and pathology, and otherwise elucidating the many essential problems connected with the complete knowledge of a disease—that instance is the story of tularemia.

The disease was first discovered in a ground squirrel in Tulare County, California, by Dr. G. W McCoy, of the United States public health service. It became engrafted into the jack-rabbit population of the west, and then, as a disease of wild rabbits and of man it advanced steadily across the continent, invading state after state until now, in 1928, there remains only a solid block of six uninvaded states composed of the New England group.

Although a new disease to man, tularemia has now been recognized in 42 states of the United States, in the District of Columbia, and in Japan, but in no other country. Of 614 reported cases, 23 have terminated in death.

Dr. Francis himself fell a victim to tularemia while studying his first case of the disease in Utah. He is now devoring himself to its prevention and cure.

Prevention is the key-note of modern medicine. Keep your bare hands out of a wild rabbit—one per cent. of them are infected with tularemia. Rabbit meat, thoroughly cooked, is harmless for food, because a temperature of 138 degrees Fahrenheit kills the infection. Rubber gloves afford complete protection to those who must dress wild rabbits.

Beware of the wild rabbit which the cat or dog has caught—or which a boy has killed with a club—it is probably a sick rabbit. A warning to the poor sportsman is necessary. He should not shoot the rabbit that is on the point of his gun. Let him take his rabbits on the run at twenty-five feet distant and the chances will be lessened that the rabbits he bags will be sick with tularemia.

The women of the country are coming to the rescue. They are telling their sportsman husbands to bring home the birds, but to let the rabbits lie as they fall—"Don't bring them home."

ATTENDED CONVENTION OF ORGANISTS AT PORTLAND

Mrs. Ida E. Richardson and son, Dwight, have returned from Portland, Me., where they have been attending the convention of the national association of organists the past week. Notable organists were assembled from over 30 states as well as from France, England and Canada. O. chapter of Philadelphia, Dr. Mauro-Cottone of the Roxy theatre, New York, and Charles Peaker, representing the Canadian college of organists and others equally proficient.

An exception was a recital given on the beautiful new Skinner organ at St Luke's Episcopal cathedral by T. Tertius Noble and Chandler Goldthwaite, both of New York city. Members of the N. A. O. attending from this vicinity besides Dwight Richardson were Roger Dabol and George Eyles, of New London. The prayer service at St. Luke's cathedral was given by Bishop Brewster, brother to Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut.

TROLLEY CAR JUMPED RAILS AT YANTIC, BLOCKING TRAFFIC

The Yantic trolley car due in Franklin square at 12 o'clock Monday noon was derailed in front of the residence of Jabez Bailey in Yantic. The trolley, which was in charge of Motorman Savage, left the rails, swung completely across the road, cut off a telephone pole on the right hand side of the road and bent a second pole on the left side, causing it to fall over onto the trolley. There was one passenger beside the motorman. No one was injured.

The trolley came to a stop with its front end nosed into a wall on the Bailey property on the right hand side from Yantic and sidewise across the road, completely blocking traffic. The traffic had to be directed around the rear of the Bailey residence. If the trolley had gone off the left hand side of the highway, it would have plunged down a 50-foot embankment.

The car was considerably damaged and employes of the Connecticut company jacked it up, filled it with new wheels and replaced it on the tracks. It was towed to the car barn in Greeneville shortly before six o'clock.

THREE NEW APPOINTMENTS IN COLLEGE ART DEPT.

Notable additions have been made to the department of Fine Arts at Connecticut college this year in the appointment of Philip H. Pratt, supervisor of design at Pratt institute, Brooklyn, who will be assisted by one of his pupils, Miss Helen S. McVeigh in the work in design at the college and William Smith Robinson, N. A. of Old Lyme and New York city who will give courses in drawing and painting.

For next year the various art courses show an enrollment of 152 already registered from the three upper classes. The freshmen registrations in September might easily bring the total up to 200 or even above. This department is important not only because of the number of students, but it is and should be important also because the problems of color, harmony, line, textiles, ornament and design in general, and interior decoration play so large a part in almost every woman's work and interest.

Prof. Henry Bill Selden, A. M., whose work at the Old Lyme exhibition this summer was the subject of very favorable comment, continues as chairman of fine arts at Connecticut college, and has secured some very notable additions to the faculty of his department.

The work of Miss Orie Sherer, teacher of design, who resigned last June to accept a position in Mrs. Child's School of Fine Arts in Boston, will largely be taken by Philip H. Pratt who comes as lecturer and director of the work in design.

Mr. Pratt has studied both at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts for two years, 1906-08, and at the Industrial Art school in Philadelphia in 1908-09. He spent one year 1910, in special research work at South Kensington, London, and has since devoted much time to European and Oriental travel and study.

A former student of his, Miss Helen S. McVeigh, of Springfield, Mass., will live on the campus, as house fellow at North cottage, and will carry out the work in design under Mr. Pratt's direction. Miss McVeigh is a graduate of the Central high school of Springfield, and of Pratt institute, where she took the general art course and also completed the teachers' training course in fine and applied arts.

Painter of Nots Engaged

The work in drawing and painting will also be strengthened by certain courses to be given by Mr. Robinson of Old Lyme and New York city, a member of the National academy and a painter of note. The exhibition of paintings shown in Knowlton salon last autumn, was by Mr. Robinson, and his picture Autumn Morning, carried off the Lyme Art association prize this year.

Mr. Robinson has been for years among the notable artists of America. His early training was received at the Massachusetts Normal Art school from which he graduated in 1884, and at the Academy Julian in Paris, where he studied under Jules Lefebvre and Benjamin Constant.

He has been elected to membership in the following organizations: New York Water Color club, 1891; American Water Color society, 1897 (president 1914-1921); Associate National Academy of Design, 1901; Academician National Academy of Design, 1911; Artists' Fund society, 1899; Allied Artists of America, 1919; Lotos club, New York (life member) 1900; National Arts club, Gundi club, New York (life member) 1896.

The Skelly Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., reports net earnings for July of $654,756, or 60 cents per share of common stock. This is $200,000 more than the company earned during the entire first six months of the current year, and the largest single month since September, 1926. William G. Skelly, president, said improvement in prices and demand for refined products was responsible for the increase.

But even then the trials of the Connecticut boys were not at an end.

Unfortunately the 56th Regiment arrived at Brest in December at a time when the camp was at its worst. At 3 o'clock in the morning the boys from Connecticut marched from the railroad terminal up the long hill to Camp Pontanezen, to find beds of mud awaiting them upon their arrival.

Thoughts of an early arrival home failed to hide the lack of water and food for the three weeks the members of the regiment were forced to wait in Camp Pontanezen for the ships to take them home, while most of this time was either spent in coaling the ships in the harbor or pulling water carts through the slush and mud at the camp. By the middle of January, 1919, the regiment finally embarked from Brest, where it had landed nine months before. When the regiment left the shores of France it left many of its members behind under green mounds, while many others brought home battle scars as a constant reminder of their experiences through nine long, trying months.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF 56TH REGIMENT'S SERVICE

Ten years ago this month the 56th Regiment, C. A. C., which carried on its rolls the names of many Norwich boys, was in action in the Argonne. The members of the regiment celebrated the tenth anniversary of their service in France, Sunday at their annual reunion held at Bridgeport.

The 56th Regiment was the first complete all-Connecticut regiment to be formed in the state and the only all-Connecticut to fight through the American activities in France and to return to this country as a unit.

It went on the line about Aug. 1, 1918, and until Nov. 11, 1918, served continuously in the immediate zone of the armies. It took part in three major engagements: The Aisne-Marne, the Oise-Aisne and the Meuse-Argonne. In addition the personnel of the regiment gained the right to an additional star for service in the First Army defense area.

The regiment has the right to claim the distinction of being an artillery regiment that served continuously on the line and never was disciplined for any reason. The regiment also had a great number of casualties to show for the length of service performed, because of the placing of guns, for military reasons farther forward than ordinary.

The regiment was formed from National Guard companies from the larger cities throughout the state, and many of the smaller towns. Several of these National Guard companies were called into the service of the United States immediately after the declaration of war and did duty guarding the bridges throughout the state for several months. The majority of the companies of which the regiment was composed were not called into the service until July 28, 1917.

The regiment as a unit was typical of the construction of the entire American army, and considered as a unit was a small army in itself. When the United States indicated that it would enter the war, many of the National Guard companies were only recruited to half their strength, but after the call came it was not long before these same companies were turning away men who had left their shop benches, their counters, their pens and plows to answer the call to prove that might is not right.

In many ways the 56th regiment witnessed many unique experiences that were not undergone by other regiments, either of infantry, light or heavy field artillery. This regiment was shifted from America to France in record breaking time. Leaving Fort H. G. Wright at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, the entire personnel of nearly 1,500 men was entrained at 8 o'clock that night and on the way to New York city. With curtains drawn and guards at every door on the train, the regiment arrived in New York city at 3 o'clock in the morning.

A short trip by ferry boat from the railroad terminal up the East river, and at 10 o'clock the same morning all members of the regiment were on board the S. S. Olympic with approximately 6,000 other American troops, and the next morning were out of sight of land. It was a record-breaking embarkment, not equalled by any other regiment that left the shores of the United States. Six days later the Olympic arrived in the harbor of Brest, without having sighted an enemy craft during the entire voyage.

Following a three days' rest in Pontanezen barracks at Brest, and a fruitless search among the old buildings for the stable in which Napoleon kept his white horse, the 56th Regiment left for the Clermont-Ferrand at France, where it underwent an entirely different form of training than that which had been received in the United States.

The latter part of July the 56th Regiment was sent into action against the Germans and received its first taste of action. Detraining at Fer-en-Tardenoise, through which the 26th Division had just passed in close pursuit of the fleeing enemy, the regiment was pushed rapidly ahead to the zone of activity by a series of forced marches. Due to the fact that the Germans were retreating so rapidly, the regiment was unable to maintain a permanent firing position for effective work until near the Vesle river. When the German and American lines became stabilized at this point the 56th Regiment came into action, and for three days kept up a rapid fire into the enemy lines.

During its early days on the front, the 56th Regiment underwent many attacks from gas, bombing raids, and it was only the greatest fortitude and the early training in America that enabled the members of the regiment to bear up under living conditions which at all times were most trying.

When the German lines became thoroughly stabilized beyond the Vesle river, and the high command had made other arrangements for the disposition of the American troops, the Chateau-Thierry front was turned over to the French troops and the Americans were relieved. In September, 1918, the 56th Regiment was relieved from duty on this front. The St Mihiel operation was undertaken at this time, but it was impossible to move the regiment to that front because of the lack of time. While the regiment was traveling by automobile convoy to the Argonne sector, word was received of the American successes at St. Mihiel.

The 56th Regiment arrived in the Argonne a week previous to the opening of the first drive on Sept. 26, 1918 during which it was constantly engaged in making preparations for the scheduled action. From Sept. 26 the first day of the famous Argonne drive, to Nov. 11, when the Armistice was signed, the 56th Regiment was constantly in action in the Argonne forest and received several citations from General Pershing for the character and bravery of its personnel. With the wheels of the artillery almost hub to hub, with over 3,000 guns of all calibre participating in the preliminary bombardment, there was perhaps no battle in the world that tested the calibre of the men engaged as the three drives carried out by the American army during this period but through it all the 56th Regiment stood as firm as the Rock of Gibraltar never flinching.

At the signing of the Armistice on Nov. 11 1918, the 56th Regiment was one of the first to be relieved from active duty at the front, and two weeks later was on its way to the coast for embarkation for America.

TITUS BEATS THURSTON FOR TITLE IN EASTERN CONN. TENNIS SINGLES

George L. Titus of New York, No. 1 man on last season's Amherst college tennis team is the singles champion of eastern Connecticut, having annexed that title by defeating Joseph W. Thurston of Hartford, last year's title-holder, in straight sets at the Norwich Golf club courts yesterday afternoon. Not only is Titus singles champion but he shares the doubles title with James E. Roantree of Norwich, this pair having won the title in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, from R. A. Powers of New London and Paul Kaufman of Washington. D. C. Titus defeated Thurston 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

It was a case of youth overcoming the experience of age in the singles between Titus and Thurston. The match was played on a court that was far from fast, due to the drenching rains of the early morning. It was due to this fact that Thurston was not able to give Titus keener competition. Titus had little difficulty with the veteran, his kills at the net catching Thurston in the back court without a chance of return. The collegian played a steady game throughout keeping Thurston on the move with his well placed returns to the far corners of the court and just over the net. Titus' victory did not come as a great surprise as he had been the favorite since his defeat of Harwood earlier in the tournament. However the gallery marveled at the stamina that Thurston displayed against his younger opponent.

With the winning of the title Titus will hold the Willowbrook trophy for a year, until the sixth annual championships, next September. The trophy has been won five times but no one has more than one leg on it. R. A. Powers won it the first year, Melvin H. Partridge, the second, Alexander M. Persons, the third and Joseph W. Thurston the fourth.

In the doubles finals Titus and Roantree proved too strong for the Powers-Kaufman combination and swept through to the title without much trouble. Titus, although having just finished three sets in the singles was equally as brilliant in the doubles. His partner, Jim Roantree, also played one of the best games of his tennis career, dashing to the net or to the base line to return almost sure points. This match was interesting but was not as fast as the semi-finals in which Roantree and Titus defeated Leighton and Thurston. The summaries:

SINGLES

Semi-Finals

Titus beat Leighton 6-3, 6-2

Finals

Titus beat Thurston 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

DOUBLES

Semi-Finals

Titus and Roantree beat Leighton and Thurston, 6-4, 8-6.

Powers and Kaufman won from Harte and Harte by default.

REDS HALT CARDS IN RUSH FOR THE FLAG

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 3—(AP)—Cincinnati put a temporary check on the St. Louis pennant ambitions today by taking two games from the Cardinals, 6 to 5 and 3 to 2. The first game was a hair raising contest as St. Louis went ahead in the ninth inning only to have the Reds tie it up and then win out in the eleventh. Both the tying and winning runs were driven over the plate by Pid Purdy. The second game was an utter rout as a barrage of hits in the sixth inning caused the Cardinal defense to crack and the Reds scored half a dozen runs.

The first contest was a parade of not only pitchers but infielders and outfielders as well. The Cardinals used fourteen players while Cincinnati called out fifteen.

YANKS BREAK EVEN IN LABOR DAY BILL

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—The Yankees got only an even break against the Boston Red Sox in the holiday double-header here today, winning 8 to 7 in the opener and losing 4 to 3 in the nightcap, but even so gained one full game on the Athletics, who lost two to Washington. The Mackmen now trail the champions by two and one-half games.

The Yanks got their even break only by dint of great effort. The teams seemed evenly matched throughout the two engagements. The visitors forced Huggins to use Heimach, Ryan, Moore and Hoyt to clinch the decision in the opener, and the game was in doubt up to the last put-out. Lou Gehrig got his twenty-third home run with none on in the first inning and Morris pitching. Rothrock parked one on Heimach with the bases filled in the third.

Jack Russell was too much for the Yankees through eight innings of the second clash and when he weakened in the ninth, Ed Morris, who had failed in the opener, rushed to the rescue. Henry Johnson pitched well enough, but the Yankees failed to get him enough margin in runs to prevent his defeat. Ken Williams provided the ultimate winning marker for Boston with a home run in the ninth.

WHITE SOX DOWN TIGERS IN BOTH HOLIDAY GAMES

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox celebrated Labor day by taking two long drawn out baseball games from the Detroit Tigers, winning the first 5 to 2 and the night cap 7 to 5 after two hours and 17 minutes of playing.

The Sox came from behind to take the second, scoring their seven runs in two innings. Blankenship started for the Pale Hose but was chased from the mound in the second inning. Cox followed but the Tigers got to him for four runs in the fourth. Young Ed Walsh then assumed the duties on the mound and held the invaders to three hits in 5 2-3 innings although hitting three men and walking two. Two of the hit batsmen were in the ninth but he tightened and held the Tigers scoreless. Score:

DUWELL CLUB PUTS ON ANOTHER SHOW FRIDAY

What will probably be the last of the open air amateur bouts of the season will be staged at Duwell Field on Friday night. The program of bouts has not been made up but it is expected that there will be at least ten bouts of fast action as the club is endeavoring to bring in two out of state amateur boxing teams to compete against each other. Of course a few of the best in the local ranks will also be on the card. This show is the only sanctioned amateur show in the state and is the third to be put on by the local club.

TUNNEY IS WELCOMED BY PARISIANS

PARIS, Sept. 3—(AP)—Gene Tunney was the world's champion heavyweight boxer for a half hour again tonight, so far as the Parisians were concerned.

A crowd including a large number of newspapermen and photographers, met him tonight on his arrival from London like a conquering hero.

Tunney was all smiles. He had forgotten most of the French he knew in the days when he was a "leatherneck" marine in France and most of what was said was incomprehensible to him. But whatever it was, it was a kind of public adulation and Tunney was pleased.

French men and women crowded and pummelled him in their enthusiasm, while the photographers' flashlights boomed and reporters shot questions at him.

It was in the course of these questions—translated to him from French by the Associated Press correspondent—that he forgot his smiles and became a very belligerent young man. One of the newspapermen asked him about his marriage.

"This is a matter in which the public or yourself is not interested. I am a private citizen and desire to be treated as such." Tunney never looked so much like a prizefighter as when he delivered his ultimatum. The Frenchmen were impressed.

But he immediately became the American tourist again. He asked the Associated Press correspondent to tell the reporters he would like to give them a half hour at his hotel, but first he wanted to be driven there for a short rest.

"Tell the boys this is no high hat stuff," he asked.

They concurred and he entered a waiting car with one of them to be driven to the George V hotel. En route he recognized and pointed out places of interest he had known during the war days here.

At the Tuilleres Gardens there was a touch of melancholy in his comment.

"There's where I trained for my first fight," he said.

And then added, "I didn't have a full meal in my belly the whole day."

"What do you think of Paulino Uscudun?" was the first question put to Tunney by the French reporters. He replied "There are so many claimants to the title which I have abandoned forever that I would feel that I was doing an injury to others if I reviewed the qualifications of any one."

"Have you quit the ring for good?"

"For good or bad, I am absolutely through with boxing," Tunney replied.

One reporter asked in French, "Is Mr. Tunney going to do moving picture work?" The retired champion without waiting for a translation said, "No, there aren't enough millions of dollars in the world to cause me to do cinema work just now."

With unruffled composure Tunney continued to answer questions patiently until finally he said, "Tell these boys that France fought for the rights of man in the revolution of 1791, and I am now asking that the rights of man be extended to me. I desire privacy and under the French constitution I am entitled to it. From now on, I would like to go about Paris like any other American visitor, only more so."

The French reporters gasped when this was translated for them. One of them said to the Associated Press representative, "He has his French history down to rock bottom. Let's leave him alone."

GIANTS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3—(AP)—Slashing the ball hard and often, the Giants took both games of the holiday double-header from the Phillies here today by scores of 4 to 3 and 9 to 3. This double success enabled the New Yorkers to climb back into second place ahead of the Cubs, who lost two to Pittsburgh. The clubs are in a virtual tie in games, but the Giants have a margin of five percentage points because of having played and lost fewer contests.

The first battle was closely fought. The Giants collected all their runs in the first inning when they knocked out Alex Ferguson, and the Phillies retaliated against Jack Scott for their three in the third. Ferguson gave way to Sweetland, but Scott lasted through to win his first complete game since re-joining the Giants.

The New Yorkers tanned Ed Baecht for 26 hits in eight innings of the second game and added one off Miller in the ninth. Jimmy Welsh got five consecutive safeties after entering the first time up. O'Doul had four.

PIRATES TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM CUBS IN HOLIDAY CARD

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates celebrated Labor day today by taking two games from the Chicago Cubs. The morning count was 16 to 1 and in the afternoon it was 6 to 3.

In the morning, the Buccaneers pounded four Chicago pitchers for 19 hits and 16 runs, Paul and Lloyd Waner, Comorosky and Bartell leading the attack. Chicago's only score was a home run by "Kiki" Cuyler, former Pirate.

The afternoon game was Ray Kremer's eighth straight victory. Although he was touched for 11 hits, he pitched good ball with men on bases, the Cubs having 12 men left on base. Paul Waner hit a homer and two singles in the afternoon fray. Paul played first base in both games, due to the illness of Grantham.

ATHLETICS GET TOUGH SETBACK IN PENNANT CHASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—The league leadership chase of the Philadelphia Athletics received a setback when the Washington Senators today captured a Labor day doubleheader 6 to 1 and 5 to 4.

Hadley was invincible in the opener, striking out eight batters and allowing but four hits. After walking the first two men in the initial inning, he struck out the next three. A bad throw by Reeves in the ninth on a play which would have retired the side, gave the Athletics their only score.

Marberry, who shut out New York yesterday and Bluege were the stars of the night cap. Marberry was called in the eighth with two runs in for Philadelphia in the inning and tying marker on first with none out. Miljus singled and a walk filled the bases. The veteran Eddie Collins was called in to bat for Bolev. With the count two strikes and two balls he chopped off a sharp drive between short and third. Bluege speared it out of the dirt and with the same motion almost got the ball to Harris at second for a force out. Harris shot it to first to kill the rall with a double play.

Manager Connie Mack rushed in a pair of pinch hitters in the ninth in a vain effort and Marberry with his cannon ball struck out both in the twilight. French was the first victim. Bishop was retired then but Dykes got a walk. With two out another of the Athletics' bench full of veteran stars was called upon. Ty Cobb who had doubled as a pinch hitter in the first game swung three times and the game was over. Washington went into the lead in the fifth without making a hit. Earnshaw, the starting pitcher for Philadelphia, walked four men before being relieved in this frame. The other run was chalked up on a force out.

Philadelphia's first two runs in the final game were a gift from Bluege who let an easy roller go through him with two out. The ball took a bad bound but he was given an error. His fielding, however, and sensational one-handed catch of a deep drive from Miller's bat by West were features of the games.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 3—As the result of a fight between brothers John and Zygmont Dobbrinia, 97 Franklin street, John is in the Anderson hospital and Zygmont is under arrest.

At the hospital it was found that John, aged 30, may have sustained a fracture of the skull. Lieut. George H. Champlin and Officer George L. Madison, in response to a complaint, visited the place at 97 Franklin street where John was found in an automobile in a dazed condition. Zygmont, 26, is reported to have admitted his part in the fracas and was taken to the Westerly police station to await the outcome of his brother's injuries.

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS, ORDERED INTO COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. Sept. 3—Bradford Shinkle, Jr., of Watch Hill, has been given a summons to appear in third district court to answer to an automobile speeding charge. He operated his auto at 3:30 p. m. on Granite street and East avenue, clocked at 46 miles on Granite street and 50 on East avenue by the motorcycle officer. In that distance he passed six cars going in the same direction and two in the opposite, passing two cars on East avenue.

Irving W. Miner, 17 Summer street, had a fainting spell about 10 o'clock Labor day morning on Broad street. He was picked up by three men and taken into the Barbour drug store. Pharmacist Timothy J. Connors rendered first aid and Miner was able in a short time to return to his home.

Labor day morning early heavy showers began. With a strong south wind and high tide the visitors along the shore witnessed huge breakers carried high up on the shore. The rain of the forenoon kept many indoors and there was little auto traffic. At 2 p. m., the sun appeared through the clouds and homeward-bound automobiles with returning shore visitors filled the streets and highways. Afternoon trains on the New Haven railroad were operated in several sections. The Westerly station was a most busy place in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Caird, Mrs. Charles Robb and John Bryson all of New York, were guests of Mrs. George Booth Sunday.

Alexander G. Thompson of New York was a week-end and holiday visitor with his family in Westerly.

Dennis J. Brophy was a Sunday visitor at Rocky Point.

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 3—Edward Saddow, 17, residing with his mother at 49 John street, is a patient at Westerly hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, bad laceration on the chin and abrasions on the left elbow as the result of being sideswipped by an automobile on the Westerly-Watch Hill road about 10:15 o'clock Labor day morning. Alexander A. Koswick, Grand Concourse, New York city, reported the accident Monday noon at the Westerly police station to Officer Leroy H. Norman. He stated that the boy, a caddy at Misquamicut Golf club, jumped from an automobile and ran across the highway toward the golf grounds at the intersection of lower Avondale and Watch Hill roads, as he was driving up the Watch Hill road toward Westerly. Mr. Koswick was operating an eight-cylinder Hupmobile. Mr. Koswick, who is president of the Koswick-Johann Motor company, also president of the Fordham National bank, sustained a cut on the third finger of his left hand. Both the boy and himself were treated at the hospital by Dr. Richard O. B. Shea. A man accompanying Mr. Koswick escaped injury. When the driver saw the boy crossing the street he applied the brakes and swung his car to the right side of the highway so that the car struck its nose into a stone wall and turned over on its side. The imprisoned men had to break the glass in the auto to extricate themselves. The boy when struck by the side of the auto was knocked down in the road. William J. Dower, 70 Cross street, driving the truck of the John Edmond company, and passing at the time picked up the boy and took him to the hospital. Motorcycle Police Officer George L. Madison investigated. Koswick was ordered to appear in third district court on Friday next. An X-ray is to be taken at the hospital to determine the extent of the boy's injuries.

Some difficulty may be experienced in finding a quorum as Councilman Joseph Fraser has not returned from his summer home at Carter Notch, Jefferson, N. H., and Councilman George E. At this meeting the council will vote to pay the bill for state troopers on the Westerly police force, $464.14 for August, the state troopers in the service of the town being Bonat, Nolan and Graemiger. The matter of establishing a building line on High and Broad streets is also to be voted upon.

Perry and Rev. Dixon. The floral tributes were beautiful. Burial was in Riverside cemetery, Wakefield. The bearers were Charles Green, Adolph Morris, Herman Potter and Thomas Rogers.

A large busload of Westerly democrats and members of the Smith-Arch-ambault club of Westerly left Sunday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock in a coach of the Rhode Island coach company for Rocky Point. Some were disappointed in not being able to hear Mayor Walker, of New York who was scheduled to be one of the speakers, and whose absence was not announced until late in the afternoon.

The Dance Hall Nine team played the fast Philadelphia Bears in the Quaker City Saturday afternoon, leaving the fishing village Friday evening by train, and putting up at the city hotel, going down to the field early so as to toss the ball around for a hour. It was 4 o'clock when Umpire Fred McCann called the game. Coach Billie Crane sent to the hill his star spitball pitcher, P. Steel, with Hurry-Up Chesebro to catch. Coach Dan Green was looking for Cannonball Harris to stop the Noankers and Smiling Carr was catcher. A crowd of 3,000 fans came to see the game The Dance Hall Nine wore their new suits for the first time; the colors are gray with a blue stripe and on the shirt a fellow and girl dancing. The dance sheiks' outfielders had to go to the fence to catch the hard hit balls for those Philadelphia fence-busters could hit. Spit ball was not breaking good for Noank's star pitcher. In the 7th inning the longest hit ever seen on Jackson field was made with a man on second base. Long George Swan for the Bears caught the spitball and sent it over the fence. An auto was parked on the street and the ball broke a window in the sedan. The fans went wild running on the field and a shower of straw hats swamped the hero. The game was held up 7 minutes while the ground keeper cleaned up the straw hats. Then the score was 2 to 0 in favor of Philadelphia. The dance hall floor-jumpers had their last chance to tie the score in the ninth inning with two men out and one man on first base. Coach Crane sent in Pinch-Hitter Moran, in place of Pitcher Steele and Cannonball Harris sent over a fast high ball that Moran got on the end of the bat for a home run, tying the score. Then the Noank rooters did some cheering and Cannonball Harris got the next man out.

It was some battle to watch, plenty of thrills with the sun going behind a cloud. In the 11th inning Spitball Steele got in hot water with the bases full and two men out. He hit third baseman H. Bell and that forced in the run. The final score was Bears 3, Dance Hall team 2. A big time was given to the Noank team in Lawrence hall with a supper and then a dance until a late hour—a real time, the team getting home Sunday noon.

Eddie Morgan who is spending a few weeks at Edgarton, Mass., is a farmer by trade and raises green corn and potatoes. The farmers of that town held an outing Saturday evening in Grange hall and a radio broadcasting station was set in the hall. Farmers came from all over to enjoy themselves. A short program was put on. An ox cart with three farmers in blue overalls and a hoe over their shoulders was brought on and they sang "Farmer Gray Took Another Load Away." They made a big hit. A soft shoe dance was done by Sid Burns with Miss Susan McNulty at the piano. They asked Farmer Morgan from the fishing village, to talk over the radio and tell about raising green corn. Several Noank radio owners tuned in to hear Eddie's voice over the air. He told about the corn, some with the largest ears seen in the town in nine years. After his talk he was given applause that lasted for several minutes.

Prof. Everett Fitch of Yale college who spends his summers in Noank was the teacher, also wrote the play. He had a class of 30 pupils, school opening by everyone singing "Good Morning, Teacher." All the pupils said a verse and Teacher Fitch had the house on edge with his jokes. When their lunch hour came some had a lobster and a crab, green corn, etc. Funny rigs were worn by Miss Noank and Miss Town Dock. A joke was told about John Ashly going to get a comb and brush to keep his hair straight and Mrs. Jane Carson was going to give a nickel toward it, she could be heard laughing up to the waiting room. "Where did you get that dream?" was asked of Miss Town Dock. by Teacher Fitch. "In Jane Palmer's missionary barrel," she answered. Eddie Andrews, a local meat cutter at Groton Long Point was on the school committee giving a short talk to the class. Hadley Fitch was presented a large head of cabbage as a bouquet for outspelling his schoolmates. It was the funniest sketch with local hits given in the village for a long time.

A Pathetic Case.

Following a telephone call to the state police of the Danielson barracks, Wednesday, an officer was sent to Howard Valley to investigate a complaint that a Swede named Duneer, had run amuck and threatened to kill his neighbors. The man, recluse, lived alone on a little farm owned by him. During the war a favorite son of Duneer was listed as missing. Incessant worry and grief as the years passed with no more definite news of the boy affected his reason and following the death of his wife about three years ago he condition has steadily become worse. The neighbors were reluctant to take action, considering the man harmless until recently. Wednesday morning Duneer made his appearance at the farm formerly owned by Henry Hank and informed the new owners that they had no right to buy that place or to live there and that he would kill them all that night. From a semi-invalid of a few years ago the man has developed into a husky giant weighing over 200 pounds. During the first four months there has been numerous instances where he has terrorized strangers who have unwittingly come in contact with him. The officer took him in charge and he was committed to the Norwich State hospital.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES.

The Wonderful Legion.

The Captain goes with a wooden sword,
The soldiers with wooden guns;
Their paper caps are a glorious sight
As they march where the hallway runs;
Biggest boy, with his constant smile;
Goldenest girl, with her fife;
And the baby of all with his strident stey—
The wonderful legion of life.

And up and down the room;
And a waving of sword and stamping of feet,
And cheeks of the apple bloom:
The wonderful legion of Little Child,
Captain and soldiers all—
Setting the heart of the nation wild
As they march through the little hall!

One, two, three in a little row,
The drum and the fife and sword—
And this is the glory I'd rather know
As I go through life, dear Lord:
This beauty of simple and happy hearts
In the childhood play of Mars,
Leading us on to the hills of light,
Lifting us up to the stars!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES

The playgrounds season in this city was officially closed a few days ago with thousands or boys and girls having been registered at the various play centers which have been in operation under the supervision of the recreation commission. We are told that the attendance this year shows an increase over the previous season, due in part to the twilight games conducted at the Academy campus. The games have drawn an average attendance of 1,000 or a total attendance of 45,000 persons for the season. With the closing of the league 45 games will have been played.

How many boys and girls of the Wide-awake circle have attended these contests? By witnessing these games it is only logical that you became interested in some one player or team and as a result engaged in friendly arguments with your friends, who had picked a different team to cop the championship. It would be interesting for you to write of your opinion of the team you chose, especially as to the merits of the players, or any point that may be of interest to the members.

If you are not interested in baseball, pick some other feature of the playgrounds to write upon. In a few paragraphs tell why you think it is the most interesting and of the benefits derived from it, physically or educationally. Try to write original stories for the page, as they count a great deal more in winning prize books than those that are copied.

WINNERS OF PRIZE BOOKS.

Bernice Watrous, Mystic: A World of Girls.

STORIES WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Norwich

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write about Norwich. Most of us do not realize what a marvelous title "The Rose of New England" is. Let's stop and think what this title means. It means that Norwich is the most beautiful city in the New England states, which consist of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Among many historical points is the old Indian's grave on Sachem street, where Uncas is buried.

Our museum in the Slater hall is also beautiful. It contains many statues which every boy and girl should see.

Rain Spoiled Day

Dear Uncle Jed: Last Sunday my mother, father and my sister and I took a ride to Ocean Beach. At first my mother did not want to go in swimming. My sister teased her so that she finally went in. The water was very cold. We stayed in the water for a few hours and then we got dressed.

We no sooner got seated in the park to eat our lunch than it started to rain. That spoiled the whole day.

Everything was packed in the lunch bag and we had to start home. I hope all the Wide Awakes will read my story.

MARGARET HEIBEL,
Age 14.
Taftville.

Sir Galahad

Dear Uncle Jed: What a happy vacation I've had although I'll be almost as happy to get back to my books. I'm about to tell you and the Wide Awakes about Sir Galahad.

Sir Galahad was the purest knight of King Arthur's round table. He was a kind honest and pure man. His aim was to protect the weak while looking for the "Holy Grail." This was the cup that the Saviour drank out of at the last supper. Only the pure, true and honest were allowed to see it.

If we were to see the "Holy Grail" we would have to forget ourselves in loving service to others.

Painting by Rosa Bonheur

Dear Uncle Jed: Have you ever seen the picture Rosa Bonheur painted? The Horse Fair is the name of it. It hangs in the Metropolitan museum and is 16 1-2 feet long.

This is a picture of horses Rosa saw at the Paris fair. You can see the tower of the Invalides in the distance. This picture was painted in the summer. The men have no coats or hats on. The shadows tell it was a sunshiny day. If you glance at the picture you would first notice a black horse that is rearing. He and the white horse, that you next notice, must be Arabians; they are so beautiful and graceful. There are two Flemish horses; they are very strong. Their rider is having a hard time to hold them.

Rosa Bonheur was born in France in 1822. Her father was an artist and allowed her to paint all she wished. She loved to paint animals. Thus painting is the largest of animals in the world.

A Happy Future

Dear Uncle Jed: When my brother, who is 19 years old now, was a little boy, he liked to play a drum. He would tie a string around the tin can he found, get two sticks and play.

Of course, all boys do things of this kind to pass time, but my brother was interested in it. My father always said he would sometime get him a drum.

This time seemed never to come to my anxious brother. The time came at last in January of last year. My father bought him a drum outfit. My brother was so delighted that he decided to take lessons.

This Christmas my brother got another outfit which is much bigger and better than the first one. It also has a picture on the bass drum. He has been taking lessons over a year and can play good. He gets jobs once in a while.

I am proud of my brother and hope to succeed as he did some day.

I hope my story is interesting to you and the Wide-Awakes.

A Poor Tramp or a Thief

Dear Uncle Jed: Dreary and fatigued "Old Tom" who was an aged tramp known in many neighborhoods dragged his fainting feet to a large farmhouse. In this house dwelled a farmer, his wife and four children. As "Old Tom" approached the poor farmer's residence, he heard that someone was sweeping the floor. As the entrance was a screen door "Old Tom" did not bother himself to knock.

"Gimme—" he commenced to say. Slam! went another door which the tramp did not see because it opened into the room. He could not finish his sentence because "someone" who was sweeping was too quick for him. Downheartedly the old tramp turned away. Very slowly he walked away staring in all directions. After trying several other homes he was "turned down." ight approached. Therefore Tom roamed back to the place where the door had been slammed in his face. As he had noticed in his first visit where the hen house stood, he had very little trouble in finding it. Two large fat hens Tom wisely selected. Half the hen the theif, for such he proved to be, stored in some paper for breakfast. He had a wise plan involving the other hen. The next morning very early he washed himself and tried to appear as decent as possible. After doing this he picked up the hen and proceeded to the farm from which he had stolen it. With clever ideas the tramp was able to sell the hen which he had stolen to her owner.

The Bungalow Spider

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story about a spider. One morning I went down with my mother to pick blackberries. I saw a large spider web but didn't see any spider. Soon I saw some leaves all curled up and fastened to the web, that was where it was. It was so large it nearly frightened me. Its body was about as large as the end of my thumb.

It was light green, and its legs were striped brown and green. It had such a nice little house, I called it the bungalow spider.

My friend and I were talking of having a little fair, so I wanted to take it home to put in the fair.

It kept still and stayed in its house until I got home.

When my brother saw it he made a loud noise, then it came walking out on top of its house to see what the noise was about. I was so frightened I threw it in the stove, and that was the end of the bungalow spider.

Visits Providence Park

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a new comer to the circle and I wish to tell you of a trip I took to Roger Williams park in Providence one day this summer.

I with about 20 other boys, members of our Sunday School class, motored to this lovely park, one of the finest in the country, and named for the founder of Rhode Island.

I saw flowers of all kinds, acres of lawns, walks, and drives.

I was interested in the animals. There were bears, bison, deer, monkeys, seals and crocodiles.

A museum contains all kinds of stuffed animals, birds fish, etc. A boat house caught fire, so I had a chance to see the firemen and fire engines. They worked hard and saveded the building.

We had a fine time riding on the merry go round, too.

About five o'clock we left for our homes after having had a very p

BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND IN RIVER AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—William Otis of East New London, this morning at 6:10 o'clock discovered a body floating in the water off the dock of the Central Vermont railroad. He reported his discovery to the police department and Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Dennis Murphy were ordered to investigate. It was found that a rope tied to a car coupling was tied about the body of the man, who appeared to about 45. There were no articles of identification on his person and police today have been busy attempting to uncover some clue as to who he may be. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of James M. Kelley. Dr. Charles Kauffman was summoned to examine the body. His report was to the effect that the man had been in the water for several weeks.

Great interest is being shown in the contemplated inauguration of electric stop-and-go traffic signals in this city. City Manager Holt plans to have them installed sometime this week or next, at several of the busiest intersections of the city. Should they prove successful they will be placed at all points where traffic is heavy.

LEGION POST PREPARES FOR BIG ARMISTICE DAY

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—As a result of plans being made by members of John Coleman Prince post, No. 9, American Legion, for a huge celebration November 11 on the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, citizens are being urged to become members of a general committee being organized for the purpose of assisting in the success of the affair. The committee is headed by Major General Morris B. Payne. Plans are forming to have representatives of every military unit in New England in this city for the celebration, while several speakers of nation-wide fame have been invited to be present. Colonel H. S. Dorsey is treasurer of the committee and Lieut.-Col. Thomas E. Troland is secretary.

Traffic through this city today was sharply in contrast with that which passed through yesterday and Saturday. Owing to the heavy rain, autos literally limped over Bank and State streets. Thousands of out of state machines passed through, evidently returning from uncompleted holiday trips, as most of them had been noted in the morning.

FIVE MEMBERS OF FAMILY SURVIVE CRASH, GIRL KILLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—Physicians at the Lawrence Memorial hospital today reported the condition of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Orange and three children as greatly improved. The Orange family yesterday figured in an automobile crash at the corner of Thames street and Ocean avenue, when Mr. Orange was attempting to pass a car driven by Larry Knowlton of 28 Thames street. Mr. and Mrs. Orange and two of the children are suffering only slight lacerations and bruises. An eight year old son, however, has a double fracture of the pelvic bone. His condition is much more encouraging today than was anticipated by the physicians in charge of the case, and it is thought that he will completely recover from the injury. The body of Madeline, six year old daughter who was killed in the crash is being prepared for forwarding to Southington, Conn., where the Orange family resides.

MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT FATAL TO MRS. MARITARI

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—Alfreda Maritari, whose wife died last night at Lawrence Memorial hospital, as a result of injuries sustained when his motorcycle crashed yesterday afternoon, is staying at the home of his sister, 55 Smith street. At the time of the accident he was knocked unconscious. Today his condition is improved.

Mrs. Minnie W. Keasbey of 833 Ocean avenue reported to the police today, that a sign had been stolen some time last night from the gate in front of her home. The sign was painted green and the numerals 833 were on it in silver. The theft is thought to have been the result of some boyish prank.

At Ocean beach ordinarily there is a large crowd on Labor day. This year, however, it was a deserted place. Reservations that had been made during the past week were canceled and, owing to the downpour today the attendance at the resort was scantily more than on a week day. Restaurant and hotel owners who had planned for a rush suffered heavy loss due to the fact that they had purchased large supplies of food in anticipation of a record crowd.

Road house proprietors in and about New London have reported one of the most successful seasons ever experienced. One manager stated yesterday that the prosperity enjoyed by inns in general was unprecedented. His establishment, all during the summer months, attracted tourists from every state in the Union. Equally good reports have been made by other managers.

The public schools of this city will begon the fall term next week, when more than 2,000 children will have ended vacation. They have had bathing privileges at Green's Harbor beach and at Ocean beach and through all the surrounding territory there were facilities to enjoy woods and fields. Many of the more ambitious boys have earned enough during the vacation season to provide their clothing during the year for there was employment for those who sought it and the earning came easy. It was especially easy money that came to the crafty urchins who sold papers in the streets (the Sunday papers that are on sale here Saturday afternoon) and charged 12 cents a copy for them.

A horse show on Fishers Island in which there were some handsome horses and excellent riding, attracted many from this city Saturday. The entries were generally those in summer residents on the island, but there were also many horses in the show from a public stable established on the island to meet the demand of the residents there during the summer. So lively has been the season at the island that it will be prolonged till the middle of the month.

New London passed through Sunday and Monday with very few accidents through the operation of autos, though the number of machines in use was very large.

The federal prohibition officials at the local customs house have stored so little liquor of late, from seizures in the sound and near waters that they say they would hardly recognize a seizure were it made. There is practically no liquor at the customs house now, for the supply stored there has been removed to the New Haven storage or its activities broken up and the booze spilled on the ground. A night watchman is kept on duty at the customs house so that the little liquor held there is safe from theft or consumption.

There was no meeting of the city council this evening, the session being postponed to Tuesday because today was a holiday.

New London will take no recognition of its natal day, next Thursday, beyond the display of the flag. No public exercises have been arranged, though in the schools allusion to the anniversary will be made as brief exercises may be a part of the day's program.

Part of the force at the Portland Fishery works, Groton, worked last night and today. They were kept busy, too.

There have been fewer large yachts in this harbor this summer, except at boat race time, than ever before. Not more than two or three good-sized pleasure craft have been at anchor here at any time. A few years ago vessels of this class were in the harbor all during the cruising season.

An unidentified man was arrested shortly after noon today for attempting to steal a ride on the New Haven railroad. Railroad Policeman Peabody happened to spy the man just as he was endeavoring to secure a perch on the underneath rods of a freight.

Joseph Loughlin and Harry Logary of this city were arrested on North Bank street this afternoon by Acting Sergt. Augustus Ray and Patrolman Philopena for being drunk and disorderly. Both were held over for trial tomorrow morning. Patrolman Philopena arrested Albert Ivery for acting in a disorderly manner on Water street about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

RAINY, BORROWS A CAR— PENALTY IS $50 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—Karl Pederson of this city, while walking down Broad street this morning, happened to spy a very nice looking automobile belonging to O. F. McClow of 182 Broad street. Being a rainy morning, Pederson thought it would be more comfortable to ride than to walk. Accordingly he proceeded to borrow the car. About an hour later, McClow discovered that his car was gone and made complaint to the police. Pederson was quickly apprehended. He was tried in the police court shortly before noon and was fined $50 and costs.

Lawrence W. Cann of Cape Cod was arrested this afternoon for having his car parked on Bank street so that passing trolleys could not get by. He was taken to the police court and fined $2 and costs.

Patrolman Cockell was unable to report for duty tonight owing to the fact that he was taken suddenly ill this afternoon around 4 o'clock.

Mrs. James Smiddy, who has been critically ill at her home in Montauk avenue, showed improvement today.

Swordfish, which have been numerous in the waters of the sound, have struck off of late. The catches are few and the fish of smaller size than were captured a few weeks ago. The haddock catches are so large that 700,000 pounds of fish a week is brought to the Fisheries Co. at Groton.

The improvements in Jay and Truman streets, which have been in progress several weeks, are completed and the roadway has been widened so as to permit the passage of an additional car along that highway. The improvement has reduced congestion on Bank street. A dangerous corner at Huntington and Jay street has been eliminated. All the trees have been removed from the street and sidewalks on Truman street and the highways have been widened.

Intense interest was manifested today in the result of the baseball games between Washington and the Yankees at Washington. The first news that came as to the result was by radio.

A coroner's inquest was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock over the deaths of the 3-year-old daughter of Maurice Orange of Southington, Conn., and Mrs. Alfred Marivari of this city, who were killed yesterday in an auto and motorcycle accident. The findings were that both persons met their death as a result of unavoidable accidents.

Hotels in this city had an unexpectedly large number of guests tonight as a result of passing tourists who stopped over here in preference to reaching their vacation objective, owing to the heavy rain storm of the forenoon.

BOTH PARTIES SEEKING AVAILABLE CANDIDATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—Both republican and democratic town committees are casting about for candidates for the general assembly. George W. Sisson, who served most acceptably in the house at the last session, will probably be the candidate of the republicans for senator, but the representative candidates are as yet unselected. The democrats have given no hint who their candidates will be.

Tyler Square park has been put in condition for the reception of the monument which the Italian societies are to erect there. The marble is to come from Italy and work on its erection will begin within the next fortnight. The base is to be of granite and the shaft of Para marble. A great celebration is to mark the dedication of the monument.

OVER 10,000 PEOPLE ATTEND ELKS' FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 3—A capacity crowd of 10,000 people coming from all parts of the state attended the closing night of the tenth annual Elks' Country fair at the Elks' park here Labor day night. The two big events of the evening were the bathing beauty contest in which 12 Connecticut girls under the leadership of Miss Hartford took part, and the giving away of seven automobiles and one three-passenger airplane. The bathing beauty contest was won by Miss Beulah Newell of Willimantic. Two other awards were made.

The matinee was omitted owing to wet grounds. The dog show, however, was successfully conducted with about 75 entries. Details of the dog show and bathing beauty contest will be given in Wednesday's Bulletin.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The combined acting skill of Emil Jannings and the directing of Josef von Sternberg stamp "The Last Command," which appears at the Palace theatre, as one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

Jannings, whose unusual characterizations in such Paramount productions as "The Way of All Flesh" and "Variety" and others, who has brought the unanimous acclaim of critics as the greatest living character actor on stage or screen, plays the role of a Russian general in this new picture.

After a long absence from the screen, Sydney Chaplin returns in a hilarious English comedy, "Skirts," released through Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and is now showing at the Palace theatre.

In most of Mr. Chaplin's successes since his memorable "Charley's Aunt," in which the action centered about his impersonating a middle aged woman, the star has been given roles in which he has to wear female habiliments during at least some parts of the action.

Much of the hilarious comedy takes place in a popular London cabaret where the two "free souls" immediately betake themselves as soon as they find themselves "wifeless."

Breed Theater.

Under the shadow of gigantic guns on the turret deck of a French battleship, some of the most exciting and dramatic scenes occur in "The Night Watch," a First National picture starring Bille Dove, which closes tonight at the Breed theater. An unusually tense and dramatic story, "The Night Watch" takes place almost entirely aboard the battleship, which was reproduced almost in its entirety within the First National studios through the ingenuity of art directors and designers.

Alexander Korda directed "The Night Watch," the story of which was taken from the stage success "In The Night Watch," originally produced on Broadway a few years ago.

AUCTION SALE
By order of the Superior Court for New London County, I will sell at public auction, on Wednesday, September 5, 1928, at 2 o'clock P. M. (D. S. T.) the premises situated on the southerly side of Main street and known as Nos. 115, 117, 119 Main Street, Norwich, Conn.

YELLOWSTONE PARK SIGHTS DESCRIBED BY MRS. SPICER

Continuing her letter from Yellowstone Park Mrs. Charles E. Spicer writes:

Entering the park we began to climb the Rockies and climb is the right word! We saw all the entertaining things from Hot Springs, boiling springs to much springs that boiled like pudding. The wonderful canyon; we climbed the Dunraven pass 8859 feet. The falls at the Grand Canyon were beautiful and the colors of the Grand Canyon are something I cannot describe. The Dragon's Mouth spring belched out hot, clear water and clouds of steam. We could see very plainly the elephant head on Shoshone highway highway. We stayed at Mammoth Springs in the park in one of the cabins. It was lots of fun. There was a small sheet iron stove in the hut and the porter from the lodge comes in the morning and lights your fire if you wish it. By this time we crossed the Continental Divide 8240 feet twice in the park. It began to rain and we traveled over mountains and passes of very high altitude in Wyoming mud. Believe me, that was, with chains on, extremely dangerous. Some of the trails, wide enough for one car, a slight skid meant a drop of hundreds of feet, as these trails are not protected at all. Sunday night we stayed at Angels' ranch, a real one—elevation over 800 feet. The mountain top next to use was covered by snow during the night and we passed through a hail squall today on these mountains. This morning before we left, a party came to this ranch who had to spend the night on the mountain, the mud was so slippery. We passed Crowheart town—population of 20. It is an Indian town and we saw the squaws and Indians about the town, afterwards passing through the Shoshone Indian reservations. They have a nice school there. From here tomorrow we are told, we cross a grade of seven miles long with gradual grade. Roads are still Wyoming clay and I am wishing (believe me) it doesn't rain! To tell you all I have seen would take a book but we have had an excellent time. I like the people of the west. They are so courteous and cordial. We saw one Connecticut car in Illinois and I thought he would fall out of his car to greet us! At the Mammoth Springs lodge, they gave their guests an hour's entertainment and then dancing. Your supper and breakfast was included with your cabin. To this ranch last night four other parties came, one from Texas, another from Ohio and the others from Nebraska. We were a jolly crowd. You ought to see one of the girls at this ranch ride! Wyoming is the true ranch cowboy state. They are so nice and such big, strapping men and hardy women! But they are very much up to the times just the same. They served us a supper and breakfast as nice as any in the east at home. We are all well and shall surely be spoiled by the time we get home.

Mrs. W. H. Payne and daughter, Barbara, are at Pleasant View for a month. W. H. Payne and H. W. Olin spent the week-end there.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church has been invited to meet at the cottage next week Thursday.

RABALM RELIEVED VARICOSE SUFFERING
Discards Elastic Stockings After Using Two Jars
"My VARICOSE condition along with eczema about my ankles has been so bad, that my family physician, who, by the way, is also a surgeon, told me the veins could not be removed as it would be like removing the bark from a tree," says Mrs. Joe. P. Glynn, Miller Place, Merrick, N. Y. "My legs were completely surrounded by varicose veins. After having used the second jar ($1.00 size) of Rabalm, the eczema has disappeared and the veins are greatly reduced so I am able to discard the elastic stockings which I have worn for the past 10 years. Thanks to the wonderful discovery of Rabalm! If my name would in any way help those who suffer as I did, you have my personal consent to use it."
If you are suffering the torture which Varicose Veins can give, start using Rabalm tonight, and speedily find relief as Mrs. Glynn and many others have done before you. Two sizes: 50-cents, and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. Rabalm is for sale by all druggists.

In addition Cloutier agreed to pay to his victim, Joseph Petrone, of this city, approximately $1,300 in hospital and medical bills.

It was nearly three years ago that Cloutier, while driving on Boswell avenue, near St. Mary's cemetery hit and badly injured Mr. Petrone as he was either boarding or alighting from a trolley car. The date of the accident was December 18, 1925. Both of Mr. Petrone's legs were broken, and he was badly cut about the head. His injuries confined him to the W. W. Backus hospital for some time.

MAY SECURE GOV. TRUMBULL FOR POSTPONED DEDICATION

Owing to the heavy rain Monday, the flag pole dedication which was to have been held at the fairgrounds Monday afternoon has been postponed until Saturday of this week. The rain which started in before daylight continued to fall until early afternoon and at the time the committee in charge of the celebration decided to postpone the event, there was little or no sign that the weather would clear. The members of the committee anxiously watched the skies throughout the morning for some sign of a break in the clouds. They decided to wait until 12:30 o'clock before acting and when that hour arrived, with the rain still falling, the committee decided on the postponement.

Working in squads, the committee got in touch with the various guests and speakers by telephone, notifying them that it was deemed necessary to postpone the event until Saturday. Guests and speakers alike voiced regret that the event could not be held as scheduled and promised that they would be present at the fairgrounds Saturday.

United States Senator Hiram Bingham informed the committee that it would be impossible for him to attend the celebration on Saturday, owing to a previous appointment. The senator stated that he will assist the committee in an effort to induce Gov. John H. Trumbull to attend the programme Saturday. Announcement was made Monday evening that all those who had concessions on the ground will be on hand Saturday.

In addition to notifying the guests and speakers of the forced postponement, the members of the committee explained to the hundreds who appeared at the grounds as soon as the weather had cleared that the event had been postponed. The majority of those who went to the grounds to attend the celebration informed the committee and others at the gates that they would plan to be present Saturday.

An added feature of the programme Saturday will be a gentleman's riding contest, with a prize for the driver of the best appearing horse and carriage in a procession around the race track.

Announcement was made Monday evening that the programme will be carried out Saturday as had been planned for Monday. The day's events will start at 10 o'clock in the morning with the dedication taking place at 2 o'clock. The baseball games will be played by the same teams scheduled to play Monday. The other events will include lariat throwing, bareback riding, trottin gevents and the athletic numbers will include the three mile, two mile, one mile, half mile, quarter mile races and the 100 yard dash.

It is expected that the horse sheds will be completed by Saturday and that the new fence will be up around the outside line of the tracks. The rail on the inside line of the track has been completed. It is also expected that the new merchants' booths will be erected by that time. The committee is seeking volunteer workers to speed up the construction work.

"MARY'S OTHER HUSBAND" MAKES HIT AT BROADWAY

The fourth offering of the Garrick Players, stock company, Mary's Other Husband, staged at the Broadway theatre, under the direction of Bob Stevens and Jack Dunigan, was decidedly well received at both the matinee and evening performances Monday. The holiday audiences were large and were delighted with the play. The cast follows:

The story is unfolded in Mary's apartment, somewhere in New York city, and brings situations and comic scenes in a manner that is refreshing. The players entered the spirit of the play with gusto and all gave a splendid account of themselves. There was not a flaw in one single characterization which speaks well for any stock company. In the reviewer's opinion Mary's Other Husband is a better comedy than The Baby Cyclone, George M. Cohan's comic effort which the players a good comedy and all who attended a good comed vand all who attended were more than pleased. Charles Mylot as the doting uncle gave a splendid comic interpretation. Peter Ferguson as the "Butter and Egg" husband was very good. Pearl Young gave by far her best performance as the hard boiled maid, Stella. Irving Morrow pleased more this week in the role of Mary's other husband than in any of his previous efforts. Mr. Morrow is splendid. Sally Wall, Helen Vincent, Geo. Dunigan and Jack Byrne all gave splendid performances. The staging under the capable direction of Jack Byrne was all that could be desired.

HEAVY TRAFFIC MONDAY ON STATE HIGHWAYS

Thousands of residents who have terminated their summer vacation and thousands of others who scattered to the seashore and countryside as Labor day stopped business activity in the city, began their return home Monday in a procession that, in spite of the heavy rain, brought traffic on the state highway to its season's peak.

Every available state policeman went on traffic patrol duty Monday morning with instructions from Commissioner Robert T. Hurley to make every effort to reduce the large number of accidents usually occurring on such a holiday. The commissioner also asked the co-operation of every motor vehicle operator to do his or her part in curtailing the heavy toll in property and lives which has been paid every year on Labor day.

MANY TOWNS HAVE NO BOYS' INDUSTRIAL PROGRAMME

A recent survey conducted by Connecticut Junior Achievement, Inc., reveals the astounding fact that over 100 towns in the state have no industrial program for boys, and nearly as many provide no homecraft program for girls. These facts are even more surprising when it is considered that Connecticut is very largely an industrial state and hence the majority of its boys and girls will sooner or later take their places in some department of industry. Scattered over the entire state, even in the small settlements and towns, may be found small and large manufacturing plants of every description.

NORWICH TOWN

REV. F. H. ROSE AND PARTY RETURN FROM EDGARTOWN

Rev. Francis H. Rose, Mrs. Rose and their daughter, Elinor Virginia Rose, of the Philippine Islands, who have been spending the summer at Rev. Mr. Rose's former home at Norwich Town, have just returned from a visit of ten days at Edgartown, Mass., Mrs. Rose's former home. They were accompanied by Mr. Rose's nieces, Doris Estelle, Muriel Blanche and Norma Rose, also by his nephew, Clayton Rose. The party left Norwich Town Aug. 21 by automobile, the purpose of the trip to close up the home of Mrs. Rose's mother, Mrs. Coombs, wife of the late Rev. Irving W. Coombs, who at present is at the home of her son at Henniker, N. H. Mrs. Coombs is soon to return to Norwich Town, to pass the remainder of September at the home of Rev. Mr. Rose's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose, of Wauwecus Hill. While at Edgartown, automobile trips were taken to points of interest, picnic parties were enjoyed, also good bathing. A feature of especial interest to the young folks was digging clams which were found in abundance. The party returned home Friday night.

The beautiful weather, Saturday, attracted Norwich people to the 250th anniversary celebration of Salem Congregational church. From Norwich Town in attendance at both morning and afternoon services, were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whitman and their automobile guest, Mrs. Andrew Gardner; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lathrop and guest, Mrs. Annie Pike, of Worcester, also their daughter, Mrs. John Collins, and little son; Mrs. George A. Through the hospitality of the women of Salem, those present were entertained with a dinner of tempting salads, sandwiches, cakes, coffee lemonade and ice cream, served in cafeteria style. Following the interesting history of the church at the morning session, by Rev. Sherrod Soule, the afternoon session was equally as interesting when those present listened to the inspiring address by United States Senator Hiram Bingham. Many waited after and personally greeted him, also secured his autograph.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Watrous of Norwich Town have been entertaining for several days Evangelist Lawrence A. Coning of Miami, Fla., formerly of New York, who left that city by boat Saturday last to return to Florida.

He was booked at police headquarters and held under bonds of $500 for appearance in the city court this (Tuesday) morning.

Sebastian is charged with taking without permission, a truck, owned by the Royl Cleaning Co., from the garage on the West Side, and with driving the truck in a reckless manner. THREE CORNERED CRASH ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Two machines and a trolley car figured in a three-cornered collision on North Main street near the Marguerite corner about 2.40 o'clock Monday afternoon. An Essex machine owned by Ernest C. Myers, a mechanic at the Norwich state hospital, was parked in front of his residence at No. 8 North Main street. A southbound trolley in charge of Motorman Martin and due in Franklin square at 2.45 o'clock had reached a point opposite the parked machine, when a Ford operated by a man named Selinsky and traveling in the same direction came along. The driver endeavored to drive the machine between the parked car and the trolley, but could not make it and the Ford became wedged between them. The two machines had to be forced apart before the trolley could continue the run. The Ford had the mudguards and running boards on both sides considerably damaged, while the Essex received damaged mudguards and a damaged running board on the left side.

TUNING UP MOTORS FOR CROSS COUNTRY AIR RACE

More Than Thirty Planes Are Entered in Race That Starts at Roosevelt Field at 5.30 A. M. Today—Clarence D. Chamberlin Has Withdrawn—The Planes Will Be Lined Up 50 Feet Apart and Take Off at Minute Intervals—The Winner Will Receive $5,000—Sixteen Stops Will Be Made En Route to Los Angeles.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic aviator, withdrew today from the Class "A" cross country air race, as other contestants were tuning up their motors for the start tomorrow at 5:30 a. m., daylight saving time, for Los Angeles. More than 30 planes are entered.

Chamberlin's plane, a Sperry Messenger special, failed to qualify under rules which provide that two models of an entered craft must have been flown before Aug. 10. The noted flier's craft is the only one of its kind. He is expected to fly to Los Angeles later this week and take part in the events there.

The planes will be lined up 50 feet apart and will take off at one minute intervals.

The winner will receive $5,000. Other prizes ranging from $2,500 to $300 will be awarded. The planes will make 16 stops between here and Mines field at Los Angeles. Nights will be passed at Columbus, O., Kansas City, Mo., Fort Worth, Texas, El Paso, Texas, and Yuma, Ariz. Additional stops will be made for fueling.

Large crowds thronged this field all day. Mechanics were making last minute adjustments to motors, while others were testing out their entries in the skies. Practically all were "stream lining" their entries, covering over door knobs and other projections with a special preparation. They hoped to add a mile or two to the speed of their planes.

Stores in this vicinity were sold out of vacuum bottles by the rush of aviators who wanted to carry hot or cold drinks in their cabins.

The Class B division will get off Thursday, while the O Class C or non-stop planes will leave Sept. 12.

SEN. SCHALL, MINNESOTA, WILL WORK FOR HOOVER

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 4—(AP)—Herbert Hoover won another supporter in his campaign for the presidency of the United States when Senator Thomas Schall of Minnesota announced today in President Coolidge's office he would support the republican ticket and predicted its ultimate victory.

In the course of a call upon the chief executive, the blind Minnesota senator said that despite his previous announcement that he would withhold endorsement of Mr. Hoover's candidacy on account of his unconvincing stand on the agriculture problem, he now regarded him as the farmer's greatest hope for sympathetic treatment by the government.

Mr. Schall said he still was disappointed that the equalization fee principle for the disposal of agricultural surpluses had not been adopted in the republican platform. He added also that Mr. Hoover might have been more definite in his speech of acceptance regarding the agrarian question. Despite this, however, he said, Mr. Hoover had such a record of accomplishment and honesty that he told forti. the best possible guarantee that the farmer's troubles would be treated in an efficient and understanding manner.

In any case, he continued, the democratic party offered nothing better since not only did Governor Smith have nothing even as concrete as Mr. Hoover had to propose for the farmer's relief, but the mere reputation of the party was enough to proclaim its inability to carry out sound and practical government.

As far as Minnesota is concerned, Senator Schall said, the electoral contest in November would be very close. He predicted the state would go republican, however.

SEN. ROBINSON WELL RECEIVED IN TEXAS

Even before the democratic vice-presidential nominee was out of bed this morning several persons sought admission to his private car in the Dallas terminal to pay their respects. At Fort Worth he hastened from the breakfast table to shake hands with a group on the station platform and again at West Brook the senator was called to the observation platform to greet another crowd. This time, in response to a request, he delivered a short speech praising Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his running mate. The senator also made a platform address at Ranger.

In his speech at Ranger, Robinson said the Constitution declares that no man should be "penalized" because of his religious beliefs and urged everyone to look up Governor Smith's record in New York.

A welcoming committee from Cisco joined the senator's party in Dallas and upon his arrival here he was greeted by a large crowd at the station. A parade had been arranged in his honor and the program for his 12-hour stay was filled with numerous engagements.

Expressing satisfaction over reports brought to him by Texas democratic leaders, Senator Robinson said "There was little political necessity for me to come here."

SACRIFICED PLANE TO SAFEGUARD WELCOMERS

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 4—(AP)—Colonel Roberto Fierro, Mexican aviator, deliberately sacrificed his beloved plane, the "Baja California," today to prevent injury to enthusiastic welcomers.

Sweeping down from the skies after a flight from Tegucigalpa in Honduras the aviator found himself confronted with the situation which has seriously embarrassed other good-will fliers. The hundreds of persons on the field broke through all restraint and rushed toward the whirling propeller of the plane as it taxied down the field.

Fierro swung the plane in a quick turn to avoid cutting them down. The left wheel was broken and the plane which has carried him to six different lands was crippled. The colonel said that his scheduled departure for Panama, the last country on his itinerary would have to be postponed from Friday in order to complete repairs.

SCHOOL BUS STRUCK BY AUTO THREE CHILDREN KILLED

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 4—(AP)—Three children were injured when a school bus driven by Fred Lamb, of this town was struck late this afternoon by an automobile driven by Howard Goodyear of Springfield. Gaylord Eichorn, of this town had his leg broken but the other children sustained only cuts and bruises. The driver of the bus also sustained slight injuries.

REPUBLICAN CLAIMS MEAN NOTHING TO SMITH

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—In fine fettle after a rest over Labor day, Governor Smith returned to his office at the capitol today for the first time since delivery, as the democratic presidential nominee, of his acceptance speech nearly two weeks ago. He was primed for some hard work on accumulated state business, but still seemed in a holiday mood so far as news was concerned.

At his conference with newspapermen, the first since Friday, cigars were passed as usual, and the governor volunteered the information that affairs of the state of New York would keep him on the jump for several days, that he had no political conferences in the offing, and that there would be something "definite" regarding his speech-making itinerary in a day or two.

After groping about for a topic on which the nominee would talk, one of the reporters finally provoked a response by remarking:

"Governor, the republicans are saying that many New Yorkers who voted for you for governor won't vote for you for president; that this year they won't bolt the republican ticket."

"Republican claims don't mean anything to me," Smith came back without hesitation. "This is the season of the year when they claim everything on earth. There is nothing new in that. There is as much in that claim as there has been in any they have ever made. None of them was ever right. They are entitled to all the comfort they can get. I'd be the last to disturb their peace of mind."

GENEVA, Sept. 4—(AP)—Spain tonight won the first step of her contest for a semi-permanent seat on the council of the League of Nations. After a long discussion through the evening the steering committee of the assembly reached an agreement in principle to support a movement to give re-eligibility to Spain when, as is expected, she is elected a member of the council.

It is understood that President Herluf Zahle was one of those who took a stand against the re-eligibility proposals. His argument was not directed against Spain but was in opposition to the general principle of extending the privilege to any member of the league. In this he was believed to have had the support of some of the smaller countries which fear that constant re-election of the same states would remove their coveted opportunity of becoming members of the council.

Great Britain, France and Germany, who hold three of the five permanent seats, finally won their contention that an exception should be made in the case of Spain and that she should be permitted to ask for the right of re-eligibility immediately upon election to the council. Final agreement as to the time for discussion of this before the assembly will be decided after the text has been adopted by the committee.

SENATOR CURTIS RENEWS CAMPAIGN IN NEW ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Prepared to renew his campaign for a higher tariff, Senator Curtis, republican vice-presidential nominee, turned toward New England tonight for another speaking tour.

Tomorrow at Boston the senator will address a rally in Norumbega park and later he will speak informally at a meeting to be presided over by Mayor Nichols on Boston common. On Thursday he plans to attend a reception at Salem, Mass., and then he will go into Maine to join the host of republican speakers "stumping" that state on the eve of the state election to be held next week.

Speeches will be delivered by Senator Curtis at Bangor on Friday and at Portland Saturday night. In addition to the tariff issue which he has been stressing so far in the campaign in the east, the vice-presidential nominee also expects to discuss government fiscal affairs, with which he is identified as a member of the senate finance committee.

Next week Curtis will turn toward the northwest for a two weeks' drive.

BROTHER AND SISTER KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

MANCHESTER, Conn., Sept. 4—(AP)—A brother and sister were killed and another brother seriously injured early tonight, when their automobile was struck by a New York bound express train from Boston at Apel's crossing. The dead are Arnold Wright, 17 and Shirley 15. Walter, 12, is on the danger list at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

The force of the collision split the machine in half and carried the front section with Arnold in the wreckage a distance of 150 feet.

LONDON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Sir J. Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, is not likely to resume his office when he returns from his long sea voyage to California and trip through Canada, in the opinion of British political circles. It is believed that two months is too short a time for recovery from his recent breakdown.

HOOVER TO SPEAK IN NEW YORK CITY OCT. 17

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Herbert Hoover will invade the home town of his democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith, on the night of Oct. 17 to deliver a speech at Carnegie hall in New York city.

Plans for this address, along with the announcement that he would speak at Newark, N. J., the night of Sept. 17, were made known today at the general headquarters of the republican presidential candidate. At the same time Hoover revealed that he did not contemplate any automobile tours about the vicinity of the two cities.

While the candidate has given some consideration to the extent to which he will carry the fight into the south, no definite decision has been reached other than that he contemplates a trip which will carry him either into North Carolina or Tennessee, or to a point along the border line between the two states.

Some doubt was cast today upon the possibility of the republican nominee making a speech in Chicago. It became known that he considered his declaration of his views on farm relief at West Branch, Iowa, probably was as close as he would come to delivering an address in the middle western metropolis.

There remained a remote possibility, however, that he would visit Ohio, such an invitation having been extended to him several days ago by Senator Simeon D. Fess. Other party leaders from that state who visited him today did not mention such a trip to him, although they already have taken up the proposal with the Republican Speakers' bureau.

While the candidate will speak on labor in his appearance at Newark, he has given no thought as yet to the subject of his address in New York. He already has worked out a rough draft of the Newark speech, devoting some time to it during the week-end holidays.

MRS. KNAPP HAS BEGUN TO SERVE 30 DAY SENTENCE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state for New York, now "completely ruined," in the words of her attorney, began serving a thirty day sentence for grand larceny, first degree, in this city where she reached the height of her prominence as New York state's first elected woman official.

Meanwhile, urged on by her grim determination to go the limit in fighting against a prison sentence, defense attorneys late today were making persistent efforts to obtain from a supreme court justice a certificate of reasonable doubt which would automatically act as a stay of execution.

Mrs. Knapp was sentenced this morning by Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan of Brooklyn, who overruled pleas by both the attorney general and defense counsel for a suspended sentence. The former state official made no comment on her sentence, other than a quick word aside to her attorney, in which she was understood to have given orders for an immediate appeal from the sentence.

LAFOLLETTE LEADING IN WISCONSIN PRIMARY

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 4—(AP)—Early returns tonight from Wisconsin's primary election showed Walter J. Kohler, conservative republican, seeking political office for the first time in his career, and Representative Joseph D. Beck, LaFollette progressive, in a close race for the republican nomination for governor.

Reports indicated the possible defeat of Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, seeking a second term. From the start the governor, who accomplished a political sensation two years ago by defeating the progressive and conservative candidates, was far behind.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, seeking the republican nomination to succeed himself, had a two to one lead over his opponent, Mayor George W. Mead of Wisconsin Rapids, the conservative republican candidate.

EARLY RETURNS FROM PRIMARY IN MICHIGAN

DETROIT, Sept. —(AP)—Gov. Fred W. Green, republican, seeking renomination in today's primary, went into an early lead over George W. Welsh, former lieutenant governor, and maintained his margin as incomplete returns were received from more than half of the state's 83 counties.

Returns from 326 out of 3,184 precincts in the state gave Green 34,122; Welsh, 13,293. William A. Comstock, unopposed for the democratic nomination, polled 150 in the same precincts.

United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, republican, and Mayor John W. Bailey of Battle Creek, democrat, were unopposed for the senatorial nomination.

TRUCE BETWEEN STAGE EMPLOYES AND MANAGERS

At Friday's conference representatives of New York theatrical interests will be present. The theatres affected by the contract grievances are the Colonial, Shubert, Plymouth, Wilbur, Wallace and Metropolitan.

Move To Override The Phila. Police

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—(AP)—District Attorney John [illegible] today directed his force of 20 county detectives to 'go out and find him.'

He gave the order after letting it be known that in a three-hour talk with police inspectors and captains, who had gone to him offering co-operation in stamping out lawlessness, he had obtained nothing of specific value.

The prosecutor said that his order referred to the bootleg racket. Men who have been running saloons, men who drive alcohol and beer trucks and men who are believed to know the inside workings of gangster slayings, illicit traffic in liquor and the alleged bribery of police officials.

He intimated that his detectives would produce important persons but declined to name any of those sought as possible witnesses before the grand jury.

During his interviews with police officials the prosecutor, it is said, was surprised by the statements of some that the "lid is on tight," in the city. Reports from the prosecutor's own detectives indicated otherwise and he directed that all offenders be brought before him.

Mayor Mackey, who yesterday directed the police to co-operate with the district attorney in the drive against lawlessness, and served notice that all lawless establishments were to be closed within 24 hours, was informed today that one police raid had been made as a result of his ultimatum.

Commenting on reports from police that saloons and speakeasies had been tipped off to close during the grand jury probe into crime conditions, he said:

"If more violators have been run to cover following my address to the police yesterday, then I am satisfied to a large extent. If it is true the keepers of these places have been tipped off to close, then we have accomplished something."

In the meantime, Chief of County Detectives Patrick McKewen, working under the district attorney rounded up a number of suspects who will be questioned as to the truth of rumors that police rode on liquor trucks to prevent interference with bootleggers.

THREE REBELS KILLED IN BATTLE IN ECUADOR

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 4—(AP)—Three revolutionists including their chief, Juan Enrique Velasco, were killed in a battle with government troops, military authorities announced today. The insurgents were defeated and fled to the mountains.

The fighting occurred after the revolutionists, said to number 160 men, appeared in the provinces of Bolivar and Los Rios, seizing horses, ammunition and various haciendas. Government troops advised of the raid hastened to the scene and routed the rebels after a battle.

Another rebel movement which broke out in the district of Chilanes was quickly suppressed when government forces captured the leader of the band, Hector Icaza. It is generally believed the government now controls the situation throughout the country and that the revolutionary movement has been virtually terminated.

SEN. MOSES SEES BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR HOOVER

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—U. S. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, in charge of the Hoover campaign in the east today, declared that the republican candidate was "fairly certain of carrying North Carolina and the border states and of giving the democrats such a scare for the future that the term solid south will pass into the realm of the obsolete."

Senator Moses stopped here while en route to New York long enough to confer with Fred N. Peck, national committeeman for Rhode Island, and Louis K. Liggett, national committeeman for Massachusetts. While the senator expressed himself as reasonably well satisfied with conditions in New England, he warned republican leaders here that they could not afford to relax when faced by an opponent of the resourcefulness of Governor Smith.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED IN MAIL PLANE CRASH

POCATELLO, Ida., Sept. 4—(AP)—Seven persons, five of them passengers, were killed today when an air mail plane crashed at the airport while attempting to make a landing.

Richards, 40, secretary of the Ogden chamber of commerce, Paul Wheatley of Salt Lake City, pilot of the plane and W. A. McLean, traveling representative of Liberty magazine were the victims.

The plane, a Universal-Fokker monoplane, flying low for a landing was some 75 feet above the field when the pilot headed it into the wind. It banked too steeply and the right wing tipped up. Crashing to the ground, nose down, it rolled over and over several times, killing pilot and passengers.

Persons had recalled seeing the child playing near the canal and mill officials had the water lowered. The body was found at the racks leading to the water wheel.

Change Story Of Obregon Slaying

Two Principal Witnesses Retract Their Testimony Implicating Nun.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4—(AP)—A maze of contradictory testimony was before government officials tonight, in their investigation of the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon, as a result of retractions by two principal witnesses against the Nun Concepcion.

The retractions were to the effect that Mother Concepcion did not aid in the plotting against the lives of President Calles and General Obregon, that she never furnished the poison with which the two were to be killed, that she knew nothing of the bombs which were manufactured to end their lives, and did not take part in the discussions in which the assassination had the package of poison."

The new statements covered the previous testimony of Eulogio Gonsales and Senorita Maria Elena Manzano, who had attempted previously to implicate the Nun Concepcion in their own confessed plot to poison President Calles and General Obregon by pricking them with a poison pin while they danced with Senorita Manzano.

Senorita Manzano explained her change in testimony "I was so nervous that day I did not know what I said."

For his discrepancy Eulogio Gonsales offered only the statement that whatever Mother Concepcion said was true.

He began the investigation, addressing Concepcion. "Gonzales has previously testified you presided over meetings at your house at which it was plotted to kill President Calles and General Obregon and that you furnished the poison for the attempts. Is this true?"

Concepcion replied, "It is absolutely untrue."

Nieto turned to Gonzales, "Do you say it is true?"

Gonzales answered: "Well, I say that the truth is"—he hesitated—"Whatever Mother Concepcion says is the truth."

"Do you ratify your previous testimony?"

Gonzales, "yes."

Nieto: "Then how is it you can testify today that it is untrue Mother Concepcion presided at the meetings and furnished the poison?"

"I never said they were political meetings at her house." Gonzales replied. "I thought she was present just because the meetings were at her house."

Gonzales, pressed further regarding his testimony about the poison, turned to Mother Concepcion and said, "Don't you remember, Mother, that you had the poison which was given to Maria Elena that afternoon we started for Celaya?"

Concepcion answered him, "That's untrue, Eulogio, do not tell lies. It must have been Dies de Soliano because I never had any poison in my hands."

Gonzales reflected, then said, "Yes, I think so. It was Dies de Soliano who had the package of poison.

LEVINE PLANE AND PILOTS WERE HELD UP IN FRANCE

CHERBOURG, France, Sept. 4—(AP)—Charles A. Levine caught his boat for home tonight but he left behind him in an embarrassing position his pilot, Berb Acosta, two Dutch test pilots and even his new plane, so bravely designated "Queen of the Air."

The four men had flown from Paris and arrived at the aviation field at Querqueville at 5:20. The gendarmes enquired somewhat icily where the log book and passports were that French air regulations require all planes to carry.

The explanation of "got to catch a ship" failed to satisfy them as far as Acosta and the Dutch pilots Meulcken and Wickham were concerned and they were detained pending verification of their identities. "The Queen of the Air" was also remanded to the surveillance of the gendarmes.

A somewhat flurried Levine dug hastily through his baggage and finally uncovered his passport. An automobile carried him to the Leviathan in plenty of time to board the liner before she sailed at 10:30.

It is understood that the gendarmes, having won their point, will permit Acosta to fly the plane back to Le Bourget tomorrow morning.

RADIATOR NOT PART OF MISSING AIRPLANE

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—A radiator which was at first thought might be a part of the missing airplane "Dawn" in which Mrs. Frances Grayson started on a trans-Atlantic flight last December, was viewed today by officials of the Boston airport who said it was not a part of Mrs. Grayson's Sikorsky plane.

The radiator and a part of an engine were caught in the fishing lines of the schooner Angie B. Watson off Highland light, Cape Cod. The motor fell into the sea when the crew attempted to bring it aboard the boat.

The airport officials said they believed the radiator to be that of an automobile but were at loss to explain how it could have been at the place it was found.

Their dreams do not stop there, for already they talk of an attempt to fly from New York to Paris.

While the their passenger and financial backer, Armand Lotti, will continue on their carefree air adventure was not learned. He had concealed himself from even the workmen at the Le Bourget field outside of Paris when the plane took off this morning. His parents knew nothing of his intention to accompany the fliers.

The Yellow Canary accomplished the flight from Paris to Casablanca in little more than nine hours and a half. It is understood that the aviators plan another stop, at St. Louis or Dakar, before assaying the ocean hop. Although their primary reason for landing here was a faulty oil line, a contributing reason was said to have been that they would have reached the St. Louis field at night had they continued their flight without a break.

After landing here Assolant had hoped to resume their flight this evening, but this was rendered impossible by a slight repair job on an emergency gasoline tap. The fliers therefore decided to leave for St. Louis at dawn tomorrow.

PARIS OVERJOYED AT SAFETY OF THE "KIDS"

PARIS, Sept. 4—(AP)—A sigh of relief went up from Paris aviation fields tonight when news came that the "Kid Sergeants." Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre had ended their big transocean adventure with a safe landing at Casablanca, Morocco at 4:40 p. m., this was 9 hours and 36 minutes after their plane "The Yellow Canary" hopped from Le Bourget field.

Neither aviation experts nor the public had taken the attempt seriously. They were fearful, however, that the young fliers would come to grief as it was felt that their daring outweighed their experience especially as navigators.

Announcement said that the plane landed because of a leak in the oil line. There was no explanation for the presence in Africa after they had stated ostensibly for New York and had sent messages to representatives in the United States asking that arrangements for a landing be made at Mitchel field, Long Island.

Besides the two fliers there was a passenger in the plane.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS TO VISIT VERMONT

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 4—(AP)—President Coolidge's vacation in the Wisconsin woods will end early next week.

Wishing to visit his native Vermont before settling down in the White House for the winter, the chief executive has arranged to be back in the capital about the middle of next week, for a stay of not more than ten days before proceeding to New England.

The pale and worn looking executive who came to Superior in June looking for rest and sunshine after many months of arduous desk work, has been replaced by a rested and robust man.

President Coolidge has been heard to say that he has gained ten years this summer. His associates at Cedar Island Lodge maintain that his energy has recuperated even more.

The effect of the summer on Mrs. Coolidge has been even greater, according to her physicians. She came to the Brule a sick woman, for whose sake the journey from Washington had to be postponed two days. She returns as strong and energetic and happy as she has been since she became first lady of the land.

President Coolidge will return to Washington in time to see Herbert Hoover before the latter returns to California before election day. The chief executive expects to acquaint himself thoroughly with the political situation in the east before going to his second vacation in Vermont.

GIRL KILLED BY AUTO ON COLUMBIA HIGHWAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 4—While her mother looked on in hopeless frenzy, Hazel, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, colored, who reside half a mile west of the "motorcycle climb" on the state highway in the town of Columbia, met with almost instant death about 11 o'clock this morning when she was run down by a Cadillac sedan owned by Louis J. Libman of 369 Trumbull street, Hartford and driven by his son, Louis R. Libman of the Hotel Savoy, also of Hartford. The child was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital by L. B. Moller of 213 White street, Hartford. Dr. C. H. Jenkins was called but he found that the child had died from a fractured skull. Libman said that three automobiles were stopped before a driver finally consented to take the child to the hospital.

The child had crossed the highway opposite the Johnson home to get small pieces of ice from a truck owned by Stanley Fields of Columbia, an ice dealer. The sedan approached in an easterly direction. Mr. Libman said that upon seeing the truck, which was partly on the concrete he began applying his brakes to slow down. Suddenly the little girl darted from behind the truck directly in the path of the big sedan. Libman put added pressure on his brakes and swerved the machine sharply to the right and off of the highway. The child, however, was struck and according to Mr. Fields, who was an eye-witness, she was carried about 35 feet. The sedan continued up a slight uphill embankment to the right of the road and came to a stop when the front wheels mounted a large rock and the body of the car became wedged. The machine remained right side up and was not badly damaged. Libman, and two male companions were not injured.

Libman was placed under bonds of $2,500 on a technical charge while awaiting the finding of the county coroner. The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins of Columbia and State Policemen Daley and McKenzie of the Stafford Springs barracks.

The deceased leaves her parents, one sister, Cora 7, and two brothers, Paul 5 and William Johnson, 20 months.

DANIELSON

"ICE BOX" BANDITS REFUSE TO TALK TO CORONER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 4—"Until the last" as to talking, might fittingly be the motto of Albert Raymond and Roland G. Lalone, alleged "ice-box bandits," due to go to trial for murder in the first degree in Willimantic next Tuesday and specifically charged with the murder in Pomfret last Good Friday night of State Officer Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson barracks.

This afternoon Coroner Arthur G. Bill, who had not been able interviewed the prisoners, went to the county jail for the purpose of offering them the opportunity to make any statement they might wish in connection with the crime with which they are charged, as the statute provides they shall have opportunity to say to the coroner whatever they feel they might care to say.

The prisoners did not enthuse at all over their chance to talk with the coroner, and curtly informed him they had no statements to make. In this negative attitude they are merely maintaining a restraint that has characterized them since the first minute of their arrest. They have not talked and told officials in touch with the case that they will do no talking until the end, whatever that may be as to the trial and the outcome of it.

Coroner Bill had no comment to make relative to his brief interview with the prisoners after his return here other than to state that the men refused the opportunity to make a statement to him.

Today there were forecasts here that the trial of Raymond and Lalone may run through as long a period as three weeks. There are so many witnesses to be heard both for the state and for the defense that a great deal of time will be consumed in taking their testimony and in cross-examination of them, for, if there is anything that may be taken as a foregone conclusion regarding this trial it is that the brilliant array of counsel engaged to defend the accused will overlook no possible effort to save their clients from conviction and the consequent death penalty. Likewise, the attorneys for the state, with a mass of evidence to work with, will strive to their utmost to obtain a verdict of guilty.

Happily, or otherwise, and young people do vary in their enthusiasms about the arduous processes of gaining an education, hundreds of children of the town of Killingly trooped back to its schools in the various communities this morning to begin another school year. Late this afternoon registration figures for both the public and parochial schools of the town were unavailable, for this was an exceedingly busy day for teachers and administrators, and the information as to whether the looked for increase in the number of pupils registered had come about or was still in prospect must await another day. However, there was a high degree of efficiency in organizing the schools and speeding the preparations for the regular routine of study. The promise is that the schools will be running as smoothly as though in session for months by Thursday.

This afternoon, at the second session of the town court today, William R. Mahoney of Hyde Park, Mass. came in to face a charge of reckless driving, the particular examination being that he was coasting his car down one of the steep hills of the town, contrary to law. Having heard the evidence Judge W. Fenner Woodward fined Mahoney $25 and costs, only to learn that the accused did not have that much money on his person and could not pay such fine, though he offered to send the money later. Judge Woodward is not a believer on the "dollar down, dollar when you eaten them" plan for his court so remitted all but $2 of Mahoney's fine, and allowed him to pay that much and the costs, the entire assessment amounting to $13.37—and Mahoney left the court room broke.

This morning from the home on the West Side the funeral of Peter Sarasin was held, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Edward Shelley, M. S., being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, Rev. Fr. Shelley conducting the committal service. The bearers were Treffle Bonneau, Arthur Dion, Julius Bassillion, William Dupre, Luke Gaillchant and Paul Bernier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Eleven competitors participated in the holiday registered shoot of the Danielson Rod and Gun club on the club grounds south of Danielson, conditions for the events being ideal. Edwin A. Underwood was high with 96, and E. C. Griffith, M. D. Roberts, L. S. Ingalls and John B. Tebo tied for second place in the 100-target event with 91 each. In the distance handicap, S. M. Holman was high with 43, while L. S. Ingalls and C. B Thokas tied for second place with 45.

50 doubles: Tebo 46, Griffith 39 Roberts 33.

Three cases of minor nature claimed the attention of the town court this morning. On two counts of breach of the peace, John Whitelaw was fined $5 on each count and costs of prosecution. These charges grew out of differences arising between Whitelaw and W. W. Reimer, and recalls that Whitelaw was in court a few weeks ago and fined for assaulting Reimer on the street. For having been intoxicated during the holiday period George Pelitier and Henry Tebo were each fined $2 and costs, a total of $10.37 in each case.

This morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam Coroner Arthur G. Bill took statements from Eric Sparks, driver of the car that plunged through a fence and down an embankment at Mechanicsville early Sunday morning, killing two of his companions and of Maxwell Burry who was injured in the same accident Sparks told Coroner Bill that he had proceeded with caution on account of the fog and had slowed down for other bridges that he had come over on his way from New York to Boston, but he saw neither the sign nor the bridge at Mechanicsville and his machine had crashed through the embankment fence before he sensed that anything had gone wrong.

MARY KAPINO GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE OF 30 DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 4—Mary Kapino, a native of Willimantic and at present residing in Putnam, returned to Brooklyn jail this morning with two companions to spend 41 days as a guest of the county. Mary was arrested Monday evening by Sergeant George Liard of the Putnam police after she had figured in a drunken brawl at the home of Peter Jaknzenchi, on South Meadow street. The police found Mary at the home, and was the leading figure in the scramble that had ensued between Mary, her husband, Peter Kapino, and the owner of the house.

She was taken to the Putnam police station where she spent the remainder of Labor day. BROTHER ASSAULTS BROTHER AND IS HELD IN $1,500 BAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 4—Before Acting Judge Herbert P. Clark, clerk of the Third district court, this morning, Zygmont Dobridinia, 3f, florist, of 37 Franklin street, was presented on an assault complaint preferred by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. The assault occurred Labor day afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Franklin street greenhouses when the accused was alleged to have come up behind his brother, John, 30, and to have struck him with his fist as John was watering the flowers. Defendant pleaded guilty and stated that much damage would have been done the flowers if they were watered on such a damp day. In the scuffle which followed, John Dobrdinia suffered a broken nose and concussion of the brain as he struck something in falling which may result in a fracture of the skull. He was attended by Dr. J. Gordon Anderson at the Margaret Edward Anderson hospital, where he was taken by Mrs. Dorothy B Drew, who reported as at the greenhouse at the time. Lieutenant Champlin and Officer Madison were summoned to Franklin street and Zygmont was taken to Westerly police station and locked up. ZONING PROBLEM UP AT COUNCIL MEETING TUES.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 4—President Horace E. Burdick, Councilmen James Naccarato, I. G. Smith and Rogers E. Trainer, just a quorum, were the only council fathers present at the September council meeting Tuesday morning. Attorney M. Walter Flynn, Jr., appeared for a former town council member, Thomas H. Morrison, a Westerly contractor, to ask that two lots purchased by him from the estate of Joseph Murphy on Spruce street extension, now used by him for the storage of lumber be included in a commercial area. He has been informed by zoning board members that his present use of the lots in a residential area constitutes a violation of zoning laws. His request for the change will be embodied in the call for a zoning hearing, as will that requested by Michael Capalbo on the Bradford-Westerly road near the Waite farm, where a section is requested to be set off for commercial or business purposes, 500 feet in length on both sides of the highway, with 100 foot depth on each side of the road. The hearing on both is set for Friday evening, Sept. 28.

Signed by Manager Fred Quottromani, of the Hope Athletic club of Westerly the council received and continued for a hearing the application to play professional football in Riverside park, Sept. 23 to Dec. 9, 1928 inclusive.

The council approved the report of Supt. of Health Dr. Samuel C. The report of Chief of Police Thomas E Brown for August showed 29 arrests: Peddling fruit without license 2 passing red semaphore by auto 1, autos not having proper brakes 4, operation of auto with driver under influence of liquor 1, quarreling and reveling 3, assault 2, no auto operator licenses 4, insane person 2 exceeding speed limit 2, playing cards on the first day of the week 4, and one each violent assault, intoxication, reckless auto operation and forgery. Two persons were taken into custody.

The August report of Building Inspector Thomas Wills showed 11 applications for wooden buildings received and ten granted; for brick and stone, one and one granted; alterations 27 and 26 granted. Also granted was the application for a steel hose reel container at Bradford for fire hose. There were 24 inspections made and three pending permits have been held for zoning reasons. Expenses were $28.20.

Approval was voted the action of Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton in his sale of town notes dated Sept. 1, 1928, and due March 1, 1929, to the amount of $50,000 to the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston at 5.20 discount.

Marvin Dortch at 4 Pond street requested the use of part of his property as a dump with the promise that he would give it proper supervision. It was referred to Committeeman Joseph Fraser. The bill of Edwin Barber, Jr., for $16.50 in fighting forest fires, May 15 and 18, was voted paid.

On recommendation of Chief of Police Brown, members of the Westerly Boat club, George W. Sanders, Archibald M. Sanders and Cleveland H. Clark, were appointed constables without pay. Application was received and voted referred to the council police committee, who are reported as contemplating the addition of a new patrolman about the first of next year. The petition was from Cornelius J. Murphy, born March 1, 1886, in Pawcatuck, a carpenter, now a qualified elector of the town of Westerly.

Councilman Trainer reported progress in the matter of procuring a public parking place on town land at Atlantic Beach, where four lots of 50 foot width on the pond will require some filling, to make them available for the purpose.

Among the bills voted paid were State Troopers Bonat and Nolan, 23 days' services at $123.74 each and Trooper G. A. Graemiger, $166.66.

Tax Assessors William Ledward, Howard E. Thorp and George W. Woodward were voted $500 each for their duties in the assessment of the town taxes recently completed.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Thursday is the day for the republican delegates to gather at New Haven for the state convention. The opening day will be occupied with the preliminaries and the keynote speech by Congressman Schuyler Merritt to be followed by the choice of a state ticket on Friday.

The convention is of particular importance this year inasmuch as there is to be chosen a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator McLean whose health will not permit him to accept another nomination. Men of recognized ability have been mentioned for this post and whichever wins the people of Connecticut can be assured that if elected either will give the state a high grade of service.

Indications point to the fact that there will be contests for several places on the ticket, but contests if indulged in in the proper spirit are never harmful. They display a healthy interest and the fact that several are seeking the same place indicates the confidence in republican success later on.

That Governor Trumbull will be renominated is accepted. He has made a record in the office that is most praiseworthy. He has lived up to expectations in all particulars. Connecticut has benefitted from his administration and it is believed that the people as well as the republicans desire his retention in office.

This end of the state is particularly interested in the candidacy of State Treasurer Rogers for the lieutenant governorship, being impressed by his ability to step into the governorship should occasion demand, although there is no mistaking the popularity of State Secretary Pailotti, three times elected for that office, who is this year desirous of making a change.

Another eastern Connecticut candidate for convention recognition is Dr. W. L. Higgins of Coventry who seeks the state secretaryship. As a veteran legislator and one who has been well trained in legislative practice, Dr. Higgins and Tolland county appear to be entitled to such nomination. So far as an active opponent for the office is concerned the supporter of gravel roads from Coventry has none.

The republicans of the state and many others who have long since appreciated the merits of republican administrations look to the convention to name the strongest and best ticket for the November election. May the best men win.

CONDITIONS REQUIRE THEM

Renewed efforts for the better marking of the streets of the city as a guide to motor traffic as well as to the pedestrians are certain to be helpful. Those who are acquainted with the practice through experience may not require such aid but those acquainted with conditions do not constitute all who use the streets. There are the strangers and there are those who find it helpful to know what is expected of them.

Most people are desirous of meeting requirements. They are anxious to do the right thing but unless there is something definite in the way of a guide one interpretation may be as good as another, even though there are those who can see one way signs and those who seem to look everywhere but at them.

Properly marked crossings, center of street division lines where necessary and slow or stop signs on the pavements furnish excellent assistance and urge the caution that is so much needed.

Another help that is sure to be appreciated will be the erection of the direction signs which are planned for important locations in the city. Signs which direct the stranger the way to his destination relieve his uncertainty but they also relieve the congestion which may be caused by the frequent stopping of cars to inquire of traffic officers or pedestrians how to proceed. There can be no gainsaying the fact that traffic should be kept moving.

In these days of steadily increasing traffic there cannot be too much done in these two directions to aid the drivers of vehicles. The city authorities are a much needed interest in this respect and whatever support they get from organizations and individuals is a valuable contribution in a worthy cause. The need for such readable information and preventive and protective measures is increasing every year.

AIR, WATER AND RAIL

Boston has been particularly interested in the arrival of a big amphibian plane bringing mail from the liner Ile de France from which it was catapulted when the steamer was 300 miles to the east of Halifax. The Nova Scotian city was a handy place for the refueling of the plane and three hours later it was in Boston having covered the distance which would have necessitated a day on the train and a night on the boat in three hours.

Such despatch of the mail was for the purpose of saving time. When it is figured that 24 hours were saved it illustrates the increased speed which is now made possible by the existing liners and the use of airplanes. Another line of ocean vessels is projected which contemplates this same speeding up of the mails by the use of airplanes on both sides of the water and the construction of much faster liners. Evidently the existing lines are anxious to demonstrate that they also are in a position to give speedier mail service, and it is not to be overlooked that the demonstration was made during bad weather for flying purposes.

But while this air-water service has been under trial it cannot fail to have been noted that an airmail service across this country was also being tried out. It is the elimination of distance that it sought. Trains are operated on fast schedules but airplanes can be driven faster. Those who want to get to their destinations at the earliest possible moment are going to get the accommodations, provided they are traveling in the directions where such service is instituted.

The time will probably come when the combination of rail and air will not be necessary for the airplanes will render the entire transportation, but at the present time night flying cannot be said to be popular. If, however the trains are used for traveling at night and planes are employed for day operations much greater speed can be obtained than by any other method and it is to be expected that it will meet with increasing patronage once it becomes a scheduled service. Taken in connection with the air-water service even greater reductions ought to be made in the round the world trips.

A FINE TREE PLAN

Every city has its problems concerning trees. Development calls for the removal of a certain number each year, unsafe conditions and death make it necessary to cut others while there are always those which are disfigured and badly damaged by storms or by those who trim them without regard for the trees.

In the city of Washington the right idea seems to prevail in regard to trees. According to the annual report of the superintendent of trees and parks it was necessary to remove 1529 trees during the year. Of that number 845 were cut down for street and alley improvements. 124 were decayed and dangerous, 44 were destroyed by storms and seven interfered with building operations.

The loss of such a large number of trees is bound to be noticed in a city the size of Washington even, but the national capital is not disposed to accept such a loss without provisions for more trees. Thus while there were 1529 trees removed for the various reasons there were 2836 young trees planted in sections where the department is extending the tree system.

That wasn't quite two for one but it means that for every tree that was cut down Washington saw that there were enough planted so that the total including the new ones was greater at the end than at the beginning of the year. It follows a policy of making provisions for the future each year that means that Washington is not going to be deprived of the benefits from its trees. It gives recognition to the value which they are as municipal as well as personal property assets. There would be fewer sunbaked cities if they followed the plan that is being carried out at Washington.

LOWER INFANT MORTALITY

When the American Child Health association is able to report that infant mortality in cities was lower than ever before it must have been gratifying to that organization as well as to all readers. It is in keeping with what the association has been striving for, but because it is able to make such a report doesn't mean that its efforts are to be in any way relaxed. Having gained such satisfactory results it must be encouraged to see that they are continued, to strive to make such a report possible every year.

In 613 cities in 1926 there were 73.7 deaths among children for each 1000 births. The change in a year was substantial when it is shown that for 1927 the rate for 632 cities was 64.9 for each 1000 births. It is likewise interesting to note that the death rate was lower in the group of the largest cities than in the group of cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population. This would indicate that a child's chances were the best in the largest centers although it is doubtful if babies would be sent to the big cities in the interest of their health.

The fight for better babies and for a better chance for a child to live is a hard and continuous one. It deserves general support and it is apparent through the results obtained that it is by no means a hopeless field. What has been accomplished justifies the efforts that have been made and calls for the devotion of still greater endeavors for the reduction of infantile mortality. Such instructions and sound teaching as have contributed to the changed conditions are proving that more babies might have been saved in the past had similar methods been employed. Where efforts are upheld by proof there can be slight ground for denying them increased backing.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The first days of the school year may seem the hardest even though they are the easiest.

Though there is nothing to disprove the report about the Amundsen plane it is sincerely hoped that the party is still alive and will be rescued.

SILENCE

The night was smothered in fog. Bob had been detained at the office. The hours dragged along in eerie silence. When, Dot wondered, had there ever been so little noise? Save the occasional purr of a passing motor, all was still.

She peered wistfully out of a front window. Nothing but a blanket of moisture and a small green blur, dimly proclaiming the presence of a street light. And there were people for whom silence held a meaning. Poets had written about it: "Silence, more beautiful than any song."

There came to her just then a grinkly messenger of sound. Dot glowed to the warmth of it. Bob's voice! He must have brought somebody along. She made her way to the darkened dining room, where a window was lowered slightly from the top. Walter Meyers probably, a neighbor who often gave Bob a lift. Yes, it was. But what was Walter saying?

"I'll tell the world she's some fast trotter and as pretty as they make 'em, too. Suppose you meet me tomorrow evening. I'll give you a knockdown."

Dot, with a thousand monsters of suspicion clamoring about her, opened the front door for her husband. He kissed her. She returned the embrace because she did not know what else to do. She looked at him, listened to him could not believe that he was not the same Bob that she had thought him to be.

Should she confront him, say "Bob, I heard you and Walter. You didn't reckon on the window being down. You didn't know that I was listening?" How clownish that would sound, eavesdropping, as though she had mistrusted him.

She could not bring herself to speak of the occurrance. Her emotion took an inward course which blew little firebrands into her soul. She went to bed, feeling like an overheated furnace, seething on the inside but preserving a calm exterior.

On the following morning she observed Bob's every action at the breakfast table and was mute with astonishment. He seemed so entirely natural. Dot was more than disheartened, because, she thought, "He is applying an artist's touch to the situation and endeavoring to avert any possible suspicion." Everything was at once usual and unusual. There was so much she could say, so much she ought to say, and yet her lips were sealed in gloomy silence.

The tinkle of the phone toward evening destroyed this fantasy.

'Hear me? Get a deal on."

'Oh.'

"Bye."

Little globules of silence, intercepted by tears, and strung together on the hours like beads on a chain. And somewhere at the end of the chain Bob blustering in.

"Hello, Twinkles," and an arm full of hugs. "Say, I've got some baby doll outside. Burrs like a kitten. Prettiest little four-door coach you ever laid your eyes on. They'll take in our roadster, too. Come on, and have a look."

Back in the house again Dot's eyes filled with tears, her lips trembled, but her voice was still. And then an abiding calm encompassed her. She was so infinitely thankful she had not said all those things that she had thought of saying.

"Aren't you happy about it?" asked Bob. "You are so quiet. I thought you'd sing a song of joy."

'Oh, Bob," glowed Dot, "I'm far happier than you could ever believe. Just saying nothing sometimes means far more than any song."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Other Days.

Mr. Editor: In a recent letter I spoke about some of the school teachers who were at the Greeneville schools, and right here I want to ask some of you young-old folks if you can remember the principal and his assistant. This is only 64 years ago. The principal we knew as "Jimmy" Johnson and the other was named Hyde. They boarded with "Mother" Saunders, who lived at the corner of Eleveth street and Central avenue in the house that afterwards was owned by George Maynard, who worked for Frank Albro as a carpenter. All of this is ancient history and perhaps not interesting to the ones of today, but to the old timers it may be. "Mother" Saunders' husband went to the gold rush at Sutter's Mills in California, in 1849-50, and never returned. And as she had two young daughters she, of necessity, had to do something for a living. This is where the boy who is writing this lived, and I want to say that if there was ever an angel on this earth Mother Saunders was the one. Calvin Miner and his wife will no doubt recall her.

How often have I recalled an ad that appeared in The Bulletin many times, announcing the fact that a meeting was to be held of the O. D. Ones, and also that at 8 there was to be a B. of B., and the ones who were on the outside looking in wondered if B. of B. meant "barrel of beer." Their lodge room was located on West Main street. Do I call this turn right? Are they still going?

But to return to Greeneville, can you remember the school that stood back of where the present school stands? That was called the "baby" school, and today would be called the kindergarten. A name like that was never known in those times. This stood almost opposite where John Enright had his grocery store. This school was torn down by a man from Brooklyn, N. Y., named Richard Kendall, and today it stands in another form on Main street between Eighth and Ninth street, back of the home of the former mayor of Norwich, who was elected in 1886—and that is only 42 years ago. I refer to the late Increase W. Carpenter. My, how time flies!

Now in answer to the question where was "Harvey's" grove. This was in Preston, and to get there cross Eighth street bridge, called then Shetucket bridge, then turn right and follow a path along the river out to the Preston cemetery and almost directly opposite was the site of the old picnic grounds, called Harvey's grove. They went out of existence when the old Hubbard grove was acquired and took its place in the sun.

As regards the other question, as to what Norwich man was mayor, vice president and president, the answer is, F. S. Foster. Born in Franklin, Nov. 22, 1806; died in Norwich, Sept. 19, 1880; mayor of Norwich, 1850-51; after Abraham Lincoln was assassinated he became acting vice president, and on the impeachment proceedings of Andrew Johnson became acting president of the U. S. A. He was elected to the U. S. senate in 1854 and was president pro tem of the U. S. senate in 1865. He was a giant in intellect and a lover of his country.

These questions as well as the questions that appear in The Bulletin every day are good as an improvement to the memory and are ever educational.

I have received a letter from one whom I knew many years ago. Perhaps it would not be polite to say, but he wants to know who was the Reverend John A—, whose name is mentioned in the letter "Of a Story With a Moral." I do not care to give his full name, but will say that he was the predecessor of the Reverend Alfred Free, and also the Rev. Henry Sykes. Perhaps this may put him wise. Also I want to say to Oscar W. C., of 42 Broadway that that memory recalls a young man who had a very pleasing tenor voice and at a concert in the little Baptist church in Greeneville he sang at one time "In the Valley of Chamonds," and one part ran like this—

By the Blue Alsation Mountains
Came a stranger in the spring.
Just to meet beside the fountains,
And just to hear the maidens sing.

Now Oscar don't you recollect singing that very song? I do. Such is memory.

Right after the Civil war there was a play enacted in this same little church, depicting scenes that took place during that fratucidal strife and the title of this play was the "Battle of Shiloh." Us "kids" thought it was wonderful, and why not? The other little church at the corner of Eleventh and Main street put on a play but of an entirely different kind, showing scenes in the Holyland, and the leading man was Charlie Bradbury, who lived at one time in the house that is now occupied by William Wade on Boswell avenue.

WASHINGTON—When you stop to think of it, the job of assistant secretary of the navy seems to have become a sort of memorial to its most distinguished holder, Theodore Roosevelt. For the last four presidential terms it has been the exclusive property of somebody of the Roosevelt blood.

First, under President Wilson, came Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, holding cousinly relations of more or less remote character with the republican branch of the family. He quit to run for vice president with Cox in 1920. Then under Harding came Theodore 2nd, son of the late president. He carried on until he undertook, in his capacity of politician at large, the hopeless job of trying to beat Al Smith for governor of New York.

Then came Douglass Robinson, christened Theodore Douglass son of a sister of the original Theodore. And he's still working at the business. Now where is Hoover or Smith, as the case may be, to find a new Roosevelt for second in command of the navy show? Certainly, if Smith wins, it will not be Frank. He has grown mightily in political calibre since he came, a happy youngster, to Washington official life with the Wilson administration. The man who dubbed Smith "the happy warrior" in the Houston nominating speech would rate a more heavyweight job if he would accept any, which is doubtful, in the event of a Smith victory.

An "In" Insulted

Another figure in this curious interlocking of blood or friendship athwart political lines is Trubee Davison, air assistant secretary in the war department. He is on old time friendly terms with the democratic Roosevelt clan and every influence a pillar of the democratic party like Frank Roosevelt could exert in selection of a republican sub-cabineteer went to boost young Davison for his present job.

Since the Smith nomination, Davison, a good New Yorker, has been kidded a bit from the Roosevelt democratic camp.

"I've been insulted," he said the other day, "I have a letter from Louie Howe (Frank Roosevelt's secretary) offering me a post in the Smith cabinet."

Shipshape Home

Incidentally, the democratic Roosevelt's old time chief, "Uncle Joe" Daniels of North Carolina has not forgotten his navy days. Travelers from Raleigh report his home there armed at the bow with a large and imposing naval gun trophy, and moored at the stern by a ship's anchor almost equally large.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Holland, Olympic Host, Gave Three Sports to World

"Holland, host to the world's athletes during the Olympic games, has contributed three popular sports to civilization," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Two of the three sports, yachting and skating have been incorporated into the Olympic games, but golf has not yet been added.

"All three of the sport terms are direct importations from the Dutch language: golf comes from kolf meaning a club; yacht from jacht which originally referred to hunting or the chase: skate from schaat meaning skate.

"Although the Scotch receive credit for shaping golf into the game now played, the Dutch are held responsible for its origin. Certain etchings have been ferreted out of the art treasurers of the nation which picture the ancient kolf players on the 'links.' So we know that in 1675 the well-equiped Dutch golfer went forth swathed in a mantle like a Roman toga, that he carried a muff, and wore skates, because kolf was an ice game. In place of a golf bag he carried a sword in a scabbard. Yet he is not entirely an unfamiliar figure as he stands boldly in a typical visored cap, the same baggy plus fours, the golf socks and even the identical snappy tassels which decorate the fashionable golfer of today.

"One stick was enough for the old Dutch player; it was large and like a hockey stick. The golf balls were large too, and it has been found that although the Dutch earned the reputation of making the best golf balls, the Scotch, even in those days were producing clubs of such quality that the Netherlanders sent across the North Sea for them.

"The chief divergence between kolf and golf is that in kolf the played aimed to hit a stake set in the ice instead of trying to sink a putt in a cup. Other pictures have been found, however, which show that the Dutch themselves transferred the game to land and substituted a cup for a stake.

"The sport of yachting originated authorities consider, on the Zuider Zee, that shallow salt arm of the ocean which, quite appropriately, will be the scene of the Olympic yacht races. The sport was started by certain old sea dogs who tried to retire and couldn't. Veteran captains grown so rich on the sea trade with the Indies and America that they lived at ease in Amsterdam, compromised with the call of the sea by sailing to meet the incoming merchant fleet.

"When word came that the ships were on the Texel roads the retired captains would sail out to meet them in small, luxurious ships designed like miniature galleons. Sailings to meet the fleet soon became races so the old captains gradually adapted their little galleons to get greater speed. One of these yachts was presented by Holland to Charles II of England who raced it on the Thames and thus the sport became implanted in Britain.

"While it is true that no man can say who started skating, the Dutch very early developed the art. Probably they were among the first to substitute iron for bone skates and with this innovation the real history of skating begins.

"To a Netherlander a pair of skates was, and, in a great measure, still is as necessary as an automobile to an American. In winter when the canals freeze, the Dutchman skates to work, he tours the country on skates, his servants go to market on skates, the mail in some places is delivered by postmen on skates.

"So it is only natural that skates should promote the sport of skating as bicycles and automobiles have promoted bicycle and automobile racing. The Dutch soon became outstanding performers in figure skating, now one of the Olympic sports. They became famous also for their long distance journeys in which they sped on skates from one end of the kingdom to the other.

"The Holland skating 'Marathon' and big event of the season is known as 'tour of the 11 towns' over a route of 135 miles which must be covered by skaters within 12 hours. No rests are allowed."

Stories That Recall Others

Just Wait.

Archie's pet kitten was the pride of his life and he was very much disturbed when a skeptical neighbor expressed a doubt that Fluffy was a full-blooded Persian because his tail wasn't large enough. "Why, Mrs Smith," protested Archie, "you just wait till Fluffy sees a dog and his tail will look plenty big!"

Visualizing.

A young woman who thought she could sing went to a vocal teacher for a tryout before arranging to take lessons. The professor sat down and played a selection while the ambitious singer poured out her choicest assortment of notes. At the end of the test the professor swung round on his stool and in a wrathy voice said, "Ach, Gott! Nefer ha! I heard such a voice. I play on der vite key and I play on der black keys, but you sing 'n der cracks!"

YOUR HEALTH

SWIMMING FROM THE STANDPOINT OF HEALTH.

By G. Vivian, Detroit, Michigan, Swimming Instructor, Detroit Athletic Club.

Swimming as a healthful recreation and a sport is at last coming into its own. There are many reasons for this. Possibly the principal reason is the fact that a swimming pool is built in nearly all the larger schools in the city. A swimming coach is in the city. A swimming coach is employed by the board of education. The interest is sustained by the development of a swimming team to compete with other schools in the vicinity. Indeed, swimming is included in the curriculum of many schools, and the pupils must have a certain degree of proficiency to graduate.

Another phase in the development of swimming is the fact that no large up-to-date office building is considered complete without having a swimming pool included.

In regard to the health aspect. Swimming is a mild and invigorating exercise, except of course in the case of strictly competitive swimming. Unlike many other forms of exercise, swimming leaves one refreshed and stimulated. It develops supple and shapely bodies, and is a wonderful developer of the lungs.

There is still in some quarters a prejudice against swimming on account of the danger of drowning. Fortunately, however, this fallacy is being rapidly dispelled. We will admit that occasionally a swimmer drowns, but in many cases it is on account of a weak heart. He might have died while walking in the street. An appalling number of drownings are due to boats being upset, and those in the boat being unable to swim. Many of these unfortunate deaths could be avoided if the Shafer method of resuscitation were more generally known. Seconds count in a drowning accident and if more persons were experienced in this method there would be a decrease in fatalities. This method is recommended because it is the most effective imitation of natural breathing and it utilizes the diaphragm and muscular elasticity. One person can do all that is necessary. I think it would be an advanced step if swimming instructors would include some instruction of this method when teaching their swimming classes.

POETRY

Midsummer Poems

Spring is a maiden robed golden and green,
Kissed-cheered and crowned with the cherry blooms' snow;
Jewel-crowned Autumn rides forth like a queen,
Purple-hearted hillsides before her to blow;
Midsummer's naught but a sleeping lass,
Sweet with the fragrance of meadow and glade,
Broidered with star-dust and dappled with gold.

Wind-tossed and tousled, sun-browned and dear,
Midsummer passes, the full o' the year.

Winter's a crone with regret in her eyes;
Autumn is haughty with jewels and gold;
Spring's but a trickster of promise and lies;
Midsummer's laughter shall never grow old.

Pillowed in sweet-fern, her chin on her hands,
Blown by the sea-winds and salt with the spray,
Midsummer juggles the hour's golden sands,
Midsummer magics the moments away.

Noon-time and moon-time fragrant and dear,
Midsummer passes, the full o' the year.

When I Was Very Young

There was a garden where I lived
Closed in by a high stone wall.
Happy the birds sang in the trees,
Tangled buttercups grew to my knees
And overhead big bumblebees
Played in the hollyhocks tall.
Pigeons came fluttering to my call,
When I was very young.

Fairies and goblins lived there, too,
They hid all day in the flowers.
Sometime, you could see them shake the rose,
Hear them weep for the bleeding heart's woes,
Or hid in the sweet carnation rows
And swim in their scented bowers.
Or in pansy faces smiled at the hours,
When I was very young.

Far from that garden now I live,
But memory oft goes there.
Plays in the buttercups close by the lake,
Or peers through the bars of the high iron gate,
Mocks the robin calling its mate,
Or sits in the old stone chair.
Memory tastes of the joys that were there,
When I was very young.

The Lake street woman who was arrested and fined in the city court Saturday for violation of the liquor law is Mary Perrone, not Petrone, as was stated.

CITY MAY REQUIRE FIREWORKS' DEALERS TO BE LICENSED

Amendments to the ordinances concerning the sale of fire works and the handling of the cemetery trust funds were adopted at the September meeting of the court of common council Tuesday evening in the council chamber at the court house. The meeting was called to order by His Honor, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, according to the usual custom.

A delegation from the Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, was present and presented the city a beautiful silk American flag and standard to be placed in the council chamber. The presentation speech was made by Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury, department patriotic instructor.

I was chosen, she said, as Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, the corps' patriotic instructor has been out of town. She has returned and is present tonight, but she allowed me to fulfill the honor.

The mayor accepted the gift with a few well chosen words and proposed that the council give the women a rising vote of thanks, which was done. Before presenting the flag all present saluted the flag and repeated the pledge to the flag. The mayor then called upon Councilman Charles A. Hasbers, who had been appointed a committee of one to secure a flag bearing the city seal, for the council chamber, for his report. He reported that the flag had been secured and it was exhibited, after which a vote of thanks was offered Councilman Hasberg and others for securing the beautiful colors, which bear the words Norwich, Rose of New England, Connecticut, and the city seal.

Petitions were read by City Clerk Weston C. Pullen and disposed of as follows:

From Milton H. Souter et al for a bug light on Daniel street. Referred to the police committee.

From George E. Pitcher for the care of a so-called lawn on Burnham square. A motion was made and seconded that the petition be rejected and the motion prevailed.

From George E. Pitcher for the collection of tax liens. Referred to the committee on finance and the corporation counsel.

From Valentine Reich for a change in the width of the walk on Fowler avenue. Referred to the public works committee for investigation and report.

From Frank E. Fitch and others for the repeal of the crowing rooster ordinance: referred to the police committee.

From Edward S. Taber to remove a tree situated in the middle of the sidewalk in front of his residence at No. 10 Garfield avenue. Referred to the public works committee.

From Herman Mueller to trim two trees at the City cemetery to prevent damage to his house on Elm street. Referred to the public works committee.

A claim made by Howard S. Bailey for damages to his property on Main street, near Preston bridge, was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. Mr. Bailey claims that the change of grade of the sidewalk was done negligently by city employes, causing his property to be undermined. He asks for damages of $1,000.

Harriet C. Potter of No. 632 Main street presented a claim for damages, in which she claims that she slipped and fell on the sidewalk on Carter avenue near the Howard Randall property and was injured. She claims that the sidewalk was in a defective condition on that day, Aug. 9, 1928. Referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

A claim for damages of $181.67 was received from Oscar H. Main and was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. A Mack truck owned by Mr. Main was damaged to that amount according to an itemized bill from the Mack Motor Co. when it went over a bank on Hamilton avenue. He claimed that the accident was caused due to fresh oil on the street which had not been properly sanded.

The police committee reported through Alderman Grayson that an investigation was conducted as the result of a petition signed by Joseph J. Fields and others asking to have the traffic ordinance amended so as to make Church street a one way street, with parking on only one side. He reported that no change should be made. A motion was made and seconded that the report be accepted.

A change in the handling of the cemetery trust funds was made when an amendment to the ordinance governing cemetery trust funds was adopted. The amendment directs that the city treasurer shall immediately upon receipt of such funds, deposit them in a savings bank in the city and that a separate bank book, in the name of the person or persons for whose benefit the trust is created, with the city named as trustee be taken out. No sum less than $50 shall be received or any trust account opened for any smaller amount.

An amendment to the ordinance governing the sale of fireworks in the city was adopted. The proposed amendment requires all dealers in fireworks to take out licenses, $15 for wholesale, and $5 for the retail sale of fireworks. In case a person or company engages in both wholesale and retail sales, the fee will be $20. The proposed ordinance also directs that no person or persons shall, within the city limits, sell or give any gunpowder to any minor under the age of 14 years, unless the child has a written order from his parents or guardian to that effect. The penalty provided for violation of the ordinance is set at $5 for each violation. C. V. Pendleton objected to the fee to be charged for the licenses.

The monthly report of the city treasurer and the street commissioner, were received and accepted. Alderman Gregson reported for the special committee on street signs and the numbering of houses. He said that the new street signs will probably be erected this week.

Alderman Paul F. Zahn reported progress for the committee on the building, electrical and plumbing ordinances.

A proposed amendment to the traffic regulations allowing 10 minutes parking on Main street between Ferry street and Rose Alley was read by the clerk. The proposed amendment was received and action was deferred until the October meeting. The present parking limit between those streets is five minutes.

Another proposed ordinance to the traffic rules was introduced. This proposed amendment reads that no person shall park any vehicle on the northerly side of Main street from Cliff street to Franklin square, or on the northerly side of Main street from Myers alley to Franklin street for a longer period than ten minutes. The amendment was received and action was deferred until the regular meeting in October.

The bills were approved as follows: Gas and electrical department, $40,444.63; water department, $4,896.46; fire dept., $7,897.87; Deep River reservoir, $779.75; recreation dept., $1,359.84; park dept., $388.70; police dept., $6,564.62; street lighting $2,483.14; finance dept., $34,948.77; public works department, $27,287.16; department of cemeteries, $1,167.23. The council adjourned about 10.30 o'clock.

TAFTVILLE JUNIORS LEAVE FOR HOLIDAY TRIP TO NEW YORK CITY

Fourteen youngsters, members of the Taftville American Legion baseball team, winners of the Junior league pennant, will see Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the world's greatest home run pair, in action at Yankee stadium this afternoon. This privilege of seeing the Yankees perform in a double-header is part of their reward for winning the flag in the Junior loop and if either Ruth or Gehrig does not hit a homer their cup of happiness will be far from brimming over.

Accompanied by three of their elders the youngsters left Taftville at 9 o'clock last night for New London where they took the boat for New York. It was a happy group of boys that left Norwich last night prepared to enjoy the greatest event of the young lives. So that they might be fully prepared to enjoy to the fullest the sights of New York two of the youngsters did not work on Tuesday and rested up. It is a bet that the youngsters miss nothing that is going on around them during the next two days.

Upon arrival in New York they will be met at the boat by a representative of the Hotel Albert and will be conducted to the hotel where they will make their home during their stay. This morning will be spent in sightseeing and after luncheon the boys will go to the stadium where they will be met by a representative of the Yankees and will be introduced to the Yankee players. Just try to picture the radiant joy that will illuminate the faces of these kids when they shake hands with Babe Ruth. Just imagine these budding ball players, feeling as if their mouths were full of feathers, trying to say "How Do Do, Mr. Ruth, I hope you bust one over the fence in the world's series." Just imagine.

After being introduced to the players they will be given the best seats in the stadium as guests of the Yankees. It is no guess at all to say that they will be rooting, and rooting hard, for the Yankees. Following the game the boys will be taken to dinner and in the evening there will be a theatre party for them. Back to the hotel and to bed the boys will be up bright and early for a visit to the parks in Manhattan. Then comes the end of the good times as the youngsters entrain at noon for the homeward trip. Long will the memories of this trip stay with these boys and how they will be pointed out by other youngsters of the village as having shaken hands with Babe Ruth. They will be the idols of the younger set when they return.

Those who made the trip as members of the team are: Armand Fontaine, Sammy Raymond, Rene Paradis, Joe Wilk, Walter Navick, Arthur (Mickey) Breen, Walter Szydlo, Manuel Martin, Lionel Genest, Stanley Fora, Edward Troeger, Tsee Peltier, Billy Martin. They will be accompanied by Andrew Frohmander and Donas Fournier and Napoleon Pepin, as representatives of the American legion and James J. Pedace, as representative of the Duwell club, sponsors of the league and the trip to the metropolis.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT TIGERS TWICE BY SAME SCORE

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Sox took four in a row from Detroit when they again won both ends of a double header by scores of 3 to 2 in both games. After going along at a 2 up tie, Kamm opened the ninth with a double. Swanson attempted to sacrifice and when McManus fumbled, Kamm was safe at third and Swanson reached first. Falk batted for Redfern and was purposely passed. Hunnefield batted for Berg and hit a long fly to Fothergill, called a sacrifice. Hunnefield won the first game with a single in the eleventh inning. The Sox are now one half game out of fourth place. This defeat marked the fifth straight for the Tigers.

TAFTVILLE TO PLAY SOCONY ON SATURDAY

The postponed game from Labor Day between the Taftville A. A. and the Socony club of New London will be played at the Providence street grounds on Saturday afternoon. Troland will have the same lineup as advertised for the Labor Day encounter. This game is being anticipated with interest as it will give the fans a chance to compare the merits of the Taftville A. A. and the J. R. Martin team relative to the series which is being arranged between these two clubs. The Socony club has proved its superiority over the Velvetmen and Saturday's game will show just how good Taftville A. A. is.

ROBINS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM BRAVES

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Brooklyn took a double header from the Braves today winning the first game 3 to 2 in ten innings and the second by a 9 to 2 score. The Robins now have a record of winning eight straight games here, losing only the first game they played.

Dazzy Vance held ten tribe to seven hits in the opener and with the aid of Jake Flowers turned in his nineteenth victory of the season. Flowers scored the winning run in the tenth inning with a home run off Cooney which hit the top of the left field bleacher fence. The Robins got off to a two run lead in the first inning but singles by J. Smith and Richbourg and Sisler's double tied the game in the eighth and set the stage for Flowers' homer.

After Farrell's error had put Gilbert on base in the fourth inning of the second encounter, Herman started the scoring with a homer into the center field bleachers and Del Bissonette followed with his twenty-first four base clout of the season. The Robins got two more runs in the seventh when Hendrick, pinch hitting for Petty, doubled with two on base. Four more runs scored on three hits in the eighth.

Jess Petty pitched the first six innings, giving only four hits, and got credit for the victory. Moss followed Petty and Clark relieved him after he had pitched to two men in the seventh and allowed two hits.

GIANTS AND PHILLIES GET EVEN BREAK IN TWIN BILL

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—(AP)—Cy Williams home run with one on and two out in the ninth inning gave the Phillies an 8 to 7 victory over the Giants in the second game of a double header today after New York had taken the opener 9 to 4.

Jack Scott put in the box in the last inning to hold the Giants' one run lead gained while Fitzsimmons was pitching, threw a ball Williams liked after Klein had singled and Williams promptly sent the ball over the right field fence. Leach for the Phillies and Welsh for the Giants also hit homers in this game.

New York apparently had the game sewed up in the early innings but the Phils put on a closing rush scoring two runs in the sixth and two more in the eighth to get within striking distance of the Giants.

Carl Hubbell easily subdued the Phils in the first game giving them only eight hits while the Giants were getting 13 off Ring and Ferguson. In the opener Bill Terry hit his third homer in two days while Chuck Klein got one for the Phillies.

The loss of the second game kept the Giants from gaining on the Cardinals, who were idle and cut their winning streak short at five games. Score:

MISS WILLS BEATEN BY MERCUR IN EXHIBITION

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 4—(AP)—Helen Wills, supreme in tennis over all the women of the world, met her match today in a mere man—Frits Mercur—but gained a moral victory when she won an added third set in which she had Mercur running back and forth along the baseline as desperately as she has the women stars she has met and mowed down.

The match went far to decide whether the phenominal woman player from Berkeley, at her peak, can defeat one of the country's top ranking men. "He was too good," was Helen's smiling comment.

Mercur won by scores of 6-3, 6-4 exactly the same figures by which Helen scored over him in an exhibition match August 18. Another set played at the woman champion's request she won at 6-4.

HARGREAVES' WILD PEG GIVES CUBS A VICTORY

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4—(AP)—A wild throw in the ninth inning by Hargreaves, who was attempting a double play, gave Chicago the winning run and the final game of the series with Pittsburgh here today 9 to 8.

Twice the Cubs had a commanding lead but on each occasion the Pirates deadlocked the tally and as the contest entered the ninth inning the score was tied at 8-8.

Long hits by Stephenson, Grimm and Barnhart accounted for most of the Chicago runs. Stephenson and Grimm hit home runs with a runner on base.

Comorosky led the attack for the Buccaneers with a home run and two singles. He drove in six of the Pirates eight runs. Score:

ATHLETICS PICK UP HALF GAME BY BEATING SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—After losing a doubleheader yesterday, the Philadelphia Athletics came back today to defeat the Washington Senators, 9 to 2, in the third and closing game of the series.

Southpaw Walberg, pitching for the Athletics, proved a mystery for on the other hand Gaston and Brown were easily solved by the Athletics, who scored two runs in both the second and sixth innings, one in the seventh and four in the last frame.

Haas, Bishop and Simmons hit triples, the latter's hit scoring two teammates in the ninth inning. Washington scored a run each in the fourth and fifty innings.

Three errors by Washington, including two by Manager Harris, contributed to the score which the Philadelphia team piled up.

FARRELL FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR P. G. A. PLAY

Farrell, evidently far off his game, scored two rounds of 76 for a total of 152, two strokes beyond the last qualifying score. Another who failed to qualify was Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., who was runner-up to Walter Hagen for the pro title last year.

Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, led the field of 78 with 137 for the 36 hole test to determine who the Metropolitan district's 10 representatives in the P. G. A., championship would be. The title will be at stake on the five farms course of the Baltimore Country club, Oct. 1 to 6.

Second place today went to Johnny Golden with 144. Gene Sarazen of Fresh Meadow, was a stroke back of Golden, as was Bill Mehlhorn of Fenimore.

Diegel shot sub-par golf to lead the field. His morning round of 69 was one under par and he bettered this with a 68 in the afternoon.

The other qualifiers were:

VIC DARR IN PRIME SHAPE FOR HIS FIGHT ON FRIDAY

Vic Darr, local lightweight who meets Dutch Whitley of the Coast Guard in the opening bout at the New London arena Friday night, is in prime condition for his battle. Except for a small sty on his eye Vic is at the peak of physical perfection and it will take Whitley more than four rounds to gain a verdict. The sty in no way interferes with Darr's fighting as he has boxed right along with it and it takes a mighty fast man to land punches to Darr's head. The local boy

MOVEMENT OF HIGHER PRICES IN STOCK MARKET MAINTAINED BY SPECULATORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in today's stock market despite rather heavy selling inspired by the marking up of the call money rate from 7 1-2 to 8 per cent.

Nearly two score issues broke through to new high levels for the year, with sensational advances of 21 1-2 points in Warner Bros. A and 19 1-2 points in the common as the individual features. Net gains of 1 to 11 points in a long list of other active issues were interspersed with a number of declines ranging from 1 to nearly 3 points. Total sales ran close to 3,700,000 shares.

Closing of about $25,000,000 in loans in connection with the semi-weekly adjustment by banks of their position at the Federal Reserve bank was believed responsible for the stiffening of call money. Another factor may have been the new clearing house regulations, effective September 1, increasing the service charge on the placing of items for out-of-town banks and private corporations, as well as increasing the minimum loan for such accounts to $100,000. Easier call money is looked for when the September 1 and Labor day funds return to the banks but the full effect of this might not be felt before the middle of the month. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

The monthly New York stock exchange report of member loans, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of $214,089,826 last month, bringing the total to $5,051,427,405. The weekly report of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed an increase of only $51,229,000 between July 25 and August 29.

Powerful pools, apparently having succeeded in attracting a public following, started to bid up stocks from the opening gong. Transactions of 1,000 to 15,000 shares were quite common during the session. Speculative interest switched frequently from group to group with the amusement, independent motor and public utility shares giving the best demonstrations of group strength.

The wild outburst of buying in the amusement shares was accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of new alignments in the industry and trade predictions of large earnings from the new talking picture devices. The spectacular rise in the Warner issues was attributed, in part, to the urgent retreat of an overcrowded short interest. For Film A ran up nearly 5 points to 99 7-8 as against a low of 72 earlier in the year. Paramew high level and then fell back on mount Famous Lasky advanced to a realizing.

Concurrent activity and strength of Hupp and Reo Motors, both of which established new high records, also was based on unconfirmed merger rumors. Chrysler, Packard and Graham-Paige also moved into new high ground and General Motors closed 2 points higher at 203 1-4. Columbia Gas, with a 5-point gain at 125, was the leader in the public utility group.

American Linseed ran up 13 points for a new top at 135 and then eased to 133. Amboy the many other issues to reach new high ground were Continental Can, Union Carbide, Loose Wiles Biscuit, International Harvester, Coty, May Department Stores and Barnsdall A. Such recent favorites as U. S. Steel common, American Can, Anaconda Copper, International Nickel and Woolworth were ranged behind minus signs at the close. Recent weakness of Manhattan Electrical Supply was explained today by the omission of the regular quarterly dividend.

Rails showed more uniform strength than the industrials, with rather substantial gains in such issues as Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, Colorado & Southern and Union Pacific.

Commodity markets were again mixed. Wheat dropped 1 to 1 1-2 cents a bushel but cotton closed slightly firmer. Coffee quotations were slightly higher and raw sugar futures a shade easier.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market but most of the declines were nominal. Sterling cables ruled around $4.85 1-4. Japanese yen broke 13 points to 45.50 cents.

COLLECTOR ALEXANDER, NEW LONDON TO SELL HOUSE FOR $85 BACK TAXES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4—Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander is determined that persons who owe back taxes shall make payment to the city. With that end in view he has issued another tax warrant and delivered it to City Sheriff Lawrence Fardy for service. The warrant calls for the sale at public auction Saturday, Nov. 3, at noon, of the residence of Mrs. Anna Andrelli, 59 Jefferson avenue. The tax collector claims that Mrs. Andrelli owes the city $26.73 on the levy of 1926 and $58.74 on the levy of 1927, a total of $85.53. The warrant is the third of its kind that Collector Alexander has issued since he went into office, last April.

John W. Marooney of Sound View reported to the New London police this morning that he had lost a billfold containing $40 and his driver's license.

The police of Mamaroneck, N. Y., today informed the New London police that the 34-foot cruisette, "Alco," had been stolen from the former port. The boat carries registration K-6853.

JOHN McKENNA'S DEATH MONDAY WAS SUDDEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4—John McKenna, about 65, formerly of North Bank street, died suddenly this morning at the residence of his brother, Patrolman James McKenna, 112 Riverview avenue. An autopsy will probably be held to determine the cause of Mr. McKenna's death. He was a stone mason by occupation but had not been employed for two or three years. Mr. McKenna, who was born in Ireland, but who had resided in this city many years, became ill Monday afternoon and when a physician was summoned, he was taken to Home Memorial hospital. He remained at the institution over night and this morning he was removed to the home of his brother, where he expired a short time afterwards. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman is making an investigation, which, if it does not reveal the cause of Mr. McKenna's death, will result in the autopsy being performed.

Mrs. John Volte of Addison, N. Y., Mrs Thomas A. Woodruff, 44 Mott avenue; Rev. Edward M. Chapman, 917 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Henry H. Smith, Worthington road; Mrs. Patrick Kane, 14 Darrow street; Mrs. August Nunes and infant son, 887 Bank street; Mrs. Enrico Carnevoli and infant son, 17 Cliff street; Francis Brewer, Jr., 8 West Pleasant street; John Hill, Salem, Conn.; Mrs. Alfred Gorton and infant daughter, 92 Willetta avenue; Tyler Cobb, 12 Parkway, and Elsie Daniels, Saybrook, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday, Monday and today.

Judge William Belcher

William Belcher, 85, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 25 Fremont street, after a general breakdown in health. He was a son of Nathan Belcher, a lawyer and in the past generation one of the leading men in the public life of New London. He was born in the Belcher homestead, corner of Union and Methodist streets, Feb. 27, 1845. He was graduated from Amherst college and chose law as a profession and was admitted to the bar here. Shortly after taking up this pursuit he was made judge of the police court and afterward was appointed judge of the probate court, which appointment he held for almost a generation. Early in life he married Annie Pimer of this city. Four sons, Gregory of Panama, Duncan of Clinton, Conn., Norman of Spokane, Wash., and Nathan of this city, and a daughter, Anette, (Mrs. Henry Adams of New Jersey), were the result of this union. Judge Belcher was president of the Savings Bank of New London, the New London City National bank and a director in the New London Public library. He was a member of the First Church of Christ.

ROACHES NOT EXTERMINATED—COUNCIL HEARS COMPLAINT

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4—At the meeting of the city council tonight an estimate of the budget appropriation for the coming year showed a considerable increase. Councilor Twomey pointed out that an increase in the millage or a rearrangement of property assessment was necessary. He said the latter course was the way to raise the amount needed. Mayor May declared that the system now in use was obsolete and said that one property to his knowledge was not assessed one-quarter of its value. He promised to verify his statement from an examination of the assessors' books. He also declared that two buildings which were not in need of repair were not assessed highly and others in need of repair were set at a high assessment.

Robert T. Heath of North street declared that the effort to rid the city's dumps of roaches had been a failure. He complained that he had been living there and had been compelled to fight roaches for several days. The city paid about $1,000 to out-of-town parties to rid these premises of the pests, but the desired purposes had not been accomplished. He said that he had complained to City Health Officer Pennell, but the trouble still existed. City Manager Holt said that Heath's complaint was the first that he knew of.

A petition with 128 signatures, asking that the square in front of the Thomas Hose company be known as Hodges' square was presented but on objection by Councilor Whiton that the action was too hasty the matter was referred to the public welfare committee. Mr. Whiton said he did not object to honoring young Hodges, who lost his life in the submarine S-4 off Provincetown, but he thought further consideration should be given to the selection of a name for the square. The council voted to provide sewers for the Riverside section, a project that has been in contemplation three years. Land was deeded to the city for the purpose and accepted from the Thames Towboat Co. and the F. H. & A. H. Chappell Co.

Permission was given for the removal of a lunch wagon from Main and Church streets to the state pier, after it was decided that the wagon was a building. It was voted to lay sewers in Walton street and extend the sewer in Thames street. Councilor Twomey asked for traffic signal lights to be placed in the streets, saying that they would save expense and do away with traffic officers. City Manager Holt notified the council that a traffic light signal was to be tried out. The city manager reported that a fence would be necessary around Tyler square, when the Columbus statue is erected there next month.

The Syrian-American society invited the council to attend its anniversary at the beach, Sept. 30, and the invitation was accepted.

Inasmuch as there were some discrepancies in the vote declared by the checkers and the voting machines at the last election, there was prolonged discussion as to having the voters checked in and checked out as they went to the voting machines, with the result that only the checking-in system will be employed, as the voting machine is the final arbiter in the matter. Demonstration of the voting machines in the various wards of the city will begin tomorrow.

More than a score of applications for building permits were granted.

Sixty members of the Whiton family were present at a re-union held Saturday on the grounds of the Lucius P. Whiton residence on Pequot avenue. There was a picnic lunch at noon. In the afternoon games and a general social time was enjoyed. Officers of the Whiton clan are: President, Frank W. Whiton; first vice president, William H. Hall, West Hartford; second, Mrs. Louise Gowdy, Hazardville; third, Mrs. Leander K. Shipman, of this city; treasurer, Lucious E. Whiton. During the re-union it was voted to incorporate the Whiton family association under the laws of Connecticut.

A group of local persons spent a delightful week end at Lantern Hill. Games, dancing, swimming and rowing were the amusements. Those present were Miss Anna Glorr and Emil Glorr of Hawthorne, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. John Shea, Meriden; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marson, Mrs. Mary Williamson, Miss Loretta Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schlecht, Mrs. Marie Hunter, John and Leonard Hunter, Raymond Stewart, Hugh and Raymond McFarland.

Announcement was made over the holidays that Miss Marion Armstead Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almon F. Armstead Bowen, of Post Hill Place, is engaged to Ralph E. Smith of Lynchburg and Richmond, Virginia. Mr. Smith is a graduate of the Virginia Military institute and is employed by the duPont company at Richmond. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. William Lockhart of 528 Main street, entertained at a bridge and whist party tonight for the benefit of Star of New London lodge, Shepherds of Bethlehem. The affair began at 8:30 and was held for the purpose of raising a sufficient sum to defray the expense of sending a delegate to the national convention of the organization to be held in Atlantic City this month.

Members of Circle No. 1, of the First Baptist church met tonight at 7:30 in the church parlors for the first fall meeting. After a business session a social time was enjoyed, at the close of which refreshments were served.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Emma Wino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wino of East Lyme, to John Vincent McClave of the same town. No date has been set for the wedding.

Members of Niawatha council, Dairymaids' association are to hold a Pocahontas night tomorrow evening, following the regular meeting.

At the sixth annual banquet of the class of '28, Bulkeley school, held Saturday night at the Pease house, Saybrook, fifteen members were present for a beefsteak dinner. Following the banquet a short business session was held for the purpose of determining a place in which to hold the 1929 banquet. The following committee was appointed to make final arrangements: William Ruddy, chairman; Harold Beach, Perry Shafner, Leon St. Germain.

Miss Dora Lubow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Lubow of 326 Montauk avenue, New London, became the bride Sunday in New York city of David Lahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lahn of Westerly. The ceremony was performed in the Broadway Central hotel by Rabbi Louis Hahn a cousin of the bride. Only members of the two families were in attendance. After a return from a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Lahn will reside in Westerly where Mr. Lahn conducts a silk and woolen store.

The September meeting of the Past Chiefs of New London circle, No. 525, Companions of the Forest, was held last night in Odd Fellows hall. Plans were made for the holding of the annual banquet at the Hotle Mohican, Saturday, September 15th. At the conclusion of the meeting a salad supper was served by a committee headed by Mrs. Mary Joseph.

Catherina Mazzara became the bride yesterday morning of Salvatora Rossi, both of this city. The ceremony was performed in St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. George Clark.

A right of way on Bank street in the rear of the former brick building of P. Schwartz and Co. was granted Robert J. Sisk today by the National Bank of Commerce. Mr. Sisk also quit-claimed to the bank two tracks of land at that location. It is understood that final agreements between Sisk and the S. N. Ellis company, present owners of the Schwartz building, have settled forever all disputes regarding the right of way. The agreement permits Sisk or his agents to use th eroadway every week day between 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. In lieu of this privilege the Ellis company receives permission to erect a garage at the westerly end of the building, also to change the location of a gas pumping station on the property.

Enrico Alvena, 9, of 87 Blinman street, Saturday night was struck by a passing auto while playing in front of his home. The car was driven by Hyman Soltz, of 26 Main street, who in a statement declared that the lad rushed directly in front of his machine while he was traveling at a moderate rate of speed. The youth was taken to the office of Dr. Soltz and was afterwards removed to Home Memorial hospital for observation. Other than minor bruises and lacerations the boy was uninjured.

Lawrence Cann of 37 Baker street, Groton and Leo M. Oser of Brooklyn, N. Y., were arrested yesterday afternoon for parking overtime on State street. Both forfeited their bonds of $2 for appearance in the police court morning.

Dedication ceremonies were held Saturday night at Pequyoch in celebration of the completion of the building of the Goshen Fire Engine company. Between 6 and 7 o'clock a delicious supper was served following which a dance was held with over two hundred present.

Two husbands were in the police court this morning as a result of complaints being made by their respective wives. Louies Pievost of Shanley street was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Philopena, after his wife had complained that he had abused her. His case was continued a month. Tony Battaglia of 14 Shaw street was accused by his wife of having struck her while he was drunk. Upon his promise to treat her correctly in the future he was given a suspended sentence. Edward McLoughlin of 12 Methodist street who was arrested Sunday on complaint of his brother was also given a suspended sentence. He was warned that unless he behaved himself in the future he would be given a long jail sentence.

About 3 o'clock Sunday morning a stabbing affair at the corner of State and Main streets, nearly resulted fatally for two persons, Emile Pijeaux, 28, of 690 Bank street and his brother Charles, 36 and Augustus Gaither of 32 Douglas street were the participants. Gaither was found to have been the trouble maker in the party and was fined $50 and costs when in the police court yesterday morning. The two brothers were found not guilty. They received severe stabs during the fight. Gaither only suffered a lacerated hand.

David Ross and George Donovan, of Boston, and John Roggio, of Bridgeport, arrested Saturday in Union station as pickpocket suspects and placed under bonds of $25 each for appearance in the police court yesterday, failed to show up, so their bonds were forfeited. The three were arrested as a result of suspicions of the conductor of the train on which they were riding who recognized them as pickpockets.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

The audience at the Palace theatre find plenty to excite it during the showing of Columbia's "After the Storm." The picture catches the attention in the first flash and holds the interest until the final fade-out. Unlike most sea stories "After the Storm" has a love interest around which the plot is woven. The action takes place chiefly in Singapore and aboard the square rigged schooner "Sampson."

As the title implies the big thrill comes during and following a typhoon. The storm rages on land as well as at sea. On land it uproots trees and destroys buildings. Into the very teeth of this storm Hobart Bosworth heads the "Sampson" and stages a daring rescue. It is one of the best bits of acting we have ever seen Bosworth do.

Eugenia Gilbert has a dual role She plays mother and daughter and makes a fine distinction between the two. The comedy vein is in the hands of George Kuwa, who keeps the audience in good humor between tense situations. Maude George gives an exceptionally fine portrayal of a fallen woman. Columbia should be proud of its achievements in presenting a picture of the calibre of "After the Storm," and George B. Seitz may add another laurel to his crown for producing a masterpiece.

The second feature is an old story unfolded in a most fascinating and interesting manner. "The Model from Montmartre," Paramount's foreign produced picture, which opens at the Palace theatre today. Although the cast is made up of foreign players, yet all but one has had American film experience, and the excepted one strikes one as being the real film "find" of the year.

This actor, Ivan Petrovitch, appeared in the leading man role of the "Garden of Allah" and is a very finished actor. Nita Naldi, who has appeared in many film successes, has a prominent part and handles her role in a capable manner. Louise LaGrange, a French actress, is sublime in her characterization and Maurice de Connage adds merit to the performance.

Strand Theatre.

Showing today and tomorrow, Colleen Moore in Naughty by Nice. Colleen as Berenice Summers, plain, long-haired, spectacled, freckled and dumb, gains freedom from her uncle's Texas ranch when oil found on his property makes him disgustingly rich.

The school principal surprises Berenice and her chum in the lobby of a downtown hotel, where they are to meet Paul Carroll for a theatre date. They explain they are there to see the chum's parents upstairs. She follows them and in desperation they are forced to make their bluff good and enter a room.

Through a series of coincidences, Berenice and Ames are brought together that night at the judge's house. Paul Carroll is there too, and is stunned when Berenice's "husband" is introduced. Every effort is made to induce the "bride"and "groom" to enter the bridal suite, before they are finally herded in. Berenice sleeps on the roof, rolls off, is chased by a policeman, finds Carroll, marries him and they return to the bridal suite.

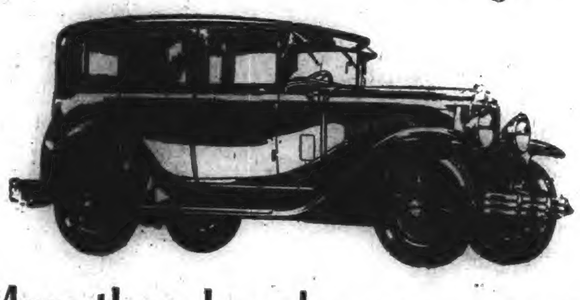
The new Buick is the new Style



More than handsome···more than luxurious···a wonderful new type of motor car beauty··a thrilling turning point in body design

It will be imitated, of course! The new, the fine and the beautiful always inspire emulation. But so great is the cost of building the magnificent new Fisher bodies for the Silver Anniversary Buick that imitation will be possible only to much costlier cars, and even these will find difficulty in following where Buick leads!

$1,500,000 has been expended in manufacturing the dies alone for the new Buick bodies; and the gracefully curving side panels which form one of their distinguishing characteristics represent the most expensive steel paneling work employed on any automobile in the world!

But it is not in the matchless grace and beauty of exterior design alone that the Silver Anniversary Buick eclipses other cars. The velvet mohair upholstery in the closed models—the hardware and fitments—the many appointments of luxury and convenience—are all of the richest quality; and the bracing of the bodies, which imparts strength and durability and freedom from squeaks and rattles, is the most efficient and effective known to motor car practice.

In dashing beauty—as in fleet, powerful performance—the world holds no equal for the Silver Anniversary Buick with Masterpiece Bodies by Fisher.

It is more than handsome, more than luxurious—it marks a thrilling turning point in body design. And the motoring public, buying in such tremendous volume as to force the great Buick factories to work day and night to supply the demand, is elevating it to the prominence of a vogue!

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use for constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds For a free trial, mail the special coupon printed here;

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

"Freckles," a dramatization of Gene Straton Porter's popular novel of the same name, opens the double feature program at the Breed theatre for today and Thursday.

In transposing this well known Gene Stratton Porter novel to the screen much of the original beauty, charm and action have been retained with the dramatic sequences heightened to make it more entertaining screen material than some of this author's stories that have gone before. There is all of the beauty of the Limberlost and the lovable characters of the bird woman, the swamp angel and the one-armed boy outcast.

John Fox, Jr., is Freckles and he is ideally cast. He is splendidly fitted by appearance and personality to a role that must be well portrayed to be effective. In fact he might have too much the appearance of dogged determination to win all the sympathy the role calls for. Gene Stratton as the swamp angel is equally as good as the hero. She is a sweet, simple girl who conducts herself with rare naturalness before the camera.

"The Riding Renegade," a dashing story of the far west and starring Bob Steele is the added feature.

In addition the latest chapter of the Beauty Parlor Series featuring the famous comedy team, Al Cooke and Kit Guard and an up-to-the-minute news reel, round out a perfectly entertaining program for today and Thursday.

FURNESS AFTER BERTH OF STONINGTON SELECTMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 4—In Pawcatuck Monday evening next the republican town caucus to nominate town officers will be held. A contest looms in the nomination of selectman from the Pawcatuck or the second voting district of the town. Arthur Babcock, the present incumbent, has the backing of the regular party organization. However, Frank L. Furness, president of Pawcatuck board of trade and proprietor of the Elm Tree Inn, has announced his candidacy. The following circular has been issued:

"Vote for Furness."

I believe in the following policies and, if nominated and elected to the office of selectman, will work for their adoption.

(Signed) Frank L. Furness.

1. An economical and efficient administration of town affairs, without exceeding revenue received.

2. Reorganization of the town police force, with a chief of police having jurisdiction over the patrolmen. Removal of the police from politics is favored.

3. A modernization of the town accounting system, which will permit the furnishing of reports which can be more easily understood by the average voter.

4. A stricter enforcement of existing laws.

"Vote for Furness."

Dwight Clinton Brown, New Haven railroad policeman, son of Chief of Police Brown, had a busy Labor day in keeping New Haven freights free from the side-door Pullman riders. He apprehended John McConnell, 39, riding a New Haven-New London freight and Louis Phipshott, 42, on a freight from Boston, bound to New London. Patrick Higgins, Pawcatuck, alias "Sprig," and another offender, have been lodged in the Westerly police station charged with track walking. They were arrested Tuesday afternoon by Policeman Brown, who also has summoned others to appear in the Third district court Friday next to answer to a charge of track walking by reason of their use of the Pawcatuck river railroad bridge in crossing the river.

At the Westerly office of the American Railway Express Co., Agent A. J. Van Dyke and assistants were busy Tuesday as the office was buried under an avalanche of trunks, bags, boxes and barrels of shore visitors returning to their homes.

Frederick S. Opie of Westerly is president of the Harris-Mowry department store in Woonsocket, R. I., which on Labor day morning had the office safe blown by yeggmen, who used nitroglycerine to secure $2,500 in reserve the safe to begin Tuesday morning's business. Mr. Opie states that the loss was covered by insurance.

STANLEY LESNIAK TO GO ON TRIAL FRIDAY FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Stanley Lesniak, 29, of Montville, will go on trial Friday for first degree murder, before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury, in the criminal superior court in this city. A true bill was returned against Lesniak Tuesday morning by a grand jury, indicting him for murder in the first degree, in connection with the death of Gus Labati, one of Lesniak's neighbors. The grand jury was out for about two hours and witnesses examined included Jennie Labati, Steve Popanko, Milton Bogue, Libero Balducci, Ralph E Johnson, Albert H. Fox D. Charles Kaufman, Dr. H. W. Wellington, Sergt. Henry J. Albrigat of the state police barracks at Groton, and State Police Officers Peter Busch, and George Webber.

The criminal court came in here Tuesday morning with Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts offered the prayer. In addition to the Lesniak murder case four other cases slated to come up for trial Thursday are as follows:

Charles Grady of Groton, charged with statutory burglary; Edgar Graves, et al., of New London, charged with robbery, John Drozek, et al., Norwich, charged with statutory burglary and Paul Salamuccha of Norwich, charged with violation of the liquor law. In addition to the 29 new cases on the docket, five new ones were entered Tuesday, as follows:

Loren Maynard, East Lyme, violation of the liquor law; John Buraeby, Norwich, charged with adultery; Edward Haskell, Norwich, charged with receiving the earnings of a prostitute; Mildred Haskell and Steve Slaniewicz of Norwich, charged with adultery. None of the above cases were tried Tuesday. One man received a state's prison sentence Tuesday. He is Stephen Huval of New London and he was given a prison sentence of not less than one year nor more than three years for the theft of a motor vehicle. Several men were sent to jail.

John Dougherty of this city, charged with obtaining goods by false pretenses was given a six months' suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for one year.

Frank E. Engle of New London was sent to jail for six months on a bigamy charge and C. J. Lecky of Waterford, charged with theft of poultry received a nolle in his case.

Public Defender Charles L. Stewart is representing Lesniak. The charge against Lesniak is that he lay in wait for his neighbor, Gus Labati, about 45, of the Pie Hill district in the town of Montville, and deliberately murdered him. The state claims that the murder was premeditated.

The crime occurred on the evening of May 15th last. Lesniak lay in wait for Lebati with a sawed-off shot gun, while his neighbor was coming home from work. Lesniak stepped from his hiding place, poked the gun through the cab window of the car and shot Lebati. Lebati got out of the car and struggled with his assailant. Lesniak then struck Lebati over the head with the barrel of the gun and also the stock.

Lebati died several days later at a New London hospital. The trouble between the men started over cattle owned by Lebati, going onto land owned by Lesniak, which culminated in the killing of Lebati.

The grand jury which returned the indictment was as follows:

Attorney John J. McGarry, New London, foreman; Hiram W. Scriver, Groton; Frederick A. Beckwith, Niantic; Charles F. Camplin, Westerly; James A. May, New London; Mason Manning, Mystic; Fred W. Jacques, Waterford; Horace G. Lewis, Westerly; Frank C. Whiting, Jewett City; Benjamin L. Mull, Mystic; Dr. Napoleon B. Lewis, Norwich; John F. Richardson, Preston; Samuel Freedman, Colchester; Carlos C. Peck, New London; Louis J. Fontaine, Baltic; Elias Waterman, Yantic; Charles I. Feebe, Colchester; George H. Bradford, Montville.

A plea of guilty was made by George Rodman, 40, Norwich. He was charged with attempting to commit statutory burglary in connection with an alleged break in a so-called "soft drink" place conducted by John J. Donahue on lower North Main street. He was given three months in jail without costs.

The accused was described by State's Attorney Brown as a tramp weaver and one who was addicted to the use of intoxicating fluids. According to the public defender, Rodman had previously secured some "high-powered beer" at Donahue's place, known as the former Allard place.

Soiro Nicholas, 19, Sprague, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary in connection with the break made at a store conducted by Hugh Blanchard in Baltic. At the time of the robbery, Nicholas was one of a party of three. The other two were Lucien Cote and Rudolph DeJello. They were put on probation in the town court of Sprague. Two cigarette lighters and 73 cents in cash were taken from the store, on May 17, last, when the burglary occurred. Nicholas formerly served time at the Meriden school for boys and his record was held against him. He was sentenced at that time from the New London juvenile court. The youth was formerly employed as a bellboy in New York.

The case against James Potter of New London, charged with statutory rape, was nolled. After his arrest, Potter married the girl, Eleanor Banta, a minor of New London. They were married at the jail where he was being held for trial. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth performed the ceremony. State's Attorney Brown stated that it would be impossible at the present time to have the wife testify against her husband, so he recommended that the charge against Potter be nolled absolutely.

Charged with theft of motor vehicles, two sailors and a civilian were before the court. They are alleged to be members of an auto theft ring. One of the sailors, Stephen Burka, 25, of 173 Columbia street, Bridgeport was given a jail sentence of eight months without costs. Richard J. Glidden, 24, of New London, alleged ring leader, had his case postponed until the January term of the court upon recommendation of the state attorney, who stated that it was in the interests of justice that a complete investigation be made of his affairs in the past. The third member of the ring, Stephen Huval, 26, the other sailor, stationed at the sub base was given a sentence of not less than one year nor more than 3 years in the state prison. It is alleged that Glidden stole an Essex car, owned by Kate Wilbur of Chestnut Hill, Mass., from in front of the Copley Plaza hotel, Boston, on Nov. 25, 1927, and took it to New London where he sold it to Huval for $40. Huval knew that the car was stolen, it is claimed.

A plea of guilty was entered by Burka. He was charged with stealing an Essex sedan owned by Ira S. Avery of Groton, which was parked on Feb. 25, last in front of the New London post office. Huval kept the car in his garage, and is claimed to have told Burka that he could get better cars easier.

Glidden was released under bonds of $1500 to await trial at the January term of the court.

Samuel Mercier, 28, Westerly, was sent to jail for 30 days. He was charged with stealing five coils of rope of the value of $50 from Samuel Pecoie of Stonington. Mercier served with the Canadians overseas and has been employed of late years in a quarry at Westerly. He went into the business of rigging lobster pots and stole the rope for that purpose.

On a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner, Frank Andrews, 18, of Lawrence, Mass., to whom the state attorney referred as having a mania for taking automobiles, was committed to the Connecticut reformatory for boys at Cheshire on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. He was employed in a mill at Stonington and nights he took an auto belonging to William Herman, Jr., of that place, who worked nights in the mill. The state's attorney stated that the youth had twice been paroled from the Lyman school for boys in Lawrence, but each time violated his parole.

The prisoners from the New London jail were brought here in a special bus under guard and were taken back to the jail in New London about 4:20 o'clock in the afternoon. Court adjourned Tuesday afternoon until Thursday morning.

SEN. BINGHAM PREDICTS HOOVER WILL CARRY STATE

A prediction that Connecticut will give the republican ticket a substantial majority in the November election and a guess that New York will go for Smith, were made by United States Senator Hiram Bingham at his home in Salem. Senator Bingham who last week returned from a European trip with his wife, his wife's mother, Mrs. Alfred Mitchell of New London, and his three youngest sons, talked freely of politics as he sat on the steps of his secluded cabin in the hills about a mile east of the New London turnpike.

"It is difficult for me to see how a state like Connecticut which depends so greatly on industry, manufactured articles and the tariff could go democratic in view of the tariff record of the democratic party down to and including the last session of congress," said the senator. He added that he expected this state to go republican because "it is noted for its common sense."

As to the prohibition question, Senator Bingham believes, "Connecticut common sense will argue this way—the president has nothing to do with a change in the Constitution. Such a change has to come from congress, and then be approved by three-fourths of the states. I do not believe the people of Connecticut are going to vote for a man for president because of his prohibition attitude when his duties are not concerned with such changes." The senator supplemented his remarks with the statement that he believed Connecticut wets would see the futility of voting for the New York governor because of his prohibition views.

"The senate is not going to pass any moist legislation within the next few years. Polls of the senate have never labeled more than one-quarter of the membership of the body as wet. It is ridiculous to think the senate is going to be changed enough in the near future to alter the prohibition statutes," Senator Bingham stated.

"Merely as a spectator I should suppose that Smith would carry New York. If they like him well enough there to elect him governor at the same time they vote for Coolidge for president, I should suppose they would vote for him for president. This, however is only a guess."

Declining to express any opinion on the contests for places on the republican state ticket, Senator Bingham added that since he went to the U. S. senate, he had made it a firm rule to keep out of local politics. He stated, however, that Connecticut needs another republican senator to succeed George P. McLean, "who will be sorely missed." Senator Bingham will be decidedly disappointed if his new colleague in the senate is a democrat, he said.

"I believe that anyone really interested in seeing Connecticut industry prosper would prefer to entrust the government of the country to the republicans," said the senator, adding that he realized the democratic national platform had been so framed as to placate voters living in manufacturing states that need a protective tariff.

The senator said: "Joe Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, whom I greatly admire, has made many speeches to which I have listened, urging a tariff reduction. All the democratic senators, except two, voted in either January or February of this year for a lowering of tariff duties." Senator Bingham said he believed Hoover and Curtis would carry Connecticut because the voters of the state would realize that Connecticut's best interests would be served by their election.

"I am very fond of Joe," added the senator, referring to Senator Robinson. "He has helped me in measures connected with aviation. He is a fine fellow, but his tariff views are inimical to the interests of this state."

A warm tribute to Herbert Hoover, whom he characterized as having "one of the most remarkably constructive intellects I have ever met" was paid by Senator Bingham. The senator received much aid from Mr. Hoover, when the latter was secretary of commerce, in framing the commercial aviation law of 1926.

Praising Senator Curtis' "sagacity, skill, courtesy and fairness," Mr. Bingham also lauded Mr. Hoover's running mate. Senator Curtis, as senate leader in the last congress, when the republicans had a majority of but one in the senate, did a remarkable piece of work according to Mr. Bingham. He stated that under Curtis' leadership the senate, with its almost negligible republican majority, had passed more good laws than the house of representatives. According to Senator Bingham a less able and less tactful man than Senator Curtis would not have made such a fine record.

A hope for a clean and highminded campaign was voiced by Senator Bingham. Such a campaign should be waged particularly he said, because "all four candidates are high grade men, and have been very useful public servants."

VOTERS' INFORMATION SERVICE IS NOW USING THE RADIO

Once a week for over seven months radio listeners in thousands of homes have been hearing two—or more—sides of the vexed questions which the campaign is forcing on the attention of the voting public. This is the outstanding achievement of the Voters Campaign Information Service conducted jointly by the League of Women Voters and the National Broadcasting company, says Katharine Ludington, in an article which appears in this month's issue of The Woman Voters' Bulletin. Miss Ludington, who is chairman of the radio committee, continues:

Twenty-three stations are carrying the programs, four having been lost by the change to daylight time but three new ones having come in. The prophecy that the public would not listen to so much "talk" has not proved true. Un-partisan or bi-partisan discussion has been so successful as to suggest that a new facto. may have entered into our political life. Far from being crowded off the air by purely partisan matter, the service has more than held its own.

Clippings are coming in from every section of the country. The comment on the prohibition discussion by Mrs. Willebrandt and Mrs. Roosevelt has been widespread and other recent programs have had almost as much publicity. Evidently a wide public wants something better than the old time party spell-binding oratory; and of course the brilliant list of our speakers has been an added attraction.

Think of the roster of these speakers! Cabinet officers, senators and representatives, the two vice-presidential nominees of the major parties on one program, party leaders, journalists, engineers, educators, many of the outstanding women of the country, columnists and cartoonists—a cross section of the brains of America—have lent their aid to make this experiment a living thing.

The voters' service is being used by colleges in their class work, by discussion groups, by leagues in connection with organization work.

SEBASTIAN FINED ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Charged with reckless driving and taking an automobile without the owner's permission Samuel Sebastian, alias Sam Gardner, colored, of No. 12 Washington street was presented in the city court Tuesday morning. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed upon Sebastian on the first count and a nolle was entered on the second. The accused was arrested on Baltic street Monday evening by the police, after he had taken a truck owned by the Roy Cleaning Co., and driven in recklessly on streets in the city. The accused was noticed driving recklessly by Officer Thoma, who commandeered an automobile and put after him. Sebastian abandoned the truck near the state armory and disappeared, but was later arrested. The second count was nolled as there was some question as to whether or not Sebastian had taken the machine without the owner's consent. He is employed as a presser in the tailoring shop and on various occasions had driven the machine to the garage.

OUTBOARD RACE SATURDAY ON THAMES RIVER

The Thames river will see its first outboard marathon next Saturday afternoon when a fleet of small racing craft will make the 16 mile round trip between Eastern Point and Norwich under the sponsorship of the Shenecosset Yacht club.

Fifty dollars in prizes have been donated for the races, which will include events for class A, B and C motors. The start will be made at noon, daylight saving time off the upper Griswold dock at Eastern Point and the boats will finish at the same point after rounding a mark off the Norwich waterfront.

The race is open to all comers, who may signify their intention of entering by communicating with J. S. Wilfred, Shore avenue, Eastern Point, Groton. Prospective contestants specify size and make of motor and dimensions of boat.

Outboard races of such a length furnish a sporting chance for every boat, as engine trouble and rough going often put the logical winners out before the finish. On a choppy bay a slow, sturdy craft would be at an advantage over a light racing hull.

Four entries are already assured for Class C, two for Class B, and two for Class A.

The program opened with an address of welcome by the president, Desire J. Dufresne, who acted as toastmaster of the evening and introduced the various speakers. Rev. Frederick R. Desurseault, pastor of the Sacred Heart church and spiritual director of the St. Jean Baptiste society, gave a very interesting address on Fraternity, stressing the essential points on which the organization was founded, and urging all to live in true fraternalism with their fellow-men. He was followed by Rev. Omer T. Mandler, senior curate of the church and honorary chaplain of the order whose topic was God Country, Religion, Family.

Professor G. Herbert Rich of Norwich, who was an honored guest of the society for the evening gave two well executed selections on the violin. Prof. Rich played with great skill and his selections were received by the audience with great applause, showing his numbers to be one of the favorites on the program. He was accompanied on the piano by Roy Phillips and offered Flirt Souvenirs (Frank Drdia) and Pizzicats from the Sylvia Ballet (Delibes).

Dancing was enjoyed from 12 p. m. to 3 a. m. and the committee in charge served refreshments from 10.30 to 11.30. Desire J. Dufresne was chairman of the committee in charge and his aides were First Vice President Henry Phaneuf, Second Vice President E. Durand. The reception committee included Henry Phaneuf, E. NEW ENGLAND'S ELECTORAL VOTES HANG IN BALANCE

Massachusetts, With 18 Votes, Appears To Be the Strategic Key For Both Parties—Democrats Express Belief They Can Garner Majority of the Electoral Vote in the Six States—Republicans Will Combat the Democratic Wet Advance With the Protective Tariff—Hoover Forces Claim Southern New England.

(By D. FIELD BRITTLE)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BOSTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—Forty-four New England electoral votes await the November plucking, hemmed in by such delicately balanced possibilities as have rarely existed before in this northeastern orchard of normal republicanism.

Just now they are ripening at some distance from the scenes of local realignments within state borders, disturbed only occasionally by the reaching out for national issues.

For both republicans and democrats, Massachusetts appears to be the strategic key, by reason of its weighty 18 votes as against the seven of Connecticut, the six of Maine, five of Rhode Island and four each of Vermont and New Hampshire.

On the basis of past performance alone in these states the democrats would seem to have no overpowering reasons for encouragement now, but nevertheless they are nourishing an inspired belief that control of a majority of the combined New England electoral vote is well within the field of possibilities. They are most determinedly shooting at Massachusetts' 18 and Rhode Island's five, to total 23, one more than half of the 44 at stake.

Covetous eyes are turned also to Connecticut's seven votes, and there are some democrats who insist that a three-state victory is not out of prospect. In any case, their most serious fight is to be made in those states, by far a more determined effort than is planned for the republican strongholds of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

A democratic success in New England, the winning of Massachusetts and one other, thus would send Alfred E. Smith out into the remaining 42 states on better than an even footing with Herbert Hoover, a circumstance that no other democrat, except Woodrow Wilson in the memorable republican split of 1912, has enjoyed in recent years.

Is resting its cause upon personalities is resting it scause upon personalities and one dominant issue—prohibition. In Massachusetts the Smith name is linked with that of Senator David I. Walsh, up for re-election, who has been a fairly consistent winner far in advance of his ticket. Both are Catholic and their prohibition views coincide.

The Catholic vote is large in the Bay state, which often has been a battleground for wets and drys. Until the advent of national prohibition the state was under local option, and in a referendum in the general election of 1924 a rigid enforcement bill was adopted by a margin of only 8,183 in a total of 901,129 votes. A similar measure was defeated in 1922 by 103,876 votes.

Connecticut and Rhode Island long have been deemed fair ground for anti-prohibition fights; they stand as the only states that refused to ratify the eighteenth amendment. Prohibition is the main spring of the democratic effort in Connecticut, where an aggressive campaign is underway with material assistance from the speakers' bureau of national headquarters.

Senator Peter G. Gerry, who twice has defeated republican opponents in Rhode Island, the last time in 1922 between the Harding and Coolidge landslides, is standing for re-election, teamed with Smith. He is relied upon by the democrats to put the tiny state in the Smith column in November, a reliance that takes into account not only his popularity and winning habit, but also that Rhode Island, like Connecticut, has a large foreign population declared to be mainly wet and Catholic.

Republicans are admittedly concerned about this new situation but are ready actively to take the field once the state party activities are out of the way. Their's is a combined defensive-offensive maneuver; while combatting the democratic wet advance they will swing an old familiar weapon—the protective tariff.

That is to be the theme of the republican campaign in this manufacturing zone. It is now loudly and earnestly proclaimed in Maine, where every effort is being expended to roll up for the state ticket next Monday a majority so big that it may be offered to the country as a psychological guide in November. The first tariff blow was struck in this region by Senator Curtis, who waited only until he had been notified that he was the vice presidential nominee to invade anti-prohibition Rhode Island and declare that tariff protection was the big issue, and that the democrats were unbelievers.

Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire are depended upon by the republicans to stay republican. Their chief interest there lies in the dimension of majorities, although the opposition is making a fight for it. Those republicans who base their guesses on the record also are sure of southern New England. Against the fact that Wilson carried New Hampshire from Hughes in 1916, they like to point out that Connecticut has had only one democratic governor since 1895, and no democratic senator since 1876.

CHANCELLOR BROACHES QUESTION OF EVACUATION

GENEVA, Sept. 5—(AP)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France and Chancellor Hermann Mueller of Germany tonight held an informal conversation which promoted understanding of their relations while leaving untouched the question of evacuation of the Rhineland.

Briand informed his caller that France could not embark on a discussion of this question without the presence of her allies, Great Britain and Belgium. Later he told the press that the conversation at no time took the character of a negotiation. He said that the chancellor gave the impression of wishing to draw closer relations between the two countries.

They spoke of the moral and material value of agreements already arrived at, such as the Locarno pact, and discussed what could be done to dissipate misunderstandings and prevent such from compromising good relations between their nations. It was indicated that the French statesman may prolong the discussion by returning the visit while both are at Geneva.

There are now 60,000 allied troops in the German Rhineland to guarantee German fulfillment of the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. Germany has sought to have these wholly withdrawn before 1935 which was the date fixed for the removal of the last contingent.

Delegates to the league assembly displayed much interest in the visit of the chancellor to M. Briand tonight for it was felt that the problem of reparations might be linked to that of evacuation.

ROBERT INGERSOLL DIED AT DENVER SANATORIUM

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 5—(AP)—Robert Ingersoll, watch manufacturer and originator of the Ingersoll dollar watch, died yesterday at a sanatorium where he had been a patient since June 17. Announcement of the death was made today.

Mr. Ingersoll, who was 69 years old, had suffered many years from Bright's disease, which resulted in his death. Arrangements were made today for removal of the body to New York city for burial.

The control of Ingersoll's watch-making establishment, which he established in 1892, passed out of the control of Mr. Ingersoll and his brothers, Charles H., and Arthur N. Ingersoll, less than a year ago when the Waterbury Watch Co. purchased the plant.

PRES. COOLIDGE ATTENDED TRI-STATE FAIR AT SUPERIOR

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 5—(AP)—Breaking his rule of not emerging from the seclusion of Cedar Island lodge more than twice a week, President Coolidge attended the Tri-State fair in Superior today.

Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, the chief executive motored 40 miles from the lodge to mingle with the thousands at the fair grounds.

Driving quickly past the side shows and amusement booths, Mr. Coolidge stopped in front of the live-stock exhibits where cows, sheep and hogs elicited his admiration.

Most of Mr. Coolidge's time at the fair, however, was given over to watching trotting races. Seated in a special flag-draped box in the grand stand, both the chief executive and Mrs. Coolidge displayed the keenest interest in the trotting. Mr. Coolidge especially requiring minute information about the various horses entered.

An agricultural exhibition also was inspected by the president before returning to the executive residence.

Requested by reporters and press photographers for weeks to permit them to witness his ability at trap-shooting, President Coolidge consented today to allow them to be present as he shattered 29 targets out of 37 aimed at.

MILLION MISSING FROM HOME MISSION TREASURY

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5—(AP)—Dr. Charles W. Daniel, of Richmond, chairman of the joint committee from the executive committee and the home mission board of the southern Baptist convention, said today that there is apparently $1,000,000 unaccounted for in the books of Clinton S. Carnes, missing treasurer of the home mission board.

The Atlanta Journal said this afternoon that Carnes kept secret files to hide money juggling over a period of years and but for the discovery of a secret correspondence file and note register the auditors would have been unable to discover the shortage in the books.

The joint committee was appointed by the executive committee and the home mission board, after an all-day and night session of the two bodies yesterday to consider the situation brought about by the sudden disappearance of Carnes on the afternoon of August 15th without apparent reason.

MICHIGAN RENOMINATES GOV. GREEN, REPUBLICAN

DETROIT, Sept. 5—(AP)—Although he made virtually no campaign and faced a fire of criticism by his opponent, Governor Fred W. Green, republican, was renominated in yesterday's state wide primary by a majority that will range between 225,000 and 235,000. On returns from 2737 precincts out of 3184 in the state the governor polled 371,917, against 164,627 for George W. Welsh, former lieutenant governor.

The governor carried virtually every county in the state, even Wayne (Detroit), where Welsh claimed he would make his best showing. The campaign was entirely devoid of national issues.

Democratic voters seemingly took little interest in the governorship, giving William A. Comstock, their national committeeman, an unopposed candidate for governor, but 8,858 votes.

HOOVER CONFERS WITH WESTERN G. O. P. LEADERS

By W. B. RAGSDALE)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—Herbert Hover shifted his gaze today from the important eastern sector to survey the political horizon in central, western and southern border states.

In a series of conferences with republicans from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and the farming states west of the Mississippi, the presidential nominee received reports of changes in the political situation that have occurred since he journeyed to Washington from the Pacific coast more than a week ago.

At the same time he received a report from J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, treasurer of the republican national committee, revealing that that organization had collected a total of $560,039 during the month of August and had expended $263,899. This brought the total expenditures of the committee on August 31 to $312,216 and collections to $658,418.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, one of those who brought him news from the west, went over the general situation with the nominee and discussed again with him the problem of farm relief. The senator said that on the whole the situation in the west was looking even brighter as the campaign moved forward.

"Hover proposed to make the republican party platform on farm relief effective," the Iowa senator declared after the conference, "and he knows how to do it. He already has handled ten billion dollars worth of surplus farm products and during that period the farmers were more prosperous than they have been in years."

Senator Brookhart declared that the record of the republican nominee during the war had demonstrated that he was the friend of the farmer and indicated that the drive launched by republican speakers in the western campaign would center around an effort to bring the farmers to this point of view.

Falling wheat prices have little political effect, he said, asserting that Governor Alfred E. Smith, the democratic candidate, had not made his position clear on the farm problem. "On the one side we have the statement of Peek and Raskob that Al is for the equalization fee," he declared, "and on the other we have Al's statement that he is not."

The Iowa senator declared that a democratic revolt was underway in the west "just as serious as that in the southern states," He predicted that the republicans would carry Kentucky and Tennessee and that "we even have a chance to win Georgia and Louisiana."

With the western campaign plans gradually taking definite shape, Senator Brookhart expressed the view that conditions in the farming states were in such good shape that it would not be necessary for Hoover again to visit that region before he travels back to California to cast his vote in November.

A similarly optimistic report of the western situation came to Hoover from Secretary of War Davis, who, returning to Washington from a trip to Hawaii, said that since the delivery of the acceptance speeches of the two presidential candidates there had been a noticeable swing to Hoover in the west.

"The women of the country are particularly apreciative of his concern over the welfare of women and children," Secretary Davis said. "The reaction to the Smith speech, as I got it, was not so favorable.

"The people of the west do not want to see the federal government Tammanyized. They are fearful of what might happen if the democrats should be victorious in November.

"The farmers of the west are looking to Mr. Hoover to help them in working out this angle of their immediate problem."

An urgent invitation to the candidate to make hi ssouthern speech at some point in Tennessee was extended by Representative J. Will Taylor, of that state.

The Tennessee representative predicted that his state would go to Hoover by a majority more than double that recorded for Harding in 1920, declaring that the republican organization in the state was functioning harmoniously and that there had been a decided break in the democratic ranks.

ANTI-SMITH SPEAKER PELTED WITH EGGS

FLORENCE, Ala., Sept. 5—(AP)—The rostrum in the auditorium of the Lauderdale county court house here from which the Rev. George E. Wilburn, Little Rock, Ark., evangelist was delivering an anti-Smith speech twice was pelted with eggs thrown by unidentified persons last night after he had engaged in a debate with a woman member of his audience over his utterances concerning Catholicism.

Although as the minister said, "The eggs came from every direction," no hits were scored but the rostrum was badly spattered.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 5—(AP)—Seventeen year old Eleanor Smith was officially informed today that she had made a women's altitude world record flight of 11,663 feet on August 21 and thereupon confided that her next great ambition was to fly the ocean; really fly it, not just go for the ride.

But she admitted that at the moment there were two seemingly insurmountable obstacles, to wit:

1. "Pop won't let me."
2. "I'm too light, my legs are too short, and my arms arn't strong enough."

SENATOR CURTIS ADVOCATES HIGHER PROTECTIVE TARIFF

BOSTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—Massachusetts republican fires were fanned today by Senator Curtis, the party's vice presidential candidate, at a round of meetings and conferences extending through a long day.

Before a republican rally at Norumbega park in the afternon the nominee agai nadvocated a higher protective tariff and called for the election of the republican ticket to put it into effect. He said the democrats were prepared to remodel the tariff downward along the lines of the Underwood bill of 1913.

To a crowd gathered late in the day on the ancient Boston common he declared his pride in the record of the party's administration during the last seven years and asked for its retention in power on that record. He stated that during that period income taxes have been cut four times, the national debt has been sliced by about $7,000,000,000 and appropriations have been reduced from $7,000,000,000 to about $4,000,000,000.

The name of President Coolidge, former governor of Massachusetts, was mentioned by every speaker of the day and always provoked a lusty round of applause. The senator emphasized that the policies of Herbert Hoover and of himself were the "policies of Calvin Coolidge."

Touching on the ailing textile industry situation, the vice presidential nominee told the crowd which filled the theater at Norumbega park that he would "put the duty on cotton high enough to protect American producers and give the producers the American market." He said that butter importations had decreased from 9,000,000 pounds annually under the democratic tariff to 5,000,000 pounds.

WOMAN SUES FORMER MAHARAJAH FOR $60,000

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 5—(AP)—Once again the name of Tukojirao Holkar, former maharajah of Indore, has been linked publicly with that of a woman in such a way as to call widespread attention to the erstwhile Indian potentate.

Twice before at least has this happened; once in 1925 when the merchant friend of a former dancing girl of his was murdered in Bombay, and just this year when he, an Oriental, chose an American girl, Miss Nancy Miller, of Seattle, Wash., for a bride.

Today it was the former member of the household of a cousin who charged him with luring her to his own residence and there attempting to gain her daughter as his mistress. When she thwarted his purposes, she says, he caused her and her daughter to be imprisoned, keeping them incarcerated for more than eleven years while he, meanwhile, despoiled her own residence of furniture and jewels.

The charges are made in the course of a high court appeal case in which the woman, Sowkabai Pandarination Rajpurkar asks for 184,000 rupees (about $60,000)—to compensate her for alleged damages.

Nautical School Ship Held At Hamburg

Albatross Attached at German Port Until Wages of Officers and Crew Are Paid and Other Claims Are Settled.

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 5—(AP)—A new phase in the odyssey of the school ship Albatross was reached today when the harbormaster had the ship attached and moored by an official chain to the quayside until wages of officers and crew are paid and other claims against it are settled.

The legal action was taken at the request of the officers and crew themselves. The ship must now await funds, which are said to be en route here from its backer, the American Nautical School, Inc., of Boston before release, it was said.

The Albatross, a ship of 700 tons commanded by a Captain Bossom, sailed from Boston to Europe on July 12 with 119 pupils aboard who, it is understood, had paid the American Nautical school from $350 to $500 for instruction in seamanship.

Between Sydnye, N. S., and the Irish coast the Albatross ran into a series of gales. The first murmurs are said to have been heard from the students then these finally taking the form that the enterprise was not particularly sound financially.

When the ship reached Cork some of the pupils left and started back home. At Le Havre others left, more of them departed at Amsterdam. When the ship reached Hamburg only 21 homesick youths, those who were unable to negotiate for passage back themselves, remained aboard. These found, are said to have brooded over insufficient food, no credit and no means of getting home in time to resume their nautical studies.

The American consulate did what it could under the circumstances but things grew worse and the ship is held pending straightening of its financial difficulties.

The Hamburg port officials have promised to expedite the release as soon as the necessary requirements are fulfilled.

GOV. SMITH SHAPING UP CAMPAIGN ATTACK

(By Paul F. Haupert, Associated Press Staff Writer)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5—(AP)—To the casual observer there was little about Governor Smith today that would have stamped him the presidential nominee of the democrats. His mind was on state affairs, almost to the complete exclusion of national politics, and as he put in a hitch at the capitol, clearing his desk of accumulated business, he gave no outward appearance of concern over his candidacy.

About the only political touch given the nominee's day was a visit paid him by William Mitchell, former assistant chief of the army air service former assistant chief of the army air who several years ago stirred up a ruckus by his outspoken criticism of the nation's fighting machine, particularly as applied to aviation, and brought down on his own head a courtmartial.

Mitchell is the son of a former democratic senator from Wisconsin, and he called on Governor Smith to pay his respects.

Later the nominee said his visitors had assured him all was well in Wisconsin from the standpoint of his canuidacy—something that is also being stressed by other supporters of the Smith-Robinson ticket, who already are claiming the only state that went for LaFollette in 1924.

For a brief period during the day, Governor Smith also put aside his work for a press conference, but he had little to offer in the way of news, and declined to be drawn out for publication on any political subject. He still was keeping to himself his speech making itinerary plans, and had no comment on the announced intention of Herbert Hoover to make campaign speeches in both Newark N. J., and New York city.

The governor is inconstant touch by telephone with his managers in New York and is receiving reports, directly or indirectly from lieutenants in all sections of the country. However, he is abstaining almost entirely from political conferences which usually make up the daily routine of a presidential nominee.

So quietly is the New York governor shaping up his attack that there has been no indication what course, if any, he will pursue in meeting the "whispering campaign" against him, which already has been assailed on the stump by his running mate, Senator Robinson.

Many of Governor Smith's friends and followers, basing their calculations on his performances during gubernatorial campaigns, are confident that at what he considers the psychological moment he will turn on his accusers, perhaps dressing them down in one of his campaign speeches.

He is watching developments in the present campaign with intense interest, but for the moment is leaving it to the democratic national committee to spot the centers of "whispering" campaigning and to take combative measures.

KOHLER NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR OF WISCONSIN

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 5—(AP)—A new political figure, Walter J. Kohler, industrial leader with a platform of a "business administration for the state," has won the republican nomination for governor of Wisconsin.

His victory is without precedent in the history of the state. A novice in the political arena, Kohler defeated two seasoned opponents in the state primary elections yesterday by a majority which approached 25,000 votes with a few scattering returns still to come.

THOMAS SAYS LABOR HAS SOLD ITS BIRTHRIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, charged tonight before a conference of trade union officers and leaders that labor, through a non-partisan political program, had sold its birthright.

"So sure are Smith and Hoover that labor will not function effectively that they do not even take the trouble to make a real clean-cut appeal on injunctions, the five-day week, social insurance or any fundamental issue," he said.

GOV. TRUMBULL WILL HEAD REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers Has Role Position in Race Against Secretary of State Frances Pallotti For Lieutenant-Governor—Forecast Gives Dr. W. L. Higgins of Coventry Nomination For Secretary of State—Frederic C. Wolcott in Lead For U. S. Senatorship Nomination—William E. Thomas and Charles G. Morris in Race For Democratic Nomination For Governor.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 5—(AP)—The political cauldron was simmering today with gradually increasing heat which promised to bring a degree of temperature close to the boiling point on Friday for the republicans in state convention and on Saturday for the democrats in their convention, both to be held in this city.

In republican ranks it was forecast by many that the ticket to be nominated could be named in advance, it being assumed by such political prophets that State Senator Frederic C. Walcott already was in the lead for the United States senatorship nomination and State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, of New London, has the pole position in the race for lieutenant-governor as against Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti, and Lieut.-Gov. J. E. Brainard. As Governor Trumbull will be renamed, the rest of the state ticket will be made up of Dr. W. L. Higgins, of Coventry, for secretary of state; Senator S. H. Spencer, of Suffield, for state treasurer, and Frederick M. Salmon renominated for state comptroller, provided Rogers is given promotion and Pallotti adheres to his public declaration that he will not again take the secretaryship nomination under any conditions. Out in the towns of the state, however, friends of Tax Commissioner W. H. Blodgett today did not admit that he was behind Senator Walcott in the race, they asserting that predictions in the latter's favor were due to the fact that in many senatorial district conventions the delegates were known to be Walcott men, while in scores of town delegations the sentiment was for Blodgett.

In New Haven a meeting of the delegation to decide how it should act in the convention was without result. It was understood, although little was said after it was held except that another meeting would be held tomorrow night after the convention session. It has been customary for the New Haven delegation to act as a unit although its members have not been pledged to do so. The theory advanced has been that New Haven was better off as a unit than it was divided. The divergence in sentiment this time is whether New Haven shall be for Walcott or Blodgett in one instance or for Rogers as against Pallotti in the other.

Lieutenant-Governor Brainard has said that he is still in the fight. Suggestion had been put forward that in case he lost out he might like to return to the senate, but in his district—the 12th. Representative Harold Durant, of Guilford, wants to be senator after two terms in the lower branch, and Senator Henry Hall, of Hamden, would like to be returned, and there would be no room for Brainard.

The first delegates to the convention will be here early tomorrow, and at Hotel Taft where quarters have been taken for the state committee, and many delegates and group conferences and conversations will begin early to prepare the ground for the next day's business. Old time convention-goers can remember that while there seemed to be much confusion over candidacies when the convention listened to the keynote speech much of this was dissipated later in the evening and the convention proceeded to business on the second day with every wrinkle ironed out. There have been other conventions in which roll calls were needed to straighten out the state ticket.

The democrats tonight appeared to be in a greater state of uncertainty as to their ticket, which will be named at the Arena Saturday. The convention will not hear Franklin D. Roosevelt, as expected, as he will speak only at Champ's farm in Bridgeport Saturday evening when the party opens its state campaign. The party of speakers from the national committee's speakers' bureau will go to Bridgeport Saturday afternoon by motor car and be guests of Archibald McNeil, who has charge of the bureau. About 6:45 the party will go to the farm and speaking will begin. Those who have come from New York will return there immediately after the meeting by automobile. The addresses will be put on the air by two stations—WHC and WDRC.

Complexity as to the state ticket is due to the fact that the Bridgeport delegation is the rallying one for those in the state who have been more or less in opposition to State Chairman J. J. Walsh since the national convention four years ago. These delegates will support William E. Thoms for the governorship it is understood and today claim was made that he was in the lead over Charles G. Morris, of Newtown and New Haven, and that Bridgeport's support also goes to Augustine Lonergan for the U. S. senatorship who, they claim, is now in advantageous position over P. B. O'Sullivan. The leaders in the groups which support Lonergan and Thoms said today information had come to them that E. Kent Hubbard, of Middletown, was averse to entering this contest for the place and that no matter what other names were brought into the balloting Lonergan would still have the pole position and an appeal would be made in his behalf as a vote getter. Others who did not take exactly this view said that in the background was Rollin U. Tyler, of Haddam, upon whom the convention could agree to avoid a deadlock or protracted contest and that averse as Mr. Tyler is known to be against the nomination coming to him he has not been prone to refuse a call to party duty.

The Bridgeport delegation which may guide other delegates in the voting is understood not to be interested in any candidacy for any other place on the state ticket. As to the platform, the Bridgeport delegation, it is stated, is interested in having any declaration on the 18th amendment adhere to the known attitude of Governor Smith and not merely a reiteration of the plank on the national platform.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION ARE NOT INCOMPATABLE

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 5—(AP)—Sir William Bragg, making his first address as president of the British Association for Advancement of Science tonight, flatly told his distinguished audience that man has a soul. His incisive declaration was in direct contradiction of the address made to the body last year by its then president, Sir Arthur Keith, who rejected the idea of an after-life.

Standing before 3,000 scientists assembled in St. Andrews' hall, Sir William shook his finger at his hearers and tossed the iron grey hair fringing his bald head as he declared "science is not setting forth to destroy the soul, but to keep body and soul together."

The Nobel prize winner and discoverer of a new method of measuring electrons and atoms in crystals, took as his premise that science and religion are not incompatable.

PROHIBITION AND FARM RELIEF ARE BIG ISSUES

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Prohibition and farm relief—and not the religious question, no matter how much there may be talk about it—are the two big issues in the presidential campaign, John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, declared at national headquarters here today.

ALBANIA WILL ADHERE TO KELLOGG PACT

TORANA, Albania, Sept. 5—(AP)—Friendly relations with neighboring nations and freedom of political thought at home are the objects which Zogu, king of the Albanians, will seek in his reign. He made this plain today in an interview granted to the Associated Press, the first real interview he has given since his status was changed from president to king.

He explained that the change in the Albanian government was made to conform to the history and psychology of his people. He promised that amnesty would be extended to all his opponents, including those political enemies who have fled to other countries. He expressed an intention to adhere to the Kellogg pact and said Albania would be loyal to the League of Nations.

It was a chatty, amiable man, clad in the tight-fitting khaki uniform of a general, who thus frankly expressed his hopes and aspirations. He received the correspondent in the reception hall of what has been the Albanian white house, but now is a king's palace.

His first words were a laughing command to "Fire away with your indiscreet questions."

He was asked what changes he contemplated making in Albania's foreign policy and replied:

"My minister of foreign affairs has already notified all diplomatic representatives in Tirana that Albania will, as heretofore, observe a most peaceful and friendly attitude toward all nations, more especially toward neighboring states and the League of Nations."

SEEK LABOR'S ATTITUDE ON STRIKE SETTLEMENT

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 5—(AP)—Members of the citizens' mediation committee met briefly today with labor representatives in an effort to arrive at a definite understanding as to labor's attitude on the strike settlement proposal that the committee is now pressing upon the cotton manufacturers.

When this strike settlement was presented last night to a committee of the manufacturers, President John Sullivan told the citizens' committee today, objection was made that there had been no assurance that labor would accept the plan, which is said to involve introduction of labor emciency methods and maintenance of the old wages.

All parties to the labor controversy refused comment today. No time has been set for the citizens' committ to again meet the manufacturers.

"Right" or wrongly this is considered a psychological time for a settlement," William E. G. Batty of the textile council said today in his only comment on developments.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPEN WITH REGISTRATION OF 2,094

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 5—Today was school day in old Windham as over 2,500 children and high schol students joined the long procession back to the schoolroom. All of the secondary and grammar schools of the town re-opened this morning with the exception of St. Joseph's parochial school, which will not open until next Monday, owing to excavation work now underway on the grounds. A registration of over 500 is expected at this school. After the opening of the afternoon session the grammar schools reported a total registration of 2,094 and an increase of from four to six per cent is expected by the principals before the end of the week. A number of changes in the teaching staffs have been made. At the Natchaug Grammar school, where Principal James L. Harroun reports 600 pupils registered, there are 19 teachers, three of whom are newcomers. They are Miss Marion Bowen of this city, seventh grade; Miss Avis Thompson of this city, fifth and sixth grades and Miss Margaret Jarvis of Stafford, kindergarten.

Principal Frederick R. Noble of the Windham street school stated that the opening-day registration was 575 and would be at least 600 before the end of the week. All of the grades at this school are now amply provided for with the opening of the handsome new addition to this school. There are also three new teachers on the faculty of that school: Miss Hansen, grade 5, Miss McDonald, grade 7 and Miss Devine, grade 1. The Oaks school, the only school on the "over the river" side of the city, had a registration of 101 early this afternon and about a dozen additional pupils are expected. Miss Simpson, kindergarten, is the only new teacher. The Windham Center Grammar school, Mrs. Florence Moseley, principal, opened with 106 pupils and the same staff of teachers as last year. There were 33 pupils who registered at the two-room school in South Windham. Miss Emily Bliven has charge of the upper grades and Miss Gertrude Brodreson of the lower grades. The registration at North Windham was 34. The teachers are Mrs. Charles Schell, upper grades and Miss Clara Sibley, lower grades. The coming of two new families into the town will increase the present registration to over 40 pupils.

As usual, the largest registration for any one school was at St. Mary's Parochial school where 652 children had registered up to early afternoon and the names of over 50 more were expected. In order to abate the crowded condition as much as possible no child of four and but few of five years are admitted into the school.

At the Windham high school Principal Egbert A. Case expects 50 additional names to the 600 who registered today. The registrations today represented 16 towns in the Willimantic area. For the opening day the registration was a little above the average of past years.

The Willimantic State Normal school opened today for registration. There were no sessions held. Members of the junior class reported at the office for assignment and in the afternoon met the faculty. Principal George H. Shafer estimates that the registration will be 120 juniors and 85 seniors, a total of 205.

STRANGERS TAKE $60,000 OUT OF CITY IN THE YEAR

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 5—Strangers are invading the city and presenting to housewives innumerable schemes to make quick money or get in on live-wire bargains according to word being received at the chamber of commerce. Secretary Earl J. Arnold has been asked to investigate the activities of one man who is making his play in the restaurants of the city. This man has not registered at the city clerk's office and his proposition is not believed to be a sound one by the secretary. Statistics compiled by the chamber of commerce show that about $60,000 is being taken out of Willimantic this year by "blue sky" operators, solicitors and salesmen, the majority of whom represent propositions that are anything but ethical and safe.

With the motto, "Vote with caution, vote with prayer cast your vote for the bone dry pair," the W. C. T. U. institute will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church here Thursday afternoon and evening. Talks will be given by Mrs. Hattie M. Newton, president; Mrs. Eugene Hanna, secretary; Mrs. Marguerite Goodale, treasurer; Mrs. Ida M. T. Pegrum, director of the medal contest; Mrs. L. A. Cook, director of the Loyal Temperance Legion; Mrs. Annie P. Service, director of the S. T. I.; Mrs. Addie M. Slate, director of medical temperance. Solos will be rendered by Miss Ines Brown. The scripture reading at the evening meeting will be by Rev. David W. Lovett and prayer by Rev. H. H. Critchlow. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe will give a recitation and Mrs. Emma H. Howland will deliver the main address.

JOHNSON INQUEST HELD IN CITY WEDNESDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 5—An inquest into the death of Hazel, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson of Columbia, which occurred late Tuesday forenoon, was held at police headquarters this morning by County Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson. The first witness was Louis R. Libman of the Hotel Savoy, Hartford, driver of the Cadillac sedan that struck and killed the little girl when she started across the highway from a parked ice truck to return to her home, directly opposite. George Grenon and Sam LaMaire of Hartford, passengers in the Libman car and State Policeman Charles Daley of the Stafford Springs barracks were the other witnesses.

Upon adjourning the inquest, Coroner Bill said that none of the testimony taken would indicate that Libman was driving recklessly, as the witnesses testified to the effect that Libman took every precaution and sacrificed the safety of himself and companions to avoid striking the child. During the inquest it was stated that Stanley Fields of Columbia, driver of the ice truck, had tried to grab the little girl when she started to run across the highway but that he had been unsuccessful. Coroner Bill took a statement from Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason who viewed the remains at St. Joseph's hospital. He announced that he had reserved his decision. Libman is still held under bonds of $2,500 without any specific charge brought against him.

The funeral services for Patrick J. Moran were held from the home, 8 Godfrey street this morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Paul J. Portelance organist, assisted by a quartet composed of Mrs. Henry J. Mathieu, Miss L. Monica McKeon, William A. Costello and William Hussey. At the elevation Arthur Roy sang O Meritum. The recessional was by the quartet. The bearers were, Maurice, Henry, Edward, Dennis, Dr. Arthur and Morton Moran. Burial was in the Moran plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read by Rev. Fathers Bartlewski and Kelly. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Mrs. Hamilton apparently lost control of the machine in driving into the filling station driveway and the machine smideswiped the pumps. Water spouted into the air and created considerable excitement for a time. A bent fender and front bumper was the only damage to the car. Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley investigated the accident.

DEACON AND MRS. GREENE OBSERVE 63RD ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 5—An experience of life that is alloted to so few as to make it an event extraordinary comes to Deacon and Mrs. Albert C. Greene of No. Main street Thursday, when they observe the 63rd anniversary of their wedding.

A romantic prelude to their unusual number of years of happy married life was an engagement of three years, a circumstance that is adequately explained by relation of the fact that for that period Deacon Greene was in the Union army for service in the Civil war.

The end of that great conflict found Mr. Greene, who received his discharge on May 31, 1865, hurrying northward to his bride-to-be, and on September 6 of that year they became man and wife at Mrs. Greene's native town of Oxford, N. Y.

At that time there was no railroad nearer to Oxford than the line that ran through Binghampton, thirty miles away, and the intervening distance had to be traversed with horses and carriage. It so happened that a freshet had carried away a bridge near Binghampton at the time Mr. Greene was on his way to Oxford to be married and a crossing of the swollen stream had to be made at a ford. This proved to be but an incident at the outset of a happy married life that has enduring for 63 years, during which Deacon and Mrs. Greene have been blessed with several children, now occupying places of responsibility and with special capability in the affairs they have undertaken. On their honeymoon Deacon and Mrs. Greene came direct to Hartford, where they remained for a time with Mrs. Greene's sister, and then located their first home in Backusville, Westminster, where Mr. Greene had charge of Squire Isaac Backus' foundry, and where they remained for many years. Deacon and Mrs. Greene have been residents at 197 Main street, Danielson, the past twenty years, and where on September 24, Deacon Greene will reach his 99th birthday.

DR. R. C. MAHANEY DIES IN OWOSSO, MICHIGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 5—A shock to Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank T. Preston today was a message from Owosso, Mich., bringing them news of the death of their son-in-law, Dr. Reynolds C. Mahaney. While Dr. Mahaney's illness had been known to Mr. and Mrs. Preston, they were totally unprepared for news of his death. The distinguished physician had been ill with influenza this spring and had not fully recovered, though he and Mrs. Mahaney and their children visited here this summer. Some time since he developed pneumonia, but a letter received here as recently as last Sunday from Mrs. Mahaney related that his lungs had cleared and that there was the prospect of speedy recovery. The death message, following this encouraging letter, came as a great surprise. This afternoon Mrs. Earle Young of Providence, sister of Mrs. Mahaney, left for Owosso, and was due to arrive there Thursday evening. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Mahaney was Miss Rachel Preston, of Danielson. Of her union with Dr. Mahaney two sons, both of tender years at this time, were born.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home in North Sterling funeral services for Mrs. Charles Romppainen, who died in an ambulance last Saturday between Danielson and that place were conducted by Rev. George H. Watts of East Providence. Singing at the service was by a community choir. Burial was in the Line Store cemetery, friends acting as bearers. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

1299 CHILDREN SHOWN IN TOWN'S SCHOOL REGISTRATION

DANIELSON, Sept. 5—This morning Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools in Killingly and Brooklyn gave out the registration figures for the first day of the new schol year—Tuesday. These figures show a total registration of 1299 in the various schools of the town, as against a total registration at the end of September, 1928, of 1335. It is the invariable rule, that the maximum registration for any given school year is never recorded on the first day of that year, due to the fact that some families that include children have not returned from vacation, and to other causes incident to the change from the vacation season to that period of the year when work begins again in earnest. The pickup, as it may be called from the first day of the school year to the end of September runs in the average year between 20 and 40, and it is unlikely that this year will be any exception. So, it may be assumed, that the maximum registration this September will be, toward the close of the month, approximately the same as at the end of September of last year.

The detail of this year's first day registration in Killingly is as follows: High school building (high school and junior high school,) 360, as against 346 in 1927; Danielson, 272, as against 286 in 1927; Dayville, 144, last year, 144; Goodyear 240, last year 250; Attawaugan, 73, last year 93; Ballouville, 63, last year 70; Killingly Center, 43, last year 60; East Killingly, 48, last year 41; Valley, 26, last year 22; South Killingly, 30, last year 26; total 1299 for the first day of the current term as against 1335 at the end of September, 1927.

When the schools opened at Attawaugan yesterday Dr. W. H. Judson, health officer of the town, and Dr. Nathaniel Hibbard were on hand to make an examination of the throat of every child. Approximately 10 of those examined were sent home for a few days merely as a precaution, until certain throat disturbances with which they seem to be afflicted have cleared up. No case was found indicating the possibility of the development of any serious throat ailment from the children temporarily excluded from attendance at school.

PUTNAM

NEW WATER COMMISSION APPOINTED FOR THE CITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 5—One of the biggest problems regarding the settlement of the city water question was solved last evening when Mayor Charles A. Richards appointed a new water commission to succeed the old commission, that resigned in a body on August 7. Mayor Richards appointed Ralph E. Thurston, chairman, to succeed Alexander Gilman; Ernest B. Kent to succeed Herbert J. Smith and Henry J. Dubois to succeed Chester M. Elliott. The councilmen quickly ratified the mayor's appointments and Alderman John M. Dean, chairman of the mayor's special water committee, greeted Mr. Thurston, chairman of the board and wished him success in his new undertaking. He also called to Mr. Thurston's attention that matter of water waste and recommended that Mr. Thurston and his board of commissioners investigate and discover where the excess leakage is coming from. Mr. Dean stated that he went to the sewer outlet early one morning last month, and found that the water was running from the outlet into the river at a rate of over 400,000 gallons a day.

Today the appointment of the new commission was received by the citizens of the city as satisfactory, many feeling that Mayor Richard chose wisely. Mr. Thurston is general manager of the Eastern Connecticut power plant at Putnam, chief of the fire department, both positions requiring much tact. During the number of years that Mr. Thurston has directed the affairs of the power plant in Putnam he has accomplished much for his company's interest and for Putnam. His record in the fire department stands high, he having brought the efficiency of the department up to its present high mark. Mr Thurston is an ideal man for the position of chairman of the board of water commissioners, since he is a graduate of the M. I. T. institute of technology. Mr. Kent is also a capable man to serve on the board. He has for several years been a business associate in the firm of C. M. & E. B. Kent and Co., lumber dealers of this city. Mr. Dubois is a mechanical engineer and is owner of the large garage on School street known as the Putnam Auto Station. The new commission will assume its duties as soon as the members are sworn into office by Mayor Richards.

The report of the police department for the month of August showed 12 arrests and were for the following offenses: Drunkeness 5, breaking and entering 2, larceny 1, receiving stolen goods 2, breach of peace 1, motor law violation 2. Fines and costs for the month amounted to $201.25. This report indicated a considerable decrease in crime in Putnam during the month of August.

Upon application of a number of property owners, the common council approved the granting of a number of permits for the erection of several building swithin the city limits.

Alderman-at-large W. S. Ames recommended to the council that a new form of heating plant be installed in the fire station in Union square. The alderman stated that all apparatus for use in the center of the city, including the fire alarm circuit, is housed in the central station and the heating plant now in use is not large enough to furnish the required amount of heat to permit proper function of the apparatus during the winter months. The council referred the matter to the fire committee with power to act. Other reports of the city departments were accepted. Bills of the current month were read and voted to be paid, followed by an adjournment of the aldermen, until the October meeting.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN WITH ENROLLMENT OF 879 PUPILS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 5—The first session of all the schools of the city opened this morning with a total of 879 pupils enrolled. At Putnam high school a total of 306 pupils enrolled. At the Israel Putnam school 418; at Smith street school 56; Sawyer district 77 and East Putnam 22.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin, stated this morning that there was little change in the enrollment. At the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon a combined meeting of the faculties of all schools of the system was held. The teachers were addressed by Committeeman Eric H. Johnson, a member of the school board. Mr. Johnson spoke of school methods several years ago and noted many changes that have been brought about in Putnam through the march of progress. Following his short talk, Mr. Johnson introduced Supt. Farrin to the teachers. He was received well and each teacher promised the new educational director their cooperation in bringing about better school conditions in the city. Each teacher was presented with a superintendent's bulletin, a periodical issued by the superintendent.

Mr. Farrin has also arranged with Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston and Supt. of Fire Alarms Charles T. Thayer to have a "no school session" warning sounded on the fire alarm circuit. The code will consist of two strokes repeated. It will be sounded at 8 o'clock in the forenoon and at 12.30 in the afternoon and will apply only to the first seven grades. In the event the signal is sounded in the morning, the children will come to school in the afternoon, unless the signal is repeated at 12.30 in the afternoon.

A death in Putnam this morning was that of Pierre Papillion of Marshall street, died late Tuesday evening after a long period of illness. Mr. Papillion was 57 years of age. He was a native of Canada, but has lived the greater part of his life in Putnam. During the number of years he has resided in Putnam Mr. Papillion has been employed in the textile mills of the city. He was a member of St. Mary's church and was also affiliated with a number of the fraternal organizations in the city. He is survived by his wife, who resides on Marshall street.

Richard H. Gilpatric of Church street has arrived at his home, after spending the summer holidays at Mt. Desert Island, Maine. He will return to his studies at Hill school, Pottstown, Penn., on Sept. 20.

Several members of the Putnam grange, No. 97, P. of H., motored to Thompson last evening, where they attended a neighbor's night program at the Quinnatisset grange.

Lieut. Allen Thayer of King street, will leave Putnam on Sunday for Fort Ethan Allen in Burlington Vt., where he will join his regiment, that is at present training at that fort.

Construction is now underway on the new cement bridge to span the Assawauga river at Attawaugan. Engineers have completed their survey of levels and the preliminary fixtures and base that will support the structure have been laid. When completed the bridge will harmonize with the recently completed concrete highway that has its course through the village of Attawaugan, for a distance of nearly two miles. It could not be learned today as to when the span would be completed.

Railroad officials at Putnam were consulted this morning, relative to the improvement of train service over the Norwich branch, in the mornings. Since early summer this train carrying mails, which is a combination freight and passenger train, has been anywhere from one to two hours late in arriving in Putnam each morning and has been the main reason for the delay in the delivery of morning newspapers and mail. Complaints have been directed to the local chamber of commerce and the matter has been taken up with the railroad officials but no improvement has been noted.

This afternoon it was announced that such delays as have been experienced during the summer months will be ended and service will be restored to normal within a few days. This morning train has been late because of the volume of traffic passing over the main line of the road.

Private business houses directing important mail over the branch each morning, to protect their own interests have threatened to establish truck service so as to deliver their products on time, but the statement obtained this afternoon from Putnam was accepted in the interests that better service will be brought about within a short time.

The weekly noon day meeting of the Putnam Rotary club was held today at the Putnam Inn. Judge Mahlon H. Geissler of the city court was the speaker at luncheon. Judge Geissler chose as his topic, "Rotary Aims and Objects." Judge Geissler's address was highly received by his fellow club members and his outline of Rotary was one which will greatly add to the success of the club.

The guests at luncheon today were Sidney W. Bard of Danielson and George E. Ross of St. Louis, a former Putnam resident.

Miss Anne Hogan of Tatem street, who has been spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin T. Hogan, returned today, to her work in New York city.

The democrats of the town of Putnam will gather in caucus Thursday evening at the municipal building to nominate candidates for the elective town offices. Offices open to the nomination of candidates will be the board of relief two selectmen and constables. It was expressed here today that there would be no contests for any of the offices and, as in past years, little enthusiasm will be displayed at the gathering.

Delegates to the state republican convention will leave Putnam Thursday to be present at the opening of the convention in Hartford. Miss Katherine Byrne left today and the Putnam delegates will leave this Thursday morning. As far as could be learned this afternoon the Putnam group will go uninstructed.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gifford, Jr., of Center street have returned from an automobile trip over the Mohawk trail.

Mrs. Sara Gifford of Ring street spent the holidays in Boston and Lowell with relatives.

Herbert Keach and Frank Gifford have returned from a ten days' motor trip through the mountains.

COLLEGE FRIENDS MEET AT WEDDING IN NEW YORK

Mr. and Mrs. Angus MacQuarrie left for New York Tuesday to attend a wedding of Richard Turner and Miss Leonia Blackmar in the Little Church Around the Corner. Mr. Turner was a classmate of Angus McQuarrie at Colgate university. In 1919 both received their sheepskins together and they were pals during their four years at college. Turner was a football star and shone many times for Colgate in the backfield. Miss Blackmar was a childhood friend of Mrs. MacQuarrie, they having played together in New Jersey. Mr MacQuarrie was to be best man and Mrs. MacQuarrie matron of honor. It was the first time since 1920 that the two college mates have seen each other.

The heaviest mail of the summer was sent out from the local post office to all parts of the world and Smiley John Ashby the mail carrier said he was a busy man with his green cart Tuesday. Five automobile loads were taken to the railroad station, around 100 bags. The village mail carried said he was busier than a fellow swimming across the channel with both arms loaded with eels. In my thirty-two years in Uncle Sam's service I never saw anything like it in the fishing village! I guess more people are going out of town than are coming in!" A large horn on the handle of his cart give sthe signal to get out of the way when he speeds by with a load ofw U. S. mail. This makes his ninth cart in that many years of faithful service. It won't be long before his new cart will arrive from Chicago.

Tuesday morning bright and early the red truck of W. Wheeler, who does all the trucking on the point, was on its way to the railroad station with 20 trunks aboard. The summer people are leaving for their homes as this is the month schools open so people with children have gone to be back on time. Truckman Wheeler took over four loads during the day. This means that the season at the Point is about over for this year. The place is closing after a successful season although the weather was against the cottagers about every week end. One family from California has spent a few weeks at the Point, coming all the way by automobile to get a sniff of salt air. The driver of the car, Hugh Stuckuyer said, "We heard about Groton Long Point out in the Golden State, that this is the finest beach around New England with plenty of room to take a swim. We sure did enjoy the water!" It is strange how the news about Groton Long Point travels 3,000 miles. We all had a good time and expect to come back next year, bringing several of our friends with us."

Mr. and Mrs. James MacQueen have returned to Boston after a short visit with Noank relatives.

W. Pepper has returned to Florida after calling on relatives in the village.

Mrs. Hannah Nusippi, of Jackson, Miss., is visiting in Noank for a few days.

Fishermen are finding it hard to catch mackerel. They put the seine over board and pulled it in after several hours to find only a half bushel of fish. Taking their boats down about eight miles and trying again they have had better luck, getting 12 barrels of fish. But the bull-eyes do not bring so much in the market as the other mackerel do. It might be the wind and cool weather that keep the spotted mackerel away. The fishermen are waiting and hope that their luck will change after a while; that fishermen may have to take a lucky stone or a rabbit foot all the time, to bring the fish in closer. The fish are wild, swimming around in circles and keeping away from the fishing nets. For a large catch of mackerel they have to go away down to George's Banks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Tourjee and Mrs. Etta Main are motoring over the Mohawk Trail and will visit Canada before returning. They will be gone two weeks.

NORTH STERLING

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendrickson and family of Lawrenceville, N. J., were recent visitors at H. H. Crowell's.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Spooner, Robert R. C. Spooner and Miss Irene S Spooner visited Col. Greene's place at Round Hill, Mass., the past week.

Local people were at the shore Thursday it being on the full moon.

The storm on Labor day was a great disappointment to many who had planned a day's outing.

Robert G. C. Spooner, who has been at his home here on a 16 days' furlough from the U. S. training station at Newport, returned Sunday.

The First Requirement of a Fuel is Dependability

WHEN your winter's supply of fuel is in, then you must depend upon that fuel through the thick and thin of whatever weather may come.

Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite has weathered over a hundred winters—never failing, never disappointing—a dependable fuel under all conditions.

Experimenting with fuels is likely to be expensive. Many householders who have been led to change to "something newer", and who have afterwards turned back to Old Company's Lehigh, will testify that such adventuring is costly of both money and comfort. This quality coal assures you of adequate heat when the blizzard rages; it provides you with a steady but flexible warmth that maintains your home at the proper temperature through the weather's fluctuations.

Your local Old Company's dealer co-operates with Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite to give you an always satisfactory heating service. He will deliver your coal in prime condition and advise you to any desired extent upon its most efficient use.

SOUND REASONING

Not only the business man but the fellow who gives some thought to his actions is going to look at the political situation in much the same manner that Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., does.

Mr. Sloan is the president of the General Motors corporation and he not only recognizes that the country has been generally prosperous under republican rule but he finds that history demonstrates it. He knows from experience what this kind of leadership has meant to the country. He recognizes Mr. Hoover's qualifications for solving the problems of government, to tackle fresh issues when they develop and to bring about any adjustments when they are required.

He believes that the choice of a president is more than a hit or miss affair. Wisely does he inquire, "Would the stockholders of any business, the management of which has built up general profits, made liberal disbursements in dividends and increased the prestige and value of the corporation's securities, be likely to change the management? As stockholders in the United States, have we not received excellent dividends in the way of reduced taxes and improved standards of living, with quite general prosperity? Why then is a change logical?"

Mr. Sloan is only one of four members of the directorate of the General Motors corporation who have expressed themselves concerning the presidential candidates. Two of them have declared for the democratic candidate because of wet inclinations. Two of them have declared their preference for Herbert C. Hoover virtually in the same manner that Mr. Sloan has, although the latter two have placed prosperity and national welfare above the wet and dry question and considered that either the presidential nominee would have little or nothing to do with changing conditions, or else that Mr. Hoover would be the better fitted to handle such a situation should it have to be faced.

The record of the president administration and the record of Mr. Hoover during and before he was a member of the cabinet are such that discerning minds must, and unquestionably will, give expression to their views in much the same manner as Mr. Sloan.

STEEL EQUIPMENT

In connection with recent wrecks on railroads and subway lines it has been impossible to overlook the protection that the passengers have received from the fact that steel equipment was involved. This doesn't mean that it prevented all injuries or even death, but when we stop to realize what might have happened from fire had the New York subway train been made up of wooden cars, there cannot fail to be keen appreciation of the non burnable rolling stock. The subway wreck was bad enough, the steel car was cut in two and crumpled up almost like pasteboard, but the dead and the injured were not subjected to additional horrors through fire.

According to an edict which has been promulgated by the American Railway association, no cars which are of all wood construction will be transferred from one road to another after the close of 1930. This is an organization of the railroads themselves and they are imposing this requirement in the belief that it is good business, that it is time to get the protection for themselves that goes with such equipment and that proof of the desirability of such equipment has long since been furnished.

According to this rule the builders of steel cars can expect much business. Those who are concerned with the construction of wooden cars alone have cause for worry. It will be possible for the railroads to use wooden cars upon their own lines but when it comes to accepting business beyond such limits it will be obligatory to use steel cars.

Naturally compliance with such an order requires the roads in putting in their new orders to specify steel construction, so that within the next two years all car construction should be restricted to that type. It can be appreciated that the attitude of the railroad managements concerning freight cars is much the same as that concerning the passenger coaches. Steel has worked out so well concerning part of the roads' equipment that it is a logical step when its extension is demanded. Time brings its changes in every line of endeavor and it is expected that changes will be for the better.

A CHANGED ATTITUDE

The spirit in which action is taken may or may not be helpful. This is brought to mind by the recreation of the council of state in the Philippines by Governor General Stimson. This is a new body under an old name, but the manner in which the governor general has approached his duties in the islands and the attitude that he has displayed have made a good impression. His council has been shorn of many of the powers that the former body possessed, but it should be able to accomplish what is sought of it without causing the difficulties that were previously experienced.

It was during the administration of General Wood that the council of state was dissolved because it was maintained that it exceeded the provisions of the Constitution and was encroaching upon the powers of the executive. In other words it was creating a situation that was obnoxious to the governor general. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to end it and he did. While the governor general retains his office he is expected to exercise the authority invested in him and not be rendered powerless by an advisory body.

Governor General Stimson labors under different conditions than General Wood. He sought to make a good impression as he picked up the duties and succeeded. He is desirous of having the advantage of such an advisory body as the council of state and he has made up his mind to get it, but in reestablishing it he has set forth its duties in such a manner that there will be no misunderstanding. He is no more willing to have his rights stepped upon than was General Wood but he doesn't labor under the handicap of inheriting a bothersome council.

While there was resentment over the dissolution of the council the revival is certain to be helpful, even though its power is restricted. At the same time island leaders are appreciating the importance of working with instead of against the governor general. Changed conditions have brought about a different spirit. Even the Filipino politicians who have been responsible for much of the trouble in the islands are abandoning old tactics and are much more inclined to cooperate. The lessons of the past and the spirit of the present administration are bearing fruit.

FAIRS

From one end of New England to the other during the next six weeks there will be agricultural fairs of various sizes and descriptions. There are those which have been a yearly feature for many decades, there are those which are the result of the efforts of some town organization and there are some wayside fairs, small in size but rich in merit.

New England has no monopoly on fairs but the thickly settled states bring the exhibits rather close together in some instances, especially in these days of fast transportation when there is a desire on the part of many to patronize or participate in more than one of them.

It is not solely the agricultural feature that is emphasized alone. It has a conspicuous place as it should, but there isn't anything that serves to bring the people of the countryside together for an enjoyable day than a county fair.

Changing conditions have had their effect upon these gatherings. While it is even much easier for the country people to get to the fair, since most of them are provided with autos, there are fewer of those on the farms who are really interested in agricultural exhibits, the display of cattle, the poultry or swine. The sturdy old New Englanders are not as numerous as they were. The interest in fairs has therefore suffered, but wherever there is an organization devoting its efforts to promoting a greater interest in agricultural activity in Connecticut that organization is deserving of the best kind of support which the territory it serves can furnish. There is valuable assistance rendered by the state but it is those who are directly concerned, those who can get the various benefits that should be lending their cooperation for better instead of lesser fair interest.

THE KNAPP CASE

After a long period of time between the commission of the grand larceny and the imposition of sentence, Mrs. Florence S. Knapp the former secretary of New York state has been sent to jail for a period of 30 days. The case aroused much interest because it involved a woman and because it concerned the first woman to be elected to a high office in the Empire state.

There were various views taken of the offense and following the investigation several besides Mrs. Knapp were recommended for prosecution. She has been the only one, however, to face trial, but during the investigation and the trial the attitude of the accused was unusual.

The efforts that were made in her behalf up to the very last were unquestionably prompted by the feeling that in view of her position she had been severely punished already, but the action of the judge in insisting that there be no suspension of sentence gave recognition to the fact that the act was such that penalization could not be overlooked no matter who was involved. It was a case where the right kind of a precedent should be established and not an instance where leniency should be displayed simply because of the fact that the accused was a woman.

The sentence is not what can be regarded as severe, and yet in view of the previous character of the accused and the fact that it means time behind the bars with such effect as that is bound to have it will meet the requirements and serve as a lesson for others. May it be the means of preventing any further unfortunate cases of such a character. Certainly it will not inspire any.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Those who were complaining of hot weather will soon be wailing about the cold.

With Senator Robinson campaigning in the southern states it looks very much as if he thought it was necessary.

It doesn't increase the prestige of Turkey in the least to learn that it sought the advice of soviet Russia as to whether it should sign the Paris treaty.

Mr. Ford may encounter plenty of difficulty in getting those old fashioned people to take the places of the former occupants of those homes he is to maintain in his museum village.

SCRAPS

For a long time Dot had been intending to clean out the top drawer in the old walnut bureau. Nothing there but scraps. Now would be an ideal time. Armed with an empty paper basket, she advanced on her objective.

She pulled at the handles, and a medley of objects bulged through the yawning mouth. Where begin? Her right hand tugged at a bit of rolled newspaper. An old pattern, maybe. Deftly she cut the string, and the paper unsheathed itself, displaying on its inner folds the likeness of an actress, Natalia Adair. A queer little laugh from Dot, and a torrent of memories.

She was sitting again in a crowded theatre, eyes, mind and soul riveted on the superb and fantastic Natalie as the play progressed from one dizzy climax to another. Dot was not Mrs. Bob Perkins then. She was Bob's best girl. Bob sat beside her. She wore a new shadow blouse. She was afraid Bob would notice that she was crying, and so instead of mopping her eyes with her handkerchief she let the tears take their course. She did not dream that they might drip and make spots on the georgette blouse. The play was doing something to her; opening vistas of beauty and awareness, unlocking storerooms of emotion. When it was finished, she walked out of the theatre as though she were in a trance.

Bob said, "Let's mosey down to Hillard's and have some ice cream."

"Oh, no, please. Let's don't tonight." There was agony in her voice. The suggestion was like a sacrilege.

Bob said, a little surprised, "Sure, it's all right if you want to go straight home." Then, whisking to another subject, "Queer play, wasn't it?"

Dot made a terrific endeavor to put her feelings into words and failed. The words sounded hollow, unworthy of her rapture. Bob left her at her door. He said, "Next time we'll hunt up a musical comedy. I like some pep myself."

Dot threw him a hurt little stare. The play had not caught him as it had her. She went into the house, living over the tragic heroism of the last act. She moved softly because she was glad to be alone. A door creaked. Her ever watchful mother appeared.

"Dorothy, what on earth have you done to your new georgette? The red's run into the green. You've been crying. Have you and Robert quarreled?" Dot tried to explain, failed, fled to her room.

At breakfast her father admonished her sternly. "Dorothy, you haven't eaten a mouthful. What's the trouble?" More hopeless flounderings. She drifted through the day altogether immersed in the spell that the play had cast over her. She clipped Natalia Adair's picture from the evening newspaper, rolled it carefully and made for it a hallowed sanctuary in the top drawer of an old bureau.

"For the love of Mike, I've been ransacking this whole house for you."

"Oh!" Dot emerged from the past and saw her husband standing in the doorway. "I've been cleaning this bureau drawer."

"Cleaning it?" Bob gaped at the bulky contents and the empty paper basket. "Say, it beats the duce how you hoard scraps. Why not let me dump the whole bunch into the furnace?"

Dot uttered a cry of protest and slid between her husband and the drawer, dropping the newspaper as she did so. Bob reached for the basket with one hand and scooped up the fallen paper with the other.

"You don't want this," he grunted.

"Oh, but I do." She tried to snatch it away from him, but he was reading.

"Why, it's the program of a play we saw ages ago—with Natalia Adair, wasn't it?" he asked.

"Why, yes." Dot stared at her husband, almost unable to believe her ears as he said, while glancing slowly through the worn program:

"Gee, that was a wonderful play. And the acting! It made me blue for a week. But I don't suppose you remember it, Twinkles." She recalled the paper silently, retired it, slipped it back into its place and closed the drawer.

"I suppose not," she said.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

PROTECTING THE MENTAL HEALTH OF CHILDHOOD

By Esther Loring Richards, M. D., Associate Professor of Psychiatry, Johns-Hopkins University, Baltimore.

When doctors began to turn their attention from attempting to cure illness to a study of factors causing it they came upon many interesting facts: First, they found themselves obliged to think of the health of a person as including not only the behavior of various organs in his body, but the behavior of these organs in their setting of that individual's mental development; second, that the mind of a human being is not only brains, or gray matter, but also temperament and disposition—the way he manages his feelings of anger, fear, sadness, tendencies to excitement, etc.; third, that just as heart disease, faulty bone and muscle formation, and the tendency to many another diseased state in grown-up men and women is so readily traced to a poor start in the physical development of childhood, so all kinds of nervous breakdowns and instabilities appearing in adult life are very frequently associated with a poor start in protecting the mental health of childhood.

The constitutional endowment having to do with the mental health of a child is a matter about which science knows really very little. Years ago laymen were told by doctors that all sorts of traits of behavior were passed on from parent to child, so that the latter had no escape from bad temper, or fears, or shyness, or ever-sensitiveness or laziness.

Fortunately for us, the science of psychology has come to the rescue of children of the present and future with the discovery that every child has a large amount of trainable material, and that in so far as parents and teachers and doctors and nurses study the behavior of the child from infancy through pre-school and school years, they can mold individual child behavior in a way that will give the child a happier and more successful life when he grows up.

The training of a child is accomplished by the early forming of a good set of habits which have to do with such simple matters as regularity of bedtime and meals, and immediate responsiveness to a few reasonable requests which involve consideration for the rights and feelings of others. No child will be afraid of the dark and fight sleep if he is early brought up to sleep in a room by himself without light in the hall or somebody sitting with him until he falls asleep. If a physically healthy child fusses over his food, refusing to eat this and that, it is because mother or nurse do not quietly insist on his eating a regular meal, or going without till he is hungry enough.

Never coax, bribe or plead with a child to carry out a request. If you threaten punishment, execute it immediately. It is not necessary to whip a child. Prompt and consistent banishment to an upper room with complete ignoring is more effective. It is a great mistake to suppose that reasoning should be the one and only method of training a child. The child who is brought up at home to argue for half an hour over every request is handicapped for school and employment where he as an individual must be lost in the group.

If your child is slowing up in school and becoming tearful and restless, or begin truancy, take him to the psychologist of the school department and find out whether his mind is able to grasp what is being taught him. If your child is found to be slower in his mental ability than his classmates accept it and place the child as the psychologist directs. It is no disgrace. Statistics show that 25 per cent. of school children are unable to keep up to average grade work. Pushing such a child beyond what he can do easily and well will make him grow up into an unhappy, irritable man or woman who feels he is a failure and disgrace to his family because he cannot fulfill parental ambitions made long before he was born.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—It is an appalling fact that summer seems to have become a time of diplomatic activity to the great interruption of diplomatic corps vacations in cooler climates than Washington.

The genial Henry Chilton, C. M. G., E. E., and M. P., acting counselor and second in command at the British embassy, was the victim this summer, the ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, being absent on a trip home. Last year Sir Esme himself came posthaste from the summer embassy to confer with Secretary Kellogg when the three-power naval conference at Geneva was headed for the rocks. This year Counselor Chilton came steaming back to town from the seashore up north on the heels of announcement that a Franco-British naval limitation accord had been reached. What it was all about this time was not clear. Probably it was up to the counselor to furnish a little more detailed explanation of the affair by way of clearing the air between Washington and London. That's what diplomats are for. At any rate, it interrupted a summer that must have been much more enjoyable out of Washington.

Awaiting New Home

For one thing, the embassy itself is about to be transferred to new and sumptuous quarters now building up the slopes of fashionable Massachusetts avenue. The old embassy on Connecticut avenue, so long graced by gilded British crowns to top off its gateway lamp post pillars, is soon to pass into history, an apartment house taking its place. Just now it is almost isolated by street widening and sewer operations, and the new embassy, a virtual British royal colony, is far from ready. Hastily shot up wooden temporary structures, relics of war time expansions, still fill the old embassy grounds and house much of its activities.

Preparedness

Incidentally, absence of the president from the city serves to release from duty state department folks who inactive seasons must always stand ready to escort visiting diplomat or other internationally important foreigners to the White House. Such matters are invariably formal and require conventional garb of long-tailed coat, two-gallon stovepipe hats, walking sticks, spats and such trappings of custom and usage.

When Butler Wright, now minister to Hungary and whose earlier career includes Wyoming cow puncher experience as well as hoss-soldiering in the New York guard, was assistant secretary and did much of the ceremonial work, he formed the habit of keeping a complete regalia, high hat and all, at his office. It saved time to top it on, dash to the White House, dash back and pop the topper off again for desk duty. Assistant Secretary Castle follows the same method.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Gas and Electric Rates

Mr. Editor: I noticed in The Bulletin of this morning, September 5th the new rates of electricity handed to the public by our leading money maker namely the Norwich gas and electric department.

It surely is worded all right for engineers and statisticians to understand but as far as the public with only a grammar school, or less education is concerned—it doesn't mean a thing.

I would like to ask if it would be too much trouble or take too much of the time of "the owners" of the G. and E. department if they could be a little more explicit as to how the purchasers of this power can come to an idea of the approximate cost this service is going to cost them (our buying public).

There used to be and I believe there now is in the school books a worked out example showing how to go about the working out of a hard problem. Can not this way of explaining be worked out by our G. and E. department, so that the buying public will have an idea of what the given article will cost them and they will not be buying "a pig in the bag." Thanks.

The Libyan Desert, Where Newly Discovered water May Create Oases

Parts of the Libyan Desert, one of the world's most arid areas, may bloom forth in colorful gardens, productive grain fields and orchards of luscious fruits, according to reports from Egypt that recent surveys have disclosed many sources of water in regions hitherto believed dry.

Students of geography will receive the report with a question mark—for there are many other undeveloped dry spots on the map which appear less impregnable to agricultural development," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"A map-minded person might describe the Libyan Desert as 'the largest blank area on the map of north Africa with a cartographer's smallest marks indicating a few oases.' It is shut off from the Mediterranean by a narrow populated strip which itself sizzles in the hot African sun. On the east the fertile Nile valley lends the Libyan owners moral support by showing what might be done with their sand-swept land, but on the west the arid expanse of the great Sahara of which the Libyan Desert is really a part, swings the pendulum of sentiment from optimism to the extreme of pessimism. The southern extremity of the desert penetrates a short distance over the border of Darfur state, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

"Libya is largely peopled by the Senussi sect, a sort of reform element of Mohammedanism. Jealous of their power in the desert region, they repel attempts of strangers whom they believe enter their domain only for predatory purposes. Even unknown Moslems are carefully watched and a traveler with a surveying instrument is regarded as a spy in an enemys fortress.

"Kufra, one of the most important oases and headquarters of the Senussi sect, has been visited by only a few white men. It really consists of five oases, one of which has a Mohammedan 'university.'

A salt lake two miles square in area is also an interesting feature. These shaded spots are four hundred miles from the nearest point on the Mediterranean. Between is naked desert land save for parched caravans.

"The journey to Kufra is a supreme test of physical endurance. For ten days at a time not a blade of grass or other evidence of life is seen save, perhaps, a snake, mouse, jackal or fox which may scurry across the hot sands. In the migrating season birds alight on the shoulders of Bedouins and after a drink and friendly pat, fly off again. Birds have been known to fly 250 miles in the Libyan Desert without water. But neither journeys through the air nor overland are always successful as dried wings of birds and whitened bones of camels frequently testify.

"Once on the southern edge of Siwa, the oldest of the Libyan oases near the northern border, desert hardships begin. Blinding sandstorms impede progress of the traveler and causes such deviations from routes that Bedouin guides, who depend upon their shadows for compasses, sometimes are lost. Varying temperatures, from 110 in the day to near freezing at night, coupled with the plague of malaria from the infested swamps in the neighborhood of many of the oases, are also difficulties to overcome.

"Not many years ago caravans were frequently raided and oases plundered by marauding tribes of desert nomads. At Siwa and Kufra, one is reminded of the thrilling tales of these desert raids by the mud houses built on the high places and the mud walls surrounding them to repel enemies. While the desert still has its thieves, the oases are now seldom attacked, and the inhabitants no longer carry their rifles on their shoulders while cultivating their olive and date groves.

"Jalo Oases in Cyrenaica, one of the desert's chief comercial centers on the route to Kufra, is an important starting point for caravans. Here camels and men may be hired.

"With camels and perhaps an Arabian horse or two for transportation, and with dates, rice, rancid goats' milk butter, skins of water and a few other necessities, many caravans start for the interior. Tea is one of the favorite beverages of the Bedouin on a monotonous journey. It is a black brew made of a handful of tea and a like amount of sugar. After boiling the concoction is better sweet and all but unpalatable to the stranger, but it imbues the drinker with remarkable vitality which is needed when the hot plains and mountains of sand of the desert are encountered day by day.

For 1929 Atwater Kent Radio is even better. 222 tests or inspections prove every set right before it leaves the factory. The electrical assembly includes improvements just perfected by the laboratory which give you greater power, greater range.

Reception is improved. As you turn the FULL-VISION Dial, distant stations and nearby stations answer to their own numbers, each one clear and separate. You can make the program soft or loud, as you please, without mussing up the tone. The electric current costs only a fraction of a cent an hour.

FORMER NORWICH WOMAN DEFENDANT IN $70,000 SUIT

A suit for $70,000 damages has been brought in the Hartford superior court against Carrie E. Perry of Mansfield, formerly of Norwich, by H. Williamson, Limited, of London, Eng., which alleges that she had guaranteed to pay for goods shipped by them to the Phinney Walker Co., Inc., of New York city. The American corporation, it is alleged, has not paid the bill of $65,000 and the Perry woman, who owns and controls a majority of the corporation's stock, is called to pay it.

The complaint explains that the London company had shipped watches and clocks to the Phinney-Walker Co., Inc., for many years prior to Aug. 23, 1927 and in the early part of 1927 shipments were withheld due to default of payments by the company. In order to purchase further goods Carrie E. Perry is alleged to have guaranteed their payment in a contract made a part of the complaint. Another allegation is that the woman has assets in the safe deposit box in the Connecticut Trust company, which cannot be attached. A temporary injunction has been asked for by the London firm to restrict the Perry woman or the trust company from removing the assets.

CHESTNUTS FOUND ON TREE IN CANTERBURY

George Barstow of Canterbury comes forward with what is now a rare curiosity—chestnut burrs. While walking about his place in Canterbury Mr. Barstow discovered a young chestnut tree on which were many chestnut burrs. He broke off a branch that had four perfectly formed and healthy burrs to prove the truth of his statement that chestnuts were coming back after the blight that destroyed the trees during the past 15 years.

The state forestry department has had many of these chestnut burrs sent in during the past two or three years. State Forester Hawes speaking in regard to the chestnut tree said that he believed it would be many years and perhaps never that the chestnut would return to Connecticut. He said that young chestnut trees seemed to be doing well but when they reached the age where the bark cracks open the blight soon killed them. The young chestnut tree is being watched with interest by the state department.

Has Old Program On Display.

Frank J. Fagan at his store on Main street has an old program that brings back fond memories to those who were youngsters 30 years ago. It is a program of the old Eight Bells performance which was to have been played on August 18, 1896, at the Lyceum theater in New London. In looking over the program one finds the names of the Bryne brothers of Norwich who had much to do in making the production famous.

Underweight Man Gains 35 Pounds—Feels Fine

To McCoy's Laboratories:

I beg to say I was underweight, tired and run down, thin and weak. A friend told me to try McCoy's Tablets so I sent for 6 One Dollar Boxes, but had no faith in them. I thought it was a lot of cheap pills put up to sell, for I had been taking all kinds of tonics and nothing did me any good, but when I started taking McCoy's Tablets I weighed 119 pounds. Now I am on my last box and I weigh 154 pounds and never felt better in my life. If any one wants to know what they will do call me up or write me. The people here in this State all know me, for I have done business here for thirty years.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 6 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—the purchase price will be refunded.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co., or any drug store in America.

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

Steffy Cimikeski, another Richmond Radiator and Academy player, was fourth with .396, just missing the ultra-select .400 class, while Johnny Greene, still another ex-N. F. A. luminary, rounded out the first five with .384 on 15 hits in 39 times at bat.

Dabrowski also led in number of hits with 25. There were 21 hitting over .300 in the league, which title the Finishing company captured on the last night of play. The averages follow:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5 —(AP)— Blasting out 22 hits off Willoughby and Walsh, the Giants closed their Philadelphia visit by defeating the Phillies, 14 to 3. Larry Benton won his twenty-third victory of the season, letting the Phils down with seven hits.

By winning today the Giants gained half a game on the league leading Cardinals who were idle and trail by four games. In the series with the Phillies, New York has won five out of six.

Mel Ott, right fielder for the Giants, hit two home runs in the game, each coming with one on base. The first was hit in the fourth inning and the second in the ninth. O'Doul and Reese each got four of the Giant's 22 hits while Jackson beat out three bunts. Klein got a homer for the Phils.

MERIDEN, Sept. 5—(AP)—The Albany club of the Eastern league trounced the International Silver company's semi-pro nine, 5 to 1, in an exhibition game here today. Liedke, although permitting 13 hits, pitched good ball for the local club but was accorded poor support, three errors proving costly.

BRAVES TRIM ROBINS IN DOUBLE BILL, 9-2, 7-1

BOSTON, Sept. 5 —(AP)— Boston cleaned up both ends of a double header with the Brooklyn Robins today by scores of 9 to 2 and 7 to 1. It was Brooklyn's last appearance here and gave the Braves an opportunity to better their record. The first encounter between the two teams was the only game the home team had won from the invaders from Flatbush.

Ed Brandt, who pitched the first game of the season, went through the sloppy first game, allowing 13 hits, but keeping them well scattered. The Robins added eight errors to the 13 hits the Braves got off Doak and Ehrhardt to let the nine Boston runs cross the plate.

Bobby Smith held the flock to two hits in the second encounter but both of them came in the fourth inning and deprived him of a shutout. Herman doubled and scored on Flowers' single.

Another Smith, Jack, who went to center field for the Braves after Mueller had been put out of the game, came through with a home run to right center in the seventh inning. In the first game Sisler got four hits in five times at bat.

SAM JONES HOLD YANKS TO EVEN SPLIT WITH NATS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—The Yankees retained their two game lead over the Philadelphia Athletics when they broke even with Washington in a double header today. The visitors took the first game 3 to 1 but the world's champions came back to bat out a victory in the second by a score of 8 to 3.

In the first game the Yankees lost their second game within a week Sam Jones, former New Yorker who held three previous decisions over the Yanks. Jones yielded only six hits. George Pipgras, his opponent, pitched shutout ball for six innings but weakened in the seventh when Washington batted in three runs with none out. Wiley Moore finished the inning and Thomas pitched the next two.

Lefty Burke lasted only four innings against the New Yorkers letting in six runs. Jim Weaver, Washington's six foot six inch recruit finished the game and made a fair showing. Seven double plays were made in this game.

P. WANER DISPLACES HORNSBY IN LEAD

By the Associated Press

Big things took place in the big six yesterday. After a long upward climb, Paul Waner, merely by remaining idle, replaced Rogers Hornsby as leader by a four point margin. While Waner's average stood still at .380, the rajah took part in a double header against Brooklyn and failed to get a hit in six times at bat. A drop to .376 resulted.

Harry Heilmann finally fought his way out of the cellar position by a two point margin over Frank Frisch who was idle. Three hits in four times at bat during the Detroit slaughter of the White Sox gave Heilmann an average of .303.

Babe Ruth, the only other big six member who was scheduled to play, lost three valuable points by hitting only once in seven times at bat. His average now is .331.

DETROIT, ON RAMPAGE, SUBMERGES SOX, 10 2

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)— Detroit batsmen hit about everything tossed at them today, crushing the White Sox, 10 to 2, in their final series here this season.

Five pitchers, Walsh, Adkins, Blankenship, Cox and Dugan, worked for the White Sox but every member of the Tigers bagged at least one hit except Gehringer. Harry Heilmann got three hits in four attempts, while Stone got two triples.

The Tigers put the game on ice in the ninth inning when the first six men got on base, Stoner and Carroll of Detroit limited Chicago to eight hits, only one of which was for an extra base.

STRONG CARD LINED UP AT HAMILTON AVENUE ARENA, N. LONDON, TONIGHT

Tonight's Card at New London
Main Bouts of 8 rounds each

Georgie Day, New Haven
vs. Tiger Silvia, Fall River and Micky Travis, New Haven
vs. Frankie Angelo, Hartford

Three Bouts of 6 Rounds Each

Eddie Ardos, U. S. C. G. Academy
vs. Charlie Bellizzie, Bridgeport, formerly of Norwich

Joey Thomas, New London
vs. Red Grillo, Bridgeport

Sailor Davis, U. S. Sub Base
vs. K. O. Roberts, Fall River

Of 4 Rounds

Vic Darr, Norwich
vs. Dutch Whitley, U. S. C. G. Acad.

A well-balanced card with Georgia Day of New Haven-Tiger Silvia, Fall River and Mickey Travis, New Haven-Frankie Angelo, Hartford in the two eight rounders is listed for this evening at the New London Arena on Hamilton street in New London. There are six bouts, slated for 38 rounds with one local boy, Vic Darr and another former Norwich fighter, Charlie Bellizzie, now of Bridgeport, also listed. Darr battles Dutch Whitley of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy in four rounds while Bellizzie goes against Eddie Ardos of the Coast Guards in a six rounder.

The twelve boys to fight tonight will weigh in this afternoon, each having completed a strenuous training session Tuesday and used Wednesday for the final tapering-off. This morning will be devoted to rest with but a little road-work.

The three Massachusetts boxers have gone through their final sessions in the Whaling City so that the fans could get a glimpse of them before the battles.

The new arena is expected to be filled this evening for the third of the series of popular shows. The last two shows seemed to please, providing plenty of action and interest and tonight should be no exception.

Vic Darr, Norwich's real representative on the card, has been working hard for this chance and, although faced with a real tough customer in Whitley, declares himself in the proverbial pink and expects to punch his way to victory.

The main bout will carry plenty of interest for Norwich fans. Silvia has fought around these parts more than once, appearing last year for example on the Moose shows at Olympic hall while Day has also exhibited frequently before fandom of this section.

The first bout goes son at 8:15 and as usual a block of seats will be reserved for the Norwich delegation.

Rinkydinks Set Back Tigers

The winners lineup follows: Hazan, rf; Stephans, c; Lacy, 3b; Butler, ss; Tudisci, 2b; Marcinda, lf; Raymond, 1b; Paschonche, p; Rankin, cf.

ELM CITY GIANTS AT MARTIN GROUNDS SUNDAY

For the second time this season the Elm City Giants of New Haven, one of the fastest colored road teams in Connecticut, will invade the stronghold of the J. B. Martin club Sunday afternoon. Their last assault on the Velvetmen was highly successful and the J. B. Martin club suffered a defeat, one of the few times that this club has been able to accomplish this feat.

Manager Smith is bringing with him the same lineup that defeated the Velvetmen two weeks ago, nosing out on the long end of the score in the ninth inning scoring on a lost ball over third base and carrying home the bacon by the tune of 4 to 3.

The pilot of the Velvetmen is planning for a record breaking attendance and is not announcing his lineup for this game but as usual a strong club will oppose these duskies on Sunday at the local grounds. Both complete lineups will appear in Saturday's papers.

ROSS CAPTURES QUALIFYING MEDAL IN HARTFORD GOLF

HARTFORD, Sept. 5—(AP)—F. D. Ross, of Sequin, won the qualifying round medal in the 1928 Hartford district golf association championship tournament today. He had a 74-74—148 which was four strokes better than the total brought in by Bobby Grant, of Goodwin Park. J. J. Geoghegan the defending champion, qualified in third place with a 154 and Mayor Walter E. Batterson, of Hartford, was fourth with 161. The 16 qualifying scores:

PATSY FERRA SIGNS FOR DUWELL AMATEUR BOUTS

Among the many local simon pures listed for the amateur boxing show to be staged at the Duwell field Friday night is Patsy Ferra, the Roath street whirlwind, who, together with Chick Mara, another local boy entered for the coming bill, provided the main attraction at the show conducted two weeks ago. Patsy, who is just beginning to take his boxing seriously in spite of the fact that he has been pushing leather for over two years, was a much improved scrapper at the show two weeks ago, and even his most ardent admirers were surprised at the showing that he made against the clever Chick Mara. Since his last fight, the Roath street favorite has been working out regularly at the Duwell club gym and is in even better shape than he was when last seen in action.

Kep to Attempt Comeback

Just who will oppose Patsy Friday is not known as yet but an effort will be made to secure a suitable opponent for him. Another local favorite who will be seen in action Friday, will be Johnny Kop of Greeneville, who suffered defeat at the hands of Al Koziol in the first outdoor fight of the current season about a month ago. Since the setback, Johnny has trained faithfully in hopes of convincing his followers that he is still a comer in spite of the fact that he was kayoed for the first time. He has been working out with several of the prominent pro boxers in the state during the past few weeks and is quite confident that his comeback attempt will be a successful one. Without a question everyone will be pulling for the popular Greeneville lad as he has always been a great favorite wherever he has shown.

Another of the Norwich boys who will probably be seen in action Friday after an absence of nearly a month from local ring warfare is Freddie Besade, who on Saturday returned to Norwich after spending two weeks at Tobyhanna with the local companies of the National Guard. While in camp, Besade kept up his training activities and declares himself fit for whatever opponent will be selected for him.

Included in the list of new men to perform at the show are several Coast Guardsmen, whose entries were received last night.

Worcester Team Likely

The Springfield team, which was scheduled to appear, notified the Duwells that they would be unable to appear. However, the local club is seeking a strong Worcester outfit, which if lined up would be every bit as good as the punchers from the City of Homes.

Friday's bill, probably the last one of the outdoor season at the present time, looks like the best that the Duwells have attempted this season. The entry list is large, the talent from which the boxing committee will select the card is generally well known.

Accepts Thames Challenge

The Taftville Town team accepts the challenge of the Thames A. C. for a game Sunday at Hollyhock Island. For arrangements call 1073-4 between 7 and 7:30 Thursday evening and ask for Red Burrelle.

FERNANDO WHEELER FARM BOUGHT FOR SANITARIUM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 5—A portion of the payment has been made on the Hinckley Hill Farm, so-called, on the Old Mystic road leading out of Pawcatuck, by Sidney C. Wood of New York and Florida, real estate man, who has announced that he plans to use the site for the location of a sanitarium. It is understood that the doctors of Westerly and vicinity have been informed that its work will not conflict with that of the Westerly hospital, established by donations and public subscriptions, and costing three-quarters of a million. The 100-acre farm is on the highest elevation in Pawcatuck. It was the home for many years of Thomas Hinckley, father of the late Denison Chesebro Hinckley, a retired Westerly furniture dealer, who was born in the farmhouse. It has been bought from the heirs of Fernando Wheeler, whose death occurred recently and who purchased the farm at public auction.

TWO MEN TRESPASSED ON RAILROAD BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 5—Joseph Cangelosi, 20, of 130 Liberty street, Pawcatuck, was taken into custody for track-walking Wednesday morning by Railroad Policeman Brown, acting under orders of Lieut. David Marks of New London, of the New Haven railroad police force. Lieutenant Marks was in Westerly Wednesday in response to at least two telephoned complaints that pedestrians on the railroad bridge over the Pawcatuck river had interfered with train movements, in that engineers of locomotives had to slow down to avoid hitting men using the bridge. This was especially noticeable on Labor day and the day following when express trains were operated in a number of sections and many east and west-bound trains passed on the bridge. Before Judge Williams, Cangelosi pleaded guilty and paid the $3.80 fine and costs assessed against him.

Patrick Higgins of Pawcatuck, another railroad trespasser, was presented later before Judge Williams and was found to be unable to pay a fine. His case was continued by reason that he had resisted the officer who had placed him under arrest and had taken him to the Westerly police station.

Wednesday, the first day for Westerly public schools in the school year, 2,301 was the total enrollment, a slight decrease from last year, when the enrollment was 2,319. However, it is expected that many new pupils will be registered during the next few days and that the total by the end of the week will exceed that of last fall.

There was a gain at the Immaculate Conception parochial school, which had an enrollment of 212, as compared with 157 last year.

The high school showed a marked increase in enrollment, the total being 467, a gain of 41 over last year. There was also a gain of 25 in the figures at the Elm street school.

The enrollments at the individual schools were announced as follows by Supt. W. H. Bacon: Beach street, 45; Bradford, 208; Chestnut street, 95; Dunn's Corners, 31; Elm street, 460; High street, 417; Park avenue, 152; Pleasant street, 285; Quarry Hill 83; White Rock, 58; high school, 467.

There are five grades in the parochial school this year, one having been added since last year. It is the plan to add a grade each year until the eight grade is reached. Grades I and III are filled to overflowing this year and a number of applicants had to be turned away Wednesday. The new teacher added to the faculty of the local school is Sister M. Virgina, who last year was an instructor in the parochial school at Bristol.

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Nest in a Queer Place
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who would avoid domestic strife
Will eave decisions to his wife.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot did a lot of scurrying around inside the little sugar house of Farmer Brown's Mrs. Whitefoot wouldn't be satisfied until they had their nest completed and the first thing to do was to decide where they would have it. There were all sorts of wonderful places for the nest of a Wood Mouse and there was plenty of material to build it of.

In that little sugar house was a bunk and on that bunk was an old mattress. Whitefoot thought it would be wonderful to make a hole in that and make their nest inside, but Mrs. Whitefoot said no. She couldn't give a real good reason for not making a nest there, but she was opposed to it.

"All right, my dear," said Whitefoot, "just as you say. There's a nice dark corner underneath. How will that do?"

"It won't do at all," replied Mrs. Whitefoot, and went on running about.

Then, up on a shelf, Whitefoot discovered a box with a little opening in it. "I've got it!" he cried. "This is just the place for it."

Mrs. Whitefoot scrambled up and looked it over. Perhaps if she had discovered it first it would have suited her. But she hadn't discovered it—Whitefoot had discovered it—so Mrs. Whitefoot promptly said it wouldn't do. But she failed to give any good reason why it wouldn't do. It just wouldn't that was all.

Whitefoot was beginning to lose interest. He had been very enthusiastic but all his suggestions had been so promptly turned down that he decided that he would leave the whole matter to Mrs. Whitefoot. Of course he should have known enough to do that in the first place.

He sat on the edge of a shelf, combed his fur, made his toilet and watched Mrs. Whitefoot running about this way and that way, quite as if she didn't know what she was about. Finally she disappeared. Whitefoot hadn't been watching and he didn't know where she went to. It was a little late that he heard her squeaky little voice.

"Come here, Whitefoot!" called Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot couldn't tell where her voice came from. He climbed down from the shelf and ran around looking for her.

"Come here!" squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot again, and there was a most impatient sound in her voice.

"Where are you my dear? Where are you?" cried Whitefoot, and his voice was just as squeaky as hers.

Suddenly Mrs. Whitefoot popped out right in front of him. "Here I am," she said rather crossly. "Now you follow me."

Whitefoot immediately followed her. Where do you think she led him? Straight into the firebox of the evaporator. Yes, sir, that's where she led him. It was dark in there. Whitefoot didn't think much of the smell of dead ashes, but Mrs. Whitefoot didn't mind this at all. In a corner of that firebox she showed him where she had cleared away the ashes. "Here," said Mrs. Whitefoot, "is where we will make our nest. No one will ever think of looking for us in here. It's the very best place we've ever had. Now we'll get busy and make our nest."

MANY STOCKS TOUCH NEW HIGH RECORDS FOR THE YEAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The stock market today successfully absorbed the heavy selling inspired by the large increase in stock exchange member loans and started on a new bull rampage under the leadership of the oils and the public utilities. The extreme gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to nearly 40 points, with at least two score individual stocks selling at new high records for the year.

So great was the volume of trading that the ticker was 3½ minutes late in recording the final quotation. The day's sales aggregated 4,425,800 shares, the highest since June 12.

The market opened irregular in reflection of the speculative uneasiness created by the increase of $214,000,000 in brokers' loans. In the absence of any extensive forced liquidation, pools quickly resumed their campaign for higher prices. Speculative attention centered at first in the amusement shares, several of which were pushed to new high ground, but when a bad break took place in the Warner Bros. issues the chief buying operations switched to the public utilities and motors and finally to the oils.

Call money held steady at 7 1-2 per cent. all day, although the banks called more than $15,000,000 in loans. With the September 1 dividend and interest payments and the Labor day currency demands out of the way, easier call money rates, at least temporarily are looked for in banking quarters.

A series of favorable dividend announcements helped to create bullish enthusiasm in today's market. These included an advance from $4 to $5 in the annual rate on Utah Copper, the calling of a special meeting of directors of the Standard Commercial Tobacco company to consider the declaration of a stock dividend, and the declaration of extra dividends on Lambert, Devoe & Reynolds, Goodyear of Canada and David Pender Grocery Stores. Other bullish factors were the publication of weekly steel trade reviews, which reported an increase in the daily average of steel mill production last month, and a number of excellent industrial company earnings statements.

Revival of activity and strength in the oil shares attracted widespread interest, as the oils are the only major group that has failed to participate extensively in the "bull" markets of the last four years, due to the unhealthy trade situation created by the over-production of crude oil. Texas corporation was the leader, setting a new high for the present issue at $70 a share and then easing to 69, up 4 1-2 points net. Barnsdall A touched a new top at 31 7-8 in anticipation of a resumption of cash dividends next month. Tidewater Associated, California Petroleum and Sun Oil also reached new high ground.

Radio returned to its old role as a market leader by soaring 11 1-2 points to a new record high at 226 1-2 and then easing to 224. General Motors dipped to 200 1-4 in the early trading, rallied to within 3 points of its high at 207 and closed just below that figure for a net gain of 3 1-4 points. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 153.

Violent fluctuations again took place in the Warner Bros. issues. The A stock opened 3 1-2 points lower at 114 1-2, soared to a new peak at 127, fell to 113, rebounded to 121 1-2 and eased to 117 1-2, off fractionally. Fox Film A fell from a record high of 106 to 101 3-4, up 1 7-8 net. Paramount Famous Players and Stanley Co., of America also reached new high ground.

Park & Tilford was another strong feature, crossing 87 to a new high record on reports of steadily expanding earnings. Chrysler responded to reports of record-breaking sales by crossing 104 to a new peak. Among the many other issues to reach new high ground were Calumet & Hecla, American & Foreign Power, National Power & Light, Gold Dust and Brunswick Balke Collender. There were a few soft spots, notably American Linseed, which broke 10 points to 123.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, but the bankers' acceptance market displayed an easier undertone.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat futures continued under selling pressure although the losses in the active months were limited to a fraction of a cent a bushel. Cotton advanced 40 to 75 cents a bale. Coffee and sugar quotations showed little change.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet with a 28 point jump in Japanese yen to 45.78 cents as the only change of consequence. Sterling cables held around $4.85 1-4.

THE GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)—The present range of wheat prices failed to interest buyers today and another small dip resulted. Corn, too, had a sinking spell in the early trading but made a turn about at the last when shorts took advantage of the dull day to cover up, and the close was at the highest figures of the day and a net advance over Tuesday.

Northwest sellers appeared in the wheat pit from time to time with small offerings, with the usual depressing effect. The pressure was relatively light however, and word from Minneapolis indicated that heavy hedging sales were still some distance away. Export demand was rather indifferent, and the trade looked for more aggressive selling soon from the Argentine, with better weather prevalent there. The weather appeared to be favorable nearly everywhere today, aiding the reapers in Europe and the growers in Australia. Canada ocially confirmed frost reports, but none has yet calculated any serious crop damage. Winnipeg today had 528 cars compared with 190 a year ago. Sales for export were reported at 300,000 bu. at the seaboard. Wheat closed easy at 5-8 to 1c decline, Sept. 109 1-4 to 3-8; Dec. 1.14 to 3-8, March. 1.18 3-4 and May 1.21 1-8 to 1-4.

Corn made a slow start, scattered selling taking down the current month a cent below Tuesday's close while the later deliveries sloughed off 3-8. Toward the end, however, buyers came to life.

The low prices lured shorts into the market, and while demand for cash corn was simproving country offerings were small. Light frosts were predicted for parts of the northwest tonight. Corn closed firm, 1-4 ti 7-8c higher. Sept. .82 to 1-8, Dec. .74 7-8 to 7-8 and .75, Mar. .77 1-8 to 1-4 and May .79 5-8.

THE BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Price movements were irregular in a fairly active bond market today. Rails supplied a firm undertone and some industrials showed gains, but in general the market reflected the erratic movements of the stock market Most issues overcame their periods of weakness, however, and closed at levels slightly higher.

New public offerings today were the largest in some time, apparently representing an attempt to sound out the market, the total being around $25,000,000.

Amusement issues, which reflected the strength of amusement stocks, were prominent among industrials to show gains. Loews 6s, with warrants moved up more than a point to a new year's high at 114 1-4. Pathe Exchange 8s gained fractionalli:

While Atchison convertible 4s slumped 2 1-4 points to a new year's low at 89 1-4 and Minneapolis and St. Louis 5s, Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s and Erie 5s sagged fractionally, most other rails closed substantially higher. Burlington 3 1-2s, I. R. T. 5s, Mobile and Ohio 4 1-2s, Katy 4s B, and Third Avenue adjustment 5s advanced 1 to 3 points each.

CALL UP TAFTVILLE WET WASH FOR WASHINGS

Call up the New System Taftville Wet Wash, Phone 3228-2, this morning and tell them you want your washing done by them this week. That will be the end of your worries in that direction, and after one trial you will never go back to Blue Monday. The New System has eliminated Blue Monday from the calendar.

The New System is a strictly modern laundry, modern in its method of reception of clothes, modern in its method of washing, and in delivery.

The New System Wet Wash has reduced laundry work to a simplicity. And, doing so, it has placed the price of washings at such a low level, and the work at such a high level, that the wash lady has vanished, and the housewife who has been in the habit of doing her own washing, is joining the ranks of the minority every week.

The New System Wet Wash has a motto of courtesy to its customers and perfection in its work. That's the whole story.

The telephone call with which you place your order to get your laundry is all you have to do. That's what makes it so simple.

Try the New System this week, and make a little side bet with yourself, as to whether you ever do your own washing again after one trial.

BUILDERS OF HOMES, ALSO JOBBING WORK

Zachae Bros. of 17 Pratt street, Norwich, are building contractors and specialists in applying asbestos roofing. Their mottor is "Reroof for the last time."

If you want to build a home, they will gladly give you their advice and build the home for you. Perhaps you have ideas definitely decided as to what you wish. They will put the ideas into working form. Again you may have a general idea. They will supply the details and complete the picture for you.

If you want a garage, they will build a one, two, three or more car garage.

Zachae Bros. also do jobbing of any kind. They will refinish your floors, do all those little repairs to your house, your business block or your factory that have to be done every year in order to keep the place up to its fullest efficiency.

Zachae Bros. are reliable contractors of firm standing, and are always ready to assist you in carrying out any of your building ideas.

SELECT A MARKER FOR YOUR FAMILY LOT

Every family lot in the cemetery should have a monument, and every grave should have a marker. These are marks of respect which you owe your dear ones after they are gone.

The Charles A. Kuebler Co. carries on hand blocks of the best and most popular of materials for monuments, and expert monumental workers are included in the staff to handle the work.

Selection of a monument or a marker in a cemetery are duties you should perform, but likewise duties you are apt to negect.

The Kuebler Co. carries a staff of men who make such a job an easy matter instead of an arduous task. They have the best of materials available and sketches of styles of stone and also of markings which make your work an easy one.

This is a good time of year to call on The Kuebler Co. You will always find someone at this place of business during business hours. You will have ample time to select what you wish and have it marked and installed before cold weather sets in.

This is the best time of year for erecting monuments. There is no rush and crush to get the work up before cool weather, and if you order now, The Kuebler Co. will have plenty of time to get the monument you wish, in the shape you want it and erected on your family lot.

UTLEY AND JONES POPULAR PRESCRIPTION STORE

Many houses pride themselves on what their name has come to mean to the public. Utley & Jones of 18 Main street, Norwich, also has this same distinction in the druggist business. Careful preparation of medical supplies carried on through many years of business in Norwich, has built up for Utley & Jones a name which stands for purity and properly proportioned medical supplies.

Thousands of people who have patronized this drug store in its years of service to the public have built up this reputation for Utley & Jones. Nothing good can ever come of careless service and improper handling of public trust. Realizing this Utley & Jones have always taken particular care in selecting their staff of licensed pharmacists and today a staff as good as may be obtained are with this firm, ready to give that same efficient service that has been a watchword with this company through the years.

SAYS HEADACHE IS DUE TO EYE STRAIN

At times every parent wishes to know what causes the frequent headaches of their children after beginning school work. Some children claim that they do not care to study; some, that they become sleepy after an hour or so of study.

Many children suffer from eyestrain and its consequent dull headache, and, not realizing that poor vision is behind the headache, chance about from this study to that, always aiming at one that causes less use of the eyes. These are signs that point clearly to the need of a complete eye examination for the correction of the vision to normal.

At this time of the year when hundreds of children are being made ready to be sent to school, many will be advised to get glasses, therefore a bit of friendly advice will not be out of place at this time. Be certain to take your child to a specialist who will advise glasses only if actually needed. Our equipment for examination as well as for actually grinding the lenses and assembling the completed spectacles are of the very best and our oculist will prescribe glasses only when needed.

PILOT J. E. KENNEDY ON TRIAL BEFORE INSPECTORS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 5—The trial of Pilot John E. Kennedy of the steamship Concord which is owned by the Colonial Line, was held this morning before Steamship Inspectors John A. McDonald and John A. Brooks. Kennedy was represented by Attorneys Pinchin of the Masters, Mates and Pilots' association and Samuel S. Wright, both of New York. The charge brought against the pilot was that he acted in a reckless manner when the boat he was commanding collided with a United States coast guard destroyer, July 15. After the collision occurred it is alleged that he proceeded with his ship, not stopping to investigate the damage that might have been caused. All of the evidence in the case was presented and compiled this morning. No decision was rendered however, as this will have to be reached by a board of supervisors after they review the facts of the case.

LABOR FEDERATION VOTES VOLSTEAD ACT A FARCE

One hundred and sixty members of the Connecticut Federation of Labor are attending a convention being held at the Hotel Mohican. At this morning's session a vote was passed favoring a maximum allowance of $25 a week from the compensation law. The present maximum is $21. Under the direction of President Chance J. Moore of Torrington, members of the organization went on record as being in favor of the repeal of the Volstead act, stating that it had always been, still is and always will be a farce. This statement had no political significance as members were urged to follow their own partisan proclivities regardless of what the federation might take as a group.

Mrs. Edward Seltzer of Hartford, while spending the Labor day holiday at Ocean beach, lost a valuable diamond ring but it was returned to her yesterday. On Saturday she rented a booth in the Rudd bathhouse and went for a swim. The loss of the ring was not discovered until she had returned to her home in Hartford. Then she remembered having been at the bathhouse. She called up the proprietor and made known her loss. A search of the different bathhouses was made with the result that the ring was found.

The British steamer Glentworth, while attempting to dock at the state pier with the assistance of a tug ran aground on a mud bar that is in the harbor. The vessel was loaded with 4,000,000 feet of western lumber and as the tide was low her great draft caused the keel to drag in the mud. After about four hours the craft was pushed into deeper water, from which she made the dock easily.

Several cases of intoxication came up in the police court, a few were discharged, although one man arrested on Water street, was fined $10 and costs.

Salvatore Delaporta, public service driver, was charged with breach of the peace and upon complaint of Arthur M. Aldridge. The case was continued to the 10th inst. Delaporta went to a State street restaurant yesterday afternoon and there engaged in an altercation with Eldridge. Delaporta finally dealing Aldridge a blow on the face. The latter resented the attack of the taxicab driver and made complaint to the police with the result that Delaporta was arrested.

Y.; Margaret Daley, Old Saybrook; Joseph Lawsky, 125 North Bank street; Aoe Portnoy, 547 Congress avenue, New Haven and Lewis Stevens 130 Winthrop street, were charged with violation of the parking ordinances. PROBATE JUDGE CALKINS DECLINES RENOMINATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 5—The New London public and politicians in particular were astounded to learn the news today that Probate Judge Arthur B Calkins, who has served for 17 consecutive terms, had refused to become a candidate for re-election on the democratic ticket. The news was announced by letters to several local attorneys from Judge Calkins, who is on a vacation in Maine. He gave no reason for his decision to retire. For the first time in years the republican party has a nominee for the place. Attorney J. James Floyd of Waterford, about a week ago, announced his candidacy and has been successful in gaining a considerable support for his campaign. Many republican leaders, however, had stated that they would support Calkins, more as a matter of convenience and ethics than in having anything against Attorney Floyd. Now with Calkins' elimination from the contest local republican problems are in more of a tangle than ever.

In the democratic ranks it is probable that there will be several candidates for he office.

Bliven, Donald Belcher, Gibson Buttsfield and Frederick S. Edgerton. Burial was in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

BODY FOUND IN THE RIVER THAT OF JOSEPH McFEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 5—The body found floating in the Thames river last Sunday was positively identified today as that of Joseph McFee, about 50, a former employe of the Central Vermont railroad. Identification of the body was made by McFee's son, Robert McFee and daughter, Mrs. Anna Morrison, who identified the clothing, also the glasses found in one of the pockets as those of their father. McFee committed suicide several weeks ago by leaping into the river and before taking the plunge McFee tied a railroad coupling, weighing about 50 pounds, around his waist. The body was found by an employe at the Central Vermont railroad pier.

Mrs. Ellen Griffin, about 70, widow of Patrick H. Griffin, died last night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Richard H. Davidson, 15 Blackhall street, after a lingering illness. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Griffin is survived by several children and grandchildren.

The funeral of Mrs. Giovanna Muratori, wife of Alfreda Muratori, of 35 Smith street, who was fatally injured Sunday when the motorcycle in which she was riding with her husband on Pequot avenue overturned, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at 62 Washington street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

A boy of about four years whose mother is employed at Home Memorial hospital, was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. James T. Morehead, 41 Fremont street, on Pequot avenue, late yesterday. The child escaped injury other than minor bruises.

Patrolman George Labous found a Ford car on Blinman street, last night which had been parked in front of No. 35 two days. It was placed in storage. In the car was registration showing that the automobile is owned by Peter Cummings, 710 Third street, Fall River, Mass.

COASTGUARDSMAN HELD FOR THEFT OF AN AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 5—In the police court today Edmore Martel, United States coast guard, was charged with the theft of an automobile. Probable cause was found and Martel was bound over to the January term of the superior court for trial. In default of bail, Martel was taken to jail. Martel was about the streets last Monday night and observing a Hudson brougham, owned by Nathan Peck, 261 Huntington street, he entered it and drove away. Tuesday morning Martel was arrested in Boston and last night Captain Charles A. Pinney and Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh returned to New London with the prisoner.

L. D. Maniere, Poquonoc Bridge, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. Maniere was arrested last Saturday night after his car had collided with another automobile on Willetts avenue. He was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Henry Sylvia.

Joseph Chihocki, 23 Eastern avenue, was arrested today charged with breach of the peace. In default of bail of $30 he was locked up and will be in court tomorrow. Chihocki went to his home and had been drinking, but was not intoxicated. He was ugly and started to amuse himself by tormenting his wife. When Mrs. Chihocki resented her husband's actions he attacked and struck her. Mrs. Chihocki made complaint to the police and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolman George Bruhns, who went to the house, arrested the wife-beater.

At a meeting of the directors of the New London City National bank, a resolution was adopted on the death of the president, William Belcher. Mr. Belcher was the senior member of the board, having been elected a director of the bank in 1874 and he has served continuously as president since 1896.

Breed Theatre.

An Irish novelist must never forget that his duty is homeward, according to Donn Byrne, author of "Hangman's House." John Ford production for Fox films in which June Collyer has the leading feminine role.

"The writing of this novel gave me greatest satisfaction of my literary career," Byrne wrote John Ford when he was informed that he was to picturize this dramatic story of Ireland. "I hope you will find equal pleasure in filming it.

"My people, for all their romance, are a practical nation. A national novelist, to them, is not a figure to be placed in an academy in a gold-laced coat.

"An Irish novelist gets from the Irish people a certain reverence, a good measure of kindliness, considerable latitude in conduct and thought. In fine, he gets his due from a God-fearing people. However, he must never forget that his first duty is homeward. Granuaile is quite properly a jealous lady. Therefore, I have written a book of Ireland for Irishmen and all people.

"Hangman's House" is to be the feature attraction at the Breed theatre for three days, commencing Sunday.

Strand Theatre.

If you enjoy love and romance, adventure and bright sparkling comedy, don't fail to see Naughty But Nice. This is the last times today at the Strand.

As modern as tomorrow, as full of life as a college freshman, as funny as a flint-souled landlord stepping on a banana peel, and as entertaining as a gossip about the folks net door, "Naughty But Nice" takes its place among the very best of this popular star's success.

The picture does several things. It gives you a thousand laughs. It presents a brand new leading man, Donald Reed, who is certain to speed up the American feminine heart action, and it gives Colleen Moore an opportunity for characterization equaled only by her memorable work in "So Big." In fact, Miss Moore has never had a greater chance for displaying her dramatic ability, especially in the sympathetic moments to which she brings the utmost sincerity. Her girlishness, vivacity and ingenuous charm are evidenced throughout the story, together with those pantomimic gifts for which she is so well known.

The comedy reaches its highest points in the scenes in which Colleen's well-meaning friends insist on her spending the night with the strange man she introduced, on the spur of the moment, as her husband.

POETRY

Twenty Gallons of Sleep

Measure me out from the fathomless run
That somewhere or other you keep
In your vasty cellars, O wealthy one,
Twenty gallons of sleep.

Twenty gallons of balmy sleep,
Dreamless, and deep, and mild,
Of the excellent brand you used to keep
When I was a little child.

I've tasted all your vaunted stock,
Your clarets and ports of Spain,
The liquid gold of your famous hock,
And your matchless dry champagne.

Of your rich muscats and your sherries fine,
I've drunk both well and deep;
Then measure me out, O merchant mine,
Twenty gallons of sleep.

Twenty gallons of slumber soft,
Of the innocent baby kind,
Where the angels flutter their wings aloft,
And the pillow with down is lined.

I have drawn the corks and drained the lees
Of every vintage pressed;
If I've felt the sting of my honeybees,
I've taken it with the rest.

I have lived my life, and I'll not repine,
As I sowed I was bound to reap;
Then measure me out, O merchant mine,
Twenty gallons of sleep.

—Agnes L. Storrie.

Chanson Printaniere

Rain-cleansed, enchanted day
That April, through fog and blast
Slyly snatching from May,
Bids the fresh light hold fast!

No blithe wings of song have I
Nor lithe limbs for steady speed;
And yet, on road and sky,
I look with gypsy greed.

And no ringing voice, no grace,
Stealing from jubilant power,
To make me challenge space
Backed by the dancing hour.

But ears, eyes, to hear and see,
And the heart to feel joy's fine
Vibrating rhapsody—
These, Life of Love, are mine!

—William Struthers, in Boston Transcript.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Karl Dane made up as a mummy—George K. Arthur emulating Julian Eltinge and disguising himself as a flapper—these are two extremes in the art of disguise that are very successfully and hilariously carried out in connection with "Detectives," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy costarring the comedy team, and now playing at the Palace theatre.

"Detectives" is a new idea in comedy. It is, primarily, a mystery thriller. But the two heroes of "Rookies," as amateur detectives, blunder into every thrill to produce a ludicrous anti-climax, and their trials, tribulations, hair-raising escapes and so on create one of the funniest comedies in their experience as laughmakers.

Dane plays a hotel detective and Arthur a bellboy who wants to be one. Both love pretty Marcelite Day, the hotel's public stenographer, and when the mysterious Orloff, master crook, proceeds to annex the jewels of the hotel guests they start in pursuit, figuring that the most successful detective will get the girl.

Then things happen. Dane finds himself the target for flying knives; the two drop through a secret trapdoor into a subterranean vault full of mummies; there are dozens of hair-raising thrills, with laughs to climax them, a pretty romance runs through it, and the end is a huge laugh. Chester M. Franklin, who directed it, certainly established himself as a screen humorist.

REV. HAROLD ARNOLD INSTALLED AS PACHAUG PASTOR AT CONFERENCE

The Six-Church Conference was held at Pachaug church Wednesday with 184 attending. The installation of Rev. Harold Arnold as pastor of the church was a part of the exercises of the day.

The morning opening exercises were conducted by Mr. Arnold, the Scripture being read by Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City and prayer offered by Rev. D. C. Stone of Hanover. The offering was received by E. G. Starkweather and Andrew Chesbro of Pachaug. Rev. Mr. Stone gave notice of the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Union and branches to be held in Hartford, October 2nd, when a formal consolidation of organizations will take place.

The sermon was by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, his text being Go thou, and do likewise. He said that everything we see and hear begins and ends with that. Therefore it makes a difference what we choose to do as in reading, places we visit and kinds of experience. He then gave a vivid and interesting story of his recent trip abroad, drawing apt lessons from the liquid history of four famous rivers—the Nile—Jordan—Tiber and Thames. Dinner was served in Grange hall.

In the afternon the executive council of the New London Association of Churches and Ministers met to examine the candidate for installation, who had been ordained during his ministry in Franklin. The moderator of the council Rev. C. H. Ricketts of Greeneville presided. The minutes of the council were read by Rev. G. F. Bailey of Norwich Town, who acted as scribe until the arrvial of Dr. J. H. Weeks of Stonington. George Norman read the call from the church inviting the council the call to the pastor and the response. Prentiss of Plainfield.

At the opening of the regular program the minutes of the council were read by Dr. Weeks and accepted. Mr. Ricketts presided during the afternoon. The scribe of the conference, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox called the roll. There were from: Hanover 14, Jewett City 14, Lisbon 15, Preston City 30, Plainfield 16, Pachaug 35 and visitors 60. The invocation was give nby Rev. B. F. ALEXANDER BUYS MAIN STREET PROPERTY

Benjamin F. Alexander of Norwich purchased the property at 115, 117, 119 Main street, known as the Tarrant property, at a public auction Wednesday afternoon, for $26,575. The sale, which was in charge of Attorney John H. Barnes, was completed in five minutes, there being only one other bidder, Michael Levin, who offered $26,500. The buyer is brother to Rubin Alexander, original owner of the property.

The sale follows foreclosure proceedings brought in the superior court by Michael Levin of this city as guardian of Mildred Solomon, Ruth Leah Solomon and Libbie Solomon, all minors of this city, against Rubin Alexander, Anna Levin, Dr. David A. Sussle o this city, Eddie Yush and Louis Alexander, both of Hartford. Alexander owed the plaintiffs $20,000 as shown by two promissory notes dated Sept. 3, 1926, one for $15,000 and the other, for $5,000. Alexander mortgaged the premises formerly known as the Tarrant property at 115-119 Main street to secure these notes.

GOV. TRUMBULL INVITED TO ATTEND FLAGPOLE DEDICATION

Senator Hiram Bingham, while being unable to attend the flag and pole dedication to be held at the fair grounds on Saturday, September 8, owing to his previous engagement at New Haven, is doing everything in his power to get Governor Trumbull to attend the celebration and speak at the dedication. A special invitation has been extended by the New London County Agricultural society to Governor Trumbull, who is returning today from Maine, and it is the hope of the committee that through the zealous effort of Senator Bingham, Norwich will be honored in having Governor Trumbull as its guest and speaker at the ceremony.

The dedication which was to be held on Labor day was postponed owing to the weather, but it will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday with a much enlarged program. The sporting events for the day have also been largely augmented due to the additional time which arrangements committee has gained by the unavoidable postponement.

The committee is delighted that the prominent men who were to take part in the dedication on Labor day have kindly consented to be present on Saturday and take part in the exercises. Senator Bingham was very sorry that he could not be here next Saturday as he could not possibly postpone his engagement for the day at New Haven. In addition to the marked probability that Governor Trumbull will be the guest the day, the following will participate in dedication exercises: State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers, Congressman Richard P. Freeman; Mayor May of New London, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins of Norwich, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, Right Rev. Monsignor Michael May, Rev. John J. Riley. A delegation of marines from New London submarine base assisted by a corps of Boy Scouts will have charge of the flag raising exercises. E. T. Connelly will lead in the singing and Swahn's band will furnish music.

The dedication will take place on a specially built platform near the grandstand, and all the grandstand seats and the grounds adjoining will be entirely free to the public. There will be no admission charges at the gate or anywhere on the grounds. The flag and pole dedication is a patriotic celebration to which all citizens of New London county and vicinity are cordially invited. The committee provided the entertainment so that the visitors may enjoy the day as a holiday and day of celebration.

The sports will begin directly after the dedication exercises and will continue until sundown when dancing will be enjoyed for the rest of the evening. The horse racing events will consist of entries from Willimantic, Hanover, New London, Hamburg, and Norwich. In addition to the races will be gentlemen's driving events for which prizes will be offered for the best appearing outfit of horse, carriage and driver. Besides trotting events there will be bareback riding and lariet throwing by Brelsford.

In the foot race events there will be a three mile, two miles, and one mile half a mile and quarter mile race and 100 yards dash.

A very hotly contested baseball battle will takep lace between the Taftville Town Team and the speedy Smoke Shop team which has a strong lineup.

The tremendous interest displayed in the dedication which was to take place on Labor day as evidenced by the hundreds of cars which visited the fairgrounds not withstanding the rain bids fair to make next Saturday's celebration a notable event. The committee has requested Norwich merchants to display their flags on Saturday in honor of Governor Trumbull.

The committee making the arrangements for the dedication and the sporting events follows: Pres. F. S. Armstrong, Congressman Richard P. Freeman, Dr. Ier J. Manwaring, Leonard R. Main, Hon. Nelson J. Ayling, Rev. Chas. H. Ricketts, Edwin A. Tracy, C. J. Ducy, Otto Ernst, L. M. Crandall, A. H. Beebe, Allison B. Ladd, Frank Smith, J. Sullivan, W. H. Nelson, F. Wyant, Max Hanover, Wm. J. He sets forth that his bill for the work, etc., was $555.60, $100 of which has been paid him by the defendants.

HOLIDAY PERSONALS ITEMS AND VACATION NOTES

Alexander Kilroy, R. N., returned to Bellevue hospital Saturday following a month's visit among his relatives here. Much of the time was spent at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Brosofske, who, with daughters, Misses Evelyn and Catherine, also their sons, William and George Brosofske, motored to New York for the week end and Labor day. They were accompanied by Mr. Kilroy, a former Norwich Town young man, of late years a resident of New York.

Miss Doris Estelle Rose, a member of the class graduated from West Town street grammar school in June, left Tuesday morning to enter Northfield seminary for a four years' course. She was conveyed from Norwich Town by automobile by her uncle, Rev. Francis H. Rose, accompanied by her father, Harold Rose, and a sister, Miss Muriel Blanche Rose, also by Miss Eleanor Harrington of Thames terrace, Norwich, a third year student at Northfield. Miss Rose aims to become a kindergarten teacher yet may eventually attend college.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber and children, for the past year residents on Gallows hill road, moved recently to the apartment in Miss Alice M. Smith's house on Elm avenue. This was vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pierce and family, who have purchased a bungalow on New London road and have moved there.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. House of Town street have returned after several days' automobile trip to New Hampshire, where they visited friends of Mr. House. During their absence Mrs. Elisabeth R. Kinney, with whom they reside, was the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kinney.

Mrs. Michael Lynch of Wallington, N. Y., has been spending a few days at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Henry J. Kilroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lathrop and Miss Ruth Lathrop returned Friday evening after several weeks' stay at Lord's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer (Annie White) of Webster, Mass., motored to Norwich Town Sunday and were guests of Mrs. Dwyer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and Miss Alice H. Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington have opened their home at Peck's corner, following their vacation during August.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney P. Smith, their daughter, Miss Eleanor Smith, and son, Master Campbell Smith, have returned after passing several weeks at Gardner Lake.

Rev. Charles E. Reeses supplied the pulpit at Taftville Congregational church Sunday morning.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, gave an interesting sermon pertaining to Labor day. The C. E. society at its Sunday evening service discussed the topic, "Will the Golden Rule Work in Business and Industry?" Philippians 4:8-9, was the Scripture reference. The leader was Miss Florence Sterry. Under the heading of The Gospel of Labor, the Congregational prayer service Thursday evening, has three questions assigned for discussion: Is work a necessity to successful living and high character? What was Jesus' ideal of work and idleness? What is the finest reward for work? Matthew 25:14-30.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE NOT AGAINST SMITH AS CATHOLIC

League Superintendent Declares Statement That Dry Organization is Opposing Democratic Presidential Nominee Because of His Religion Is "Absolutely False"—League's Opposition To Gov. Smith is "Solely Because of His Record and Attitude on the Liquor Question"—Statement Says Smith Supporters Had Raised Religious Issue and Not the Drys.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—The charge that the Anti-Saloon league is opposing Governor Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, "on account of his religion" was declared to be "absolutely false" in a statement issued tonight by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the league.

"Never in its 35 years of fighting against the liquor traffic," Dr. McBride declared in his statement, "has the Anti-Saloon league opposed any candidate because he was a Catholic. The league has repeatedly supported dry Catholics when their opponents were wet Protestants."

He added that the league would have supported "the dry Catholic instead of the wet Protestant" if the democrats had nominated "Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana, or Colonel Patrick Henry Callahan, of Kentucky," while the republicans had selected "Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, or former Senator Wadsworth of New York."

Dr. McBride said that "the widely published statement by Senator Pat Harrison and more recent declarations by Smith's supporters that the drys were fighting him because of his religion are a part of the campaign to distract attention from Smith's wetness."

He charged that the Smith supporters had raised the religious issue and not the drys. "The apparent purpose of the Smith forces is to win voters, he declared, "with a campaign for religious liberty whom they could not hope to win on the real issue which is enforced prohibition versus the licensed liquor traffic. They hope to win the vote of dry Catholics in spite of Smith's wetness and of dry Protestants on the ground of religious liberty."

The Anti Saloon league is opposing Smith "solely because of his record and attitude on the liquor question," he said. "The issue is booze not religion."

Governor Smith, he characterized as "the outstanding defender of the saloon until the nation went dry and now is the chief warrior for the return of liquor with all its degradation of man and its causation of hunger and want by women and children."

He added that the league also opposed Smith because he is the "creature of Tammany" which has aggressively defended and supported the saloon."

SAYS PRES. COOLIDGE SHOULD HAVE DROPPED INCOMPETENTS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 6—(AP)—President Coolidge and the late President Harding were accused tonight by Senator Joe T. Robinson with having "failed to display that decision of character necessary for elimination of crooks and incompetents from their advisers."

He prefaced this statement with a declaration that he made no attack on the personal character of either, and the point he sought to drive home was that "their leadership has not been notable to that degree that the memory of Mr. Harding could be glorified or that President Coolidge should be credited for great political triumphs."

"Had President Harding had one half the knowledge of men that Al Smith has shown," the democratic vice presidential nominee said, "he would have never made Mr. Daugherty attorney general, or Mr. Denby secretary of the navy, or Mr. Forbes director of the veterans bureau.

"Had President Coolidge realized when sworn in to succeed the lamented President Harding, that he must accept responsibility for his own choice of advisers, he would never have retained Fall, Denby and Daugherty nor would he have sought to whitewash them when public opinion forced their retirement to private life."

MORRIS LEADERS CLAIM 700 CONVENTION VOTES

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6—(AP)—On the evening of the opening of the democratic state convention at the Arena here, claims were made at the headquarters of Charles G. Morris, candidate for governor that Morris will undoubtedly enter the convention with at least 700 votes. Morris' leaders concede to the William A. Thoms' candidacy the delegations from Bridgeport, Danbury, Waterbury and Bristol and a sprinkling in Fairfield county.

They denied claims of Thoms' men that the Newtown delegation from the home town of Mr. Morris has been split for Thoms and gave out the following statement from T. M. Holian, democratic town chairman of Newtown:

"The Newtown delegation is united for its distinguished fellow townsman, Charles G. Morris for governor and we will vote for him as a unit until such time as he releases us. I don't know where the report started that Mr. Thoms had split the Newtown delegation but there is no truth in it. We are solid for Morris and will be in New Haven early enough tomorrow to do what we can for him."

It was announced tonight that ex-Mayor David E. Fitzgerald, of this city, will place Morris' name before the convention.

"BIG BILL" THOMPSON BACK IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—(AP)—"Big Bill" Thompson, mayor of Chicago and exponent of "America First" returned from a two months' vacation in Wisconsin today with a brand new slogan.

"Build the Town-Prospreity" is his new creed and was his only answer to scores of questions hurled at him by reporters as they trailed him from his train to his private quarters in the hotel Sherman and then across the street to the city hall.

Wearing the familiar cowboy hat the mayor who had gone to Wisconsin for his health stepped from the train fifteen pounds lighter than when he left the city, and after greeting friends at the city hall plunged into preparations for the first fall council meeting scheduled for next week.

He refused to talk about William Russel, his new commissioner of police, and the resignation of Charles Fitzmorris, city comptroller, or other cabinet changes.

CHARGED WITH VIOLATING PLANT QUARANTINE ACT

WATERBURY, Sept. 6—(AP)—Harold N. Connors, Negro, 141 Greenmont terrace, Waterbury, pleaded not guilty this afternoon when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edward J. Finn on a charge of violation of the plant quarantine act. A continuance was allowed until next Tuesday at the request of the department of agriculture men who are pressing the case.

Connors, driving a truck owned by Crowe & Co., of this city, is said to have crossed the Shelton-Derby bridge with 30 baskets of beans on an altered certificate of inspection on June 29. The federal men claim the driver of the truck is responsible for his load. The arrest was made Aug. 1.

SEN. CURTIS SCORES THE DEMOCRATIC LIQUOR PROGRAM

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 6—(AP)—Senator Curtis, the republican vice presidential candidate, told a republican rally he unable to go through with would be unable to go through with the state control liquor program of Gov. Smith, their standard bearer, because of the "impossibility" of amending the constitution.

In his second attack on the liquor scheme of the democratic presidential candidate, Senator Curtis repeated that the democrats "are trying to fool you" and he added, "don't grab at the straw because it won't hold." After reciting his record as prosecuting attorney for four years in Topeka, Kas., where he said he closed 58 saloons in enforcing the state dry low, the senator declared "I don't want to influence you on this question but I want to tell you the facts.

"Don't let them fool you," he declared, "they cannot amend the constitution as congress is constituted. Both democrats and republicans in my state endorse the prohibition laws and that is true of many states. I believe in a prosecuting attorney who enforces the law. We must try to, anyway and there is no use in putting up a man who says he is bigger than the law."

BAD WEATHER PREVENTS START OF AIR RACE

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept 6—(AP)—A day of bad flying weather over the first part of the course prevented the start of the Class B race of the trans-continental air derby today, and race officials here were pessimistic regarding the possibility of getting underway tomorrow.

Lieut. H. B. Clark, Roosevelt field manager, notified starters tonight that the hop tomorrow, scheduled for 7 a. m., had been deferred until 9 a. m., because of fog in the Allegheny mountains. If the weather has not cleared by that time, he said, the start will be delayed until 7 a. m., Saturday.

The day's idleness was punctuated by dissension and arbitration among Class B entries, some of whom registered protests over the entry of two planes they declared to be special racing models in violation of a race regulation that only stock model planes be entered in their class.

TOLD POLICE SHE HAS LOST HER MEMORY

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—A ruddy-cheeked young woman of about 21 years, apparently from Providence, R. I., walked into police headquarters today and reported that she had lost her memory. The last thing she recalled was having a cup of coffee "somewhere" this morning.

The missing persons bureau found in her purse two sales slips of a Providence store dated September 4 and a circular of the Irish National Foresters' Benefit association, executive committee number 4, of Providence, dated August 27.

LIEUT.-GOV. BRAINARD IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

MERIDEN, Sept. 6—(AP)—Lieut.-Gov. Edwin J. Brainard escaped injury this afternoon when an automobile which he was driving collided here with a car driven by John W. Fearnley of this city.

Mr. Fearnley was cut and bruised about the face and body and his automobile was badly damaged. The running board of the lieutenant-governor's car was somewhat battered.

Lieutenant-Governor Brainard formerly lived in this city. Although his mission here could not be ascertained, his visit, coming a few hours before the opening of the state convention in New Haven, was regarded as significant by local politics observers.

RUTH ELDER'S HUSBAND FILES DIVORCE SUIT

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 6—(AP)—Lyle Womack today filed suit in the courts here for divorce from his wife, Ruth Elder, who once almost crossed the Atlantic in an airplane.

Cruelty is the charge in the petition, which says Womack's weight has been reduced, efficiency for work lessened, and health and reason endangered.

EARL ROWLAND HOLDS LEAD IN AIR RACE

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6—(AP)—Flying under ideal weather conditions, Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kan., piloting a Cessna a monoplane led the pack into Kansas City today in the class A trans-continental air race, holding the lead he took at the outset of the race yesterday.

The first four planes to check in for the night arrived in the same order as at Columbus yesterday, with Rowland followed at an interval of 25 minutes by Robert Dake of Pittsburgh in an American Moth. Rowland's official arrival time was 12.41.25. W. N. Emery, Jr. of Bradford, Pa., held to third place by piloting his Travelair into Richards airport at 1.22 p. m.

Rowland's unofficial elapsed time from Roosevelt field, New York, to Richards field was 8 hours and 7 minutes, Dake's was 8 hours and 35 minutes and Emery's was 9 hours and 1 minute.

Fourth into the over-night control was Theodore W. Kenyon, Boston, flying a Challenger, who arrived at 1.31.27 o'clock.

James Charles of Richmond, Va., who was fifth into Columbus yesterday, dropped into sixth place when Eugene J. Detmer, Tarrytown N. Y., crossed the finish line at 1.39.03 in his Travelair. Charles reached St. Louis in his Alexander Eaglerock ahead of Detmer but dropped behind in the race across Missouri.

Favorable weather continuing, the planes will hop off at one-minute intervals, starting at 5.00 a. m., tomorrow for Fort Worth, the third night control, with a fueling stop at Oklahoma City.

Of the 31 planes which left Columbus this morning, three had come to grief and apparently were out of the race and one was overdue between St. Louis and Kansas City. Twenty-five of the planes checked in at Kansas City betwen 12.41 and 3.36.

D. R. Robertson of Anglum, St. Louis county, Mo., was in a hospital near Carthage, Ind., where his engine had blown up and he had suffered cuts and bruises in a forced landing. His companion was unhurt.

George Bennett of Kansas City, in an Eagle Rock, and I. W. Hunt of Moundsville, W. Va., in a Swallow were held at Indianapolis, because of motor trouble.

Albert C. Carl, Reading, Pa., flying a Pitcairn Fleetwing was down three times, the lost one a mile out of St. Louis field, due to engine trouble, but he was hurrying repairs. Don Phillips of Seattle, Wash., in a challenger, was held some time at Terre Haute by engine trouble but made St. Louis at 2.55.

Sebastian L. Pond of Milford, Conn., in a challenger, was seventeenth to reach Kansas City in 1 hours 22 minutes.

WILL PRESENT RESOLUTIONS AGAINST WET CANDIDATES

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 6—(AP)—Prof. Albert Levitt, of Ridgefield, who has been engaged in a controversy with Haven, at the republican state concerning the latter's anti-prohibition views, informed a staff correspondent of the Bridgeport Telegram in New Haven, at the republican state convention tonight, that resolutions would be introduced before the resolutions committee of the convention by at least two persons, committing the republican party to the nomination of dry candidates to the senate and to the house of representatives.

The resolution will state that the republican party in convention assembled "instructs and pledges its nominees for the United States senate and the house of representatives to support the presidential candidate of the republican party, when elected, in his effort to carry out his pledges and the pledges of the republican party, to conserve the eighteenth amendment and prevent its nullification by modification of the law passed to enforce it".

Prof. Levitt, whose wife is Miss Elsie Hill, daughter of former Congressman E. J. Hill, said the sponsors of the resolution would be Mrs. Lena Greenbacker, of Middlefield and Elwyn T. Clark, of Haddam, delegates to the state convention.

OFFER OF $525,000,000 OF TREASURY CERTIFICATES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(AP)—An offer of $526,000,000 of treasury certificates bearing four and one-half per cent. interest to be dated Sept. 15 and to mature in nine months was announced today by Secretary Mellon. This is the highest rate of interest of any government issue since 1921.

The funds to be raised by the issue, together with the necessary part of $455,000,000 in income and corporation taxes due on Sept. 15, will be used to retire the third liberty loan bonds which mature on that date. Only about $970,000,000 of the third liberty loan bonds are outstanding.

The interest on the new issue is one and one-eighth per cent. higher than that of the last issue of government securities. The 15 year treasury notes issued last June bore an interest rate of 3 3-8 per cent.

MONTREAL'S POLICE CHIEF INDEFINITELY SUSPENDED

MONTREAL, Sept. 6—(AP)—Montreal's chief of police, his chief of detectives and five other department officials were suspended indefinitely by the executive committee of the city council, pending inquiry into reports that might tend to show "dereliction of duty."

Chief of Police Pierre Delanger, Detective Chief Hector Mercier, Detective Captain Gilbert Laverdiere, and Sargeant of Detectives Arthur Belanger, Phillipe Belanger, A. Maloney and Christopher McCann were suspended. During the inquiry Deputy Chief William Leggett will be in control of the police department.

Sent Poisoned Candy To Japanese Consuls

OAKLAND, Ca[illegible]—(AP)—Efforts of M. Higas[illegible] the Japanese to poison several ti[illegible] Japanese officials brought him today into the hands of Oakland police, where he will be kept until it is determined into whose custody he shall be delivered.

Higashi, who had escaped from the State Hospital for the Insane at Napa, Calif., is alleged by Toyogi Kaneko, Japanese vice consul at San Francisco, to have mailed boxes of poisoned candy to several eminent Japanese in Tokyo and to the Japanese consuls in Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

Kaneko said intelligence forces of the Japanese government, aided by American officials, had sought Higashi for six months.

He was taken into custody in Emeryville, a suburb of Oakland, where the candy was mailed.

Two of the high officials who received some of the candy are Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese house of peers, and Prince Fumimaro Korgye, a member of that body.

Each of the boxes was accompanied by a threatening letter which led the recipients to have the contents analyzed with the result that poison was discovered. No one ate the candy so far as could be learned.

Vice Consul Kaneko said he would try to have Higashi deported in order that Japanese authorities might deal with him.

The packages and letters were sent anonymously but the handwriting led to Higashi's capture at a Japanese club.

GOV. SMITH TO OPEN CAMPAIGN IN CORN BELT

(By PAUL F. HAUPERT)
Associated Press Staff Writer)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 6—(AP)—Governor Smith will go into the heart of the corn belt to open his campaign for the presidency. He will speak in Omaha Tuesday night, Sept. 18, and then will swing into the border state of Oklahoma for an address at Oklahoma City two nights later, before winding up his first week of stumping in Denver Saturday night, Sept. 22.

This initial phase of his speechmaking itinerary was made public today by the democratic nominee, who said he would be on the road another week before returning to New York state to address the democratic state convention at Rochester Oct. 1. His routing and engagements for that period or for the weeks following his Rochester appearance he explained, are still in the tentative stage, subject to overnight change.

In response to inquiries from newspapermen, Governor Smith said he assumed he would discuss farm relief at Omaha, in view of the geographical situation of that city, but had not determined what subjects he would treat in Oklahoma City City and Denver. He will travel on a special train which will leave New York city, Sunday Sept. 16, picking up him and most of the members of his party here.

Refusing steadfastly to be drawn out as to his probable plans after his Denver address, Mr. Smith said it had not been determined definitely whether he would go to the Pacific coast or into the solid south. He announced that all speeches during the campaign would be delivered at night, and indoors, to conserve his voice. As for radio broadcasting arrangements, he is leaving them to his managers at national headquarters in New York.

Many of Gov. Smith's advisers are urging him to make a dash to the Pacific coast for a speech or two, particularly in Herbert Hoover's home state of California, but there is considerable doubt whether he will do so. Some of them hold that the nominee has a chance to carry the state which went to Wilson in 1916, while others, not so sanquine, believe it would be good strategy, for the psycological effect if for not other reason, to carry his fight into San Francisco and perhaps Los Angeles.

The week intervening between the governor's speech in Denver, which was the farthest west Davis ventured in 1924, and his engagement in Rochester is regarded by some of his managers as too brief a period for him to continue on to the west coast, and instead they are advising him to swing through Wyoming into Montana, and then eastward through the Dakotas and into Minnesota and Wisconsin. If this is done, it is unlikely that the nominee would be able to find time later in the campaign to go as far west as the coast.

One of the tentative schedules for the democratic standard bearer after his visit to Rochester, where he will have a hand in shaping up the state ticket and platform, calls for him ao swing into the middle west, one or two of the border states and into the solid south, rarely visited by democratic presidential nominees in the past. All hands in party councils seem agreed that he should concentrate on eastern states during the last stages of the campaign, and it is regarded as certain that he will wind up his speech making the Saturday night before election at Madison Square Garden in New York.

HARTFORD, Sept. 6—(AP)—State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn announced today that Reinhart L. Gideon had resigned as assistant state's attorney, effective Oct. 1, and that Donald Gaffney, New Britain lawyer, had been appointed by him to succeed Mr. Gideon.

He also announced that Harold E. Mitchell, a lawyer in his office, had been appointed by him as a part time assistant at a salary of $100 a month under the authority of a vote of the board of finance and control creating the office Aug. 16. The assistant state's attorney receives a salary of $2,500 a year.

Propose Changes In G. O. P. Party Rules

State Convention Hears Motion to Change System of Selection of Delegates—Keynote Address By Cong. Schuyler Merritt.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6—(AP)—Immediately following the adjournment of the first session of the republican state convention here tonight, the rules committee met on the stage of the Hyperion theater and heard two New Haven delegates propose changes in the present party rules.

Col. Isaac M. Ullman, presented the first motion—one to change the present system of selecting delegates to the state convention. The second, a motion to change the first section of the party rules so that caucuses for representatives and justices of the peace, will be held on the same day as the state, congressional and senatorial caucuses, was presented by Louis Feinmark, assistant corporation counsel in this city.

Feinmark's motion was carried while Col. Ullman's was tabled until tomorrow morning, the committee to meet before the opening of the regular convention session to take action on it.

The motion offered by Col. Ullman was as follows: "Whenever a town casts 2,500 or more republican votes for governor at the last previous election, it shall be entitled to one additional delegate for every 2,500 republican voters or a major fraction thereof above the first 2,500 votes."

In explanation of his motion, Col. Ullman said that it would give greater representation in the state convention to approximately 15 towns. New Haven, he said, would gain 8 votes giving the city 20 instead of the 12 it now has, while Hartford and Bridgeport would gain six or seven.

In answer to a question as to how many votes would actually be necessary to gain an additional delegate, the colonel said 3751.

He pointed out that the town of New Haven alone has more republican votes than three of the smaller counties and should be entitled to greater representation.

In support of the motion, Feinmark declared that the problem of attempting to satisfy the republican voters of New Haven and other large cities with representation at state conventions, was becoming more difficult as the population and number of voters increased. He said that under the present system, a republican has less and less chance each election to win a place on the state delegation and he thought that the motion was for the best interests of the party.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS BY CONG. SCHUYLER MERRITT

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6—(AP)—Wet weather fell to the lot of Connecticut republicans tonight when their state convention opened in the Hyperion theater, but it did not dampen the ardor of delegates or keep from the place fully 200 persons who sat in the galleries when Congressman Merritt, of Stamford, gave his keynote address.

LITHUANIA ANXIOUS TO END DISPUTE WITH POLAND

Prime Minister Waldemaras Brings Up Question Before Council of League of Nations—Declares Lithuania Has No Thought of Supporting Her Claims by Force—Blames Poland For Failure to Convoke Plenary Conference to Arbitrate the Dispute—German Chancellor Frowns on Efforts to Drag United States Into Rhineland Occupation Discussions.

GENEVA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Two hours after telegraphing Lithuania's adhesion to the Kellogg peace treaty Prime Minister Waldemaras went before the council of the league of nations today and fought forensically for his country's right to raise the question of sovereignty over Vilna.

He declared that Lithuania could have no thought of supporting her claims by force inasmuch as the World had renounced war as a method of settling disputes.

His sole demand, he said, was to keep the question open so that it could be negotiated by pacific discussion. He was hopeful that normal relations with Poland could soon be re-established.

The council appeared overcome by fatigue and five members slept peacefully throughout almost the entire debate.

Premier Waldemaras charged that armed bands of persons who had fled from Lithuania were still being permitted to engage in activities on the Polish side of the frontier which had for their purpose the overthrow of Lithuania's government. He blamed Poland for the failure to convoke a plenary conference consisting of Polish and Lithuanian delegates to arbitrate the dispute.

August Zaleski, the Polish minister of foreign affairs addressed the council ahead of his Lithuanian rival and offered assurance that Poland had alone her utmost.

Efforts to drag the United States into discussions of the Rhineland occupation were frowned on in public statements by Chancellor Mueller of Germany.

He said that the Germans wished to avoid, above all, any semblance of a "united front" against America by linking inter-allied debt and reparations with the evacuation of the Rhineland.

He explained that Germany hoped before the end of next week to attend a conference of delegates representing countries which have troops in the Rhineland, and including also Italy, although there are no italian troops of occupation.

Chancellor Mueller recalled that Foreign Minister Briand had declined to discuss the withdrawal of troops without the participation of other interested nations. For this reason he supposed that the French government would take the initiative in summoning a conference.

He said that if the question of reparation payments should be raised in connection with evacuation he would insist on the fixing of a lump sum to be paid by Germany. Credited to this total, he declared, must be these payments in kind already made, such as ships and Saar Valley Coal.

It is the belief of the German delegation that it would be "stupid" for the former allies to seek to force a reduction of their obligations to the United States by emphasizing the necessity for revising reparations downward. The Germans feel that they were strictly within their rights in requesting a reduction but that this request was far removed from the idea of a united European front against the inter-allied debts.

In French circles the impression prevails that evacuation discussions could be inaugurated more effectively by presentation of a memorandum from Chancellor Mueller to the governments of Great Britain, Belgium, France and Italy. The Germans, however, want to eliminate red tape and approach the problem informally at Geneva.

SPELLACY WARNS DEMOCRATS TO INCREASE SMITH STRENGTH

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6 (AP)—A warning to the democracy of Connecticut that nominees of its state convention, which will open 24 hours hence, "must add to the Smith strength and not detract from it in view of the religious issue openly injected into the campaign," was given today by National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy because of intensity of rivalry for places on the state ticket. This warning was more particularly directed to those who are supporting former Congressman Augustine Lonergan and former Congressman Patrick B. O'Sullivan for U. S. senator.

Mr. Spellacy's warning was of interest to republicans gathering for their state convention which opened tonight and in which tomorrow the delegates may be involved in roll calls over their own nominations for senator and lieutenant governor.

It is the seat of Senator George P. McLean filled by him since 1911 which the democrats want and for which there are two candidates for the nomination in the republican party. The eagerness of the democrats is because of confidence held that Gov. Smith will carry the state for himself and the party ticket.

Of the two conventions which promise lively moments in the nominating sessions—the republicans tomorrow and the democrats Saturday—the republicans have the lesser worries.

The democratic delegates are finding themselves in turmoil, a legacy from the experiences of their delegations to the 1924 national convention in which Smith men clashed with those supporting McAdoo. In the present situation the democratic national committee has declined to intervene or advise. Mr. Spellacy had declared his neutrality. Today in a formal statement he said in part: "Carry Connecticut for Gov. Smith." That is the one universal request I receive from Connecticut democrats. • • • I have been neutral in all contests and shall assume no dictatorial policy. I do however, deem it my duty to extend to my party any help or information that may have come to me."

PRES. COOLIDGE PREPARES FOR HOMEWARD TRIP

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 6—(AP)—His summer home in a perfect packing turmoil, with trunks and boxes littering all the rooms, President Coolidge decided to make himself scarce around Cedar Island lodge today and devoted one of his last vacation days to more fishing.

With departure for Washington set for early next week, the chief activities at the executive residence and offices centered about preparation for the return trip to the capital. These had gone so far that Mr. Coolidge, early this morning, found his fishing tackle laid aside with a heap of other things destined for burial today in a deep trunk. Hastily rescuing his rod and line, the president summoned his guide and canoe and was off for one of the private lakes on the Cedar Island lodge estate to fish trout.

President Coolidge does not now contemplate appearing in public again before his departure from Wisconsin. Yesterday he attended the local fair where thousands had the opportunity to see him. A last chance will be provided at the station when the chief executive boards his special train for the east. No plans were made up tonight, however, for him to show his appreciation of his vacation among the Wisconsin woods by speaking in public or by receiving local delegations.

Tomorrow Mr. Coolidge will call at his executive offices on his regular Friday routine, to fulfill a number of engagements. B. H. Meyer, a member of the interstate commerce commission, who has been vacationing near here, will present his respects to Mr. Coolidge. A. C. Bachus, publisher of the Milwaukee Sentinel, will follow on the same errand, succeeded in turn by various local delegations.

HOOVER GIVES ATTENTION TO CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

(By W. B. RAGSDALE)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—With his plans for the campaign now shaping into a definite program, Herbert Hoover today centered his attention upon the subject matter of the speeches he has set for himself.

Dates have been fixed already for three of the four addresses the republican presidential candidate plans to make, including two of the three offensive points on his drive to carry the east and the one move he contemplates making toward corralling the southern votes.

While the dates for the speeches at Newark, N. J., New York city and Elizabethton, Tenn., have been decided, the candidate has laid the frame work of only one of these three addresses. He expects to expand upon the views he already has expressed upon labor in the Newark address on Septemger 17 and has gone far in working out the general outline of the speech.

Although the subject for his New York address is yet to be chosen, he has tentatively decided to talk on water power and industrial development at Elizabethton which is the center of a rapidly developing industrial district. He will go on October 6 to Elizabeth, in the Tennessee mountains near the North Carolina line and will speak in a large tabernacle on the grounds where will be held the annual industrial celebration of that section. The nominee will invade the home city of his democratic opponent for the presidency on October 17.

There still remains to be set a date for the trip he contemplates making into New England. Although, plans have been laid for his journey back to the Pacific coast late in October and two addresses in that month already on his program, he has been urged to visit the northeastern territory around the first of October for a speech probably at Boston.

There were few visitors at the headquarters of the nominee today and he spent most of the long rainy day in deliberating over the next phases of his drive for the presidency.

Louis V. Aronson, a Newark, N. J., business man, brought him a report that sentiment reflected by traveling men in his concern indicated that New Jersey might be found in the republican column in November.

"Many people who have been shouting for the democratic nominee are leaving him," Aronson said after his visit, "and will support Hoover because continuance of republican protective tariff policies is essential to the prosperity and welfare of the worker and the home."

During the day a report also came from Andrew Iralay, a Trenton, N. J., publisher, that 14 Hungarian language newspapers in that state were supporting Hoover's campaign because of his humanitarian work during the war and "because of his sympathetic understanding of the immigration question."

WINDHAM COUNTY COURT OPENS IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 7—Windham county superior court convened here this forenoon for the September criminal term with Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover on the bench. State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford, who has recovered from an illness, was at his desk today. It was his first appearance in the superior court chamber since last May. Rev. D. Winslow Lovett of the Baptist church invoked prayer. State's Attorney Bradford informed the court that but 11 of the 21 new cases on the docket were ready for trial. This he termed as unfortunate inasmuch as it is necessary that the docket be cleared up this week or else the cases will have to be postponed until after the Raymond-Lalone murder trial which starts Tuesday of next week.

The 11 prepared cases were all called during the session. The defendants in four of the cases pleaded not guilty and trial dates will be set for these cases. It was hoped to have them heard Friday of this week but the inability of the attorneys to be present thwarted this plan. As there will be no business Friday Judge Yeomans adjourned court until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time, for the start of the murder trial.

Clerk Curtis Dean was ordered by the court to have the 100 talesmen, picked last Saturday as prospective jurymen for the murder trial, summoned by County Sheriff Charles A. Gates and his assistants for appearance in court Tuesday morning. These talesmen will be examined by the attorneys in the case and the court for qualification to serve on the jury of twelve to hear the trial.

At today's session the first of the 11 cases taken up was that of Leonard Wolfenden, 19, of Pomfret, charged with receiving stolen goods in the form of an automobile on June 11, last. He pleaded guilty. State's Attorney Bradford stated that Kenneth Light of Putnam was also involved in the case but that he was being treated for a mental ailment at the present time and therefore the case of theft of an automobile against Light was not entered on the docket. The machine was stolen by Light in Providence, taken to Putnam and then to Middletown with Wolfenden in the machine. Upon returning Wolfenden hid the car in the woods at Pomfret and when he went for it two days later he damaged the car.

Wolfenden then notified the state police that he had found an automobile that had been abandoned but upon questioning finally admitted that he had been implicated in the theft of it. County Protector Harry E. Back presented the court with Wolfenden's record which was shown as being good. Judge Yeomans imposed a reformatory sentence, suspending judgment for one year.

The second case was that of Frank Cleveland of Killingly, charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and explained that when he was fined $100 in the Plainfield town court some time ago he did not have the money and the court changed the sentence to 30 days in jail to which he took an appeal. He now had a friend ready to pay the fine. The court imposed the original fine with costs, totaling $120.86 which was paid. County Protector Back represented the accused.

Peter Urban and Joseph Poquist of Moosup were arranged on two counts each, intoxication and breach of the peace. In view of extenuating circumstances, State's Attorney Bradford had the charges of breach of the peace nolled. Both pleaded guilty to intoxication and each was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $28.85.

Peter Karas, Photis Goulis and H. George Gehr of Norwich, pleaded not guilty to a charge of violation of the Sunday law and the cases will be tried later in the term. They were arrested when detected canvassing the borough of Danielson on a Sunday, trying to sell booklets of a religious nature for 25 cents apiece. The three are members of the International Students Bible class. They appealed from fines of five dollars and costs imposed in the Killingly town court.

The case of Joseph Adams of Moosup, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law by driving an overloaded truck in Plainfield was in the nature of a correction of an action of the Plainfield town court, in the town court Adams was fined $100 and costs and he took an appeal on the grounds that the fine was excessive. Judge Yeomans conceded that the maximum fine on that charge was $50 and this fine, without the costs, was imposed and paid.

A plea of guilty was entered through County Protector Back for Marian John Hardell of Brooklyn, aged 16, charged with statutory burglary committed in a store of that place several weeks ago. Following an eloquent plea for his client, Attorney Back secured an agreement for a suspension of sentence. Judge Yeomans ordered a suspended reformatory sentence and placed the youth in charge of Officer L. Edwin Hill of Putnam for one year.

A plea of not guilty was entered in the case of William Goldstein of Hartford, charged with reckless driving and speeding and the case is to be assigned later.

Announcement of the vacation of the appeals of Lewellyn E. Chappell and Samuel Chappell of North Windham, charged with breach of the peace, was made. The lower court fines of $25 were paid before the opening of today's superior court session.

Cyril Passmore of Hartford, a former employe of a brokerage firm in that city, was charged with obtaining goods under false pretenses in the Mansfield town court Wednesday night. He pleaded not guilty but Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman found probable cause and bound the accused over to the next term of the Tolland county superior court under bonds of $2,000. The charge is that Passmore secured from Mrs. Minnie McCollum of Mansfield Depot, two years ago, $1,280 worth of railroad bonds to be used as collateral for a short time. Passmore failed to return the stock within the specified time and when demand was made it was found that the stock had been sold on the New York market. Repeated requests by the complainant that Passmore make good the amount of the stock were without results and several days ago he was arrested by State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks.

The task of re-arranging some four thousand volumes and court decision records in the law library adjoining the superior court chambers on the third floor of the town building was started today by Clerk Curtis Dean of the superior court and Assistant Clerk Frank H. MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF MICHAEL CLIFFORD

The funeral of Michael Clifford was held this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Andrew's church. The solemn mass of requiem was sung by his nephew, Rev. Dennis Moran, pastor of St. Mary's Church, South Coventry, with Rev. William Cohane, professor of Latin in Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmetsburg, Md., deacon, and Rev. Philip J. Mooney, pastor of St. Andrew's, sub-deacon. Rev. David R. O'Donnell, pastor of St. Michael's church, Hartford, was in the sanctuary. In spite of the unfavorable weather a large group of friends gathered with the relatives at the cemetery, where the committal service was read by Father Cohane, assisted by Father O'Donnell and Father Moran. The bearers were J. J. O'Connor, T. Sugrue, W. Sugrue, G. Donnelly, V. Culbane and P. J. O'Connor.

Mr. Clifford was born in Derrynane, County Kerry, Ireland, 79 years ago and came to America in 1869, at the age of 20. Soon after his arrival he learned the stone mason's trade, at which business he continued for many years. Since 1874 he has been a resident of Colchester. In 1876 he married Sarah Clifford, of this town, who, with their 14 children, survives him.

About six years ago Mr. Clifford was severely injured by falling on the ice which left him in a feeble condition, but this he bore courageously—never losing his cheerfulness. Although he has been weak so long, his death, which occurred Monday afternoon, came as a surprise because on Sunday morning he attended church and in the afternoon had enjoyed a ride with his son, Dr. E. M. Clifford, of Hartford. Monday noon he became ill and at 4 o'clock quietly passed away after receiving the last rites of the church from his pastor, Father Mooney.

Mr. Clifford was respected by all who knew him. His modesty, optimism and firm reliance on God enabled him to accomplish his chief aim in life, rearing and educating his large family to lives of useful citizenship.

This Nurse Tells How

To Heal and Prevent Infant Rash, Scalding and Chafing

Northampton, Mass.—"In my work as a nurse I find nothing heals rashes, chafing or a sore, inflamed skin so quickly as Sykes Comfort Powder. I am sending you a picture of a baby who suffered dreadfully from a baby rash—and I used Sykes Comfort Powder with great success after everything else had failed to heal it."—Mrs. C. K. Humphries, Nurse, Northampton, Mass.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in healing and preventing chafing, scalding, rashes and skin irritations is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. Nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

Gas on Stomach Is Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from any reliable drug store some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and antiacid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes or the druggist is authorized to promptly return your money. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:—

I went to the big HURTEAU-BOSSE CORP. STORE on Main street, today, to look over their assortment of furniture, and I am going to tell you of some of the beautiful furnishings that made the strongest appeal to me. You know, I am thinking of turning all my old furniture in trade, and the allowance on it will go quite a way toward the purchase of the new.

For kitchens they are showing Herald ranges combining gas, coal and wood in several colors, and McDougall kitchen cabinets, also in various sizes and colors. The dainty, yet sturdy breakfast sets match the stoves and cabinets and harmonizing colors are also found in Congoleum or Armstrong linoleum sold in rug-size or running yard and coming in several qualities and designs. The dish-sets are from 27 to 100 pieces and offer a variety of price and choice.

Nine-piece sets are shown for dining rooms. They are in Huguenot or burl walnut, mahogany and quartered oak and consist of a table, five chairs, an armchair, china closet, buffet and extra server if desired.

There are some beautiful bedroom suites in from three to seven pieces. The American walnut remains a popular finish and a charming Duco finish with decorations in several colors is also a big favorite. There is a good selection in Bow-End and Four-Poster beds and lovely twin beds for the guest room. The beds are of the Rome, Simmons and New England make. The springs are all painted. There is a large assortment of luxurious mattresses, including the cotton-felt, silk floss and the famous Beauty Rest by Simmons.

Attractive fibre furniture is now quite the vogue in Living Room Furniture. It is shown in various colors and styles with pretty cretonne, removable cushions, in three or four-piece sets. The three-piece parlor suites are most inviting, Jacquard velour, mohair and genuine Spanish leather, all with reversible cushions and every piece of the best material and expert workmanship, are the leading choices.

I plan to complete my home comfort with either a Hetrodyne or Fireside wood or coal heater. They range in price from $60 to $140 and I think they are worth every nickel of the cost.

Of course there are many incidentals that I want, although I doubt if I can afford them all now. The HURTEAU-BOSSE CORP. offer easy time-payment plans, however, and I may take advantage of this splendid opportunity to have a real home, fully furnished and a place where comfort, enjoyment and fireside love reign supreme. This, then, from a housewife about to establish a kingdom of her own.

YOURS, JANE.

RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY, COME AGAIN SOME OTHER DAY.

If you don't know what a pesky nuisance an umbrella is, ask some of your school-girl friends.

They have about as much love for an umbrella as a boy has for a washcloth.

A rain-coat that is strictly waterproof, and sturdy enough ot stand the "gaff" of every day abuse is in line for first prize, when it comes to school use.

The new coats with the "moire" finish seem to be the most popular among the girls of 14 to 20 years; the "swank" and "swagger" of these garments, together with their 100% protection from cold rains, are about all anyone can ask of a rain-coat.

The price is $7.50; and the value is there.

The coats are here.

THE KEYNOTE AT NEW HAVEN

In his keynote speech before the state republican convention at New Haven, Congressman Merritt presented the political situation as it is faced in Connecticut in a clear and convincing manner.

He took advantage of the opportunity to pay tribute to the services in Washington that were rendered by the late Frank B. Brandegee and those which have been so successfully administered by Senators McLean and Bingham. His advice was to select a candidate for senator at this convention "who will win and hold the confidence of the state, so that he will continue in office and gain the influence in the senate which his predecessors have had," and without question that advice will be followed.

His reference to the governorship was in deserving praise of Governor Trumbull, the highly creditable administration he has given the state and the need of continuing it under the same leadership in regarding the business administrations since the days of Governor Holcomb as great achievements he unquestionably expressed the sentiment of the big majority of the people of Connecticut. It is a record of which Connecticut has reason to be proud and unless we are greatly mistaken will insist upon continuing.

The keynoter held that the excellent record within Connecticut was only a repetition of the successful administration at Washington which he terms statesmanlike, farsighted and efficient management. He pictured the great task that was faced in dealing with the after the war problems, and the accomplishments in spite of it and directed attention to the large reduction in the national debt, the reduction in expenditures, and the reduction in the national debt, the reduction in expenditures, and the reduction in taxes and bore down heavily on the point that while this was being done "both foreign and domestic trade flourished, and especially after the enactment of the republican tariff bill, this bill the democrats denounced and claimed that its high duties would kill imports and thus prevent exports, but as a matter of fact both imports and exports increased, so that our exports today, even allowing for the lower value of the dollar, are 56 per cent. greater than before the war."

In stressing the importance of the tariff, its importance to the manufacturers of Connecticut and the employes in such factories he pointed out the increase in population, the increase in houses, the increase in the purchasing power of wages, the gain in saving bank deposits and insisted that in spite of the effort of the democratic platform to mislead, democratic treatment of the tariff would mean a lowering of the rates and a menace to American industry as has been the case in all democratic tariffs.

He likewise set up a comparison of the foreign policies of the platforms of the two parties and termed the republican as definite and satisfactory.

In his comparison of candidates he claimed Mr. Smith's experience has been "purely local and his political success due altogether to Tammany hall and he considered one of the outstanding feature of his administrations was the manner in which he spent money.

He extolled the record of Herbert C. Hoover and considered that the man who had been able to make his way in life, educate himself, gain an international reputation as an engineer, successfully directs unprecedented relief work at home and abroad brings one of the departments of government to such efficiency as never before shown with the resulting benefit to our domestic and foreign commerce and has demonstrated the highest qualities of leadership is the man best equipped for chief executive. He differs with him concerning the dry law but believes that the choice of candidates should be made on other grounds He believes that the continuance of the successful administration of Calvin Coolidge lies in the choice of Herbert Hoover.

CALLES TO MEXICO

President Calles of Mexico has spoken and in doing so he has declared that he will not succeed himself as president and that he will not again become president of that republic. His speech was one of personal elimination and it ended much of the uncertainty which has prevailed concerning this matter.

But while the president was making this known he also addressed the Mexican people in a manner that they may well take seriously. What he had to say appears to have come from the heart and been the result of knowledge which he has gained as chief executive.

President Calles is the first president that Mexico has elected by ballot for a long time. Most of them have gone into office through revolutions but President Calles tells the Mexicans that they should stick to a constitutional government and do away with government by dictators.

Under the course to be followed in Mexico it is expected that the Mexican congress will name a provisional president who will govern, following the Calles administration, in place of the assassinated President elect Obregon until a successor has been determined by vote of the people. Whether Mexico is ready or in a position to follow the excellent advice given by its president may be better determined after it has acted In warning the deputies that they should beware those "outstanding men" with large followings he urges upon them the necessity of making their choice on the grounds of real qualifications rather than pressure and he also took the precaution, after paying a tribute to the Mexican army, to point out the dependence which is placed in the army's support by one chosen for the presidency.

Since the days of revolutions Mexico has experienced marked benefits, it is desirable that they should be continued. Mexico needs them and in greater volume than yet experienced. The plea for a sound government by laws and institutions deserves to be followed but it remains to be seen whether there is a sufficient number ready and willing to support it.

THE WISCONSIN RESULT

Wisconsin has held its primary and now the outcome is being weighed for its effect. There was a contest between the regular and progressive republicans of the state as there has been on other occasions with the result that while Robert M. LaFollette was renominated to succeed himself in the United States senate he experienced a rebuke when the republicans of the state named a regular republican for governor. This was in direct opposition to the wishes and efforts of LaFollette. He had been devoting his activities to the candidacy of Representative Beck for the governorship. He had even declared that his selection was more important than his own nomination.

It was a three cornered fight with the LaFollette candidate being opposed by Governor Zimmerman and Walter Kohler, a conservative and business man. Governor Zimmerman was a former progressive who some time ago pulled away from the LaFollette machine but the sentiment of the republicans of Wisconsin this year is evidently overwhelmingly for Mr. Kohler. He has made an appeal to them which could not be overcome by the LaFollette workers, and his nomination carries added significance from the fact that he was one of the first of the Hoover men in that state.

For LaFollette the primary appears to have been a draw. He was successful in getting his own nomination which insures his return to Washington and over which there was little question. But when he undertook to put through the state ticket he encountered insurmountable opposition as to the governorship. The remainder of the ticket was however as he desired.

That the Kohler victory revolved about state issues was unquestionably a fact but with a sharp difference of opinion recorded against the LaFollette candidate and his policies and yet with the large number found to be supporting Kohler and his policies the fact that he is an out and out Hoover advocate cannot fail to indicate what must be the sentiment of many of the people in that state nationwise.

AROUSING PUBLIC TO DUTY

Awakened to the need of using different methods of dealing with the hit and run drivers, Massachusetts adopted the idea of paying more liberally than through witness fees those who furnished information that would lead to the arrest and conviction of such drivers. It is of course a matter of public interest that such drivers should be suppressed, and evidently there is recognition of the part the public can and should play when the governor's council during the past week voted the sum of $125 to seven persons for their services.

All highway users deserve every possible protection against the hit and run drivers. When they realize that not only the police but the public in general is ready to aid in bringing about proper penalization it is possible they may end their practice. The reward is apparently aiding in the work by increasing public interest in its own welfare and by making highway guardians of many more than those who wear uniforms and badges it can be readily appreciated that with policemen covering large beats it is impossible for them to be everywhere at once. Because of that the hit and run drivers understand there's a chance of getting away and escaping responsibility through speeding off. But when those who witness such acts are prompt to bring the cowards to bay or justice the practice is certain to become unpopular The investment which Massachusetts is making in this cause is undoubtedly well placed, although the number of cases indicate that there is still plenty of opportunity for increased service.

JULIE'S MASK

Juliette Taber and Laird Crane—for two solid years the office had linked their names. But nothing happened. Juliette, working in her small corner, with the first languid of spring on her desk and the sunlight tangled in her hair, knew why. And Laird, climbing steadily to a glass-topped desk and a place on the board of directors, knew why, too. But they never got together on it.

Juliette, in the office, was modish and practical to the last degree. Her office was a place of impeccable order and irreproachable system. When any one, from the office boy to the president, wanted anything he came to Miss Taber. And she reached unerringly to the right file and got it. At least once every day Laird Crane found his way into the sunny sanctuary.

"It's refreshing here," he commented, and cast his eyes about approvingly.

"Honestly, Miss Taber, you are a wonder. Just one woman in a thousand could handle stuff the way you do." Juliette smiled in quiet acceptance. If Laird ever saw the sunlight tangled in her hair he never mentioned it. That was the Miss Juliette Taber of the office.

Julie stood it all the way home on the bus and well over the threshold of the shabby, roomy, genial third-floor back apartment she called home. Then she shucked off her office coat and hat, stretched luxuriously, kicked her shoes nonchalantly into the closet—or the corner, depending on her aim—and with a gay "whoopee" dived for the day bed.

Julie's mother had seen this place just once. Her comment was complete. "If you ever want a man to marry you, don't let him see how you live. No man likes to live in a hodge-podge." But Julie liked it. There were big faded lounge chairs, each with its own light, so you could drop anywhere and start reading, or sewing, or dreaming. There were second-rate antiques and first-rate pictures hung where they would get the light. And there was the most delicious uncharted vista of books and magazines and bowls of ginger or apples or ash trays or mending baskets. And Julie liked it.

That was why Lair Crane had never got beyond its portal.

"I have a bit of him now," said Julie to herself, with the courage that was her charm. "But," her mind flickered across his many compliments to her neatness and efficiency, "if he really likes that kind of woman he couldn't care for me."

It was the night that Julie decided to be domestic and make muffins and omelet that Laird Crane, hunched over his desk in the deserted office trying to "dope" out a merchandising plan, suddenly shoved his pad aside with a curt "damn" and glared at the wall.

"I wish I could talk this over with Juliette," he muttered. "She would have the idea I need." His mind fluttered gently over Julie. And he found himself wondering how she would look, her face cupped between his hands, her red lips turned upward, waiting to be kissed. She was so damn sweet—if she only wasn't so—he never quite got it into words. He glanced at his watch.

"Wonder if she would be at home?" he hazarded. Should be call her? No. He'd work this thing out himself. But nevertheless when the bus stopped at Julie's corner Laird gathered his papers and climbed out and a moment later punched her bell and stood his ear glued to the speaking tube, waiting for her voice.

"It's me, Laird Crane. I'm in a hole with that Blair account. May I please come up and talk it over with you?" With a gasp Julie let the phone drop and dangle on its string. "Gracht," she whispered. "Now he will know." Resolutely she raised the phone to her lips.

To the accompaniment of his feet on the stairs she commanded. "Buck up, Julie. He'd have found you out some time."

"Come in, Laird. You are just in time for supper. Take this chair; the light doesn't shine in your eyes. A pillow? Or a cigarette?" But Laird wasn't sitting down. He was looking about the room, not missing a detail.

"Great guns, Julie! Is this the kind of place you live in? Why—why——"

She would die honest.

"I am sorry you don't like it, Laird."

"Julie, I do like it. I am crazy about it. Why, Julie, I have always been afraid to step into your house for fear I would find it prim and well—efficient." Julie dropped suddenly on the billowy day bed.

"I thought you liked me because I was efficient," she said in a very little voice. Laird dropped his brief case with a thump, tossed his hat somewhere across the room and sat down beside her.

"Julie, if I had known this about you I would have asked you to marry me two years ago. If you will promise to make us a home that looks—and feels, like this one, I will do it right now."

YOUR HEALTH

Mild Diabetes, Untreated, Is Dangerous.

By Louis Bauman, M. D., New York City.

Diabetes is a treacherous disease. If untreated it may produce serious changes in the blood vessels without the patient being conscious of its depredations. In fact he may consider himself in perfect health. In this respect diabetes differs from other chronic diseases, for these are apt to make their presence felt in a disagreeable way so that the patient seeks advice and treatment.

The changes in the blood vessels lead to the so-called hardening of the arteries, especially those in the feet and legs. Lime salts are deposited in their walls and their canals become partly or completely closed so that the blood is unable to reach the tissues. At this stage slight injury may result in infection and death of tissue, the so-called gangrene of the toes or feet.

Gangrene of the feet in diabetics is one of the most serious and depressing conditions which the physician is called upon to treat. It usually occurs after middle life and is always preceded by a fairly long period of diabetes. The only remedy is amputation of the leg. This operation usually entails a prolonged stay in the hospital, followed by a period of locomotion on crutches and lastly, when the stump has completely healed, an artificial leg. The possibility of a similar catastrophe befalling the other leg is always present. Occasionally gangrene is preceded by warning symptoms such as undue coldness in the lower extremities, pain in the legs or feet on walking or during the night while in a recumbent position, and a livid discoloration of the toes.

Obviously the important thing is prevention. Diabetes should be detected early and this can only be done by routine periodic examination of the urine of every person past middle life. For this purpose the specimen voided three or four hours after the main meal should be submitted for analysis. If sugar is found the patient must place himself in the hands of a competent physician and carry out instructions faithfully. From time to time urine and blood analyses will be made to see if diet and exercise suffice or if insulin, in addition, is necessary to effect a removal of sugar from the urine and lower the blood sugar content to the normal level.

Stories That Recall Others

Diagnosis

Mumps must have been painful for little Betty for she diagnosed the pain, when asked how they felt, by saying:

"They hurt just like having the tummyache in my neck."

No Rain for 21 Days

The wise old weather prophet stroked a grizzled chin and addressed a group of fellows gathered around the store. "No boys," he said, "them clouds ain't goin' to bring rain today Won't be any rain for 21 days when the moon looks like it did last night."

But down the rain came in a minute and the group scurried into the store. All except the prophet, who, creeping along with his rheumatism and what not, was considerably dampened before he reached shelter.

"No, boy, it ain't goin' to rain for 21 days," laughed a wise cracker, and the old timer who had rated himself a big league weather guesser has been discredited around the home ever since.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—There is one man in Washington to whom all the Chinese turmoil of the last year or two has had deep personal significance. He is Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, the Chinese minister, who has managed to retain that title, at least, through all the shifts of political power at Peking since 1921.

Strictly speaking, he has no diplomatic status here, the United States not having extended de jure recognition to the nationalist government that overthrew the late Chang Tso-lin, Manchurian dictator. In that respect, however, Dr. Sze is in no different position than Minister MacMurray at Peking.

May Get Credentials.

The Chinese diplomatist, however, has weathered a succession of political storms at home and seems to enjoy the confidence of the nationalist regime, indicated by his recent appointment to represent it at Geneva whenever necessary for League of Nations purposes. He is said to expect to be formally credentialed to Washington by the nationalists whenever the United States decides to extend full recognition. The fact that the new authorities at Peking commissioned C. C. Wu as special representative in the United States and named Wu as the Chinese negotiator rather than Sze, in proposing negotiations for a treaty of commerce, has created speculation as to whether Peking might not have it in mind to name Wu to the Washington diplomatic post ultimately.

Washington is watching developments in China carefully. There are signs of uneasiness as to how the nationalists are going to accomplish the ambitious stabilization and development program adopted at the Nanking conference of the nationalist party chiefs.

American Attitude.

The recent visit to Washington of Sun Fo, nationalist leader and son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese revolution, afforded opportunity for Washington's viewpoint to be presented informally but very frankly to the Chinese authorities. Sun had already conferred with many American bankers as to the possibilities of loans to help get the new government on its feet. While he was being entertained by Dr. Sze here, he met several high government officials under such circumstances that plain speaking was possible.

Without question the Chinese visitor carried away the impression that the nationalists would have to do much to put their government house in financial order before they could expect American capital to come to their assistance. The outstanding Chinese loans for which they assumed responsibility must be dealt with and the movement to oust foreign control of the customs administration, which forms about the only immediately available sure source of revenue for the Peking central government, does not have a happy look in Washington eyes.

When Sun gets back to Nanking, there is little doubt he will inform his nationalist colleagues that Washington will be able to see its way clear to approving large American private loans only if and when it has seen reassuring evidence that the nationalists are willing to move slowly and carefully with their governmental reform program and to extend a helping hand to legitimate business enterprises in China, foreign or domestic.

SALONIKA

Discarded American automobile tires that once were dispatched to rubber salvaging plants now are being made into shoes for peasants of Salonika, Greece. It is reported that 50,000 casings are imported annually to meet the demand. Each tire makes three shoes.

"Salonika is famous as a city of refuge," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "That fact accounts for its enormous peasant population to whom the new footgear is a luxury.

"When the Spaniards persecuted the Jews in the fifteenth century some of them fled as far east as Salonika and their descendants now help to make up the city's large Jewish population which numbers nearly that of the Greeks. And in recent years a human deluge of Greeks who were driven out of Turkey swelled the census figures from about 150,000 to more than 260,000.

"The original Salonikans are lost in the shuffle of nationalities represented among the inhabitants," continues the bulletin. "On any busy corner one will see nearly as many different races as sit in a session of the League of Nations. There are Greeks from all parts of the peninsula, Albanians, Italians, Russians, Germans, and natives of every Balkan state. Some of their families are among the oldest inhabitants, human remnants of the early occupation of the city when it was a football in the hands of empires, including the Macedonians, Saracens, Normans, Romans, Venetians, Bulgarians and Turks.

"Even with such a mixture, Salonika has maintained its prestige as one of the most important ports of southeast Europe. When the Balkan states are at peace and the port is used as an outlet to the sea, it rivals Constantinople. The board quay along the shore of a well protected harbor can accommodate ocean-going vessels.

"The fine buildings which form a solid wall on the land side of the quay, pierced only by streets leading up into the city, give Salonika a modern appearance. Here and in the commercial district there are shops, coffee houses and a few fine old residences. The westerner at once notices a lack of parks and other open spaces but a peep through an open door to a courtyard in a narrow side street reveals that most of Salonika's beauty is hidden behind high walls.

"On the hills beyond, new cottages of former refugees indicate that Salonika has assimilated many of her new comers from other lands, but thousands of them still live in the squalor of the Salonika slums.

"In the dirty streets barefoot women plod the rough cobbles with loads of wood tied to their backs that one might hesitate packing on a donkey Smiling, ragged water boys and girls in tatters carry their heavy jugs. Milkmen, too poor to own carts, are weighted down by the five-gallon cans resting upon their backs until their bodies are at right angles with their legs. The smell of fish permeates the atmosphere and soon one stumbles upon a curbstone restaurateur who from his little stove set on a soap box, dispenses odoriferous foods. Often the pedestrian is forced to walk in the street lest he tread upon the cheap merchandise of a sidewalk dry-goods store or bump the elbow of a barber in his open-air shop.

"But with all squalor and poverty, Salonika can boast of a glorious past. Several cities have been built on the site since it was founded more than 2,000 years ago. The present one is named for Thessalonike, a half sister of Alexander the Great. Cicero lived there for a time; Nero and Trajan decorated the city; it was once the temporary home of three emperors, and it became famous in the Christian world as the place to which St. Paul addressed two of his letters.

"Successive fires and pilferings have destroyed historic landmarks. One of its oldest existing antiquities is Varder street, which cuts across the city. It was a part of the old Roman highway from the Adriatic to the Bosporus which earlier still was the Royal Way of the Macedonian kings. Where the Roman legions, the phalanxes of Alexander, and the immortals of Xerxes trod its surface, an American street car rumbles, driven by a modern Greek or Spaniard. In its course, it runs under an old Roman arch.

"Some of the Salonika churches survived the fury of the middle ages and are the finest remains of the past. Many of them were built as Christian edifices but during the Turk's five hundred years' occupation they became mosques. They are again Christian churches but, viewed from the bay, some of their huge domes and lofty flanking minarets give the city the appearance of a Moslem stronghold of the east. They are museums of fine Byzantine mosaic art.

"The Greeks have suffered by remaining in Salonika under foreign regimes but one source of inspiration to them has been the sight of Mt. Olympus towering among the hills of the southwest."

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Whitefoots Are Busy.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

So honest labor never shirk.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Such a busy time as there was in the old sugar house over in the Green Forest where the sugar maples grow! A couple of busy mice are just about the busiest folks in all the Great World. There is nothing lazy about them. So it was that Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and Mrs. Whitefoot were busy every second. Mrs. Whitefoot is a good nest-builder. She likes a comfortable home. It didn't take her long to discover that inside that old mattress on the bunk was some excellent material for building a nest. So she gnawed a hole in the mattress and there right at hand was material enough for dozens of nests.

She and Whitefoot dragged cotton out of that mattress and carried it into the firebox of the evaporator. An old sweater of Farmer Brown's hung on the wall. Mrs. Whitefoot unraveled some of the yarn from this. There was moss which had been used to stuff cracks in the sugar house. This they used too.

With all this nice material right at hand it didn't take Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot very long to make one of the nicest nests they ever had. Mrs. Whitefoot was fussy—everything had to be just so. Whitefoot thought she was too fussy. But when the nest was finished he was glad she had been fussy.

"Now," said Mrs. Whitefoot, "we will think about food."

There was, of course, the oatmeal which they had discovered when they first came in, but oatmeal wasn't sufficient. They wanted variety. So they scampered about on the shelves and presently one of them knocked a can off onto the floor. The cover came off Out poured a lot of sunflower seeds. Farmer Brown's Boy had taken them in through the winter to feed the birds. These were some that had been left over. This was a find indeed! The big eyes of Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot fairly sparkled. They ate some. Then they carried the rest into that firebox and stored them in another corner. They didn't leave a seed. This was a splendid start for the winter, although winter was a long way off. The oatmeal and the seeds were all they could find. They would have to go outside for other food.

"Of course," said Whitefoot, "we wouldn't want to stay in here all the time, anyway. The main thing is to have a perfectly safe place to run to when an enemy appears. I am sure that we can find plenty to eat without going very far away. Let's go out and look around."

So Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot went out to look around. Of course they ran all over the roof of the sugar house and peeped into every nook and cranny. Mrs. Whitefoot surprised a big beetle and pounced on it. Later Whitefoot found another. They were good eating. Right near the sugar house was a big beech tree. It was too early for nuts yet, but Whitefoot soon discovered that there were going to be plenty of nuts. That settled it. They would have a wonderful winter with plenty to eat. Just as soon as those nuts were ripe they could store away all they wanted.

"Whitefoot," said little Mrs. Whitefoot. "I'm glad that Yowler the Bobcat and Mrs. Yowler have kittens."

"Why?" demanded Whitefoot, looking very much puzzled.

"Because," replied Mrs. Whitefoot, "if they hadn't we would have been frightened into moving and so would have missed this wonderful place."

"Huh;" was all that Whitefoot replied.

A Song for School Days

Sing Alexander, Philip's son, whose praises we have sung,
Who conquered all the then-known world when he was very young;
He toyed with kings as futile pawns, and drenched the world in gore,
But did not keep a diary to prove the schoolboy's bore;
Great Caesar, on the other hand, recorded all his deeds;
Hence, Alexander is the one the hero seeker heeds;
O, soldier, keep no diary—your deeds we'll not forget,

Sing conquerors of mighty thrones and levelers of Kings;
To win for us the freedom that is man's God-given right;
Martel, who on the field of Tours the mad Turk backward hurled
And saved the charms of ancient Greece to grace the western world;
Sing each proud name of history, to which we owe a debt,
But Caesar only conquered Gaul to make a schoolboy sweat.

J. V. E. Belanger pastor of St. Ann's church, Hartford, and former pastor at Baltic.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Blanche Charon of Baltic and the best man was Kris Jenson of Hartford.

During the day Mr. and Mrs. Flanders left on their honeymoon trip which will take them to Vermont and New Hampshire.

On their return they will reside on Park street.

Miss Charon was formerly employed by the Veeders Mfg. Co., and Mr. Flanders is employed by the Jensen Auto Co. of Hartford.

OLD TIMER HAD TOUGH TIME BUYING HAIR TONIC

Any one who passed by a certain doorway on Main street yesterday might have been one of those accosted by an old rounder who apparently was trying to get something to quench a great thirst. The old timer would stop a boy or man, boys seeming to have the preference, pass a coin to the boy with some low voiced and hurried instructions. The boy or man would turn into a nearby store and presently return empty handed and return the coin. Not to be discouraged the old timer would repeat the operation and in a half hour's time he had sent at least 10 into the store without getting his purchase made. What he desired was a certain solution used for growing more hair, which contains a percentage of alcohol.

LEZNIAK GOES ON TRIAL TODAY FOR MURDER OF GUS LABATI

Stanley Lesniak, 29, of Montville goes on trial for his life here this Friday morning in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown. Lesniak is charged with the murder of Gus Labati, a neighbor of his, last May. Lesniak in an argument over some cows inflicted injuries on Labati which resulted in the latter's death.

It is understood that a plea of insanity will be the defense presented by Public Defender Stewart today. Lesniak will probably go before a group of alienists for examination and upon their report will hang the fate of the defendant as it is understood that he has confessed to the crime.

The jury that will hear the case comprises the following men: Hugh Kinder, John C. Freemont, Vergason, Norwich; R. Frank Ayer, Charles Zabriskie, Preston; Edwin M. Gray, William Fogarty, Griswold; James F. Duffy, Albert S. Peckham, Lebanon; Jabez L. Bailey, Bozrah Lewis L. Starkweather, Franklin; G. Lester Bromley, Lisbon; Birdsey G. Palmer, Voluntown.

Short Court Session Thursday

Thursday's session of the superior court for which four jury cases were scheduled proved to be unexpectedly short as two of the defendants changed their pleas of not guilty to guilty, and two other cases were nolled for lack of evidence.

Salamuccha Fined and Jailed

Paul Salamuccha, 40, of Greeneville, charged with violation of the liquor law through his attorney V. P. A. Quinn changed his plea from not guilty to guilty and he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail. State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown reviewed the case and recommended the same fine that was meted out to Salamuccha in the police court and from which the defendant took an appeal.

Case Against Graves Nolled

Because of the absence of the chief witness for the state the case against Edgar Graves, 37, colored, of New London, charged with highway robbery was nolled because of lack of evidence. The victim of the alleged robbery, Manuel Sylvia of Bristol, R. I., could not be located although telegrams had been sent to his home and County Detective Lewis had been sent to Bristol to locate the man. As the case hinged on the testimony of Sylvia the state's attorney recommended a nolle in the case.

Hiram Elam, 20, another New London Negro, who was to have been presented with Graves as an accomplice, was not present in court as during his confinement in the county jail at New London went insane and was committed to the Norwich State hospital.

State's Prison for Grady

When he changed his plea of not guilty to guilty of breaking and entering Charles Grady, 22, of New London, Montville and Groton, was sentenced by Judge Brown to one to two years in state's prison. The evidence against Grady was that he had entered the jewelry store of A. J. Preston at Groton by means of a duplicate key and had stolen jeweler's tools and stock. He then opened a store of his own at Montville. Grady had formerly worked for Mr. Preston as a jeweler. A second charge of burglary was nolled upon recommendation of the state's attorney. According to the state Grady had a police record and had served a sentence at Raleigh, N. C., for larceny.

Pest House Case Dropped

Because of lack of evidence the cases against three South Boston youths, John Drozek, 20, Henry Gleason, alias Carr, 21, and Alexander Isbicki, 17, charged with stealing a cot and blanket from the town pest house on the West Side was dropped. In the scant evidence produced it was shown that the pest house was in bad repair, that most of the windows had been broken and that no one was certain that the door had been locked. The place has the reputation of being a hang-out for travelers of the dusty road.

Clifford St. John of Jewett City pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an automobile without the consent of the owner. He was fined $50 and costs by Judge Brown after the latter had informed him of the seriousness of the offense. Judge Brown stated that the first offense carried a penalty of a year and a fine of $1,000 or both second offense, 10 to 15 years in prison, and a third offense, 20 years in prison.

BOY SHOOTS TAILLESS WOODCHUCK IN SCOTLAND

A Baltic woman writing to The Bulletin regarding the shooting of a tailless woodchuck in Scotland by a 12 year old boy says:

"The Elks' fair freaks has nothing on Harold Gear, a 12 year old boy of Norwich Town, who was at Pleasant View farm, Scotland, last week, and shot a tailless woodchuck. No, it had not been caught in a trap and cut off. It just never had any tail at all. It weighed nine and three-quarters pounds and yielded one and one-half quarts of strained oil. He shot it at 195 feet and there was not a mark on the hide or head to show where the bullet hit it. When he skinned it he found the bullet inside of the hide, not quite through the side. It had hit it on the other side, gone through, cut the artery, wind pipe and close to the heart as with a sharp knife and stopped on the other side under the skin. He kept it, but not to shoot again, for it was well flattened out. He found the blood had clotted near the heart and run out inside which was why he could see no blood on the outside. He shot one a year ago and split the heart the whole length. If he keeps on he will make a good marksman at target practice and sure to hit the right mark every time. If he is left-handed, it goes to show teachers should not meddle with left-handed pupils. Let nature alone is best policy in the end."

WORCESTER TEAM FEATURES DUWELL AMATEUR BOXING SHOW THIS EVENING

Another Duwell amateur boxing show, probably the last of the outdoor season, will be presented at the Duwell field tonight and according to present indications it should be the banner bill of the season. With a team of Worcester boxers featuring, the local organization will present a card of ten bouts, and possibly more. The entry for the show is large, the talent good and the main attraction one that is known throughout New England.

PATSY FERRA

Five From Worcester.

Although it was announced earlier in the week that a team from Springfield had been engaged for the bill, the Worcester team was substituted Thursday when it was found that there was a possibility that the former outfit would not appear. Rather than take a chance of having a repetition of the Boston affair, the committee in charge of the boxing immediately got in touch with the management of Villas Gym in Worcester and signed five boys, a middleweight, Joe Prestero, welterweight, Wilfred Savgoue, lightweight and Leo Ledoux and Trip Callaro, featherweights. The mentioned team is entirely different from the one which appeared here earlier in the season under the management of Phil Shapiro. Villas Gym has been providing simon pures for practically all of the amateur shows in New England of late and on each occasion the clubs putting on the shows have been well pleased with the efforts of the performers.

Many Local Boys Entered.

In addition to the Massachusetts boxers, the local matchmaker will have a list of entries of prominent local boys and both old favorites and new men from neighboring cities and villages. New London, Danielson, Jewett City, Westerly and Norwich will all be represented at tonight's show. The entry list follows:

110 Pound Class.

118 Pound Class.

Phil Plante, Frankie Leone, Norwich; Al Gauvin, Taftville; Lionel Peridise, Danielson; Jimmy Wakely, Jewett City; Frankie Touh, New London.

126 Pound Class.

135 Pound Class.

147 Pound Class.

160 Pound Class.

The officials for the show will be Frankie Busch, referee; Jackie Wilson and Michael Kelly, judges; Jackie Carney, timer; Dr. David Sussler, examining physician; William Pedace, announcer.

The attention of the local fans will be focused on the activities of Ferra and Mara, both of whom fought sensational battles two weeks ago, Johnny Mara, who is out to prove that he can come back and Benny Dempski, the hard hitting Jewett City boy who has failed to draw a bout this season as yet but who has been guaranteed a fight tonight.

Among the list of .300 hitters in the Dusty league this year, it might have been noted that two youngsters, heroes of the state championship Academy team the past year, Chubby Gibbs and Hal Cummings, hit .350 or over. This, by the way, is real hitting.

HARPER'S HOMER IN TENTH WINS FOR CARDINALS, 4-3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6—(AP)—Pinch hitting in the last of the tenth when two runs meant victory, George Harper pounded the ball out of the lot, scoring Wilson ahead of him for a 4 to 3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the series opener here today.

The Cardinal closed the fifth with a two run lead when Chick Hafey hit for the circuit driving Bottomley in ahead of him. Then Paul Waner tied the count in the ninth in truly dramatic fashion with a homer, followed by a run in the first part of the tenth. But it took Harper to steal the elder Waner's thunder and bring the Cards victory. The score:

NEW HAVEN PROPS MAY PLAY EXHIBITION CONTEST HERE

That the New Haven Profs, prospective winners of the Eastern league pennant race, which closes Sunday, Sept. 16, may play an exhibition game with Taftville A. A. became known Thursday night. Manager Jim Troland received a communication from the management of the Elm City club, stating that they would be open to exhibition bookings for a week or so after the regular schedule ends and realizing what an attraction this would be, the local mentor is striving to book them. The chief objection for a Sunday game is the lack of a field as Providence street grounds, home of the Taftville club is not available on the Sabbath.

With such faces as Gene Martin, Sunny Jim Blakesley, Bowman, Bobby Stevens, Casey, Heinie Scheer and others, this club should draw the banner crowd for some time should they perform here.

YOUNG STRIBLING IN TECH. K. O. OVER JOHNNY SQUIRES

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—W. L. Young Stribling, making his New York debut as a heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Johnny Squires, of South Africa, in the second round of the ten round feature that opened in Madison Square Garden tonight for the fall season. Stribling weighed 184 1-2 pounds, Squires 184.

Before a crowd of less than 5,000, the youthful southerner overwhelmed the South African with volleys of short right hand punches to the chin. Squires went down twice in the first round for counts of one and five and was down for a four count in the second before the referee stepped in and halted the fray.

The match featured a card of heavyweights from sections of the country who appeared to face the weeding out in the contest for a heavyweight champion to succeed Tunney. In all 16 heavyweight hopefuls appeared on the card.

SMOKE SHOP TACKLES FAST TAFTVILLE TOWNERS TEAM

A fast game looms when the Smoke Shop tackles the Taftville Town team, at the fair grounds Saturday afternoon immediately after the dedication of the flag-pole and other patriotic exercises. Manager Segal of the Smoke Shop tried hard to get the U. S. S. Hendley for this occasion but the sailors will be on cruise on that date. However, the Towners have one of the fastest light semi-pro clubs in eastern Connecticut and should be able to give the Smokers a real battle.

The Taftville boys will lineup with Al Mish catching and P. Finn pitching with Crowe on first, Burrelle on second, Yerrington at short and Lemieux at third, Dona in center field, S. Finn in right and Snow in left. The Smoke Shop will have their regular lineup with either Babe Santo or Lefty Lucier pitching and Pete Tombari catching. The Smoke Shop team is requested to report at the Smoke Shop at 1.15 Saturday afternoon.

RAY IN FIRST N. E. INDOOR MARATHON AT BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—Joie Ray will race in New England's first indoor marathon sometime in November at the Boston Madison Square Garden, according to tentative arrangements made in New York today by Sheldon H. Fairbanks, manager of the Boston Garden, with Harold J. Dibblee, one of Ray's advisers.

Whether El Ouafi, the French Arab who won the Olympic marathon, will be Ray's opponent here, was not certain, Fairbanks said.

This race, if staged, will be the new Garden's initial track event, it will probably follow the opening of the professional hockey season.

JIM MALONEY TO MEET JACK DE MAVE SEPT 18

BOSTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, today agreed to meet Jack De Mave, of New York in the ten round feature bout of the Argonne A. A's show at Braves field on September 18. The pair, fought here several months ago when De Mave knocked Maloney to the canvas eight times, only to tire and lose the decision.

Bobby Stevens, New Haven shortstop, gave Connie Mack an eyeful Wednesday in the exhibition game the Profs played with the Athletics in the Elm City. He had three hits and handled 12 chances flawlessly.

WORCESTER TEAM IN BOYS WORLD SERIES OPENING TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—(AP)—A world's series for boys will open tomorrow with teams from the opposite sides of the nation—Oakland, Calif., and Worcester, Mass., meeting in the first game of a series that will have a major league setting.

The two teams, survivors of a nationwide tournament sponsored by the American Legion, will play in Comiskey park with umpires from the major leagues handling the plays. Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, E. S. Barnard of the American league, John A. Heydler, president of the National league and other dignitaries will be in attendance to see the future Babe Ruths in action.

The Oakland lads romped through the western opposition, hanging up 16 consecutive victories as their right to meet the strong Worcester team which has dropped only one contest.

Oakland Has Good Record

In marching to the finals the Californians, selected from six Oakland high schools, have scored 167 runs against their opponents' 4 and hammered the opposing hurlers for 151 hits while restricting the opposition's bats to 57 safeties. "Letty" Hardt, ace of the hurling staff, has turned in 13 shut out victories, pitched 38 consecutive scoreless innings and permitted but one earned run in 68 innings. Hardt is expected to get the call in tomorrow's game.

But no less imposing is the record of the eastern team, whose chief power lies in the good right arm of Wilson Dunlap, Jr., and his mate, Ambrose. Dunlap has performed in 22 games and won 21 of them with an average of 10 strike outs a game. Ambrose, besides being a slugger, is a heady player and has an unusually good throwing arm for a 16 year old boy.

THAMES A. C. TO MEET WILLETTS A. C. ON SUNDAY

Sunday afernoon at Hollyhock Island the Thames A. C. of this city will clash with the Willetts A. C. of New London in the rubber game of their three game series. Each club has won a tight decision and another tight contest is looked for. The visitors will be materially strengthened.

An innovation may come about September 13, when the Cubs and Cards would play a regularly scheduled game at 10:30 in the morning at Chicago, stopping in between trains to get this contest into the records as both trek their way to the east.

TAFTVILLE LEGION TEAM, JR. LOOP WINNERS, HOME FROM NEW YORK TRIP

Tired but happy, the members of the Taftville American Legion baseball team, Junior champs of Norwich, returned from their trip to New York last night at about six o'clock, satisfied that the big city is everything that it is cracked up to be. Laden with souveniers of practically every description the youngsters arrived in New London at about 4 o'clock and at Taftville two hours later. Nearly an hour was spent in New London enjoying the final meal that went with the trip.

Each Gets "Babe Ruth" Ball

While the mementoes in the possession of each of the youngsters are ones that will always bring back pleasant memories, the one that will always be the most treasured is an official league baseball bearing the signiture of the one and only king of swat, Babe Ruth. The autographed baseballs came into the possession of the boys through the thoughtfulness of Fred Watson, formerly of this city, now manager of the Hotel Albert in New York. Mr. Watson, in addition to making the stay of the team at his hotel a pleasant one, capped off the party Wednesday night before dinner by presenting each of the eighteen members of the party with the balls that the Bambino had autographed between the innings of the Yankee-Washington double header at the stadium. Although the boys had enjoyed many thrills during the day it is doubtful as to whether there were any compared with that which accompanied the pleasant surprise.

Upon their arrival in New York early Wednesday morning, the boys were met at the boat landing by Mr. Watson, who accompanied them to the Albert. Following breakfast and the sending of postcards, to relatives and friends, including some of the members of disappointed teams at home, the champs started out on a sightseeing tour which eventually wound up at Central Park. Shortly before noon they were loaded into the subway for the journey to the Yankee Stadium.

See Altrock and Schacht

At the press gate at the stadium the boys were met by an official of the Yankee team and escorted to seats directly back of the Washington dugout. Although the Babe failed to slam out a homer, the youngsters found plenty of entertainment between the games and the performances of the Senator comedians, Al Schacht and Nick Altrock, who put on their sketches between the games.

Following their return to the hotel and the receipt of the pleasant surprise provided by the hotel manager, the party went sightseeing again before going to Roxy's theater. A trip through the Broadway district at midnight was the final event of the day's program.

After they had checked out of the hotel Thursday morning, the youngsters were taken on a shopping tour before visiting several of the prominent institutions of the Metropolis. They were then taken to the Grand Central station where they bid farewell to the big city shortly after one o'clock.

NEARLY HALF OF ENTRANTS ALREADY AT NEWTON COURSE

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 6—(AP)—Almost half of the 150-odd challengers for Bobby Jones' national amateur golf title assembled here today at Brae Burn and made practice rounds on the championship course where next week's title play will be staged.

Bobby, however, was not present during the day. He, Francis Ouimet, who won the national amateur crown back in 1914, Watts Gunn, Jones' golfing fellow-townsman, and Roland MacKenzie journeyed over to Stoneham and tried out the Unicorn Country club's course.

Ouimet, who has often played that course, made a 72 in his round but Bobby could do no better than a 74, two over par. The amateur champion seemed to be playing the best golf of his long career, with the exception of his putting. Ouimen's game this afternoon indicated that he was rounding into form for the national tourney.

Both of them played against club members and Gunn and MacKenzie were content to follow along and watch them.

George Von Elm, of Detroit, who is expected to give Jones a stiff fight for the 1928 amateur crown, played at Brae Burn, as did Maurice MacCarthy, the Georgetown golfer, Eddie Driggs, D. Clark Corkran and several of the others who played in yesterday's final gold mashie round at Newport, R.I.

During the day Major Charles O. Heslet of the British Walker cup team, put in an appearance. He reports dthat the other Britishers would arrive here tomorrow morning.

Frank Dolp and Don Moe, both of Portland, Ore., were another pair who practiced at Brae Burn during the day. Both of these far westerners have characterized the course as a real championship test.

"One of my reasons for calling Brae Burn a championship test," Moe said," was because in my first two practice rounds I found occasions to use every club in my bag, and I carry fourteen of them."

Dolp who won the western amateur championship two weeks ago, predicted that the tee shot was going to be tremendously important next week because Brae Burn is a course where a player must control his drives if he expects to get anywhere in the championship play.

Most of the title-hunters have been content to practice, trying several balls on each hole, but not Dave Martin of Los Angeles. He went out today to see what he could do and returned with a 71 one better than par.

Both Bobby Jones and Ouimet sounded a warning to their fellow golfers to consider T. Phillip Perkins, the English amateur champion, a bit more seriously. They agreed that the Britisher was a much better golfer than his play in the Walker cup match indicated.

ROBINS BEAT SCHENECTADY TEAM IN TWI GAME, 6-2

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 6—(AP)—The Brooklyn National league team easily defeated the Scotia nine here today in a twilight game that was one of the features of the state American Legion convention. The score was 6 to 2. Three Brooklyn pitchers held the locals at bay throughout except in the ninth when Karls, Schenectady policeman, banged out a homer with one on. Score by innings:

Brooklyn	101	100	003—6 14 0
Scotia	000	000	002—2 8 3

CHARGES LINK HOFF WITH THE UNDERWORLD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Max "Boo Hoo" Hoff, sportsman, with a stable of prize fighters, was alleged, in a statement made by Edward S. Goldberg, proprietor of the Military Sales Co to District Attorney John Monaghan, to have been the purchaser of machine guns and bullet-proof vests such as are used in gang shootings and bootleg activities.

AL BEAUREGARD GETS WIN OVER LUCCI; WALLACE WINS

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6—(AP)—Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight was awarded a decision over Joey Kaufman, New York in the feature ten round bout here tonight. Kaufman was sent to the mat for a five count in the fourth round and was on the receiving end of the punches for the remainder of the bout. Wallace scaled 134 1-2, and Kaufman 135.

Wallace concentrated his attack on the body and had his opponent in a weakened condition when the final gong rang. Kaufman failed to carry a round. A short right to the head which counted for the only knockdown, was used repeatedly by the westerner to good advantage.

Phil Goldstein, Pittsburgh, won the award over Tony Laberto, Philadelphia in an eight round semi-final. The boxers fought at a fast clip with Goldstein's best blow a short jab to the head. Laberto proved dangerous throughout employing a long swinging right.

Al Beauregard, Taftville, was given the decision in a six round encounter with Pete Lucci, Clinton, Mass. The fans thought Lucci had the edge in the toe to toe fracas over the entire distance, but the ruling was otherwise.

The show was opened with Frankie Marino winning on a technical knockout over Billy Herman, Springfield in the fourth round. Herman was hopelessly outclassed, the referee calling a halt. Joe Barlow, New York, won on a technical knockout over Billy Lancaster, Orlando, Fla. The referee intervened in the third round.

20 TO 1 SHOT COPS AT BELMONT; JOCKEY KILLED

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—The weather was no handicap to Samuel Ross' Dreadnaught, a 20 to 1 shot, and the Man O'War filly by Crack O'Doom won the Matron stakes at Belmont park today. Bravery was third. The race, one of the oldest filly events on the Westchester Racing association card, was worth $21,725. The time for the six furlongs was 1:12.

The favorite, Illegitimate, won Arlington's feature, a six furlong gallop for horses of all ages. Gracious Gift was second and That's It, coupled with War Time as the Three D Stock farm entry, was third. The time for six furlongs was 1:12 flat.

Dade Park's card was finished in a deep atmosphere of gloom. In the second race, a claiming affair for three year olds, Jockey R. Collins of New Orleans, was fatally injured when his mount, Blossom House, stumbled, throwing his rider heavily. Collins suffered a fractured skull and died on the way to a hospital. Blossom House was Collins' second mount of an extremely short riding career. Collins, who was about 17 years old, was granted an apprentice license on Tuesday and was under contract to G. V. Gaal.

LEADERS IN THE MAJOR LEAGUE BATTING RACES

By the Associated Press

Paul Waner's home run in the ninth inning of the Pirates-Cardinals game yesterday which tied the score failed to increase his margin of leadership over Rogers Hornsby in the National league batting struggle. The homer was his only hit in four times at bat, and his average fell off a point from the high mark of .380 which gave him the leadership Wednesday. The Braves' double header at Philadelphia was washed out and Hornsby deprived of a chance to go back into first place.

The American league duel between Goose Goslin and Lou Gehrig also suffered from rain when the Yankee-Washington game was postponed, The Goose still holds his four point margin gained in Wednesday's double bill.

The standings:

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	Pct.
P. Waner, Pirates	133	531	129	201	.379
Hornsby, Braves	112	391	84	147	.376

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO MEET SOCONY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Taftville A. A. faces Socony of New London Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds in the game postponed from Labor day. Socony gained a twilight decision over Trofand's gang this year but since that time Jim has been aching for another chance and now it comes on the week end. Taftville will present its strongest lineup. Lefty Dugas will pitch with Eccleston catching, Mills on first, Ted Dabrowski at second, Carl Krauss at short and Bob Christy at third with Walter Dabrowski in left field, Lloyd Jarvis in center and Lamory in right field.

Socony at present leads the New London Twilight league flashing a great upward spurt in the last few weeks to nose out the Kaceys. Should Socony win Saturday's game they would have a strong claim for the eastern Connecticut title but Taftville does not intend in the least to let them get that far.

PID PURDY LOST TO CINCY REDS FOR REST OF YEAR

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 6—(AP)—Pid Purdy, Cincinnati outfielder, who injured his knee several weeks ago when he crashed into a concrete wall in Boston, will play no more this season, J. Hagen, club physician, declared today. There is a possibility that Purdy will injure his knee permanently if he plays any more this year, the physician said.

Purdy's injury leaves the Reds with only three outfielders—Zitzman, Cajlaghan and Allen. Curt Walker, fifth member of the Reds outfield, is out of the game as the result of a slight fracture of the skull sustained recently when hit by a thrown ball.

PRISONER GIVES "FAKE" NAME OF DANNY MURPHY

A man held in the Milwaukee jail for the theft of an overcoat and giving the name of Danny Murphy, was not Danny Murphy of the Philadelphia Athletics as he claimed. Jack Lelivelt, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, who formerly played with Danny Murphy, faced the man in jail and it was then that the prisoner admitted that he was not the former star of Connie Mack's machine.—Sporting News.

FOURTEEN ENTRANTS TO GET $2500 EACH FOR SWIM RACE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6 (AP)—Fourteen entrants in yesterday's Wrigley marathon swim will receive $2500 each as their share of the $35,000 prize money, under a split-up arrangement announced today by the Aquatic committee of the Canadian National Exhibition. None of the contestants was able to finish the 15-mile grind.

GAMES PILING UP FOR YANKS-ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Rain, a persistent drizzle in New York and Boston today made it hard for baseball players and fans interested in the exciting race for the American league pennant. The Yankees and Athletics were kept off the field and as a result face double headers to close this week and start the next. Meanwhile more than 5,000 New York fans took a drenching in a determined quest for tickets to the opening of the series that may decide the pennant, opening with a Sunday double header at the Yankee stadium between the Yankees and Athletics.

The day of rest for the athletes was not welcome as it will result in additional food for thought for Managers Mack and Huggins as they set about making pitching assignments for the next few days of extra work.

The Yankees will play a double header with Washington tomorrow, with a single game Saturday. The Athletics are booked for two games with the Red Sox tomorrow and two more Saturday before coming to New York to tackle the Yankees in another twin bill Sunday, opening a four game series. The two teams are two games apart.

The Athletics were scheduled to play five games in three days at Boston. The rain today made that schedule impossible but the fifth game may be disposed of September 13 when the Athletics and Red Sox have an off day before starting west.

As the season nears its end clubs in both leagues are scurrying about in a search for open dates to play out the allotment of games.

LOCAL SPORT JOTS

Chet Nichols, who has appeared here many times on semi-pro clubs and on his most recent appearance last fall with Taftville A. A. against Riverview in the annual series, has been shipped to Montreal of the International league by the New York Giants. He goes to make room for Carl Mays, recently signed by McGraw. Chet, a pitcher, has been with the Clan McGraw all year but only appeared a few times on the firing line. Most of his work was in exhibition tilts.

It won't be so long now before the call for grid candidates at the Academy sounds. Coach Whitney looks to have a pretty strong list of candidates report this year. He lost quite a few by graduation but practically the entire second team of last year is intact.

Kiddo Davis, well known to local fans for his work with Hartford last year in the Eastern league and with Taftville against Riverview last fall, is hitting .303 with St. Paul this year. He led the Eastern with .351 last year.

The outboard racing Saturday on the Thames is the first display of this popular sport in these parts. The 26-mile round trip between Norwich and Eastern Point is the route.

It won't be long now until the athletes take up their bags and hop off to school.

There seems to be some mis-understanding about the Smoke Shop A. C. series. Why not get together boys? This looks like an interesting set of games, if arranged properly.

For the benefit of those who do not know, Station WNAC, Boston, broadcasts all the home games of the Boston teams. Those four double-headers that the Braves have with the Giants next week will come over the air.

Quite a delegation from Norwich will sit in on the Yankee-Athletic double-header Sunday at the Yankee Stadium if present reports ring true. A crowd of 80,000 is expected to jam the park for this pair with 7,500 standees.

That the coming Yankee-Athletic series carries almost as much interest as a world series is generally understood. For that reason, people now are inquiring as to whether these games will be broadcast. It sure would be touching the right spot to have them come over the air, that's certain.

J. B. MARTIN-TAFTVILLE IN SERIES

Taftville A. A. will meet J. B. Martin in the annual Eastern Connecticut "World Series" this year. The first game will be played Sunday, Sept. 16 at J. B. Martin diamond it was announced Thursday evening by Manager Jim Troland of Taftville A. A. It will be a three out of five game series.

This series replaces the Martaft-Riverview set, which drew record attendances last fall. The second game will be played Saturday, Sept. 22, at the Providence street grounds, Taftville and the third at J. B. Martin diamond, the following day, Sunday, Sept. 23. If any other games be necessary, they will be played at J. B. Martin field.

It is understood that instead of the general influx of Eastern leaguers into the opposing factions as in past years, that each club will hire but one outside player, probably a pitcher, presenting their regular lineups for the most part.

Interest will run high for this series as it can be depended upon to be for blood. These teams are natural rivals and are now only waiting for the gong to decide not only the championship of upper and lower Taftville but probably of Eastern Connecticut.

WESTERLY

"HEADS IN!" CHIEF'S ORDER TO PUPILS IN SCHOOL BUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 6—The Westerly chief of police has warned bus drivers who are engaged in the transporting of school children to see that the practice which some of the students have followed in sticking their heads well out of the bus windows be stopped at once. The reports from other sections where fatalities have resulted from this carelessness has spurred the local authorities to action.

At the first of the week when bus schedules of the Rhode Island Coach lines were changed from the summer timetable, it left many beach residents stranded and resulted in many children being late for school. According to them, the bus company revised its schedule without posting notices and practically no one was informed.

Under the new schedule, the first bus for Pleasant View leaves Westerly at 9:15 a. m. and the first bus for town leaves the beach resort at 9:47 a. m. Residents and vacationists who plan to remain at the beach through September are expected to petition the bus line to put on one additional bus, leaving Pleasant View at an hour early enough to accommodate school children and business men.

This (Friday) morning's session of the Third district court before Judge Oliver H. Williams promises to be a busy one. POSSIBILITIES FOR REP. SELECTMEN SILENT ISSUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 6—In this particular season, promising to be hectic with politics within the next few weeks, as late as today there was nothing to be learned about the possibilities for republican nominations for selectment at the party caucus scheduled for next Monday evening. This is a bit unusual. For well upwards of a score and a half of years, John A. Gilbert, member of the board of selectmen and representative of the republican party in many winning campaigns, has been at what may be termed the head of the town republican ticket in this town. He may be again, but official assurance of that could not be obtained today. Aside from this, the forecast is that there will be few changes in the list of republican and democratic nominees for town offices following the caucuses of the coming week. After all, the issues in town politics are little different than they have been for years past. The real political battle in Killingly the coming fall will be in the November election, and that will have to do more with the national than with the state ticket.

CONN. VILLAGE SECTION HAS NO STREET LIGHTS AS YET

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 6—As the days grow shorter and the nights grow longer, the Connecticut Village section of Danielson is nonchalantly easing along these early September days without street lights and without fire hydrant service. Residents of this area have not been jarred out of their complacency by announcement that lack of fire hydrant service is almost certain to result in an advance in fire insurance rates on the property in the territory involved in the changes that have come about since the Connecticut Mills company gave notice that it no longer would be responsible for the street light and hydrant costs, as it has been since it built and developed that section of Danielson, years ago. Every effort to get the purchasers of houses formerly owned by the mill company into a conference to talk over the plan to form a fire district or borough zone has fallen at it. Not many of them have been very much interested. They linger now between meeting the estimated assessment of from one to two mills on their properties, for meeting the cost of fire hydrant and street light service, and whatever jacking-up in fire insurance rates the New England Fire Insurance Exchange may see fit to impose upon them.

This morning Manager Henry Johnson announced that the reopening of the remodeled and beautified Orpheum theater will take place Thursday of next week. Since the house was closed, in the early summer, thousands of dollars have been expended in the development of a theater in advance of anything this community has heretofore enjoyed. The public is in for a surprise when it views the theater the coming week. Practically nothing remains of the theater as it was but the outside walls. One of the major changes involves the installation of a new pipe organ, which will be in use at all performances. Manager Johnson said this morning that the work that has been underway is approaching completion, and that, without fail, the newly appointed theater will be open to the public a week hence.

Ill for the past nine months, a patient from time to time at different hospitals and attended, first and last, by several specialists, Mrs. John Abdallah is reported by her husband as well on the road to health again after several visits to the shrine church of Ste. Anne at Fiskdale, Mass. Mrs. Abdallah, 33 years of age, has been a resident of Danielson practically all of her life. Her first visit to the shrine at Fiskdale was made August 19. There have been subsequent visits and her health at the present time is so good apparently as to be a surprise to all who have known about her physical condition during the current year.

Following an accident between the car he was driving today and a small truck owned by the Southern New England Telephone company and operated by Frank Stanton of Putnam, Antonio Longo of this place will appear in the town court Friday to answer to a charge that he was operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so. In the accident, which occurred at the junction of Water and Cottage streets, near a filling station, the telephone truck, northbound on Water street, was turned over. No one was injured in the accident. When Chief John McFarland checked up the accident he found that Mr. Longo had only a Rhode Island operator's license, and as his home is here, he was ordered into court.

Announcement today by L. S. Ingalls, secretary of the Danielson Rod and Gun club was relative to an outing and meeting of members to be held next Sunday at the shooting grounds of the organization south of here. In addition to the serving of a chowder and coffee members who wish bringing a basket lunch, there is to be a period of trap shooting.

It was said today that there is assurance that the new state highway route out of Danielson will be completed before the cold weather sets in. This contract is the one that was abandoned by Eugene Gobeille of Worcester when he hopped out for parts unknown during mid-summer and has not since been definitely located. A New Haven concern, that has made a good reputation in Connecticut for building roads, now has the job to complete and is making progress with the work, which will be going full blast within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Greene of New London were visitors here with Mr. Greene's parents, Deacon and Mrs. Albert C. Greene. Miss Alice L. Greene returned with them to New London for a visit of a few days.

After a jam in which they engaged, Napoleon Pelletier and Frederick Phaneuf, both of Danielson, were presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning, to face charges of having been intoxicated and breach of the peace. Both were fined $5 on each of the two counts, with costs of $11.37 in each case. Pelletier paid, while Phaneuf went to the county jail at Brooklyn to work out the fine and costs.

Friday of this week Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, pastor of All Hallows church at Moosup and formerly pastor of the Sacred Heart parish at Wauregan, is to leave to assume his new duties as vice president of St. Thomas' seminary at Hartford, concluding eighteen years of service in the town of Plainfield.

This morning a truck load of laborers with their suit cases and other traveling paraphanalia arrived here to go to work on the job of hurrying along the completion of the state highway contract having to do with the building of the cut-off on the Danielson-Providence state highway out of this borough.

The dwindling cottage colony at Alexander's lake was housed in today as a cold rain made camp life less attractive than during the blazing days of July and August, yet the colony has members that are looking forward to glorious, golden October days in the picturesque setting where they have spent the hot weather season.

Roamers of the woods and fields these late summer days, and having an eye to how protected game birds have come through from the last shooting season, report that there is good hunting in prospect during the open season that begins in October. A forecast is that pheasants will be plentiful.

Belated entrants for the year of study came to various schools in the town of Killingly today.

Senator Elbert L. Darbie, chairman of the republican town committee, as delegate-at-large from the 28th senatorial district, was in New Haven today for the republican state convention. The Killingly delegation at New Haven is made up of Representatives Arthur W. Williams and William S. Hunter, Mrs. Grace Barstow and Charles S. Francis.

LaPorte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George LaPorte, of 19 Prospect avenue, Danielson, at St. James church, Danielson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward J. Shelley. The couple were attended by Miss Viola LaPorte, sister of the bride and Augustus Tetreault, friend of the bridegroom. The bride wore a gown of white canton crepe with lace and flowered veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses. The bridesmaid wore pea green georgette with hat to match and carried yellow roses. A wedding breakfast was served to about 20 guests from Pascoag, R. I., Taunton, Mass., and Norwich, after which Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rubel left for a wedding trip and upon their return they will live at 117 Broad street, Norwich.

PUTNAM

HARTFORD CAR TURNS OVER ON POMFRET STATION HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Sept. 6—An accident of a freakish nature occurred this noon time when a car operated by Mrs. Cora Visel of Hartford skidded at the foot of Pomfret station hill in Pomfret and capsized, remaining in its upside down condition until garage mechanics arrived with derricks to remove the wreck. Mrs. Visel was thrown from the car and appeared to be seriously injured. She was rushed to the Day Kimball hospital where an X-ray photograph was made, but no severed bones were discovered. She was treated for a few minor bruises about the face and hands and late this afternoon was discharged from the hospital.

It is thought that Mrs. Visel lost control of her car when she came to the steep and dangerous incline. The sharp turn located at the foot of the hill has been the scene of several accidents and a few fatalities.

From the Day Kimball hospital this afternoon, came a report that Maxwell Burry and Albert E. D. Sparks, injured in an automobile accident in Mechanicsville, early Sunday morning, continued to improve. Both are suffering from broken bones in addition to several severe body bruises received from the flying glass of the car, when it struck the bottom of the 65 foot railroad embankment.

The Albert J. Breault post of Veterans of Foreign wars accorded military funeral rites to the deceased member Howard J. Steere of School street, who died Tuesday in Fall River. Funeral exercises were held at two o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church, with the eulogy being delivered by Rev. John Duxbury, pastor of the church. The service was largely attended by numerous relatives and friends of Mr. Steere, and by a large turnout of the members of the Albert J. Breault post of V. F. W., who served over seas with him.

The funeral cortege was headed by the ex-soldiers attired in the uniforms, typical of the stirring days of 1917 and '18. The national colors and the post's banner, headed the procession. The flags were dipped in honor of the dead.

As the body was carried from the church it was drapped with a large American flag later presented to Mr. Steere, by Commander Ernest J. Durand of the local veterans post. The bearers were Anthony Steere, of Centerdale, R. I., George Steere of Putnam and Charles Steere of Providence, all brothers of the deceased, Wilfred Babbitt, Otis Morrarty, and George D. Brown, all of Putnam.

Burial was in Grove street cemetery. A firing squad, in command of Fred Durand, fired a six shot volley, while a member of St. Mary's Boy Scouts, sounded taps. Committal service at the grave was in charge of Rev. John Duxbury.

Arthur N. Martin of North Grosvernordale was before Justice Percy P. Tourtellotte, Wednesday afternoon, charged with co-habitation. He was found guilty of the charge and was bound over to the criminal term of superior court, scheduled to take place in Putnam in January. Bonds for his release were set at $500, but as yet he has not raised the funds to warrant his discharge from the county jail at Brooklyn, where he was committed after the hearing. Martin was arrested by Officer Donald E. Geddes of the state police barracks in Danielson.

Rev. Ernest Boileau, assistant pastor at Stafford Springs Roman Catholic church, is to be transferred to Putnam Friday morning and will succeed the Rev. W. Arthur Routhier, for the past 10 years a curate and assistant pastor at St. Mary' s church in Putnam, who will leave Friday for St. Anthony's church in Bridgeport, where he will be pastor. The announcement of Father Boileau, of Stafford Springs coming to Putnam, was recently made by Bishop John J. Nilan of Hartford diocese.

SHIPMENT OF PHEASANTS RELEASED BY N. E. CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 6—A shipment of 100 pheasants were received here this afternoon by the North Eastern Fish and Game club, for distribution in the hunting grounds of this vicinity. The birds were directed to Putnam by the state fish and game commission in Hartford and were taken in charge of Byron Morse, an official of the club. Mr. Morse has arranged with property owners who allow huntsmen on their property, to release the birds.

The birds are nearly full grown and are of a mixture. They will be released in the marshy districts of the town, where it is expected they will later retard to the wooded area, where they will become the prey of the hunter's gun, when the season opens next month.

This is the second shipment of birds allotted to the local club for the state board of fisheries and game. A few weeks ago a similar shipment was received and distributed. Putnam's hunting grounds are well stocked this year, much to the joy of the lovers of this sport.

Mr. Morse, who has taken an active part in the stocking of the game grounds and the fishing streams and lakes, said this morning that the club is to purchase an additional supply of trout. Mr. Morse stated that the next shipment of trout will be of a large calibre, as the brooks were nearly exhausted last season, and it is thought the smaller fish will not be of size when the fishing season opens in April. The lakes also, will receive a number of bass, as soon as the supply reaches Putnam, Mr. Morse stated this morning.

The annuncement of the Bulletin of Wednesday morning, relative to 879 pupils being enrolled in the schools of Putnam, indicated a considerable decrease in the registration of last year. At the high school only 306 students were present to begin their studies Wednesday morning. This figure is below that of last year, as are the enrollments in other schools of the city and town.

At St Maary's parochial school, 900 pupils are present. There is little or no change in the enrollment of the school this year.

Mrs. Rosena Hopkinson, of West Thompson, died at her home Wednesday morning after a long stage of ill health. Mrs. Hopkinson is a native of Nottingham, England, having been born there 39 year sago. She lived the greater part of her life in England, coming to the United States about 15 years ago. She is survived by her husband John Hopkinson and one daughter, Miss Vitginia Topkinson of West Thompson.

According to records now in the hands of the city registrars, George Potvin and Herman G. Carver, Putnam is to have 500 citizens who will cast ballots in the fall election as new voters. There was no statement as to what party the greater number of new voters will be affiliated with. It is evident that the democratic ward captains who have been making a canvass of their wards in the interest of new voters, have turned in the names of over 300 residents of the city and town who will vote with their party. This number constitutes the largest single enrollment of voters in the history of the democratic party.

NOANK

BULLETIN CORRESPONDENT GETS BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The members of the Hit and Hit club found out Wednesday that a member had a birthday; it was Stretch Morrison. He was sitting in the parlor of his home listening to the radio, to a station in Providence and was hearing the Noank song bird, George White's voice when the members filed in and said: "We found you home on your birthday!" taking him by surprise. The room was soon decorated with pink and purple crepe paper, in the colors of the club Cannery's Noisy Five orchestra was on hand to play for the dancing. Games were played including Tucker Wants a Wife (George Brick lost his wife in the shuffle and had some of the guests hunting for her. This proved more fun than taking an airplane ride to Leeyard. Pinning the tail on the donkey came next. Eight were in the game, going around the room several times trying to find the donkey. Gordon Mahan won the prize, a silk umbrella. Miss Nellie Jackson was second. The table was set for 25 with a little American flag at each place. Long Island roast duck with all the trimmings was served. Miss Bertha Hartke had made a large birthday cake which was in the center of the table with the word Stretch across it. No candles were put on for they could not find out how old he was. The big cake was cut by the good right hand of Joe Walsh. Ice cream was served, also. Duke Hiscock in behalf of the members had a large box [illegible] Stretch, we know this is the happiest day of your life, to have a birthday! Let me present this box from the members and we all hope you will see your 100th birthday!" Opening the box he found 20 pencils and note books and a $2.00 gold piece. A slip of paper read: "We hope that you will wear out many of them getting scoops for The Norwich Bulletin." He thanked them heartily for their nice present. Then a short program was carried out: Lawrence Sullivan showed how to play a piano with his toes getting up high on the stool he played "She's My Baby Now." O Soote gave a drum solo, being a fast boy with the sticks; Billie Fitzgerald showed how swords are swallowed; Laughing Bill Barry told how he saw the longest home run made in New York by Long Bert Burr of the Pittsburgh team. The field was near the station and Long Bert Burr hit the ball and landed it in a flat car. They found the ball in Chicago. Huck Taylor said got the bird cake. Miss Bertha Hartke sang several songs with Mrs. J. Tourjee at the piano. Before leaving the jolly party sang "Gee, What a Pal Was Stretch!"

Miss Elizabeth Troland has returned to Lebanon after visiting her mother Mrs. Susan Morgan.

FIRE COMPANY OUT BUT NOT FOR A BLAZE

A large white cat climbed a tree, got scared and could not get down. It was way up at the top, 45 feet from the ground, in the largest tree in the village, on Mistuxet avenue. The cat's voice was heard by the neighbors who rushed out to see what the matter was and found the cat at the top of the tree. Someone sent in a still alarm to the fire company where several smoke eaters were playing cards but jumping on the red fire engine they made a record run to Mistuxet avenue looking for the fire with fifteen automobiles in back of the engine. Soon a large crowd gathered and still the cat was calling for help. Finally getting out a ladder the smoke eaters put it up to the tree but it was not long enough to reach the cat. Then Smoke Eater Jerry Mace, who has seen some of the biggest fires in New York and is called Dare Devil Jerry came forward. As the crowd held their breath Dare Devil Jerry went from limb to limb, until he reached the top of the tree and secured the cat. The crowd cheered him for several minutes. He let the cat down to the ground all safe.

Once more Old Home day has passed into history. The rain Monday prevented many from attending but those who braved the weather enjoyed a fine dinner and exercises consisting of music and speaking in the church during the afternoon. Just what was the amount netted for the treasury has not been determined at this time. The sale conducted by Kitadini Camp Fire netted the members nine dollars. A little over fifteen dollars was realized from a cake sale conducted by Mrs. George M. Kent, of Brooklyn. The chairman of the committee, A. E. Little, expressed appreciation to all who worked so willingly and faithfully to put over South Killingly Old Home day so successfully.

Church services were resumed Sunday after a month's vacation.

COOPERATION, A HELPFUL DEVICE.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

How is it that the storekeeper usually manages to make a little money between year-ends?

And why is it that the average farmer has to scratch gravel like the very Old Nick to get enough to pay taxes and buy shoes and sugar?

It would be a bit over-dogmatic for anyone to answer such questions in a word or even a sentence. There are many factors involved and conditions vary widely. But there is one general principle running through all trade which applies to this situation in a broad way.

That is the principle that wholesale prices are less than retail prices. You can buy cloth cheaper by the bolt than by the single yard. You can buy tea by the box cheaper than by the single pound. You can buy nails cheaper by the hundred kegs than by the half pound.

This is just what the retail storekeeper does. He buys his goods from the wholesaler in wholesale quantities at wholesale prices. Then he dribbles them out to you, Mr. or Mrs. Consumer, in such small lots as you chance to want. He adds to the wholesale price he paid enough to cover his selling expenses and a bit over for personal profit.

He exactly reverses the canny storekeeper's process. Instead of paying less than he gets, he gets less than he pays.

Which is at least one explanation of why his pocket is almost always empty, while the storekeeper's roll is steadily fattening.

For illustration of what I mean: Well say that John Farmer has a big crop of nice potatoes. He usually sells them in 50 or 100 bushel lots to dealers who, in their turn, peddle them out to individual consumers by the peck or the five-pound bag. In order to sell them in such big lots he has to "shade" the price, perhaps two or three times. What he eventually gets is the lowest wholesale price for his potatoes.

This same farmer wants some sugar to sweeten his coffee or sprinkle over his breakfast cereal. He buys that sugar in five or 10-pound bags—not as he has sold his potatoes, at low wholesale rates—but at a much higher retail price.

Or, he raises wheat by the hundred acres and sells it by the carload, always at lowest wholesale prices. Yet he buys his tea by the pound, and his flour by the eighth-sack, and his gasoline by the gallon, always paying for each its higher retail price.

To repeat, for the sake of emphasis, he usually sells at wholesale and usually buys at retail.

This method inevitably diminishes income and, as inevitably, increases outgo. It cuts profits at both ends.

It is small wonder that the farmer who pursues such a policy is often burdened with debt and always shortened for ready money.

Yet what is he to do? How is he to reverse the process and restore the desirable balance of trade to his own farm?

This, again, is a purely individual problem which each farmer has simply got to solve for himself, taking into consideration his own circumstances, his own capacities and his own opportunities.

It is sometimes possible for the farmer to peddle out his own produce direct to consumers and collect from them the full retail prices. I know this, for I proved it in my own personal experience. That is exactly what I did for many years after harsh experience has taught me that raising general farm crops and selling them the usual farm way gave me the callouses and some other fellow the cash.

But it would be foolish to say that a similar change would be wise or even possible in every case. Circumstances vary widely and opportunities are seldom the same on any two farms.

Nevertheless, it is highly probable that the hard-pushed farmer who fully realizes the difference between selling at wholesale and selling at retail will be more apt to see chances in this direction than the one who doesn't appreciate such differences.

You are somewhat more likely to find your jackknife if you know you've lost it and are constantly looking for it than you are to stumble on it even before you knew there was a hole in your pocket.

There is, too, another horn to the farmer's dilemma. Even if conditions forbid him to sell his own products at retail, there is often a chance for him to buy his own supplies at wholesale.

He could often save a number of pretty pennies if he could buy his feed and fertilizer by the carload, his sugar and salt by the ton, his other needed supplies in similarly gross quantities.

If he has to sell what he raises at wholesale rates, why shouldn't he try to even the balance by buying what he has to at like wholesale rates? Sauce for the goose is proverbially good for the gander.

This doctrine is, admittedly, impracticable for dwellers in city tenements, where storage room is either sadly restricted or wholly lacking. The average modern city apartment is so designed that any attempt to store a bushel of potatoes or a hundred-pound bag of sugar in one would result in crowding the inmates out on to the fire escapes. But there's generally plenty of storage room in the ordinary farm buildings. There's always a cellar or two, usually a cluttered-up attic, and presumably barns and granaries. I don't know a real farmstead whose owner hasn't at his disposal or who couldn't readily find ample storage room for a full year's supply of all the non-perishable articles house and farm call for.

And he could buy such supply for anywhere from 20 to 40 per cent. less than he will pay for exactly the same amount, bought in retail driblets from week to week.

Then comes loudly to the front the next question: How is the average farmer to get out of his thin pocketbook money enough to buy and pay cash down for a year's supplies, all in one lump?

The answer is that he usually can't—if he considers himself alone and has only his own savings to draw on.

But—

Hasn't he usually neighbors who are as anxious to save a few dollars as he is, and who would be willing to "pool" resources in the assurance of real economy?

Mighty few farmers would use a ton of sugar in a year, even if they had money enough at any one time to buy it. But the average American family uses rather over 400 pounds of sugar a year. If only five families combined, each one could take his fifth of the ton, pay his fifth of the ton price, and save not only some money but many a weary trip to town to fill the empty sugar bowl.

Similarly, the average small farmer could neither afford nor use a carload of fertilizer. Perhaps a couple of tons are all that he needs or feels that he can afford. In such a case a 20-ton carload, divided among only ten farmers, would give each one two tons apiece, a worthwhile saving in money-cost over what the ten would pay for the same amount if they continued to buy it in small individual lots.

Such instances as I have cited involve only neighborly co-operation. No cumbersome machinery, no formal organization, no governmental help is needed or even desirable.

"Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their labor. . . . and if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him, and a three-fold cord is not quickly broken."

Whether Solomon or someone else wrote Ecclesiastes, the biblical students are not agreed. But all will agree that he was "a wise old guy," whoever he was. In modern speech we all admit that "in union there is strength."

As I tried to intimate, in a recent talk, co-operation isn't a panacea for all farmers' troubles. It isn't a sure-fire cure-all for everything that happens to be the matter with us. But it is an exceedingly helpful device in various emergencies for people who really want to help themselves—and each other.

Don't ignore those last three words. No fellow can co-operate by himself, with himself and for himself, solely. He's got to have a certain amount of "give and take" in his composition. The chap who wants you to co-operate with him for his advantage and profit, but balks at co-operating with you for your advantage and profit has broken down more well-meant attempts at co-operation than any other one snarpiot.

The most promising path to successful co-operation is that which isn't too ambitious at the start-off. "First the blade, then the ear, after that he full corn in the ear."

In our modern craze after doing things in a big way, the danger is that ambitious co-operators will try to bite off, at the first mouthful, more than they can chew. It is both wiser and more practicable to set out a small sapling and let it grow naturally than it is to try and transplant the whole woods at one operation.

The biggest co-operative success the world has ever seen started with the agreement of a handful of Rochdale weavers to bunch their purchases of oatmeal, in order to save a very few pennies. They did not begin by adopting a constitution and code of by-laws, by electing a president and board of directors and executive committee, by deliberately planning to overturn the existing business system of the United Kingdom. They began at he bottom with less than $5 combined capital.

And that very modesty of origination is one explanation of why, now, they do a yearly business running into the hundreds of millions of pounds.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

HIGHER MONEY RATES STARTED SELLING MOVEMENTS IN MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Stock prices were churned about in bewildering fashion today, with final quotations generally lower. The market opened with a display of strength in which more than a score issues were lifted to new high levels. Marking uy of the call money rate from 7 1-2 to 8 per cent., coincident with the calling of more than $25,000,000 in bank loans, started a selling movement which gained momentum as rumors of a huge increase in brokers' loans circulated through the financial district. Operators for the rise brought forward several new leaders in an ineffectual attempt to revive bullish enthusiasm. Total sales fell just short of 4,500,000 shares.

The weekly report on brokers' loans by the New York federal reserve bank, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of $54,061,000, bringing the total to $4,289,209,000. In view of the sharp increase in stock exchange member loans last month and the wild speculation of the last few days, Wall street had been expecting an increase of between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 in the federal reserve figures.

Outside the credit situation, there was little in the day's business developments to influence price movements. There were only a few earnings reports by small companies and most of these made favorable comparisons with last year. One of the most interesting developments of the day was the revival of the activity and strength in the steel shares under the leadership of U. S. steel common, which attained a new 1928 peak at 156 1-2 and then fell back to 154 1-2, up 1 1-2 points net. Republic Steel crossed 70 for the first time.

Reports that middle western capitalists had acquired huge blocks of Texas corporation and Tidewater-Associated stimulated activity in those issues, both of which attained the year's best prices. Barnsdall A, California Petroleum and Warner Quinlan also broke into new high ground.

Amusement shares, which furnished several spectacular advances earlier in the week, faded out of the speculative picture, although Paramount Famous Lasky and Keith-Albee common topped their previous 1928 highs. Utilities ran into profit taking in common with most other groups but a brisk demand was noted for Consolidated Gas (new stock) and Utilities Power & Light, both of which held around the year's high levels.

Federal Mining & Smelting broke 10 points to 135 on one sale. Radio fell 8 points and rallied 2 1-4. Allied Chemicals, American Smelting, General Motors, Frank G. Shattuck and Victor Talking Machine all yielded 3 points or more. Airplane stocks were brought forward as leaders towards the close, Curtiss rallying more than 13 points to 140 and then easing to 146 3-4, while Wright closed 2 points higher at 154.

Rails yielded with the industrials, New York Central, Wabash, Delaware & Hudson, Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific losing 1 to 3 1-2 points.

There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates.

Foreign exchanges moved within extremely narrow and irregular limits, with sterling cables quoted around $4.85 3-16.

Commodity markets displayed a firmer undertone. Wheat advanced a fraction of a cent a bushel, cotton from 50 to 75 cents a bale and coffee from 5 to 20 points. Sugar quotations held steady.

ADDRESS OF CONG. SCHUYLER MERRITT AT REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 6—Below is the complete text of the keynote address delivered last night at the republican state convention by Congressman Schuyler Merrit, temporary chairman of the convention:

It is both an honor and a pleasure to meet the assembled delegates of the republican party of Connecticut, because it makes me feel that I am one of a great family gathering, and because of its history and achievements I have a deep pride in that political family.

It was four years ago that I had the honor of addressing our state convention. So many important events have crowded those four years that the time seems longer.

First was the tragic and lamented death of Senator Brandegee, who with great ability and devotion had served his country and state in the senate for nearly 20 years.

The state and the nation have been fortunate in his successor. Senator Bingham has proved himself worthy of a place in the distinguished line of United States senators from Connecticut. He is able and of tireless energy and, as I can testify, always ready to cooperate with and assist his colleagues in the house in desirable legislation.

He bases his action and his votes on the constitution and is jealous of any invasion by the federal government either of the liberty of the citizen or of the rights of the states.

Our senior senator, McLean, who unfortunately cannot be with us today, has served nearly 20 years with ever increasing wisdom, efficiency and influence. Everyone here will, I am sure, join in my regret that he feels bound to decline another election to the senate, but there is no doubt that by his long years of service as governor and as senator he deserves a rest from such active labor. I hope I may be allowed to add my personal regret, as a friend, that I cannot longer find him at the other end of the capitol.

However, I have every confidence that this convention will nominate for senator a man who will be elected and who will win and hold the confidence of the state, so that he will be continued in office and gain the influence in the senate which his predecessors have had.

I am not unmindful that you have for your consideration a nomination equally important with that of senator. You are to nominate a chief executive of our state.

Gov. Trumbull Able Business Man

It is most fortunate that in this case we are not confronted with the problem of selecting a new man. During his two terms Governor Trumbull has been an outstandnig example of an able business man conducting a high public office on business principles. He has illustrated the advantage of introducing business in government without an undue intrusion of government into business. This has been the Connecticut habit. It would be well if the government of the United States would follow this habit more closely, and I will allude to this point again.

Fortunately, there is nothing spectacular in the conduct of the government of this state. It is indeed the land of steady habits, with a self-reliant and intelligent population and with a traditional and ingrained respect for the constitution and constitutional government.

It has been well said that President Coolidge has raised the practice of thrift to an ideal. It can with equal truth be said that Connecticut, since the republicans regained control of its administration in 1915, has successfully practised this ideal.

Thrift does not necessarily mean to refrain from spending money, but it does mean handling your expenditures and your finances thriftily, that is with foresight as to amount and methods of getting an income, with wisdom as to objects and amounts for which expenditures are made and with efficiency in making the expenditures so that the best and most lasting results are obtained for every dollar spent.

There can be no question that Connecticut since the beginning of Governor Holcomb's administration until the present time has conducted its public business on these principles. It is a great achievement, and one of which the party and the state may be proud, to have gone through a great war which involved greatly increased expenditures, and in addition, an issue by the state of some $1,500,000 of bonds, and yet within ten years after the war to have paid, or provided through the the sinking fund for paying, all these bonds as well as other obligations of the state previously incurred, so that today the state is practically out of debt, as the sinking fund will take care of all maturing obligations.

And these remarkable results have not been accomplished by neglecting any important or desirable public interest or institution. Our schools are equal to any and our rural schools have long been considered the best. Our road system is unexcelled and many of my friends in congress who have toured the country have mentioned the Connecticut roads as the best to be found.

The same may be said of our state hospitals for the insane, for the feeble-minded, for the blind, for crippled children, and in fact all the institutions which modern society and modern science call for to help the young, to rear good citizens, to make happy homes, an dto ameliorate the condition of the sick and unfortunate. All these institutions and activities of course require very large expenditures of money and as the population of the state grows the expenditures must increase. But such has been the prosperity of the state and of its manufacturers, insurance companies and its inhabitants in general, and its systems of taxation have been so scientific and so well administered that these increased expenses have been met without undue or excessive taxation. Indeed it would be hard to find an institution or individual in Connecticut who complains of the state taxes.

Real Test of Policies

The real test of successful government policies is the comfort and happiness of the average family, and I know of no better index than the savings of the people as shown by savings deposits. These in general are not made by the wealthy but by the average self supporting men and women.

By the kindness of our state treasurer, Mr. Rogers, I am able to give you some interesting figures up to the end of the last fiscal year, September 30, 1927. On that date the savings deposits in the savings banks and trust companies throughout the state were in excess of seven hundred millions of dollars which was an increase over the previous year of over fifty millions of dollars. The number of savings accounts was about one million two hundred and seventy-five thousand, an increase over the previous year of about fifty thousand. This is surely good evidence of the general well-being of Connecticut citizens.

I appreciate that this is an old story to many of those who are here this evening. But it is a pleasant story and worth reciting occasionally so we may not forget our blessings nor, indeed, forget our thanks and obligations to our able and devoted governors, legislators and administrators, past and present, who have made this story possible.

It is well to recite it for the information of the young and especially for the young voters, men and women. These young people are intelligent and they know that in business or in private life it would be considered foolish not to appreciate and retain good servants and good service. But this year they will be asked to displace these good and efficient public servants who have so long conducted the state's business with such strikingly good results and put others in their places. It would be well for these young voters to inquire from those who want to turn out these good administrators and to take their places, what reason they have for such a change except their own personal advancement and advantage.

Let them point out what changes they would make in Connecticut's conduct of its affairs and why and how. Let them say whether they would advocate the democratic methods in vogue in the city of New York whose Tammany tiger has now got the entire democratic party of the nation under its paws and is opening its claws in the effort to grab the national government. Or would they prefer in office a good spender, such as has been governor of New York for three terms, with the result that the public debt of New York has during his administration about trebled and produced a staggering load of taxation?

My impression is that the intelligent and conservative voters of this state will not turn over the management of its affairs to the democrats simply for the sake of change, since the change could not produce better results and judging from the past would produce worse. Nor do we want a change merely to give a new administration an opportunity to appoint to numerous offices in the state a lot of office-hungry democrats. If we are to have a change let us first learn why, and then consider what will happen after we make the change.

Administration Efficiency

Turning now to national affairs, I might almost repeat the first part of my speech substituting the United States for the state. For the record of the past eight years in federal affairs has been very similar to that of Connecticut, viz: one of statesmanlike far-sighted and efficient management.

When the republican party came into power in 1921 it faced the greatest task which has confronted any party since the Civil war. While the problems of war are great hey are yet simple and consist in getting into action all the power of the nation on land and sea. There is no limit to appropriations or expenditures: increased taxes are gladly paid and government loans, unlimited in amount, are eagerly subscribed for by the people. But after the stress and excitement of war are over, when the staggering national debts are contemplated, when the inflated war prices are suddenly deflated, and inflated debts must be paid from deflated incomes the problems are both great and difficult.

What is the story of republican administration during these nearly eight years? It shows a reduction in the national debt of six billions and a half, a reduction since 1920 of about three billions per year in annual expenditure and a reduction in taxes for the current fiscal year of two billions and a half as compared with the fiscal year 1920.

While this tremendous reduction of the public debt was going on, both foreign and domestic trade flourished, especially after the enactment of the republican tariff bill. This bill the democrats denounced and claimed that its high duties would kill imports and thus prevent exports, but as a matter of fact both imports and exports increased, so that our expoits today, even allowing for the lower value of the dollar, are 58 per cent. greater than before the war.

That this prosperity has been real and not mere paper prosperity is shown by the fact that while, during the period, the number of families in the nation has increased by 2,300,000, the number of houses has increased by over 3,500,000.

The purchasing power of wages has increased and notwithstanding all the automobiles, and various other luxuries, the deposits in savings banks, trust and building loan companies have nearly doubled. Our average wages today will purchase from two to three times as much food as average European wages. Now let us see what the democratic platform and its candidates have to say on this tariff question, first turning back to the democratic platform adopted in 1920, the last year of the Wilson administration. That platform is frank in its statement on this question and is as follows:

The Democratic Tariff

"We reaffirm the traditional policy of the democratic party in favor of a tariff for revenue only." But this year, following also the traditional policy of the democratic party, finding that their tariff policy does not commend itself to the country they make an awkward attempt to indicate that this time they may perhaps try a little protection. Now what does the platform say? That the party is for maintenance of legitimate business (I wish they would point out what business they consider illegitimate) and a high standard of wages. They mean propose to maintain high wages by reducing certain extortionate tariff rates. How about the wages of the workers in those industries where rates are reduced? Then follow some general and meaningless clauses intended to reassure all classes that they will be better off under a tariff embodying democratic wisdom. If that should happen it would be the first time that any class has received benefit from a democratic tariff. But these platform assurances evidently are not very convincing even to the democratic nominee, because in his speech of acceptance, after re-stating several clauses of the platform he goes on as follows: "Pay no attention to republican propaganda and accept my assurance as the leader of our party that democratic tariff legislation will be honest. It will play no favorites. It will do justice to every element in the nation." That sounds very pretty, but how is Mr. Smith going to carry out that assurance? He apparently is thinking of Tammany where the boss rules and members vote as he says. But the United States congress, which makes tariff laws, does not work tha way. Tariff bills are made in the committee on ways and means and are rarely changed in the house.

Now let us see who would control the committee on ways and means and write the next tariff bill if unfortunately the democrats should have a majority in the house of representatives. The chairman, who is very influential in all committees, would be Mr. Garner of Texas, and with him Mr. Collier of Mississippi, Mr. Oldfield of Arkansas, Mr. Crisp of Georgia, Mr. Carew of New York (leader of the Tammany men in the house), Mr. Martin of Louisiana, Mr. Rainey of Illinois, Mr. Hull of Tennessee, Mr. Dickinson of Missouri, Mr. Doughton of North Carolina.

Most of these gentlemen, and a good lot they are personally, believe sincerely in a tariff for revenue only, and in their view the way to do what Mr. Smith calls "Justice to every element in the nation" would be to enact a tariff for revenue only.

Fairly Cheeky Performance

You have only to notice the states from which these gentlemen come to form your own opinion as to the wisdom of putting the business interests of this country, including farming as well as manufacturing, under their control. It strikes me that is a fairly cheeky performance even for the democratic party and its leader to say, "Well, we conclude there really is something in the principle of protection and we hereby throw overboard our historic policy of tariff for revenue only, which is free trade. So we advise everybody not to listen to the republicans who have preached and practiced protection for over 70 years, but turn the whole government over to us and accept the assurance of Mr. Smith, who never had anything to do with a custom's tariff and probably would not know a tariff schedule if he saw one, that he will see to it that a tariff is framed which will make everyone prosperous and happy." If the American people do this they have not as much sense as I give them credit for. While on the subject of cheek look at the democratic plank on foreign policy. This states that the republican administration has no foreign policy and then states some of the main points f their foreign policy if put into office. Briefly they are:

Outlawry of war.

Protection of American lives and rights.

Non interference with foreign nations (there has been none except for protection of American lives and rights).

Rescue of our country from its impaired world standing. (If ever our country has had more influence than now, history does not record it).

Cooperation with other nations.

Recognition of Monroe Doctrine.

This last is amusing when taken in connection with the clause advocating outlawry of war, because since it was written the Kellogg treaty has been signed by the principal nations of the world in which these nations "renounce it (war) as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another," and "agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature, or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them shall never be sought except by pacific means."

All the authorities agree that the treaty of 1921, which was a start in the right direction toward disarmament, together with the Kellogg treaty, make the greatest advance toward world peace ever made.

Treaties Can't Prevent War

Treaties of themselves cannot prevent war. The only permanent protection against war is the cultivation of a peaceful state of public opinion among the nations so that in case of disagreements the peoples and governments will tend to seek settlements by peaceful and not warlike means. The Kellogg treaties will tend strongly to cultivate and strengthen this tendency toward peace.

Returning then to their platform, it will be seen that the democrats in their plank on foreign policy as well as on the tariff are trying to steal republican clothes and to masquerade in them as experts in producing prosperity at home and peace abroad. In fact the democratic campaign both in platform and personnel is a good deal of a masquerade. We have heard of the lion and the lamb lying down together, but the lamb was inside the lion. Now the democratic donkey and the Tammany tiger are lying down together but the donkey is inside the tiger, and as I have said this composite animal is trying to look like and make a noise like our grand old elephant in the hope that it may deceive the people. But try as it may the noise it makes still reminds us of the donkey and while the tiger may smile he cannot hide his claws.

It is refreshing to turn to the platform of the republican party and to the speech of acceptance of its nominee. There is no pussy-footing in either. The tariff plank begins thus: "We reaffirm our belief in the protective tariff as a fundamental and essential principle of the economic life of this nation," and then states what has been accomplished under protection.

This statement does not need to be explained and the republican nominee does not need to call on the voters to pay no heed to any arguments or propaganda on the subject, but to rely on his assurance that the tariff will be all right. The workers and the farmers know that republican policies have protected them and will continue to protect them. They know that the present tariff is sutstantially right and all it needs as Mr. Hoover says in his speech is "such revision in the tariff laws as may be necessary to provide real protection against the shiftings of economic tides in our various industries."

The Democratic Attitude

The democratic attitude was well illustrated in the last session of congress during the debate on a motion that it was the opinion of the senate that certain tariff rates were too high and should be reduced. Senator Bingham moved an amendment that also some rates were too low and should be raised. The democrats almost unanimously voted against this amendment showing their view that any tariff revision means only a lowering of rates. This certainly has been the case in all previous democratic tariffs.

But I need spend no more time in arguing for the tariff to this convention representing every corner of our state, small it is true in area, but in the front rank for the quality and quantity of its manufactured products, many of which are dependent for their existance on a protective tariff. Surely our manufacturers and surely their employees do not propose to submit their well-being to the tender mercies of a party whose traditional policy has always been, and is today except for platform phrases intended to catch votes, a tariff for revenue only which is equivalent to free trade.

On the question of foreign relations the republican platform is equally as definite and satisfactory. As in the case of the tariff the republicans have no need to tell what they would do, but rather what they have done. In brief, they have settled on a generous but satisfactory basis all the war debts of foreign nations except France and that is in the way of settlement. Our relations with Mexico, seriously disturbed by the undue interference in Mexican affairs by President Wilson, have been restored by the efforts of our state department and the brilliant work of Ambassador Morrow. Our relations with South America and the far East were never better and as I have said, the United States by initiating the Kellogg treaties is taking the lead in a hopeful movement toward world peace.

Comparing the Candidates

If we compare the candidats of the two parties we find, as we do in the platforms, the same difference between promise and performance. Mr. Smith, a product of New York city and Tammany hall, has been a member of the New York legislature and for three terms governor of the state of New York. It is greatly to his credit that, with very little school education, he has gained his education and his knowledge of men and of public affairs in the school of experience. He is honest and a hard worker and no doubt knows thoroughly the details of government in his own state. He has, so far as known, done nothing to interfere with or better Tammany rule in New York city as recent scandals have shown. His election has always been due to the overwhelming Tammany vote in the city, the state above the Bronx being uniformly republican. I mention these facts to show that Mr. Smith's experience has been purely local and his political success due altogether to Tammany hall. During his administration the activities of the state government have increased enormously and as I have before stated the state debt and taxes have increased enormously also. He claims sometimes that these expenditures have been made by republican legislatures, but he certainly never interfered in the interest of economy. There can be no question that with an executive with any tendency to economy the debt of New York would be much less than at present. Governor Smith appears to be a good spender and with a man of that disposition in the white house one shudders to think what would happen to the finances of the United States.

A President Who Can Say "No"

No one not familiar with congress can appreciate the gigantic schemes which are always pressing for federal assistance and appropriations and the great pressure on congress and the executive in these matters. The only safety is to have a president who can firmly say "No."

When you find a man who has made his living by his own hands, who worked his way through college and educated himself as an engineer; when this man undertakes mining and engineering projects in various parts of the world always successfully until he has an international reputation; when on the outbreak of the great war he finds himself in London and is suddenly called upon to lead relief work to provide food and clothing and shelter for the stricken people of Europe and does this so successfully that he is looked upon as a saviour by millions; when after the war he is placed at the head of an important government department in Washington and manages it with a zeal and efficiency never before shown, to the enormous benefit of the domestic and foreign commerce of the United States; when throughout his career this man has shown the highest qualities of leadership and has inspired all his subordinates and assistants not only with zeal but with personal admiration and affection, then you have found a great man and a great leader equipped to be the chief executive of a great nation and such a man is Herbert Hoover.

It has been my fortune to see more of Mr. Hoover than of any man in the cabinet because legislation relating to his department comes before the committee on interstate and foreign commerce of which I am a member. He has appeared often before our committee, and its members both republican and democratic were always glad to hear him. He always knew his subject thoroughly and explained it in a clear and orderly way; was always reasonable in his views and always ready to answer questions and hear the other side. I have had numerous personal interviews with him and met him socially and it is difficult to understand why his intellectual power has brought him success and eminence and why his personal characteristics have attracted and attached to him hosts of friends. The qualities I speak of can be seen in his speech of acceptance. I do not mean to comment upon it or quote from it at length, because I hope you have all read it. If not you should do so because it is a straightforward and frank treatment of public questions of outstanding importance. His breadth of view may be seen from two statements at the beginning of his address. He says "The points of contact between the government and the people are constantly multiplying . . . As our problems grow so do our temptations grow to venture away from those principles upon which our republic was founded and upon which it has grown to greatness . . . Our party platform deals mainly with economic problems, but our nation is not an agglomoration of railroads, of ships, of factories, of dynamos or statistics. It is a nation of homes, a nation of men, of women, of children. Every man has the right to ask of us whether the United States is a better place for him, his wife and his children to live in because the republican party has conducted the government for nearly eight years. Every woman has a right to ask whether her life, her home, her man's job, her hopes, her happiness will be better assured by the continuance of the republican party in power."

Should Avoid Regulation

Further on, discussing general principles of government, he says and I have heard him say this same thing in conversation, "It is the duty of government to avoid regulation as long as equal opportunity to all citizens is not invaded and public rights violated. Government should not engage in business in competition with its citizens. Such actions extinguish the enterprise and initiative which has been the glory of America and which has been the root of its pre-eminence among the nations of the earth. On the other hand it is the duty of business to conduct itself so that government regulations or government competition is unnecessary."

These seem to me to be good doctrines on which a president should base his own actions and by which he should judge legislation submitted to him for approval. They should commend themselves to the voters of Connecticut because they are the principles of the constitution which Connecticut has so carefully guarded and any infringement of which it has so strongly opposed.

Time forbids that I should discuss in detail many of the important matters referred to in our platform and in Mr. Hoover's speech, and in fact no discussion is necessary to add to the force or clarity of his treatment of them.

But in view of the very general discussion of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution and the Volstead act I shall refer briefly to the matter under discussion. A short time since in response to an inquiry from one of my constituents I said that in my opinion the question of prohibition while of great and general interest is of little moment in determining for which candidate one should vote in this election.

The 18th Amendment

My reasons for this belief are as follows: Both platforms call for enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and both candidates say that so long as it is part of the constitution they will do their best to enforce it. So far there is no difference between the platforms nor the candidates. But one candidate says he things the eighteenth amendment should be repealed and the other thinks not. This might be an important difference if such repeal were within the limits of possibility, but is it? Any amendments or modifications of the constitution must be submitted to the states by the vote of two thirds of both houses of congress or by a convention called by the request of the legislatures of two thirds of the states, and then the proposed change must be ratified by three fourths of the states. There are 48 states so 36 would be required to consent to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment after two thirds of the house and senate proposed such repeal. I have not recently looked up the figures, but I think it is safe to say that no motion looking even to a modification of the Volstead act has ever received 100 votes in the house where the membership is 435. This is 190 votes short of the two thirds required. Before the eighteenth amendment was adopted 30 states had gone dry by their own votes so only six more states were required to make the necessary 36 to ratify. But since then all but two states, Rhode Island and Connecticut, have ratified. Now will any sane man contend, assuming these two states would favor repeal, that 34 more states could be found which would reverse themselves on this question or that 190 congressional districts will change and send wet representatives to congress. Such supposition is impossible now or for years to come. We must not deceive ourselves by thinking that the views held by Connecticut and some eastern states do prevail or can now prevail in other parts of the nation except perhaps in some large cities.

A Condition, Not a Theory

We are facing a condition and not a theory. We can only act wisely if we base our actions on facts and not on fancies. I do not agree with Mr. Hoover as to the eighteenth amendment. He does not favor its repeal, while I do because, in my opinion, special social legislation should have no place in the constitution. Mr. Smith's observations on this question in his speech are interesting and with some of his statements I agree. But so far as having any effect on prohibition and the eighteenth amendment even if he should be elected, he might as well discourse on astronomy or any abstract question. All of his own party leaders are going about now and assuring their audiences that they do not agree with him and that they need not fear any action such as he advises. While I regret it I think Mr. Hoover expresses the existing situation when he says "Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment." While this experiment has not, as I think, worked well so far, its abandonment must be left to further experience and to public opinion. Mr. Hoover frankly acknowledges that under it great abuses have occurred and promises a searching investigation of facts and causes of the abuses.

It is to be hoped that this investigation will develop means for carrying on this great experiment without disregarding other and more basic sections of the constitution, such for example as the fourth amendment; and that we may be freed from such vagaries in the name of law as have lately been indulged in by prohibition authorities in New York; and from such outrages as the shooting and molesting of innocent citizens by enforcement officers who know no law and disregard all rights.

Now if I am right as to the existing situation and as to any prospect of its change for years to come, it is clear that whichever candidate is elected can do nothing except to endeavor, under his oath of office, to enforce existing law as best he may. Both candidates promise to do this. Therefore in choosing between them one should do so on other grounds.

Democratic Record Bad

I have shown, I think, that Governor Smith's experience has been narrow and provincial and that the party behind him is not a real party in any sense but is simply a combination of heterogeneous groups who are united only on the ground they want power and offices. Their past record is bad and their promise for the future no better. On the other hand the republican party has an unequalled record of achievement for more than half a century. And I believe you will agree with me that when, as time goes on and impartial history is written there will be no brighter pages than those devoted to the administration of Calvin Coolidge. His remarkable career from councilman, state legislator, lieutenant governor, governor, vice president and president is so fresh in your minds that I need not repeat it. He embodies in his character, and in his modest but brilliant and successful work for his country, all that is best in America's ideals. And like really great men he has been surrounded and aided by other great men. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Kellogg as secretaries of state and Mr. Mellon as secretary of the treasury have been and will be outstanding figures in history.

Hoover Knows Country's Needs

In the same rank has been his secretary of commerce. With such tremendous advances in means of communication the commercial relations of all the great nations are becoming closer and more intervown. A great secretary of commerce therefore has to be a good organizer, business man, economist and diplomat. He must be familiar with domestic and foreign affairs. Mr. Coolidge's secretary of commerce proved himself worthy in all these relations. He had the confidence and regard of the president and all his associates. For eight years he has worked unceasingly for his country and he knows his country and its needs as few men do.

If you want the successful administration of Coolidge to continue, if you want eight years more of prosperity and progress then retain the republican party in power and elect for president the man the party wants and that Coolidge wants—HERBERT HOOVER.

What Will you do When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grownups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.
